This information was given by Sir Henry Thornton, head of the C. N. Railways, in a letter to Mayor Dalharrie.

Sir Henry explained that it was necessary, for economy and efficiency to concentrate the repairs of heavy engines in two or three of the larger shops but that the number of men employed in repairs to the cars in Ottawa will be augmented.

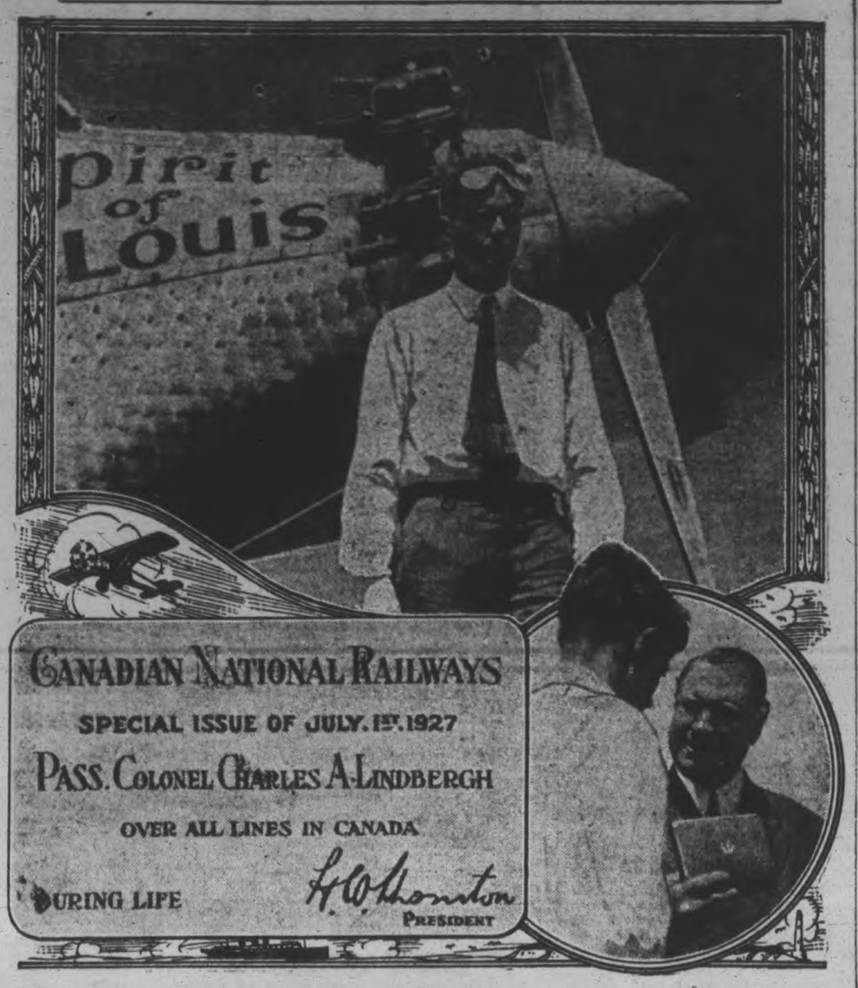
LINDBERGH RECEIVES GOLD RAILWAY PASS



When Col. Charles A. Lindbergh visited Ottawa on the occasion of Canada's celebration of the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation he was tendered an enthusiastic welcome by the thousands of Canadians who crowded the flying field and Parliament Hill for the celebration. On his arrival in the monoplane "Spirit of St. Louis" in which he made his wonderful flight across the Atlantic, the intrepid airman was greeted at the field by Sir Henry W. Thornton, K.B.E., Chairman and President of the Canadian National Railways, and was presented with a life pass, good on Canadian National lines in Canada.

HOPE ABANDONED OF FINDING BODIES

Further Search Useless at Port Stanley—Women Drowned Sunday.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., July 19. — (Canadian Press). — Hope has been virtually given up of recovering by dragging the bodies of Claire Morison and Charlotte Windred who were drowned at Port Stanley on Sunday when swept from the breakwater by a huge wave and it is felt that further search is useless until such time as the lake may give up its victims. Relatives of the two women had arrived here from the United States to assist in the search .

OFFICE REMOVAL PROVES DIFFICULT

Building Has Blocked Charlotte Street For Several Days Now.

"When are they finally going to move that thing," is the question that citizens in the western part of the city are asking each other daily as they pass the 'landmark' on Charlotte street, opposite the Canadian National Railway station.

Yes, it is the would-be house that contractors are endeavoring to move still farther west, but unfortunately they have not been able to make as much progress as they predictde before attempting to move the former C.N.R. freight office from its bearings. One company, after spending a big part of the week trying to turn it in a westerly direction, gave up in despair of moving the hulk.

Tourists coming into the city wonder if this is a new Union station or a receiving bureau, while one humorous person remarked that the owners were probably trying to claim 'squatters' right,' with 'Uncle Tom's Cabin.'

Although jokes are being made of this building, it is a serious matter to thus delay it, for the Fire Department are forced to take a different route in order to reach any fires west of Aylmer street.

The building was first erected on four wagons, but when this was done it was impossible to turn it, and so it stands now on one long timber with two wagon wheels on each end. Apparently this new method is very steady, for the 'house' stood all the blast of the Sunday storm. This is necessary for a false move when going over the railroad tracks on Bethune street would certainly make a very complicated mix-up.

Semi-Colon Prevents Clemency For Man

NEWARK, N.J., July 19 (United Press).—A semi-colon stands between Salvatore Merra and commutation of death.

Merra and Salvatore Rannelli were convicted of the murder of Theo Conway, street car paymaster. Rannelli's death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment because of the jury's recommendation of clemency.

State Senator Alexander Simpson, attorney for Merra, contends that, according to the stenographic record of the trial, Merra's sentence also should have been commuted.

The trial judge disagreed. He said that a semi-colon had been omitted inadvertently and that the omission alone had permitted Simpson's conviction of the recommendation.

NO AEROPLANE IS DISCOVERED

GIVEN CREDENCE.

SUDBURY, Ont., July 20. —(Canadian Press). — A report which was circulated here yesterday and to-day that a wrecked aeroplane had been discovered near Nickerel, 53 miles south of here, is now stated to be pure fabrication and the outcome of a practical joke.

The fallen plane was supposed to have been seen first on Sunday and the report of its existence was given such credence yesterday that newspapermen from Toronto and Buffalo, rushed to the scene while fire rangers from the Parry Sound district staff were ordered to institute a search for the aviators, which, it was supposed, were in the aeroplane when it crashed. The report was brought to the attention of Canadian National Railways officals and they also were kept busy running down the rumour.

WEDDING BELLS.

SANDY—WRIGHT.

OMEMEE, July 20.— One of the season's prettiest weddings was solemnized on Wednesday afternoon, July 6th at 3 o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wright, of Woodville, when their daughter, Ethel Caroline, became the bride of J. Maxwell Sandy, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Sandy, Omemee. Rev. W. J. H. Smythe, of Wellington, performed the ceremony.

To the strains of bridal music from Lohengrin, played by Miss Doris Sandy, B.A., cousin of the groom, the bride leaning on the arm of her father, entered the drawing room, made beautiful with pink and white flowers. She wore a dainty period gown of white crepe-backed satin, with ties of lace and made in buoffant style. The filmy bridal veil of embroidered net was arranged in cap effect with bandeau of orange blossoms. White hose and white kid shoes completed her costume. She carried a shower bouquet of butterfly roses.

The role of bridesmaid was very effectively played by the sister of the bride, Miss Evelyn Wright, who wore a pretty frock of orchid georgette, with large picture hat and carried a corsage bouquet of roses. The groom was attended by his cousin, Mr. Rea Stinson, of Peterborough.

Ruring the signing of the register, 'The Isle of Dreams' was sung in fine voice by Rev. E. W. Rowland, of Omemee with accompaniment by Mrs. Rowland.

The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful tray of silver; to the bridesmaid, a topaz ring; to the groomsman, gold cuff links and to the pianist a silver vanity case.

A dainty wedding breakfast was served in the dining room, prettily decorated in pink and white, after which the happy couple amid showers of confetti and abundant congratulations, left by motor for a trip through Eastern Ontario, including Prince Edward County, Kingston and Thousand Islands. The bride travelled in a dress of georgette in monkey-skin shade, black and natural kasha coat with mole trimming and smart rose felt hat, matching accessories completed the ensemble.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Sandy will reside on the groom's farm, South of Omemee.

Among others from Omemee who attended the wedding were: Mr. F. G. Sandy, M.P.P. and Mrs. Sandy, Misses Genevieve and Doris Sandy. Rev. E. W. and Mrs. Rowland, Rev. Dewey Stinson of Demorestville and Sisters, Misses Blanche and Carrie Stinson.

MONTREAL, July 20.—Belief that "George Vance," alias Palmer, his "wife," Doris Palmer Vance, and his pal, McDonald, sought by the police in connection with the murder of Adelard Bouchard, Lachine taxicab driver, whose dead body was found in a ditch on the Malone (N.Y.)-Caughnawaga highway on Monday, are now somewhere south of the international boundary was expressed here last night by detectives investigating the murder. At least sixteen hours after the murder the trio, who it is known had engaged Bouchard to drive them on a "honeymoon trip" to the United States and who returned to Montreal following the refusal of the United States' immigration officers at Trout Lake, N.Y., to admit them, were drinking champagne in a room of a local hotel, which they left the next afternoon leaving an unpaid bill of $60 behind. The local police were not notified of the murder until news of it appeared in the Montreal newspapers at 10:30 Monday night. Then came word of Bouchard's absence and the finding of his abandoned taxicab in Mayor street. In the room they left at Montreal were found blood-stained articles and a box of cartridges.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

At that moment a thin, high, fretful wail came from Faith's bedroom, announcing that the baby had awakened. For the first time since Cherry had returned from the hospital with the infant, Faith did not jump up to answer the imperative summons of that beloved bit of humanity.

Cherry made no move toward her child, did not seem to have heard.

"How much, Bob?" she insisted archly. "You know Churchill offered me thirty a week, and poor Mr. Cluny was paying me thirty-five."

"Which you weren't worth," Bob scoffed, laughing into her eyes. "But I'll match Churchill. Thirty it is, but let me tell you right now, young lady, you won't get a raise until you've earned it."

Bob and Cherry talked on, about filing systems, the rate of his dictation, the kind of typewriter he provided for his secretary, and through it all Faith sat rigid, holding herself tautly against the call of the screaming infant.

"Good heavens!" Bob interrupted himself at last. "Does that baby cry all the time? Better see if there's a pin sticking in its tummy, Faith."

In his discussion with Cherry he had evidently forgotten that Faith was hurt and angry, but when he looked up at her as he spoke, the sight of her tense, crimson face and staring, rage-filled eyes must have been a terrible shock to him. His own animation died, and his mouth tightened in a way she had learned to dread. But before he could speak, words began to pour out of Faith's mouth, hot, angry, cataclysmic words.

"Let Cherry go to her own child for change! I'm tired of being taken for granted, like a servant in the house. I haven't been to a show since June, because I've had to take care of the baby. I haven't made myself a new dress this summer, because I had to sew for Cherry and Joy and the baby! I'm just a slave for everyone to order about and trample on. And I'm sick of it, I tell you both! Sick to death of it!"

Cherry gasped, tried to speak, instinctively reached for Bob's hand as if to ally herself with him.

"And let me tell you this!" Faith went on, standing by the table now, her trembling hands pressing hard upon the white cloth: "If Cherry wants to work, so she can get out of taking care of her baby, she'll have to get a nurse for it! I'm not going to be tied down to someone else's baby, losing my youth and—my husband—" her voice broke on a sob, but she went on ruthlessly, after she had batted the tears out of her eyes, "You're going to pay her thirty dollars a week, Bob. I demand that she pay me ten dollars a week for her food and get a nurse for the baby. You can get a colored girl for ten dollars a week, Cherry," she turned upon her cowering little sister furiously, "and that will leave you ten dollars a week for clothes. God knows I don't have that much."

Her great brown eyes, almost black with despair and anger, flashed from one to the other of her dumfounded audience, then she whirled from them and ran from the room. In the blindness of her fury she did not realize that she had fled to the room where the baby was wailing—her room and Bob's.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

(Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

THURSDAY, JULY 21, 1927

During business hours of this day the planetary government is favorable, according to astrology.

Early in the morning it is wise to avoid financial settlements of any sort. Even domestic matters in the way of bills may be disappointing.

For oil and oil interests there is likely to be good fortune that means large profits.

This should be a lucky day for starting on ocean voyages and again the seers predict tremendous expenditures of Americans in Europe.

Engineers and builders will benefit this month, for there are aspects tending toward constructive work on the material plane.

Military men are subject to influences that presage much public attention. Many officers will be promoted.

Under this sway women may be capricious and difficult to deal with in business as well as in love affairs.

Women are apprised by astrologers of distinctive changes in fashions which will have a reactionary trend.

Amateur sports of every sort are subject to a direction of stars that is most fortunate.

Pageants and outdoor festivals will attain even greater popularity than ever before it is prognosticated.

This is not an auspicious sway for those who seek employment or promotion, for applications are likely to be received with unusual criticism.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have a year of many anxieties in which they are assured of happy issues from trouble.

Children born on this day probably will be studious and able to succeed in a profession. Surgeons and dentists are born under this sign.

NUTRITIOUS SOUPS

Delicious and nutritious soups can be made from the waters in which cauliflower, new peas, asparagus and other spring vegetables are cooked. Add thickening to the stock, boil until clear, and serve with a dash of whipped cream on top.

A telephone device invented by Miss Helen C. Davis of London, which leaves both hands of the user of a desk telephone at liberty, is being tried out in England.

SPORTS' INFLUENCE ON THE MODE

White, yellow and cedar brown, long-sleeved sweater, with a flate crepe skirt matching the lowest band.

BY HENRI BENDEL

NEW YORK, July 15.—I sometimes wonder if smart women won't soon be attending debutante balls and formal dinners in sports suits and sweaters, so insistent is Milady's summer demand for "something with a sports effect," even for afternoon wear.

Of course this is the logical trend of fashions. For women grow more addicted to outdoor activity each year and it is natural that their taste in clothing reflects it.

Sportswear, consequently, grows more lovely and original as it basks in the warming rays of popularity. Coutouriers, taxing their originality, are creating most unusual and enchanting sports effects.

Personally, I am partial to the sports outfit that has a natural simplicity instead of a studied, sophisticated effect of it. And I like white, or clear, exquisite line and color combination giving dash rather than bizarre figured materials.

Matching Skirt, Coat, Jumper

I show today the smartest of summer's sports ensembles, to my way of thinking. This is the skirt and long coat that matches with a jumper of contrasting color. Perhaps it's a harbinger of a revival of the coat and skirt for afternoon wear next winter. At any rate it signifies the breaking down of prejudices against contrasting skirt and bodice that banished the shirtwaist years ago.

This coat suit today is of white Rodier cloth, a kind of hand-woven basket-weave. The coat is delightfully simple, unlined, with patch pockets and tiny rolled back cuffs. The skirt originates a circular front godet effect, giving a charming flare.

The Angora jumper, of the soft variety that rolls into a tiny ball it is so sheer, is sun yellow, with a narrow white ribbon edging its sleeveless armholes, the bottom and neck.

Large Hat Betailored.

The big white basket-weave hat demonstrates that the large hat can grow tailored as summer progresses. Its bulbous crown is new, as is its black flange across the top of its brim. Black grosgrain ribbon wings a bow across the front and edges the brim. Yellow stockings matching the jumper are worn quite appropriately with this suit.

The long-sleeved sweater that stands alone with no coat to complement it deserves praise this summer. I show perhaps the loveliest one I have imported this year, a sheer pebble hand-weave, in silk and wool.

White, yellow and brown join hands to give it beauty and contrast. The white affects a deep drop yoke that includes the top of the sleeves in its scheme. The yellow forms the junction of fusing the white and cedared brown without the shock of contrast. This is a perfect model for the tall girl or woman.

Cedared Brown Hat.

With this smart sweater a cedared brown flat crepe skirt takes triple-tucked box pleats, carrying out the triple idea of the sweater's color. A cowhide belt, quite simple and effective, holds the sweater at the waist line.

The best hat for this type of semi-formal sweater outfit is a cocoa panama mushroom that has a shape as conservative as the style of the costume it accompanies. It needs only a smart pump bow banding and edging of grosgrain ribbon to set off its chic.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

The large silver fox scarf may be worn now with a printed chiffon frock and large straw hat and later used to complete the gray woolen suit or coat chosen for autumn.

We have taken it for granted that coats save those of the strictly sports sort, shall be somehow trimmed with fur. The better the coat, the better the fur, and for the really cheap coats there is plenty of cat fur! Furriers have sometimes complained of this reign of the fur-trimmed coat. Women accept a poorer quality of fur on a cloth coat that they expect to wear only a season or two than they do in the fur coat that with judicious alteration will last for four or five seasons, poorer fur than they would choose for the separate scarf of fur which remains in fashion for many years.

And so the furriers sometimes fear women will gradually become accustomed to the less valuable furs. Even well-dressed women set the precedent of wearing ordinary peltry on their coats—an example that is not to the advantage of the maker of fine fur garments.

Probably the furriers are glad to learn now that there is very good reason to think that coats made for autumn and probably for winter will be made very often without fur. Relieved of the obligation to add a fur collar to the coat the coat maker can devote all his attention to making a good coat. These coats made without fur collars will cry loudly for the separate neckpiece—and this fact ought to rejoice the furrier.

If you buy a fur neck scarf—which usually means a fox scarf of some sort—you may wear it now with thin frocks. It may be worn too with the tailored two-piece suit and later when you have bought one of the new furless autumn coats you will have it to give the needed warmth about the neck.

JUBILEE ESSAYS

TARTAR SAUCE

Tartar sauce doubles the attractions of most broiled or baked fish.

SOUR CREAM

DISH WASHING

Many housewives find it easier to stack dishes neatly, pour scalding water over them, and let them stand until the most convenient time of day for doing them, thus making dish-washing a once-a-day task.

SAVE GRAVIES

Left-over gravies should never be thrown away. They make a good base for soup.

DIFFERENT BREAKFASTS

The manual laborer should have eggs, toast and fruit for his breakfast, but workers who use only their brains are better off with the fruit and toast, omitting the eggs.

BREAD CROQUETTES

Combine bread crumbs with mashed potatoes and egg, season, shape in small balls and fry in deep fat.

PORK CRISPS

Crisp shavings of fat pork, well browned, may be mixed with pancake batter, to give a delicious flavor.

EGG CUPS

The egg cups supplied in an electric table stove may be used as containers for muffin or cup cake batter. When the lid is fastened on, the stove will bake them very well.

TOP SIRLOIN

Top sirloin steak is a cut of meat less expensive than porterhouse but not inferior in flavor or tenderness.

REMOVE PAPER

Always remove paper from meat at once and set on a plate in the ice box. Paper spoils flavor and absorbs juices.

MEND WITH MACHINE

Many rents and tears in garments may be mended better with a sewing machine than by hand.

CANADIAN LADIES PRESENTED AT BRITISH COURT.

Among the many Canadian ladies presented to Their Majesties at the Court of St. James, Buckingham Palace, London, recently, by Mrs. L. C. M. S. Amery, wife of the Secretary of State for the Dominions, were Miss Marjorie Bourgeois, LEFT, daughter of Mrs. Mabel Bourgeois of Montreal, and Miss Louise de Sola daughter of the late Rev. Meldofa de Sola and Mrs. J. N. Lambert of Montreal.—Both portraits are by Ha. Wrighton, London, England.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 20, 1927.

KEEPING THEIR MEMORY GREEN.

The impressive ceremonies prepared by the local branch of the Canadian Legion, British Empire Service League, for the annual decoration of the graves of soldiers buried in St. Peter's Cemetery last Sunday had to be postponed because of the downpour of rain, and will take place on Sunday next, the decoration of the graves in Little Lake Cemetery following a week later.

It is hoped that at both these decoration ceremonies there will be a large attendance of Peterborough's ex-service men.

One of the duties earliest assumed by the city's war veterans when they first banded themselves together here as a returned soldiers' organization was the task of keeping green the memory of comrades who had passed on, and that solemn obligation was taken over by the Great War Veterans' Association, and has now in turn become the responsibility of the Canadian Legion.

If there is real comradeship in such organizations—and there should be—it can have no more effective manifestation than is afforded by these annual services in honour of the memory of the pals who have answered the last roll call.

Returned soldiers generally should keep in mind the services of the next two Sundays.

THE PASSING OF JOHN CAREW.

The whole district shares with Lindsay the sense of great loss experienced by that town in the sudden death yesterday of John Carew, one of Lindsay's most popular, most useful and most worthy citizens.

The name of John Carew has long been a household one in this part of Ontario.

The operations of the company which bore Mr. Carew's name and of which he was president and general manager, had been for many years one of the chief factors in the development of the Lindsay district. For over forty years he had been closely connected with the lumbering industry.

But John Carew, warm-hearted, genial and likeable, was known for many other reasons than for his connection with lumbering.

As a member of the Legislature, as President for many terms of the Lindsay Central Exhibition, as President of the Lindsay Board of Trade, as a life member of the Lindsay Curling Club, as a sportsman and a public-spirited citizen, he was known far and wide.

With Peterborough Mr. Carew had been linked up in so many ways that he enjoyed the affection and respect of a very large number of local citizens to a degree decidedly unusual in the case of a non-resident.

The sympathy of this community is extended to the bereaved relatives.

THE CHEMONG ROAD.

The greater part of the Chemong road now being under the jurisdction of the Ontario Department of Highways, the attention of the officials of that department should be drawn to the present disgraceful condition of the road.

Few sections of highway in this district carry any greater volume of traffic at this season of the year, and yet the road has been allowed to get into such shape that it is a physical as well as a mental torture to drive a car over it, especially from the half-way mark into the city.

Peterborough citizens suffer in common with hundreds of visitors who motor to Chemong, and the state of the road is a decidedly poor advertisement for Ontario and a decided handicap to those who are endeavouring to boom this section of the Province as a tourist country par excellence.

Motorists as a rule follow the good roads, and one trip over the apology for a highway leading to Chemong is enough to send visiting automobilists away disgusted, their criticisms serving to keep others away from this district.

W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P. for Peterborough City, and W. A. Anderson, the member for Peterborough County, should both be familiar with the conditions on the Chemong road, and it is to be hoped that they will lose no time in calling upon the Department of Highways, now that the road has been taken over, to institute repairs that will improve the situation.

PUT A SMILE INTO YOUR VOICE.

The operators of the Bell Telephone Company have been instructed to say "Thank you" after the subscriber using the line has given the number wanted.

That's fine.

A cheery "Thank you" makes everyone feel better.

But why not have a little reciprocity about this thing?

The public should meet the operators half way in courtesy—and, unfortunately, very often the public doesn't.

There are women who ask for a number over the telephone in an icy sort of way that must tempt Central to disconnect, and there are men who snap at the operator over the wire in a hasty manner that if used face to face with another man would lead to a fight.

The girls at Central have a nerve-wearing task; their regulations call upon them to say "Please" and "Thank you," and to say them with a smile in their voice, and the least that the users of telephones can do to meet politeness with politeness.

If they would only learn to regard the operators as human beings with feelings to be hurt, rather than as automatic machines, telephone service would not be so one-sided from the viewpoint of courtesy.

FINE STORY WELL TOLD.

The current campaign of institutional advertising of the Canadian General Electric Company is doing a good work for Canada in arousing people to appreciate the latent possibilities in our natural resources, says The Financial Post. The campaign serves also to emphasize the importance to Canada of her industries, particularly her electrical industries, and thus aids in more intimate understanding by the general public of the real worth of the nation's industrial fabric.

Such campaigns as this one are most commendable in that they perform a public service at the same time that they win good-will for the institution undertaking them.

The 1927 series of advertisements has been gathered together in portfolio form for limited distribution, and in a foreword, D. C. Durland, president of the company, states:

"The story of the great industries of the country is of vital and personal interest to every Canadian, but is often overlooked by the public and frequently by the industrial organizations themselves.

"Yet the progress and prosperity of the nation literally hinge upon its industries. The development of natural resources, the upbuilding of cities and towns, the international status of the country, even the welfare of the individual, all depend to a large extent upon the great industrial and commercial enterprises within the nation's borders.

"Canada is fortunate in her boundless heritage of natural wealth, in her strong young industries, in her thriving cities and her fertile soil. Canada is also extremely fortunate in having developed so extensively that power which is the greatest servant of progress and civilization—the power of electricity.

"It may be stated without fear of contradiction that electricity has contributed more largely than any other single factor to the development of Canada's natural resources, to the progress of practically every branch of Canadian industry and to the comfortable living conditions of every Canadian citizen.

"The Canadian General Electric Company, Limited, deems it a privilege and responsibility to assist so materially in promoting Canada's welfare and progress through its activities in the development and application of electrical power and light which are essential to the national, industrial and individual life of the Dominion."

HIGHWAYMEN WHO KILL.

Each issue of the daily newspaper contains its long list of accidents and casualties, the large majority of which are the direct result of recklessness or carelessness on the part of someone in charge of a motor vehicle. While there are drivers of motor cars who are positively reckless in their handling of a car, showing little regard for the lives and property of others, they are in the minority, but, acting as they do, they cast a strong reflection on car drivers in general. The careless drivers are much more numerous than those of the reckless class, and they too are responsible for numerous accidents. Without carelessness on the part of someone there could be no accident.

Sitting in the back seat of a city-bound motor car of a Sunday night one has many opportunities to observe the flagrant disregard of traffic laws on the highway. Cars travelling from 45 to 50 miles per hour are by no means uncommon, but when these start the passing and cutting in process of gaining time, placing the lives of others in jeopardy, they are a real menace. The traffic regulation that is more often broken than any other is that of the glaring headlight. Practically all motor cars are equipped with dim as well as strong headlights, but about two out of three drivers prefer to use the strong light after dark. The glare from an approaching vehicle practically blinds a driver going in the opposite direction, and his only chance to escape a fast-travelling, light-throwing monster is to pull up and travel as slowly as possible, mostly by guess work, along the right edge of the pavement. Quite often a glaring headlight has a tendency to draw a nervous driver toward the centre of the road because he is afraid that if he gets too close to the edge of the pavement he will find himself in the ditch alongside. While there are a few drivers who will dim their lights on approaching another car, the majority show no such consideration. On the paved highways around Toronto there is no necessity of using glaring headlights at any time; dim lights are all that are needed to follow the road, and if this rule was usually lived up to, the danger and nerve strain to drivers would be greatly lessened.

In city driving, excessive speed might be termed a menace, but there are other violations that should be watched more closely by traffic and other officers. The driver who runs up a side street at about 20 miles per hour and crosses or turns into a main thoroughfare without slackening speed is one of the real menaces. Others who make left-hand turns without signaling those behind often cause trouble to following motorists. Hand signals are simple and efficient in making known the intentions of a motor car driver, and enable one following to govern his actions accordingly, thus eliminating much of the hazard that goes with city driving. Signals of this kind have been brought close to perfection in many cities in the United States, and could with little difficulty be included in traffic rules in this city. Other menaces to town and city driving are motorists who are in such a hurry that they will take a chance on passing on the right of a car going in the same direction, and those who crowd in when a street car stops, forcing other vehicles to the curb or to slam on their brakes to avoid an accident. A little more consideration for others and less haphazard driving will take a motorist to his destination just as fast as the rushing cut-in method, and he is much surer of getting where he starts out for. More careful supervision on the part of the police and bigger fines and longer jail sentences will go a long way to reduce the risk now chargeable to recklessness and carelessness on the roads, and will also curtail the number of accidents.—The Mail and Empire.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Only a small sum, comparatively speaking, is required to complete the Trent Canal. It should be forthcoming at the next session of Parliament.

The reception given Joe Wright, Toronto's great sculler, is gratifying in the evidence it gives that merit is sometimes recognized even when victory is missing.

The Conservative convention and the Toronto marathon swim are likely to be similar in one respect, i.e., that only the winner will finish.

So far at least we have refused to get excited over the Sharkey-Dempsey fight, but at any rate will venture the prediction that the first name of the winner will be Jack.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, July 20 (Canadian Press).—The export trade in grain in the Montreal market yesterday showed no marked improvement, but there continued to be a steady inquiry from some foreign sources and some business was worked in Manitoba Spring wheat, American new crop Winter wheat and Canadian rye.

There was no further change in the condition of the market for coarse grains, prices generally being steady with a moderate amount of trading in car lots.

The undertone to the millfeed market continued strong owing to the good inquiry from all sources. The demand for standard grades of rolled oats was limited and prices were steady.

Prices for all grades of eggs were well maintained under a quiet demand. The receipts were 935 cases.

Owing to the continued indifferent demand for butter from all sources and the steady accumulation of stocks on spot the undertone yesterday was inclined to be easier but there was no change in prices. The volume of business was small. The receipts were 634 packages.

There was an increased inquiry from English importers for cheese, but as the prices bid were not satisfactory the volume of business was small. It was reported that further sales of Western No. 1 grades were made to United States buyers at 18⅛c per pound waxed. The spot market was quiet but steady. The receipts were 14,881 boxes.

On the local curb market yesterday there were 7,000 boxes of Eastern cheese settled for at 17½c per pound for No. 1 grade, delivered here.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 20 (Canadian Press)—Improved export demand, together with smallness of the Winter wheat movement in the southwest, tended to make wheat prices average higher yesterday. Upturns though failed to hold well, houses with western and northwestern connections selling more freely whenever the market bulged. Wheat finished irregular, ¼ net lower to ½ gain; corn ⅜ up; oats unchanged to ½ and ⅝c higher, and provisions varying from 27 cents decline to a rise of 2 cents.

Corn owed its strength largely to reports that the corn crop throughout much of Indiana, Ohio and Illinois is of less height even than was looked for. A leading authority said that regardless of future temperatures or of the frost date ,the bulk of corn in the territory named would be undersized at maturity and that the ears would also be under the average size. Oats were firm, rural offering being scarce.

Provisions had no decided trend.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE HOLDS MEETING

Some Good Advice Given in the Hints for the Hope Chest.

WARSAW, July 20.—The regular meeting of the Warsaw Woman's Institute was held on Thursday afternoon in their rooms. Every seat was filled. The new president, Mrs. George Weller, was in the chair. After the opening exercises, the roll-call was answered with hints for the hope chest. Some good advice was given such as to avoid much fancy embroidery, for it might be out of date; good plain material is safe; a box containing papers of all sorts of needles and pins is very useful ;old pieces of cloth are exceedingly useful, where everything is new.

To Repair Hall.

Several have asked if the Institute could not do something towards getting a good community hall, or having the present town hall enlarged, and equipped. A builder had made an estimate that about fifteen hundred dollars would make the necessary alterations. A mason and a carpenter have offered a certain amount of free work. The government will give one quarter of the cost, and considers free work as cash As the Institute has spent a good deal of money on places for meetings, and at every ppoular entertainment there is not standing room, and generally many go far away. The stage is absolutely inadequate so the Institute decided they would do their part in remodelling the hall.

Mrs. Anderson gave a report of the convention at Havelock, and presented some of it in a very mirthful style.

She spoke of the work of the Havelock ladies had done. She particularly brought to notice that in Mr. Putnam's address he said that circumstances altered cases, and what might be a good report for one branch, might not be for another; also that we were not to consider some young people useless because they did some silly things. There is always some good indeed a great deal of good and Institute members, of all people, should find it. When working there should always be some definite objective. He advised helping the home community mostly. While there are many worthy objects away from home, which we may help, the home needs it most.

He urged thought and consideration of the young people. They need amusement, but an effort should be made to have them take pleasure and profit from the higher things of life. Any literature needed may be had from the department. He urged a library, and the Institutes may get boxes of books for definite times, by paying the express one way. In speaking of helping the needy he made a plea to have it done as quietly as possible, and not wound the feelings.

Crocheting Class.

On Monday, July 18, Mr. Nelson, District Agricultural representative, and Miss Hopkins, will be at the Institute rooms at two o'clock to make arrangements for a crocheting class, which will be held on Thursday at two o'clock. All the girls in the community under twenty-six years of age, whether Institute members or not are urged to attend. The instruction is free.

The Institute will serve meals at the school fair, to be held on September the twenty-first.

Mrs. Henry Batten read an article from the "Perth Courier" bearing on Confederation which dealt with the seven principal fathers of confederation and their particular work and of Hon. Alex T. Galt in particular who spent about sixty years of his life in public work, but was quiet about it, and has rarely got the credit due him.

Mrs. Thomas Cooper, district federal representative, brought up a resolution to be sent to the resolution committee at the convention, namely: that the mother's allowance be granted for one child, instead of as at present for at least two children. She was asked to present the resolution at the convention.

The next meeting, on August 11, will be held in Mr. Tucker's grove, and each member may bring as many friends as she wishes.

Social Evening.

Mesdames Munro and Rufus Payne, and Miss Edith Tucker were the committee.

A program of music, game, recitations was carried out. Dr. Munro acted as chairman. When the time came two large baskets of gifts were brought in, and Dr. Munro made a little speech, in which he said that Mr. Jackson had always seemed to belong to the order of the benedicts, but he had broken all rules, for one day he went to Montreal and returned with a wife. He welcomed the bride and groom, and extended to them the best wishes of the community.

Mr. Jackson replied by thanking the people for their gifts and good wishes. Mrs. Jackson made a very graceful speech. She won the hearts of all who met her.

Refreshments were served and there was a little dancing before the party broke up.

A good deal of hay is in, but there is still much out. Wednesday afternoon's storm made drawing-in impossible on Thursday. Many well built hay colls were scattered by the wind. Thursday afternoon dried the hay again and the men were at their hay making and drawing-in on Friday.

Beyond a few trees being blown down and the telephone service out of order for a short time. No damage is reported from the storm.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Stark spent their holiday with Mrs. Stark's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Payne.

GERMAN FILMS HEAVY.

BERLIN, July 20.—American movie-goers want light entertainment that will not tax their patience. So says Ernst Lubitsch, Hollywood producer now in Germany, in explaining the general unpopularity of German films in America. Films made here are inclined to be too ponderous and involved in plot, he declared.

RADIO TRANSACTION PUZZLING BRITISH

Wonder How Control of Canadian Marconi Will Be Effected.

LONDON, July 19. —(UP).— A director nominated by the Radio Corporation of America will sit on the new Board of the Canadian Marconi Company, when the deal for the sale of the latter organization is completed, British United Press learns, but there is considerable mystery as to how Lazard Brothers and Company will carry out the assurance given the British public to-day that the company will remain under British control.

No information can be secured from authoritative sources regarding what measures are being taken to keep control of the company in British hands or what proportion of the shares of the Canadian Marconi, the Radio Corporation will hold.

Meanwhile, it is admitted that a further attempt will be made to interest the Canadian Pacific Railway with a view to having it take over the company, and it is understood that the whole scheme will be laid before Premier Mackenzie King for his information before anything definite in the way of winding up the deal is done.

AT 71, THEY ARE OLDEST TRIPLETS

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 2[illegible] — Abraham, Isaac and Jacob Wagner, triplets, have celebrated their seventy-first birthday. Each has a family; each is a farmer; all are happy. They claim to be the world's oldest triplets and so far no others have appeared to dispute the title.

The three delight in spinning yarns about their early days, when they looked alike and there wasn't two pounds difference in their weights. "That made the scraps interesting," they said.

Boyhood battles, school days and even their love affairs were complicated by their resemblance. The neighborhood belles never could be sure whether they were entertaining Abraham, Isaac or Jacob.

CABINET TALKS ABOUT TANGLE AT CONFERENCE

British Ministers Meet Again To-Night To Hear Bridgeman.

PREMIER MEETS KING.

Entire Disarmament Situation Being Talked Over At Meetings To-Day.

LONDON, July 20. — (Canadian Press).—The entire Cabinet met with Premier Baldwin to-day in Downing Street to discuss the Geneva disarmament tangle. Another meeting will be held to-night at the Premier's office, at which will be present the Right Hon. W. C. Bridgeman, First Lord of the Admiralty, and head of the delegation, who was expected to arrive from Switzerland some time during the day.

Before the Cabinet meeting Premier Baldwin had an audience with King George, at which it is believed they talked over the whole situation as well as discussed the Premier's visit to Canada.

CHEMONG ROAD.

vince among the thousands of tourists within our borders."

J. Juby.

"My past experience with the Department of Public Highways, as a director of the Peterborough Automobile Club and latterly as President, leads me to believe that the officials of the Department, and certainly the Hon. Mr. Henry, cannot possibly have been fully acquainted with the appalling condition of the communication road to Chemong, for this time of year.

"For a provincial highway, this stretch of road is the poorest to be seen, anywhere and a very poor inducement to tourists to return another year.

"Our lakeland district is admittedly the prettiest to be found anywhere in Ontario and it has always been difficult to advertise it adequately in the face of these road conditions.

In the inauguration of the Provincial Highway system we feel justified as citizens in believing in the future of the Kawartha lakes as a premier resort district, but if better roads are not constructed immediately, connecting this city with the outside world, the thousands of dollars spent in popularizing the district will be wasted.

The citizens of Peterboro have an honest complaint in this matter and are supported wholeheartedly by the officers, directors and members of this Club."

"Somebody has said that a detour is the roughest place between two points. If that be true then Chemong Road right from Peterborough to the Fourth Line is a detour," said Rev. W. S. Edgar, minister of Gilmour Memorial Church in Smith. "It is a crime against a community to allow a highway like Chemong to remain in such a condition. Travelling on Chemong Road these days is like running a car along a ditch for several miles. The Department seems to be acting on the presumption that mere surveying is sufficient to make a roadway passable."

Mr. Edgar further stated that he had recently made a trip of more than a hundred miles through Prince Edward County and the only bad stretch of roadway which he encountered was on his way home from the city.

This morning, shortly after their return from Chemong Park, The Examiner got in touch with several citizens who have lived at the summer resort for many season.

W. R. Breyfogle, general manager of the De Laval Company, said: "That four miles of Chemong Road from the city to the Fourth Line is the poorest stretch of road, Government or otherwise, in the province of Ontario. The county boys are doing their part of the work well; it is the province which is falling down. The Government has not done a thing to the road; not even put on a scraper. It certainly is a crime to have any road in such a condition. You cannot go more than fifteen miles with safety over the road."

P. P. Westbye, president of the William Hamilton Company, asked as to the condition of the road, replied: "It is simply in no condition at all. It is agony to travel over a road of that description. I can't see why something is not done to make it a little more passable. If the Government cannot do any permanent work at present, it could at least see that some gravel is laid down on it. The whole thing is a shame."

Like Mr. Breyfogle, Mr. Westbye drew a comparison wholly to the advantage of the smaller body between the work done by the province and that of the Suburban Roads Commission.

Vincent Eastwood, manager of the Royal Bank, said the condition of the road was abominable. He declared that the waste, through unnecessary wear and tear entailed on the cars of citizens travelling on the road was more than would have been sufficient to put in fairly good condition. Four hundred dollars, he said, spent in gravel, would have made a wonderful difference in putting the road in condition while the province was getting ready to rebuild it.

F. C. Hungerford, manager of the F. W. Woolworth store said that so far as the road between the city and the Fourth Line was concerned, the rocky road to Dublin had nothing on it. Beyond the Fourth Line, he said, in the area under the supervision of the Suburban Area Commission, the condition was better; in some sections there the road was not at all bad.

MYSTERY VEILS TRAGEDY OF SEA

Schooner Sends Message Of Desperate Criminal on Board.

MURDER SUSPECTED.

NEW YORK, July 20. — Probably becalmed in a fog, with flapping sails as she rides the long, oily ground swell, somewhere off Sandy Hook,r the four-masted schoone Kingsway lies, her exact position as mysterious as the strange adventures of murder and death during the voyage from the Gold coast of Africa.

From vague reports, strange messages have returned, directly or indirectly from the trim, white schooner which sailed from Perth Amboy almost a year ago for her deep water trading trip, belonging to other generations. A tug left last night to seek her along the coast, hoping to bring her to Quarsntine this morning.

There, assistant Federal Attorneys Simpson and Mintzer will booard the Kingsway to hold preliminary court on deck. Their mission will be to find a murderer on board.

A small trading vessel calling at Monrovia gave the American consul there the first ill tidings from the Kingsway. The trader had spoken with her as she lay on her course for America and returned with a cryptic message from Captain F. E. Nawry, of the schooner.

"Prisoner has broken out. Have no irons in which to hold him. This is a desperate man."

The prisoner, the consul learned from the trader, was accused of having murdered the wife of the skipper. This information was cabled to the State Department, which in turn notified Federal authorities ties at New York.

Lay Becalmed.

As the schooner lay under the broiling sun of the equator, becalmed for many days at a time with only a fickle trade wind, no one knows how long the accused murderer was at large, or what drama transacted on the decks of the adventurous ship, with her small crew of nine or ten men. Hate explodes when men are cramped so long.

No further word was heard from the Kingsway, which is without wireless as she plied her lonely way across the South Atlantic, until a brief message arrived at New York from Barbadoes.

"Schooner Kingsway," it said, "from West Africa to New York, called here June 23; mate is dead, cannot find a substitute at present."

The mate, when she sailed from Perth Amboy, was Fred Mortimer, a 70-year-old deep water sailor of square rigging days. Many knew of him as "Mr. Pike," for so he appeared in Jock London's novel. "The Mutiny of the Elsinore." Until the Kingsway arrives here on one knows yet whether Mortimer lived the life of his fiction shadow and found the use of a belaying pin more necessary than rhetoric.

In a few days the Kingsway must have found a new mate, for an July 6 she resumed her voyage to New York.

ONLY ONE MEDICINE HELPED THIS MAN

This man, Walter Smith, Wood Block, 11th Ave., Regina, Sask., says: "Trying many medicines for constipation, catarrhal affections and a run down condition, I found no relief until I began using Husky. This preparation has benefited me in every way." Good drug stores everywhere recommend and distribute Husky, the wonderful herb preparation.

HUNDREDS SEE GOOD COMEDY

AFTERNOON PROGRAM.

"The Patsy," the hilarious Broadway comedy which formed the programme at the Chatauqua tent, last evening, was greeted by a filled enclosure, the hundreds of people present manifesting their appreciation of the sparkling play by the constant laughter and applause which followed its unfolding. This play, with three acts of comedy, romance, heaping laughter and several appeals of real pathos, is of the type which quickly enlists the personal sympathy of each person watching it. Each member of the audience appears to take an intense personal interest in the outcome, because its atmosphere is closely allied to the everyday life of ordinary human beings.

Patricia, or "Patsy" Harrington, is the "black sheep" of a modern family, trying to appear large on a small income. Her father, William Harrington, is of the type of husband who weakly submits to the increasing demands of his wife. He is a good example of what is meant by the saying: "Men who have succeeded in this world have not so often been inspired by the love of a good woman, as they have perspired in order to gratify a foolish woman's whims." Mr. Harrington is a commercial traveller for groceries, and returns home at intervals to find, as a rule, his wife weeping over her inability to "live up to the Joneses." She demands an automobile and fine clothes, and wishes she was dead when they are not at once forthcoming. It is only in the last act that the worm turns and her husband asserts himself. Meanwhile, "Patsy," gets into several scrapes that bring down the wrath of her mother upon her head, and Grace, the older sister, beautiful but extremely unpleasant, quarrels with her younger sister. Only the many laughs that punctuate the comedy save it from an unpleasant taste between various feminine members of the Harrington family.

Grace discards a faithful adorer, Tony Anderson, for a richer suitor, Billy Caldwell. Then, quarrelling with the latter, tries to retrieve Tony. But he and Patsy have formed a "Lonesome Club," and he has become interested in the younger girl through his efforts to teach her how to achieve the love of a mysterious man she tells about. That the man is himself does not occur to Tony, and the audience, attracted by the ancient stage device of letting them into the secret, while keeping one of the main actors in the dark, watches with great entertainment the unfolding of the plot. Tony gives Patsy much sage advice with regard to men, which the girl immediately turns to her own advantage by using it on him. She has bought a volume of wise sayings calculated to make their user a popular addition to any social gathering, and Tony swallows the clever bits with much enjoyment.

"The Patsy" has a well-woven plot and a fund of gay and sparkling dialogue, with plenty of intense human interest and romantic attraction to its characterizations and background. A very pretty setting of a living room type, with dainty hangings and handsome furniture, was contrived last night, the manager giving the credit for the arrangement to the firm of M. McFadden and Sons, who loaned the pieces.

During an intermission the manager, J. R. Osborne, spoke of the large number of people attending last night's performance, who had bought single tickets for the event, and the benefits to be derived from purchase of season tickets. He spoke of the one man (O. A. Gillespie) who has supported the Chautauqua year after year in this city, and said that his name was known throughout the entire circuit for his constant, and generous efforts to bring to this community entertainment of the high class character provided by the Dominion Redpath Chautauqua organization.

Afternoon Programme.

The programme of yesterday afternoon was a gala event for the children, who were present in large numbers, and enjoyed a gleeful session in company with the entertaining Al. Baker, ventriloquist and magician, who did all the things that children love to watch, and had his small hearers entranced with his wonderful powers. With the help of Dympie, his smiling boy doll, he exhibited his talents as a ventriloquist. Dennis was an obliging youth. Owing to a cold contracted during a recent evening performance his vocal efforts were a bit hoarse, but he warbled cheerfully through "The Farmer in the Dell," and "Ukulele Lady," besides contributing much to the joy of life by his wise cracks of various types. With the help of numerous small boys and girls from the audience, he entertained and amused his hearers, giving away finally to the magical tricks of his owner.

Mr Baker enlisted the aid of a small red-haired boy who watched him in astonished silence while he cooked a cake over the child's flame-like topknot. Then he essayed to teach his little helpers how to do the "disappearing egg" trick, and make magical paper things, for them, in a delightful lace doyley, a beanstalk, similar to Jack's famous model, and an ingenious flytrap. He extracted silver coins from the nose of a bewildered child and brought many articles of value from a dark hat, loaned for the occasion. His small watchers were visibly disappointed when he brought his alluring exhibition to a close.

To-night's programme includes the lecture by the Polynesian raconteur and traveller Wherohiko Rawei, a unique offering entitled "Songs and Stories of the South Seas," depicting amid a tropical setting a word painting of life in Southern Isles. There will also be a musical entertainment by the Cleaford Concert Company.

For to-morrow, the concluding day of this year's Chautauqua programme, the children will have John W. Mangels, the popular clown in morning. Anna Dickie Olesen, notable leader in public affairs, will give her wonderful talk on "Opportunity" in the afternoon, and both afternoon and evening programmes will include Vierra's Hawaiians, in an original musical production, featuring Hawaiian music.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 20, 1927.

KEEPING THEIR MEMORY GREEN.

The impressive ceremonies prepared by the local branch of the Canadian Legion, British Empire Service League, for the annual decoration of the graves of soldiers buried in St. Peter's Cemetery last Sunday had to be postponed because of the downpour of rain, and will take place on Sunday next, the decoration of the graves in Little Lake Cemetery following a week later.

It is hoped that at both these decoration ceremonies there will be a large attendance of Peterborough's ex-service men.

One of the duties earliest assumed by the city's war veterans when they first banded themselves together here as a returned soldiers' organization was the task of keeping green the memory of comrades who had passed on, and that solemn obligation was taken over by the Great War Veterans' Association, and has now in turn become the responsibility of the Canadian Legion.

If there is real comradeship in such organizations—and there should be—it can have no more effective manifestation than is afforded by these annual services in honour of the memory of the pals who have answered the last roll call.

Returned soldiers generally should keep in mind the services of the next two Sundays.

THE PASSING OF JOHN CAREW.

The whole district shares with Lindsay the sense of great loss experienced by that town in the sudden death yesterday of John Carew, one of Lindsay's most popular, most useful and most worthy citizens.

The name of John Carew has long been a household one in this part of Ontario.

The operations of the company which bore Mr. Carew's name and of which he was president and general manager, had been for many years one of the chief factors in the development of the Lindsay district. For over forty years he had been closely connected with the lumbering industry.

But John Carew, warm-hearted, genial and likeable, was known for many other reasons than for his connection with lumbering.

As a member of the Legislature, as President for many terms of the Lindsay Central Exhibition, as President of the Lindsay Board of Trade, as a life member of the Lindsay Curling Club, as a sportsman and a public-spirited citizen, he was known far and wide.

With Peterborough Mr. Carew had been linked up in so many ways that he enjoyed the affection and respect of a very large number of local citizens to a degree decidedly unusual in the case of a non-resident.

The sympathy of this community is extended to the bereaved relatives.

THE CHEMONG ROAD.

The greater part of the Chemong road now being under the jurisdction of the Ontario Department of Highways, the attention of the officials of that department should be drawn to the present disgraceful condition of the road.

Few sections of highway in this district carry any greater volume of traffic at this season of the year, and yet the road has been allowed to get into such shape that it is a physical as well as a mental torture to drive a car over it, especially from the half-way mark into the city.

Peterborough citizens suffer in common with hundreds of visitors who motor to Chemong, and the state of the road is a decidedly poor advertisement for Ontario and a decided handicap to those who are endeavouring to boom this section of the Province as a tourist country par excellence.

Motorists as a rule follow the good roads, and one trip over the apology for a highway leading to Chemong is enough to send visiting automobilists away disgusted, their criticisms serving to keep others away from this district.

W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P. for Peterborough City, and W. A. Anderson, the member for Peterborough County, should both be familiar with the conditions on the Chemong road, and it is to be hoped that they will lose no time in calling upon the Department of Highways, now that the road has been taken over, to institute repairs that will improve the situation.

PUT A SMILE INTO YOUR VOICE.

The operators of the Bell Telephone Company have been instructed to say "Thank you" after the subscriber using the line has given the number wanted.

That's fine.

A cheery "Thank you" makes everyone feel better.

But why not have a little reciprocity about this thing?

The public should meet the operators half way in courtesy—and, unfortunately, very often the public doesn't.

There are women who ask for a number over the telephone in an icy sort of way that must tempt Central to disconnect, and there are men who snap at the operator over the wire in a hasty manner that if used face to face with another man would lead to a fight.

The girls at Central have a nerve-wearing task; their regulations call upon them to say "Please" and "Thank you," and to say them with a smile in their voice, and the least that the users of telephones can do to meet politeness with politeness.

If they would only learn to regard the operators as human beings with feelings to be hurt, rather than as automatic machines, telephone service would not be so one-sided from the viewpoint of courtesy.

FINE STORY WELL TOLD.

The current campaign of institutional advertising of the Canadian General Electric Company is doing a good work for Canada in arousing people to appreciate the latent possibilities in our natural resources, says The Financial Post. The campaign serves also to emphasize the importance to Canada of her industries, particularly her electrical industries, and thus aids in more intimate understanding by the general public of the real worth of the nation's industrial fabric.

Such campaigns as this one are most commendable in that they perform a public service at the same time that they win good-will for the institution undertaking them.

The 1927 series of advertisements has been gathered together in portfolio form for limited distribution, and in a foreword, D. C. Durland, president of the company, states:

"The story of the great industries of the country is of vital and personal interest to every Canadian, but is often overlooked by the public and frequently by the industrial organizations themselves.

"Yet the progress and prosperity of the nation literally hinge upon its industries. The development of natural resources, the upbuilding of cities and towns, the international status of the country, even the welfare of the individual, all depend to a large extent upon the great industrial and commercial enterprises within the nation's borders.

"Canada is fortunate in her boundless heritage of natural wealth, in her strong young industries, in her thriving cities and her fertile soil. Canada is also extremely fortunate in having developed so extensively that power which is the greatest servant of progress and civilization—the power of electricity.

"It may be stated without fear of contradiction that electricity has contributed more largely than any other single factor to the development of Canada's natural resources, to the progress of practically every branch of Canadian industry and to the comfortable living conditions of every Canadian citizen.

"The Canadian General Electric Company, Limited, deems it a privilege and responsibility to assist so materially in promoting Canada's welfare and progress through its activities in the development and application of electrical power and light which are essential to the national, industrial and individual life of the Dominion."

HIGHWAYMEN WHO KILL.

Each issue of the daily newspaper contains its long list of accidents and casualties, the large majority of which are the direct result of recklessness or carelessness on the part of someone in charge of a motor vehicle. While there are drivers of motor cars who are positively reckless in their handling of a car, showing little regard for the lives and property of others, they are in the minority, but, acting as they do, they cast a strong reflection on car drivers in general. The careless drivers are much more numerous than those of the reckless class, and they too are responsible for numerous accidents. Without carelessness on the part of someone there could be no accident.

Sitting in the back seat of a city-bound motor car of a Sunday night one has many opportunities to observe the flagrant disregard of traffic laws on the highway. Cars travelling from 45 to 50 miles per hour are by no means uncommon, but when these start the passing and cutting in process of gaining time, placing the lives of others in jeopardy, they are a real menace. The traffic regulation that is more often broken than any other is that of the glaring headlight. Practically all motor cars are equipped with dim as well as strong headlights, but about two out of three drivers prefer to use the strong light after dark. The glare from an approaching vehicle practically blinds a driver going in the opposite direction, and his only chance to escape a fast-travelling, light-throwing monster is to pull up and travel as slowly as possible, mostly by guess work, along the right edge of the pavement. Quite often a glaring headlight has a tendency to draw a nervous driver toward the centre of the road because he is afraid that if he gets too close to the edge of the pavement he will find himself in the ditch alongside. While there are a few drivers who will dim their lights on approaching another car, the majority show no such consideration. On the paved highways around Toronto there is no necessity of using glaring headlights at any time; dim lights are all that are needed to follow the road, and if this rule was usually lived up to, the danger and nerve strain to drivers would be greatly lessened.

In city driving, excessive speed might be termed a menace, but there are other violations that should be watched more closely by traffic and other officers. The driver who runs up a side street at about 20 miles per hour and crosses or turns into a main thoroughfare without slackening speed is one of the real menaces. Others who make left-hand turns without signaling those behind often cause trouble to following moterists. Hand signals are simple and efficient in making known the intentions of a motor car driver, and enable one following to govern his actions accordingly, thus eliminating much of the hazard that goes with city driving. Signals of this kind have been brought close to perfection in many cities in the United States, and could with little difficulty be included in traffic rules in this city. Other menaces to town and city driving are motorists who are in such a hurry that they will take a chance on passing on the right of a car going in the same direction, and those who crowd in when a street car stops, forcing other vehicles to the curb or to slam on their brakes to avoid an accident. A little more consideration for others and less haphazard driving will take a motorist to his destination just as fast as the rushing cut-in method, and he is much surer of getting where he starts out for. More careful supervision on the part of the police and bigger fines and longer jail sentences will go a long way to reduce the risk now chargeable to recklessness and carelessness on the roads, and will also curtail the number of accidents.—The Mail and Empire.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Only a small sum, comparatively speaking, is required to complete the Trent Canal. It should be forthcoming at the next session of Parliament.

The reception given Joe Wright, Toronto's great sculler, is gratifying in the evidence it gives that merit is sometimes recognized even when victory is missing.

The Conservative convention and the Toronto marathon swim are likely to be similar in one respect, i.e., that only the winner will finish.

So far at least we have refused to get excited over the Sharkey-Dempsey fight, but at any rate will venture the prediction that the first name of the winner will be Jack.

NOTORIOUS SLAYER RECAPTURED

John Revinsky, slayer of the Queen of the Memphis Underworld, in 1916, and ringleader in a penitentiary break last October when thirteen convicts tunnelled to freedom, has been captured in Toronto under the name of Harry Duncan. He was arrested for burglary, and later identified as Revinsky. Recently he made another break for liberty, and is now at large.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, July 20 (Canadian Press).—The export trade in grain in the Montreeal market yesterday showed no marked improvement, but there continued to be a steady inquiry from some foreign sources and some business was worked in Manitoba Spring wheat, American new crop Winter wheat and Canadian rye.

There was no further change in the condition of the market for coarse grains, prices generally being steady with a moderate amount of trading in car lots.

The undertone to the millfeed market continued strong owing to the good inquiry from all sources. The demand for standard grades of rolled oats was limited and prices were steady.

Prices for all grades of eggs were well maintained under a quiet demand. The receipts were 935 cases.

Owing to the continued indifferent demand for butter from all sources and the steady accumulation of stocks on spot the undertone yesterday was inclined to be easier but there was no change in prices. The volume of business was small. The receipts were 634 packages.

There was an increased inquiry from English importers for cheese, but as the prices bid were not satisfactory the volume of business was small. It was reported that further sales of Western No. 1 grades were made to United States buyers at 18¾c per pound waxed. The spot market was quiet but steady. The receipts were 14,881 boxes.

On the local curb market yesterday there were 7,000 boxes of Eastern cheese settled for at 17½c per pound for No. 1 grade, delivered here.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 20 (Canadian Press)—Improved export demand, together with smallness of the Winter wheat movement in the southwest, tended to make wheat prices average higher yesterday. Upturns though failed to hold well, houses with western and northwestern connections selling more freely whenever the market bulged. Wheat finished irregular, ¼ net lower to ½ gain; corn ¾ up; oats unchanged to ½ and rye higher, and provisions varying from 27 cents decline to a rise of 2 cents.

Corn owed its strength largely to reports that the corn crop throughout much of Indiana, Ohio and Illinois is of less height even than was looked for. A leading authority said that regardless of future temperatures or of the frost date, the bulk of corn in the territory named would be undersized at maturity and that the ears would also be under the average size. Oats were firm, rural offering being scarce.

Provisions had no decided trend.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE HOLDS MEETING

Some Good Advice Given in the Hints for the Hope Chest.

WARSAW, July 20.—The regular meeting of the Warsaw Woman's Institute was held on Thursday afternoon in their rooms. Every seat was filled. The new president, Mrs. George Weller, was in the chair. After the opening exercises, the roll-call was answered with hints for the hope chest. Some good advice was given such as to avoid much fancy embroidery, for it might be out of date; good plain material is safe; a box containing papers of all sorts of needles and pins is very useful; old pieces of cloth are exceedingly useful, where everything is new.

To Repair Hall.

Several have asked if the Institute could not do something towards getting a good community hall, or having the present town hall enlarged, and equipped. A builder had made an estimate that about fifteen hundred dollars would make the necessary alterations. A mason and a carpenter have offered a certain amount of free work. The government will give one quarter of the cost, and considers free work as cash. As the Institute has spent a good deal of money on places for meetings, and at every popular entertainment there is not standing room, and generally many go far away. The stage is absolutely inadequate so the Institute decided they would do their part in remodelling the hall.

Mrs. Anderson gave a report of the convention at Havelock, and presented some of it in a very mirthful style.

She spoke of the work of the Havelock ladies had done. She particularly brought to notice that in Mr. Putnam's address he said that circumstances altered cases, and what might be a good report for one branch, might not be for another; also that we were not to consider some young people useless because they did some silly things. There is always some good indeed a great deal of good and Institute members, of all people, should find it. When working there should always be some definite objective. He advised helping the home community mostly. While there are many worthy objects away from home, which we may help, the home needs it most.

He urged thought and consideration of the young people. They need amusement, but an effort should be made to have them take pleasure and profit from the higher things of life. Any literature needed may be had from the department. He urged a library, and the Institutes may get boxes of books for definite times, by paying the express one way. In speaking of helping the needy he made a plea to have it done as quietly as possible, and not wound the feelings.

Crocheting Class.

On Monday, July 18, Mr. Nelson, District Agricultural representative, and Miss Hopkins, will be at the Institute rooms at two o'clock to make arrangements for a crocheting class, which will be held on Thursday at two o'clock. All the girls in the community under twenty-six years of age, whether Institute members or not are urged to attend. The instruction is free.

The Institute will serve meals at the school fair, to be held on September the twenty-first.

Mrs. Henry Batten read an article from the "Perth Courier" bearing on Confederation which dealt with the seven principal fathers of confederation and their particular work and of Hon. Alex T. Galt in particular who spent about sixty years of his life in public work, but was quiet about it, and has rarely got the credit due him.

Mrs. Thomas Cooper, district federal representative, brought up a resolution to be sent to the resolution committee at the convention, namely: that the mother's allowance be granted for one child, instead of as at present for at least two children. She was asked to present the resolution at the convention.

The next meeting, on August 11, will be held in Mr. Tucker's grove, and each member may bring as many friends as she wishes.

Social Evening.

Mesdames Munro and Rufus Payne, and Miss Edith Tucker were the committee.

A program of music, game, recitations was carried out. Dr. Munro acted as chairman. When the time came two large baskets of gifts were brought in, and Dr. Munro made a little speech, in which he said that Mr. Jackson had always seemed to belong to the order of the benedicts, but he had broken all rules, for one day he went to Montreal and returned with a wife. He welcomed the bride and groom, and extended to them the best wishes of the community.

Mr. Jackson replied by thanking the people for their gifts and good wishes. Mrs. Jackson made a very graceful speech. She won the hearts of all who met her.

Refreshments were served and there was a little dancing before the party broke up.

A good deal of hay is in, but there is still much out. Wednesday afternoon's storm made drawing-in impossible on Thursday. Many well built hay coils were scattered by the wind. Thursday afternoon dried the hay again and the men were at their hay making and drawing-in on Friday.

Beyond a few trees being blown down and the telephone service out of order for a short time. No damage is reported from the storm.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Stark spent their holiday with Mrs. Stark's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Payne.

GERMAN FILMS HEAVY.

BERLIN, July 20.—American movie-goers want light entertainment that will not tax their patience. So says Ernst Lubitsch, Hollywood producer now in Germany, in explaining the general unpopularity of German films in America. Films made here are inclined to be too ponderous and involved in plot, he declared.

RADIO TRANSACTION PUZZLING BRITISH

Wonder How Control of Canadian Marconi Will Be Effected.

LONDON, July 19. —(UP).— A director nominated by the Radio Corporation of America will sit on the new Board of the Canadian Marconi Company, when the deal for the sale of the latter organization is completed, British United Press learns, but there is considerable mystery as to how Lazard Brothers and Company will carry out the assurance given the British public to-day that the company will remain under British control.

No information can be secured from authoritative sources regarding what measures are being taken to keep control of the company in British hands or what proportion of the shares of the Canadian Marconi, the Radio Corporation will hold.

Meanwhile, it is admitted that a further attempt will be made to interest the Canadian Pacific Railway with a view to having it take over the company, and it is understood that the whole scheme will be laid before Premier Mackenzie King for his information before anything definite in the way of winding up the deal is done.

AT 71, THEY ARE OLDEST TRIPLETS

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 2[illegible]. — Abraham, Isaac and Jacob Wagner, triplets, have celebrated their seventy-first birthday. Each has a family; each is a farmer; all are happy. They claim to be the world's oldest triplets and so far no others have appeared to dispute the title.

The three delight in spinning yarns about their early days, when they looked alike and there wasn't two pounds difference in their weights. "That made the scraps interesting," they said.

Boyhood battles, school days and even their love affairs were complicated by their resemblance. The neighborhood belles never could be sure whether they were entertaining Abraham, Isaac or Jacob.

CABINET TALKS ABOUT TANGLE AT CONFERENCE

British Ministers Meet Again To-Night To Hear Bridgeman.

PREMIER MEETS KING.

Entire Disarmament Situation Being Talked Over At Meetings To-Day.

LONDON, July 20. — (Canadian Press).—The entire Cabinet met with Premier Baldwin to-day in Downing Street to discuss the Geneva disarmament tangle. Another meeting will be held to-night at the Premier's office, at which will be present the Right Hon. W. C. Bridgeman, First Lord of the Admiralty, and head of the delegation, who was expected to arrive from Switzerland some time during the day.

Before the Cabinet meeting Premier Baldwin had an audience with King George, at which it is believed they talked over the whole situation as well as discussed the Premier's visit to Canada.

CHEMONG ROAD.

vince among the thousands of tourists within our borders."

J. Juby.

James Juby, President of the Peterborough Automobile Club, thus expressed himself:

"My past experience with the Department of Public Highways, as a director of the Peterborough Automobile Club and latterly as President, leads me to believe that the officials of the Department, and certainly the Hon. Mr. Henry, cannot possibly have been fully acquainted with the appalling condition of the communication road to Chemong, for this time of year.

"For a provincial highway, this stretch of road is the poorest to be seen, anywhere and a very poor inducement to tourists to return another year.

"Our lakeland district is admittedly the prettiest to be found anywhere in Ontario and it has always been difficult to advertise it adequately in the face of these road conditions.

In the inauguration of the Provincial Highway system we feel justified as citizens in believing in the future of the Kawartha lakes as a premier resort district, but if better roads are not constructed immediately, connecting this city with the outside world, the thousands of dollars spent in popularizing the district will be wasted.

The citizens of Peterboro have an honest complaint in this matter and are supported wholeheartedly by the officers, directors and members of this Club."

"Somebody has said that a detour is the roughest place between two points. If that be true then Chemong Road right from Peterborough to the Fourth Line is a detour," said Rev. W. S. Edgar, minister of Gilmour Memorial Church in Smith. "It is a crime against a community to allow a highway like Chemong to remain in such a condition. Travelling on Chemong Road these days is like running a car along a ditch for several miles. The Department seems to be acting on the presumption that mere surveying is sufficient to make a roadway passable."

Mr. Edgar further stated that he had recently made a trip of more than a hundred miles through Prince Edward County and the only bad stretch of roadway which he encountered was on his way home from the city.

This morning, shortly after their return from Chemong Park, The Examiner got in touch with several citizens who have lived at the summer resort for many season.

W. R. Breyfogle, general manager of the De Laval Company, said: "That four miles of Chemong Road from the city to the Fourth Line is the poorest stretch of road, Government or otherwise, in the province of Ontario. The county boys are doing their part of the work well; it is the province which is falling down. The Government has not done a thing to the road; not even put on a scraper. It certainly is a crime to have any road in such a condition. You cannot go more than fifteen miles with safety over the road."

P. P. Westbye, president of the William Hamilton Company, asked as to the condition of the road, replied: "It is simply in no condition at all. It is agony to travel over a road of that description. I can't see why something is not done to make it a little more passable. If the Government cannot do any permanent work at present, it could at least see that some gravel is laid down on it. The whole thing is a shame."

Like Mr. Breyfogle, Mr. Westbye drew a comparison wholly to the advantage of the smaller body between the work done by the province and that of the Suburban Roads Commission.

Vincent Eastwood, manager of the Royal Bank, said the condition of the road was abominable. He declared that the waste, through unnecessary wear and tear entailed on the cars of citizens travelling on the road was more than would have been sufficient to put in fairly good condition. Four hundred dollars, he said, spent in gravel, would have made a wonderful difference in putting the road in condition while the province was getting ready to rebuild it.

F. C. Hungerford, manager of the F. W. Woolworth store said that so far as the road between the city and the Fourth Line was concerned, the rocky road to Dublin had nothing on it. Beyond the Fourth Line, he said, in the area under the supervision of the Suburban Area Commission, the condition was better; in some sections there the road was not at all bad.

MYSTERY VEILS TRAGEDY OF SEA

MURDER SUSPECTED.

NEW YORK, July 20. — Probably becalmed in a fog, with flapping sails as she rides the long, oily ground swell, somewhere off Sandy Hook,r the four-masted schoone Kingsway lies, her exact position as mysterious as the strange adventures of murder and death during the voyage from the Gold coast of Africa.

From vague reports, strange messages have returned, directly or indirectly from the trim, white schooner which sailed from Perth Amboy almost a year ago for her deep water trading trip, belonging to other generations. A tug left last night to seek her along the coast, hoping to bring her to Quarantine this morning.

There, assistant Federal Attorneys Simpson and Mintzer will booard the Kingsway to hold preliminary court on deck, Their mission will be to find a murderer on board.

A small trading vessel calling at Monrovia gave the American consul there the first ill tidings from the Kingsway. The trader had spoken with her as she lay on her course for America and returned with a cryptic message from Captain F. E. Nawry, of the schooner.

"Prisoner has broken out. Have no irons in which to hold him. This is a desperate man."

The prisoner, the consul learned from the trader, was accused of having murdered the wife of the skipper. This information was cabled to the State Department, which in turn notified Federal authorities ties at New York.

Lay Becalmed.

As the schooner lay under the broiling sun of the equator, becalmed for many days at a time with only a fickle trade wind, no one knows how long the accused murderer was at large, or what drama transacted on the decks of the adventurous ship, with her small crew of nine or ten men. Hate explodes when men are cramped so long.

No further word was heard from the Kingsway, which is without wireless as she plied her lonely way across the South Atlantic, until a brief message arrived at New York from Barbadoes.

"Schooner Kingsway," it said, "from West Africa to New York, called here June 23; mate is dead, cannot find a substitute at present."

The mate, when she sailed from Perth Amboy, was Fred Mortimer, a 70-year-old deep water sailor of square rigging days. Many knew of him as "Mr. Pike," for so he appeared in Jock London's novel, "The Mutiny of the Elsinore." Until the Kingsway arrives here on one knows yet whether Mortimer lived the life of his fiction shadow and found the use of a belaying pin more necessary than rhetoric.

In a few days the Kingsway must have found a new mate, for an July 6 she resumed her voyage to New York.

ONLY ONE MEDICINE HELPED THIS MAN

This man, Walter Smith, Wood Block, 11th Ave., Regina, Sask., says: "Trying many medicines for constipation, catarrhal affections and a run down condition, I found no relief until I began using Husky. This preparation has benefited me in every way." Good drug stores everywhere recommend and distribute Husky, the wonderful herb preparation.

A film showing the life of Prince of Wales from his boyhood to the present day has just been produced in England.

HUNDREDS SEE GOOD COMEDY

AFTERNOON PROGRAM.

"The Patsy," the hilarious Broadway comedy which formed the programme at the Chatauqua tent, last evening, was greeted by a filled enclosure, the hundreds of people present manifesting their appreciation of the sparkling play by the constant laughter and applause which followed its unfolding. This play, with three acts of comedy, romance, bubbling laughter and several moments of real pathos, is of the type which quickly enlists the personal sympathy of each person watching it. Each member of the audience appears to take an intense personal interest in the outcome, because its atmosphere is closely allied to the everyday life of ordinary human beings.

Patricia, or "Patsy" Harringtotn, is the "black sheep" of a modern family, trying to appear large on a small income. Her father, William Harrington, is of the type of husband who weakly submits to the increasing demands of his wife. He is a good example of what is meant by the saying; "Men who have succeeded in this world have not so often been inspired by the love of a good woman, as they have perspired in order to gratify a foolish woman's whims." Mr. Harrington is a commercial traveller for groceries, and returns home at intervals to find, as a rule, his wife weeping over her inability to "live up to the Joneses." She demands an automobile and fine clothes, and wishes she was dead when they are not at once forthcoming. It is only in the last act that the worm turns and her husband asserts himself. Meanwhile, "Patsy," gets into several scrapes that bring down the wrath of her mother upon her head, and Grace, the older sister, beautiful but extremely unpleasant, quarrels with her younger sister. Only the many laughs that punctuate the comedy save it from an unpleasant taste between various feminine members of the Harrington family.

Grace discards a faithful adorer, Tony Anderson, for a richer suitor, Billy Caldwell, then, quarrelling with the latter, tries to retrieve Tony. But he and Patsy nave formed a "Lonesome Club," and he has become interested in the younger girl through his efforts to teach her how to achieve the love of a mysterious man she tells about. That the man is himself does not occur to Tony, and the audience, attracted by the ancient stage device of letting them into the secret, while keeping one of the main actors in the dark, watches with great entertainment the unfolding of the plot. Tony gives Patsy much sage advice with regard to men, which the girl immediately turns to her own advantage by using it on him. She has bought a volume of wise sayings calculated to make their user a popular addition to any social gathering, and Tony swallows the clever bits with much enjoyment.

"The Patsy" has a well-woven plot and a fund of gay and sparkling dialogue, with plenty of intense human interest and romantic attraction to its characterisations and background. A very pretty setting of a living room type, with dainty hangings and handsome furniture, was contrived last night, the manager giving the credit for the arrangement to the firm of M. McFadden and Sons, who loaned the pieces.

During an intermission the manager, J. R. Osborne, spoke of the large number of people attending last night's performance, who had bought single tickets for the event, and the benefits to be derived from purchase of season tickets. He spoke of the one man (O. A. Gillespie) who has supported the Chautauqua year after year in this city, and said that his name was known throughout the entire circuit for his constant and generous efforts to bring to this community entertainment of the high class character provided by the Dominion Redpath Chautauqua organization.

Afternoon Programme.

The programme of yesterday afternoon was a gala event for the children, who were present in large numbers, and enjoyed a gleeful session in company with the entertaining Al. Baker, ventriloquist and magician, who did all the things that children love to watch and had his small hearers entranced with his wonderful powers. With the help of Dennis, his smiling boy doll, he exhibited his talents as a ventriloquist. Dennis was an obliging youth. Owing to a cold contracted during a recent evening performance his vocal efforts were a bit hoarse, but he warbled cheerfully through "The Farmer in the Dell," and "Ukulele Lady," besides contributing much to the joy of life by his wise cracks of various types. With the help of numerous small boys and girls from the audience, he entertained and amused his hearers, giving away finally to the magical tricks of his owner

Mr Baker enlisted the aid of a small red-haired boy who watched him in astonished silence while he cooked a cake over the child's flame-like topknot. Then he essayed to teach his little helpers how to do the "disappearing egg" trick, and make magical paper things for them, in a delightful lace doyley, a beanstalk, similar to Jack's famous model, and an ingenious flytrap. He extracted silver coins from the nose of a bewildered child and brought many articles of value from a dark hat, loaned for the occasion. His small watchers were visibly disappointed when he brought his alluring exhibition to a close.

To-night's programme includes the lecture by the Polynesian raconteur and traveller Wherohiko Rawet, a unique offering entitled "Songs and Stories of the South Seas," depicting amid a tropical setting a word painting of life in Southern isles. There will also be a musical entertainment by the Casford Concert Company.

For to-morrow, the concluding day of this year's Chautauqua programme the children will have John W. Mangels, the popular clown in morning. Anna Dickie Olesen, notable leader in public affairs, will give her wonderful talk on "Opportunity" in the afternoon, and both afternoon and evening programmes will include Vierra's Hawaiians, in an original musical production featuring Hawaiian music.

QUIET IN BUCHAREST.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, July 20.— (Canadian Press).—No bells tolled and no extra editions of the newspapers cried the streets early this morning to announce the passing of King Ferdinand.

The fact was kept secret closely within the inner circles of the court and government until the official announcement was printed hours after his death. The council of ministers already was sitting at 7.30 o'clock this morning, to discuss the situation created by the King's death and to arrange for his funeral. The funeral probably will be held on Friday or Saturday with burial at Curtea de Arges, about forty miles east of Sinaia. Curtea is the seat of monastery and cathedral which because of its antiquity and great beauty is known as "the Pearl of Rumania." Bucharest newspaper appeared today with columns lined in black and flags were half-masted on all public buildings. Perfect calm existed throughout capital and throughout country.

SCOUTS INVADE CAMPBELLFORD

FROM BRADLEY'S BAY.

Campbellford July 20. —Campbellford citizens made for cover yesterday afternoon when the old town was taken by storm by the healthiest looking bunch of dark brown Indians ever seen in this neighborhood.

About 2.30 yesterday afternoon, when the town was having its regular afternoon nap, and the police force was busy keeping the stranger within the gates from disturbing our peaceful slumbers there was a sound from over the hill of "Coo-ee" "How-oooo," "Kreeee" with an occasional "Ha, Ha," and we knew only too well that all manner of living wild things were headed this way.

Soon, however, amid the kreeee of the eagle, the "coo-ee" of the kangaroo the "how-oooo" of the wolf and the "Ha, Ha" of the fox, we heard strains of music floating on the air, and then over the brow of the hill came some 25 of the brownest, healthiest, happiest boys that this town has ever seen with a mouth organ band playing lively airs It was the Belleville boy scouts and cubs on a hike from Bradley's Bay where their popular Scout Master, Rev. C. E. Clarke, has had them in camp for the past two weeks.

After they had cleaned out all the ice cream in town and finished up the peanuts we had for the fall fair, Assistant Scout Master, George Brown, called the troops off. In response to a number of short, sharp blasts from a whistle the boys "fell in" at the four corners, and bending themselves double, so as to emit all the sound possible, the boys saluted our town with the Chinese National Anthem: "Een-gon-yam-a, Gon-Yam-a in-voo-bo yah-Bah! yah Bah! in-voo boo!"

Having done this damage, they got the "quick-march" order, and away they hicked up the steep hill, enroute to their camp at Bradley's Bay, seven miles away; and Campbellford wanted to call them back because it hated to see them go.

Scout Master, Rev. E. C. Clark, sprung no surprise on the Campbellford boys in bringing his well disciplined Boy Scouts and his bright little cubs to this town, for the Reverend Scoutmaster while rector of Christ Church here, fully demonstrated the place "the boy" holds in his mind and heart. In this town, the Belleville rector is referred to by the boys as "a good scout."

Fox Patrol, Patrol leader, C. Lang, Stewart McIlrath, Kenneth Lepain, and David Bradford.

Eagle Patrol, Patrol leader, Barnard Smith, Ronald Denyes, Ralph Ashton, and James Tolwell.

Wolf Patrol, Patrol leader, Kenneth Grills, Max Bone, Lenard Hill, and Raymond Lennox.

Kangaroo Ptrol, Patrol leader, Franklin Lang, Donald Thomas, Jimmy Ling, Bud Caddick, and Jimmy Andrews.

OMEMEE NEWS

OMEMEE, July 20.—The monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of Trinity United Church was held on Thursday afternoon at the beautiful home of Mrs. David Weir.

The meeting over which Mrs. Rowland, the president, presided, was of a patriotic nature, and was very interesting throughout.

The singing of the "Maple Leaf" in chorus was the appropriate opening, which was followed by prayer by the president.

Mrs. Reuben Bradley gave as the Scripture reading the 72nd psalm, followed by the story of the naming of the Dominion.

This interesting item on the program was followed by an earnest prayer for the country's prosperity by the president, following which an interesting item from each province, dealing with the progress of missions was given, namely:

"Missions in Manitoba," Miss Jane Earle.

"Story of Saskatchewan," Miss Eva Race.

"Aim and Action in Alberta," Mary Weir.

"British Columbia," Miss Lela Parsons.

Neighbor in Newfoundland, Miss Elda Overholt.

These items were interspersed with stirring patriotic hymns. The gathering was then favored with an instrumental by Miss Jane Earle.

The business part of the meeting followed.

Reports were given by the secretary, Mrs. E. Bradburn and treasurer-by Mrs. R. H. Williamson.

An invitation was extended from the W.M.S. of the Reaboro Baptist church, inviting the local ladies to visit them and hear Mrs. Kitchen, who has recently returned from India, address them.

A letter from Mrs. Robb, regarding supply work was read, and as a result the following committee was appointed to look after the packing and sending of the annual bale; Mrs. Bushnell, Mrs. J. Shields, Mrs. F. G. Sandy and Miss Lila Parsons.

Old Street Car Houses Stray Animals Waiting Execution Or Rescue At Incinerator

No longer carrying human passengers, one of the old street cars of the defunct Peterborough Radial Railway is now in use as a home for strayed dogs and cats awaiting execution by the Humane Society Inspector, R. C. Smith or rescue by their owners.

The car, which supplies a long felt want at the incinerator, will in the near future be fitted up with partitions to divide the places of accomodation for the various species of animals.

Placed at first at the east side of the incinerator, the car occupied a very awkward position in the way of much of the traffic entering the grounds. Permission to move it further to the east over the area which is the property of the MacDonald Lumber Company has been secured from John R. MacDonald, president of the firm, and the car will be placed in a location which will enchance its usefulness and at the same time be very much more convenient for the carrying out of any necessary alterations.

W.M.S. HOLD MEETING.

Confederation Was Subject of Discussion at the Monthly Gathering.

ROSENEATH, July 19.—The Woman's Missionary Society met in the United church on Wednesday afternoon with the attendance of fourteen members.

The president, Mrs. Lily Turner, conducted the meeting and opened with singing "Oh Canada." The scripture reading by the president, Psalm 72, followed by prayer from Mrs. G. Ingham. It was the Confederation meeting, showing the advancement missionary work had made in the past sixy years and the different places organized in that time. The Maritime Provinces W.M.S. of the United church since Oct. 1876, now have 996 organizations, Quebec 261 organizations, Ontario has 2,776 organizations, Manitoba has much work done and all through Western Canada has been making great headway along this line. The paper read was very interesting and encouraging.

Hymn, "Oh God of Bethel" was then sung, followed by the devotional leaflet, read by Mrs. Albert Nill.

It was moved by Mrs. Andrew Brown, seconded by Mrs. William Arnold that each member contribute one dollar and canvas for as much more as possible to raise funds rather than have a social and missionary speaker at this busy season of the year. After the business discussion the meeting closed with singing God Save the King.

It Rid the System of Rheumatism

Lasting relief was obtained when the uric acid poisons were cleansed from the system by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

After all there is nothing like Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to get rid of the poisons in the system which cause pains, aches, lumbago and rheumatism. Dr. Chase's Liniment affords relief from the pain but to get rid of the cause it is necessary to go deeper and regulate the action of kidneys, liver and bowels.

Mrs. Ada Kincade, Drayton, Ont., writes—

"For years my husband suffered from rheumatism. He tried treatment from many doctors, but received little relief. He also tried several remedies recommended, without avail. Two years ago after he had been unable to move or turn in bed for several weeks, a neighbor came in and recommended Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I went down and purchased a box of these, which seem to have entirely relieved him, for he has never had an attack since. I take great pleasure in recommending these pills to anyone suffering from rheumatism."

BELMONTS DEFEAT LOCKWORKS IN VERY CLOSE SOFTBALL GAME

SCORE 3 TO 2.

Winners Give McLean Airtight Support in the Field.

By bunching their hits in the second and sixth innings the Belmonts were able to defeat the Lockworks in the softball game held at the Riverside Park last night. The game was the best of the season and the crowd surpassed Saturday's hardball game. The final score was three runs to two.

The game was very close throughout and each team secured seven hits but the Lockworks failed to group theirs.

McLean, who pitched for the winners, was well supported, and the win is greatly due to the air-tight support which the fielders gave him. Waddell pitched his usual good game for the Lockworks and outside of the second and sixth innings the Belmonts secured one hit.

The Lockworks were presented with three easy putouts when Green the first man to bat, bunted a foul on the third srtike, Ash went out in the third on interference when running from first to second, and Frick was out in the sixth when he interfered with a bunted ball.

The fielding of Ash, Delahaye, Crary and Smith, was the feature of the game. Jake Hall, for the winners, scored two of the three runs, and he along with Batten and Galbraith, were the only ones to get two hits in the game. Seven batters on the two teams failed to hit safely. Waddell struck out two, and McLean struck out the last man up, as if to show that there was still plenty of stuff left in him. Each pitcher issued one pass.

The Game.

In the first innings the first three men up on each team went out on infield plays. In the second Hall the first man up for the Belmonts, singled, Frick lifted one to Waddell, Batten singled, Delahaye doubled, scoring Hall, Holyman singled, scoring Delahaye, McLean lifted one to Crary, who made a spectacular catch of it, and Green popped one to Weese.

Galbraith the first man up for the Lockworks, singled in the second, Dobson connected, but Galbraith was caught making second, and Ranger and Crary lifted flies to the outfielders.

In the third, Ash got the only hit for Belmonts. In this innings the Lockworks threatened to score; Smith singled, Waddell made first, when Frick dropped the ball, Weese connected, but Smith was caught trying to steal home; Jones went out on a foul tip and Nichols lifted one to Ash.

In the fourth the Belmonts failed to get the ball out of the infield. The Lockworks scored twice, when Galbraith singled; Dobson went out on an infield play, Ranger double scoring Dobson; Ranger stole third and scored whne Crary singled.

Jones got the only hit for the two teams in the fifth and Green was given a pass.

In the sixth the Belmonts scored again when Hall the first man up singled; Frick went out, Batten doubled and Hall scored when Waddell made a poor throw to Dobson. The Lockworks failed to get on in this innings.

In the seventh Weese was given a free ticket, and was the only man to reach first on either team. The same happened with the Belmonts in the eighth; Nicholls made first when between Hall and Holyman they dropped a fly which was sent down into Halls territory; Dobson singled but the rest failed to connect safely.

In the ninth Smith the first man up lifted one to Green, Waddell popped out to Hall, and Weese struck out.

The C.G.E. and The Examiner will play to-night at the north end of Confederation Square.

YANKEES TAKE FOUR STRAIGHT FROM ST. LOUIS

Washington Defeats Chicago in Close Game By Four Runs to Three.

DETROIT WINS.

Tigers Use Seventeen Players To Defeat Philadelphia By One Run.

NEW YORK, July 20 (Canadian Press).—The Yankees made it four in a row over the Browns winning the final of the St. Louis series yesterday by six to one. A batting assault against Southpaw Stewart in the third produced three runs, Lazzeri's triple, a single by Ruth, Gehrig's triple and a double by Meusel, figuring in the scoring.

Washington Wins.

Washington drove Elmer Jacobs off the hill in the sixth inning after erratic support and opportune hitting had given the Senators a lead to win yesterday's Chicago game 4 to 3. Hollie Thurston, who started for Washington, was driven off the hill in the fifth inning when Marberry came to the rescue to force Peck to hit into a double play which broke up a rally. Thereafter the locals were unable to get a safe hit off Marberry.

Strong Finish.

Detroit snatched a game yesterday, scoring seven runs in the ninth inning beating Philadelphia, 10 to 9, in the last game of the Detroit series.

Seventeen players were used by the Tigers, including four pitchers. Walberg, for Philadelphia, kept the Tigers under control for eight innings, and went into the ninth with a six-run advantage, the result of an eight-run rally by his mates. In the ninth Detroit fell upon him and upon Rommell, who succeeded him, a triple by Fothergill scoring three of the runs. Pate, relieving Rommell, was wild, walking two after Heilmann had doubled and then he grooved the ball for Pinch Hitter Bassler, who singled home the tieing and winning runs.

Break Even.

Cleveland and Boston broke even in a double-header at Cleveland, the Indians taking the first 4 to 2, and Boston the second, 6 to 5. Each team registered a five-run rally in the second game, Boston winning in the fifth when Shaner forced Regan, stole second and scored on a single by Carlyle. The two games were marked by four casualties. Pitcher Wiltse had his left wrist put out of commission by a pitched ball thrown by Miller in the first game. Shaner, of the Red Sox, accidentally hit Catcher Autry with his bat and inflicted a gash that required four stitches. Pitcher Rudlin was hit with a ball batted by Shaner in the second game, and was knocked unconscious, while Catcher Hofmann was forced to retire with a split finger.

NEW YORK, July 20. —(Canadian Press). — The Chicago Cubs regained the National League crest yesterday by tripping up the Giants by 8 to 5 while rain forced idleness on the Pirates. The victory marred John McGraw's jubilee celebration, however, as did a steady downpour of rain throughout the greater part of the game. Hartnett connected for his ninth home run of the year, with two on in the eighth and English, following Hartnett at bat, cracked another long distance wallop.

Cincinnati bunched hits off Robertson in the early innings at Boston and piled up a good lead, eventually winning, 8 to 2. It was the Reds third consecutive victory at Boston. Rixey held the Braves to six hits. Moore played short stop for Boston for the last six innings and fielded brilliantly. He was middle man in three fast double plays. Bressler and Hargrave hit savagely for Cincinnati.

SWIMMING SIMPLIFIED

BY JAMES A. LEE

The breast stroke was, at one time, the universal medium for teaching swimming and is still widely used.

Take a prone position in the water, head raised just enough to bring the mouth out of the water. Place the arms in front, flat on the surface, hands touching, palms down. Turn hands at a slight angle, then press downward and outward, using the forearms for leverage, so that there will be a little bending at the elbows, as the drive gets better.

Aim to make the pull so that when the forearms approach the shoulder line they still will have enough slant to retain leverage on the water in the following movement, which calls for an inward sweep to bring the hands together.

Then turn the hands upward, palm down, fingers pointed ahead, and thrust the arms forward to starting position. Bring the hands about ten to twelve inches below the surface when they start the down movement.

Make the first part of the drive with energy, slow up as the arms become extended and pause at the full reach before making another drive.

To do the frog kick correctly, drop the knees the least bit and bend the lower legs upward, allow the knees and feet to draw apart a trifle, but with legs in normal position—so that the knees will open less than the feet.

Then, together, turn feet slightly outward and straighten at knees and ankles and with a vigorous outward and backward swing, whipping the legs together. Relax the muscles right after the closing movement, but do not begin to bend the legs again until the arms have finished their backward sweep.

Do the leg movements slowly and always keep so relaxed that there will be no muscular tension.

ALL IS READY FOR BIG FIGHT

Sharkey and Dempsey Close Their Training For Thursday's Battle.

DEMPSEY CONFIDENT.

NEW YORK, July 20 (Canadian Press).—A pair of Johns hung up their boxing gloves last night. Sharkey and Dempsey or Dempsey and Sharkey won't bang away at men or bags any more until they meet tomorrow to decide who is to battle Gene Tunney for the heavyweight championship of the world."

Sharkey, the sailor from Boston swept through his final work-out yesterday with plenty of vim, smacking Paul Cavalier and Johnny Urban hard with vicious left hooks, his most feared blow. He weighed 192 and was clearly on the very edge of condition.

Dempsey worked easily five rounds against the bags, and just to show that his left arm was as good as it ever was, he used it heavily against both bags in a hooking stroke. Dempsey displayed all the viciousness of perfect trim, he growled and grunted and whanged them over vigorously.

The former champion radiates confidence. "I'll knock Sharkey out in two punches," he said, "but if I don't, I have no fear that my strength will not carry me over the full route. I am in the finest shape of my career, and I can knock Sharkey out in the fifteenth as easily as in the first."

Sharkey continued the favorite in the betting yesterday with odds showing a tendency to lengthen in his favor. Wagers were reported at six to five and 13 to 10.

NEW YORK, July 20. —(Canadian Press) — Baseball joined hands with New York city to-day in honoring John J. McGraw, veteran manager of the New York Giants, who won ten National League Pennants and three world's series championships for the Nation's metropolis and who in 25 seasons at the helm, has finished in the second division only twice.

It was 25 years ago yesterday, that McGraw came to New York as Giant manager during the bitter days of a baseball war. McGraw at that time left the American League to return to his first love but American League magnates turned out on his jubilee to pay tribute to his remarkable career.

Despite showers, 30,000 turned out at the pole grounds, where a parade was held in McGraw's honor with many notables in line. Mayor Walker of New York and the trans-Atlantic air heroes, Commander Richard E. Byrd and Clarence Chamberlain, headed the march.

McGraw received numerous gifts of silver and flowers along with scores of congratulatory telegrams from all parts of the world.

LEAFS BEAT PESTS EIGHT TO NOTHING

Win Benefit Game Before Large Crowd Includiing Many Notables.

Toronto, July 20.—It was Torontos turn to smear the whitewash in yesterday's twilight fixture with Jersey City, and the Leafs made a finished job of it, the contest ending up as the smiling sun dipped down near the horison with the Leafs on the scoring end of an 8 to 0 count. So much kalsomine has been spilled on the O'Hara help of late that the Leafs trotted out their own little bucketful before a benefit game crowd much to the delight of Joe Wright, Jr, Canada's champion oarsman, Mayor Foster, and one or two more distinguished fans.

Clarence Fisher occupied the mound for the Leafs and though the Pests nicked his offerings for ten safe blows, in only three frames were they able to get more than one. The Pests couldn't get any breaks either. Fisher had good control and he was best in the pinches. In addition he was supported by some good fielding by his teammates, Jacobson robbing Monohan of a sure homer in the fourth when he raced back and made a glove-hand catch of his hard drive. Nettzke was on base at the time and two runs would have scored had the Leaf outfielder failed to spear the ball.

LLOYD GEORGE HAS IMPROVED HIS REPUTATION

Financial and Political Genius Shown In Sale Of Newspaper.

REALIZES MILLIONS.

Terms Of Sale Bind New Owners of Chronicle To Support His Policies.

LONDON, July 20.—(United Press)—Lloyd George's reputation as a financial wizard, as well as a political genius, has risen following the revelations of the deal by which he sold the Daily Chronicle, leading Liberal newspaper. Not only did he realize £3,000,000, of which £1,750,000 has already been paid in cash, but he bound the purchasers, who are headed by Lord Reading, to continue the paper's policy of supporting progressive liberalism. In addition he outlined all his policies, such as agricultural, coal, and power, for unquestioned support.

The sale of the power really means, therefore, that Lloyd George retains it as a mouthpiece and an unflinching personal supporter besides reaping a fortune from the purchasers.

GIRLS' BODIES FOUND IN BAY

All Victims Of Hamilton Drowning Have Not Been Recovered.

FUNERALS ARRANGED.

HAMILTON, Ont., July 20.—Clasped in each other's arms, the bodies of Edna Stewart and Winnifred Turner were recovered in Hamilton Bay yesterday morning. Frank Ryan's remains were located Monday night, and the Ryan baby's body was found on Tuesday night shortly after the Ryan sailboat capsized. The remains of all four victims recovered, those in charge of the grappling operations ceased work after several days' work, during which time the waters were carefully dragged over an area of several hundred yards.

Charles Depew and Harry Dynes found the girls' bodies. They were resting in 60 feet of water and were near the spot where Ryan's remains were recovered.

Coroner Dr. Hopkins viewed the bodies and declared an inquest unnecessary.

Following the finding of a sweater owned by Ryan on Sunday the grappling operations were concentrated at this point and the clue proved to be a great aid. Several Beach residents assisted in the search.

The funeral of Miss Turner will take place from her parent's residence, Station 5, Beach, Thursday afternoon, at 2 o'clock.

The funeral of Miss Stewart has been arranged for Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and the service will be held at J. H. Robinson and Co's chapel.

FIRE THREATENS CENTRE OF CITY

LOSS QUARTER MILLION.

TORONTO, July 20 (Canadian Press).—Fire which broke out in the offices of the Canadian Furniture Manufacturers Limited at one o'clock today completely gutted the four-storey building, causing an estimated loss of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars to this company alone.

The strong easterly wind which was blowing at the time resulted in the greatest fire threat this city has known since the disastrous conflagration in 1904.

St. Lawrence Market to the south and the Imperial Bank and other buildings to the east were all threatened and the firemen had a hard time to keep the fire from spreading. The cause of the fire is unknown.

SIMCOE WOMAN HANGS HERSELF

Mrs. C. Bates Has Been Despondent Since Death Of Husband.

SIMCOE, Ont., July 20. — Mrs. Christina Bates, wife of the late James Bates, who died here about three years ago, hanged herself in the garage of her son-in-law, in the Cutting Survey, immediately south of the town, on Monday night. Since the death of her husband she had been very despondent and had lived with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Seabrook.

A few days ago they bought a new clothes-line, which was found to be too long. They cut off about six feet of it and hung it in the garage. The despondent woman had used this. Apparently she stood on a box and then kicked it from beneath her.

Deceased was about 70 years of age and was born in Kingston, to which city the remains will be shipped today.

CHEMONG MEN PLAN REGATTA

Annual Water Sports Will Be Held on August 4th This Year.

DISCUSS LIGHTING.

A meeting of the Chemong Park Cottagers' Association was held on Monday evening at J. K. Hughes' cottage in the Park, with an attendance of about twenty-five of the members. In the absence of the president, Gordon Matthews, the vice president, Fred Hungerford, occupied the chair. The attention of the meeting was mainly occupied with a discussion of several matters of interest to the cottagers, in disposal of garbage, the lighting system in the Park and the arrangement for the annual regattas.

It was decided to hold the large Regatta on Thursday, August 4th, off the Club House, while the Children's Regatta will be held a week later, on August 11th, opposite Mr. Hughes' cottage. It is hoped to introduce several novel ideas into this year's programme for the main regatta, the convenor of which is J. K. Hughes, with members of the committee in Messrs. R. Breyfogle, H. Forler, G. Eastwood, H. Bradburn, H. Couthard, Gerald Duffus, A. Heiderman, J. Matthews and Mac Halpine of New York. The children's regatta will be looked after by W. J. Thompson, convenor, F. Hungerford and Dr. A. W. McPherson.

The question of lighting the Park by electricity rests with the farmers living along the Chemong Road. The Hydro Electric Power Commission requires that three farmers per mile sign the agreement before they will take current out to the summer colony. Further information along this line will be furnished at a meeting to be held shortly.

It was proposed that a Tennis Club be formed at the Park, and several locations were suggested for a tennis court, including the ground on the Kelly property, heretofore used for softball games, and the piece of ground behind the Burnham cottage. Dr. McPherson was appointed a chairman of a committe to consider this suggestion.

"SICK" GALL-BLADDERS

The gall-bladder is attached to the liver, and acts as a small reservoir for bile which slowly flows into it from the liver, and then gradually the gall-bladder feeds the bile drop by drop into the intestine. If too much bile is being manufactured by the liver, the gall-bladder will be overworked and often becomes inflamed or enlarged. The enlargement is really due to inflammation of the cystic duct which conveys the bile from the gall-bladder to the intestine. When this biliary passage becomes inflamed, the swelling of the membrane inhibits the flow of bile and, consequently, the gall-bladder often enlarges. The bile retained in the gall-bladder is then forced back into the liver. This brings on biliousness, headache, nausea and sometimes, jaundice, as the system must re-absorb the accumulated bile and throw it out through the kidneys or some other channel.

Inflammation of the gall-bladder may exist with or without gall stones. The differential diagnosis between inflammation or catarrh of the gall-bladder and gall stones is often quite difficult. The X-ray cannot always be depended upon to discover gall stones, and even the new Graham dye examination does not always show the difference between the inflammatory process and the formation of calcareous masses of stones.

The gall-bladder that does not function properly, either because of gall stones or because of inflammation, can be a serious menace to one's health. Surgeons who are often not sure of their diagnosis recommend an operation for the removal of what they now like to term a "sick" gall-bladder. That expression has grown to mean a gall-bladder that does not function properly. Patients who have been ailing for years with enervation, depression, low blood pressure, slow pulse, biliousness and occasional jaundice are now more frequently advised to have their gall-bladder removed, and the results that follow such operations are often remarkable. If the gall-bladder is "sick" the entire system will be poisoned day after day by the retained bile. The gall-bladder becomes a veritable cesspool of poison, the removal of which marks a quick return to health.

My experience in my private practise has shown me that the largest majority of these cases can be cured by proper dieting. It is first a question of cleaning out the liver and gall-bladder through fasting and a restricted diet, then teaching the patient how to correct his habits of living so that the gall-bladder will not again become "sick."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: G. M. writes: "Could you tell me a remedy for my fingers? They are extremely cold, then they start swelling first in the joints—then working up to the fingertips. The soreness starts by small lumps forming under the skin, then becoming very red. By touching anything cold my fingers get blue and numb. Would like to find a cure as I have to work for a living.

ANSWER: Possibly you are having some kind of functional heart trouble Your physician should be able to tell you whether my guess is correct. Send for special articles on heart derangements and poor circulation.

QUESTION: Miss Ruth R. writes: "Please tell me if Rhubarb is good for a person."

ANSWER: If rhubarb could be made palatable without the addition of so much sugar in its preparation, my answer would be "yes," but as it does require this excessive amount of sugar I never recommend it.

QUESTION: B. F. S. writes: "Four years ago I was operated on for frontal sinus trouble. All went well till this past August. Since then the incision in my nose and part of my eyebrow has been breaking open about every week, with a discharge of pus and bloody serum. What causes this, and can it be stopped?"

ANSWER: Operations for sinus and antrum trouble are usually disappointing, as one operation follows the other in an attempt to get rid of the pus condition which can be cured only through cleaning up the blood-stream. A ten-day fast should clear up your trouble, and if you will then live on a suitable diet it should not return.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

HE WHO HAS DARED

He who has dared, has done,
Whether he lost, or won.
No man has failed, who tried,
Whether he lived, or died.
This is the truest truth
Age would impart to youth:
Only a few prevail,
But only the quitters fail.

Christ on a bloody cross—
Yet who shall call it loss?
One he had thought His friend
Whispered, "It is the end."
But where is the cruel crowd,
Where are the princes proud?
Dead like the mists of dawn;
Only the Christ lives on.

Honor is not alone
Laurel, or wealth, or throne.
Many a heart as brave
Sleeps in a loser's grave.
Whether he won or not,
Heaven has not forgot.
He who has dared, has done,
Whether he lost, or won.

Uncle Wiggily

By Howard R. Garis

To-day's Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY'S LETTERS.

(Copyright, 1927, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"The mail is late this morning," said Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, looking out of the window of Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow.

"Isn't it!" agreed Mrs. Longears. "Though I thought I saw Mr. Caw Caw fly past a little while ago with the bag of letters under his wing."

Mr. Caw Caw was a black crow gentleman who was the postbird of Woodland, near the Orange Ice Mountains where Uncle Wiggily lived.

"I wish he would hurry until I see if there are any letters for me," spoke Mr. Longears. "I don't want to start adventuring until the mail has come."

Just then Uncle Wiggily's telephone bell rang and he hopped to answer it. His wife and Nurse Jane heard him say:

"Oh, that's too bad! Of course, I'll help you! I'll be right over!"

As the rabbit started to hop out of his bungalow his wife asked where he was going, and she said:

"Maybe that was one of the bad chaps playing a trick on you to get you to come to their den to help. Once there they will eat you."

"That was no bad chap!" chuckled Uncle Wiggily. "It was Mr. Caw Caw himself. I know his voice. He sprained one of his wings yesterday trying to keep up with one of the mail aeroplanes and to-day he cannot fly around to deliver letters. He asked me if I would take his mail bag and do the delivering for him. Of course I shall."

"You always were kind," murmured Nurse Jane.

A little later Uncle Wiggily had turned himself into a post rabbit and with Mr. Caw Caw's bag was hopping around to deliver the mail of letters and post-cards.

There was a letter for Nurse Jane from her cousin and one for Mrs. Longears, as well as some letters for Uncle Wiggily himself. These he read while sitting on a stump in the woods, after delivering the last of the mail.

"This is fun!" said the bunny uncle to himself as he got ready to go back home. "Of course it isn't any fun for Mr. Caw Caw to have a lame wing, but I quite enjoy being a post rabbit for a while."

So the next day, and the one after that, Uncle Wiggily took around the letters and every one was glad to see him. But at last the sly Fox, who had seen the rabbit gentleman hopping around with the mail pouch, said to the Wolf:

"I think I know a fine trick to play on Mr. Longears so we can easily catch him."

"How?" asked the Wolf, sniffing and snuffing to see if he could smell a baked potato anywhere. But he couldn't. "How can you catch that rabbit. He is full of tricks!"

The rabbit knew the letter was from the Fox.

"You know he is delivering letters for Mr. Caw Caw," explained the Fox. "Well, my plan is this. I will write a letter to you and drop it in the Hollow Tree Post-office. Uncle Wiggily takes the letters from there and carries them to wherever they are to go. When he has a letter for you he will bring it to your den. Then you can easily catch him. I'll be there to help you."

"It sounds like a good plan," spoke the Wolf. "But maybe when Uncle Wiggily sees that he has a letter for me, he will not deliver it."

"He'll have to!" cried the Fox. "If he doesn't he can be arrested for holding up the United States Mail, and that's a serious offense let me tell you! Very serious!"

"Good!" growled the Wolf. "Let's try it."

So the Fox wrote the Wolf a letter and dropped it in the Hollow Tree Post-office. Next morning, when Uncle Wiggily collected the mail he saw the letter. But the wise rabbit gentleman knew, right away, because of the crooked writing, that the letter was from the Fox. "And he wants me to take it to the den of the Wolf so I'll be caught!" chuckled the rabbit. "Very well, as long as I am the mail rabbit I must deliver letters. But the Wolf is going to be surprised."

After delivering all the other letters, Mr. Longears put on the letter for the Wolf a lot of sticky gum from the pine tree. Then, fastening the letter on the end of a long, long stick, the rabbit thrust it into the Wolf den, standing, himself, safely out of the way behind a rock. "Here's a letter for you, Mr. Wolf!" said the bunny.

The Wolf took the letter from the end of the long stick. But as soon as he did so his paws stuck to it so tightly that he couldn't get them off to grab the bunny. And when the Fox rushed out to pull the sticky letter from the Wolf's paws the Fox was also stuck up. So the two bad chaps were too much stuck to catch the rabbit letter-carrier, who laughed and hopped safely home.

This teaches us, if we are willing to learn, why they always put strawberries in shortcake.

RACING "AS IS" IN NEW FEATURE DUE AT REGENT

"Hokum" of the Turf Absent From "The Sunset Derby," a First National Production.

A horse race complete in every detail, and without the mistakes and inaccuracies occasionally found in the movies' handling of the sport, is promised in "The Sunset Derby," the First National picture which will be the feature attraction at the Regent Theatre beginning Thursday.

The picture is concerned wholly with the sport of horse racing and the lives of those who follow the ponies, but Charles R. Rogers, who produced the picture for First National, believes that all the usual "hokum" generally connected with such pictures has been avoided.

There is no hint of dishonesty in "fixing" races, of buying jockeys, or of attempting to prevent the favorite steed from entering the race. The story, instead, is concerned merely with the personalities to be found about every race track, and their lives.

Mary Astor and William Collier, Jr., play the featured roles in the picture, with a large supporting cast.

LONDON, July 20.—(United Press) The movement in favor of non-political trade unions has been given a fillip by the action of the Powell Duffryn Colliery Co., one of the larger collieries in South Wales.

Forced to close down its tredegar pit, employing about 1,500 men, owing to slackness in the export trade, the company has promised to give employment in the neighboring Taff Merthyr pit to sixty men who had joined the new non-political union, on the sole consideration that they remain members of it.

Colliery officials explain that their action is due to the excellent relations between themselves and the leaders of the new union, but naturally such prominent labor men as Cook, Vernon, and Hartshorn are very angry, seeing in the new union and the blessings of the employers a menace to their own positions.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Attempts have been made on the life of ELISE MARBERRY, an American girl owning considerable property near the little town of PORTO VERDE, in west central Brazil. She has escaped harm due to the shrewdness of her cousin and protector, VILAK, who with his friend, LINCOLN NUNNALLY, an elderly American chemist, is trying to learn the reason for the strange enmity for Elise.

Elise, Vilak and Nunnally finally emerge from the jungle. Presently they come to the outskirts of a strange city, resembling the old Inca civilization. Here they are made prisoners. They discover they are in the power of CARLOS D'ALBENTARA, whom they had known as an engineer back in Porto Verde.

The ruler of the city decides to marry Elise and to put Vilak and Nunnally to death. They are to be tortured at the feast of Raymi, as are Elise's nephew and Prentiss. A friendly Indian slips a dagger to Vilak, who liberates himself and Nunnally. Then, when the natives press around him, Vilak boasts that he can walk through fire unharmed to prove himself a god.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY

CHAPTER XLVI.

Vilak tossed bits of wood and leaves upon the fiery rectangle. Then clasping a clay vessel containing the blood of a sacrificed deer in one hand and a spear in the other, he moved up and down the fire's entire length, with the end of his spear sprinkling a few drops of the contents over the flames, or prodding the red embers with the point, constantly droning an incantation. At last he ceased. He removed his boots, his woolen socks, rolled his breeches far above his knees and took a post at the end of the fire nearest the temple.

"Behold, O people. Behold, O priests. Behold, O Batalagos," he thundered. "And when you have beheld, kneel and worship. For the gods of the fire are angry. The son of the fire walks through the fire. Behold, O people. Behold, O priests. Behold, O Batalagos."

As he spoke the last words, he moved a bare foot forward. Another step followed, then another. An awed silence gripped the watchers; he was in the flame. Breathless, they saw him stride, slowly, solemnly, over the fiery path as marches a mourner at a funeral procession. Dumbly, like frightened beasts, they saw him reach the other end and walk gravely onto the stones under the scowling idol. With a single impulse, people, priests, chief, dropped to the ground and hid their faces.

Quietly Vilak made his way to the altar and lifted the child from the stone.It recognized him; began gurgling in delight. He strode over with it to Elise. She darted forward, clasped the child to her breast ecstatically and overwhelmed it with kisses, stopping for an instant tearfully to kiss Vilak. He smiled gently, then returned to the altar. With a few blows of a knife taken from a soldier, he cut the thongs binding Prentiss.

Slowly the savages began to rise; with the help of two of his aides Batalagos stood erect, and waddling forward, prostrated himself once more and touched his head to Vilak's foot. Vilak murmured a few friendly words.

He wheeled quickly as he saw D'Albentara, who had darted into the chief's apartments when Vilak emerged from the fire, leap from behind one of the altar stones twenty feet away. In his hand was a revolver. There was a shot. Vilak dodged behind a stone, at the same time snatching a spear from one of the soldiers.

The shot missed; the bullet only chipped out a tiny fragment of rock. Vilak raised the spear high over his head, hurled it. It struck the other's arm, just as he was about to fire a second time. The pistol flamed, but the bullet went wildly into the sky, the weapon dropping to the ground an instant later.

The Portuguese clutched at his bleeding, broken arm, then stooped to seize the pistol again. Before he could recover it, Vilak had made him a prisoner. Swiftly, securely, the chief's soldiers bound him with thongs; expertly Vilak bandaged his arm so that he would not bleed to death.

Elise, the old man, and Prentiss had all come running to aid at the sound of the shot; the three friends entered the chief's ruined palace to search D'Albentara's quarters for the pistols he had taken from them on their capture. Prentiss, after some hesitation as though his presence were not wanted, joined them.

"I won't be happy until we've got those pistols back," Vilak muttered. "They're no good things to leave around here. Mean too much. After they're in our holsters again, I think we can feel safe."

After some searching, the weapons were found. The four were on the way out again, when a low wolfish roar arose from the court. Vilak broke into a run. He reached the open. On the altar lay the outstretched form of D'Albentara. Beside him was a white-painted priest holding a knife.

On the ground below, the priest whose needles and paint-jars proclaimed him the sacred tattooer, was slowly moving away. Vilak shouted. But even as he did so the arm of the idol descended and the three thorns which formed the fingers of its hand met the three triangles on the victim's forehead.

By a word to Batalagos, Vilak spared the stricken Portuguese the fearful tortures which had marked the death of the condemned murderer. A blow of the knife speedily ended his agony. But though Vilak wished it, he did not deem it wise to prevent the other grim finalities.

The thronged court soon cleared once more. Batalagos waddled to Vilak and set a bowl of starchy food before him. Blacks brought other bowls. The Americans ate. After the meal, Vilak spoke quietly to Prentiss, who was sitting off to himself, still with the hesitant, apologetic air of one who feels that his presence is obnoxious. Prentiss rose. The two walked off to the town. They returned. An hour or two later, Vilak was joined by Batalagos and with him entered the chief's palace. When they emerged it was almost sunset.

A second meal was brought to the travelers; the ceremonial dances recommenced in the court.

They sat near the fire in its circle of stones and watched. Prentiss became drowsy. He moved off a short distance, stretched out, and was quickly deep in an exhausted sleep.

There was an interval of quiet in the ceremonies and the three friends lit cigarets. They smoked lazily, luxuriously. The old man patted the foot of the baby, who with the elasticity of childhood had already completely forgotten his recent woes and was cooing happily at Elise's side, then glanced at the long trench near them, now black and covered with light ashes which occasionally drifted to them in the evening wind.

He shook his head in bewilderment. "You did it . . . er . . . Vilak. It's impossible. But you . . . er . . . yes . . . . did it. How?"

"Er . . . yes."

Vilak took a long puff. "Told you it was a trick. And an extraordinarily simple one. Just requires a little recognition of the laws of heat conductivity which you as a veteran scientist, mon cher, knew long before I was born and which the not so stupid shamans of the Asiatic islands have known for centuries."

He picked up a piece of the red lava rock near him. "Look at that. See how light and porous it is. You can easily perceive from its structure how the tiny air-spaces in it tend to make it immediately let go any heat it has and make it a wretched conductor so that it might be red hot on the bottom and at the same time be quite cool on top. Same principle as that physics experiment every high school youngster knows where the same water in a six-inch test tube is so cold at one end that it's frozen, and so hot at the other that it's turning into steam. Simply because water, like this lava, is a miserable heat conductor."

He paused to take a slow puff and let the smoke drift from his nostrils. "You'll notice that wherever fire-walking is practiced it's in regions where porous rock is either abundant or can be brought in from some neighboring section. It can't be done with the solider rocks like granite.

"This morning when I was going through that hocus-pocus of sprinkling blood over the fire and prodding the stones with the bloody spear—which was merely a sort of camouflage used by every shaman and every American sleight of-hand performer for that matter— I was really picking out rocks which because of shape or position were cooling quicker than the others and moving them about a bit so that they'd cool still more quickly. I kept up my hocus-pocus until there were enough so that I had a path all the way, and then simply walked across.

"Even had anyone suspected, which I was quite sure they wouldn't, the bits of branches and leaves I threw along the sides where the flames wouldn't touch me gave an appearance of terrific heat throughout which would have deceived the most expert. I scorched my feet a trifle in one or two places which I hadn't calculated perfectly, but that's the extent of my injuries."

They sat in silence again. The child began tugging at the strap of one of Elise's puttees. She caressed it, then glanced toward Prentiss, sleeping gauntly a few yards away. "What about . . . him?" she said, quietly.

Vilak flicked the ash from his cigaret. "Be all right in a few days. Had a long talk with him this afternoon, and got his whole story. Not nearly such a bad fellow as you thought him."

Her delicately molded face, grew puzzled. "How did he happen to be here? Why was Tinky here with him? Why did all these dreadful things happen?"

Vilak touched his watch-fob. "That, my cherished cousin. Gold. Money. The famous or infamous root of all evil. In this case there were two quite separate and distinct efforts to get wealth, which in the end came to one. One didn't concern you in the end, but did in the beginning. The other didn't concern you in the beginning, but did most emphatically before it was concluded."

"You're talking riddles. I don't know what you mean."

W.M.S. HOLDS LAWN SOCIAL

LAKEFIELD NEWS.

LAKEFIELD, July 20.—A successful afternoon tea and lawn social was held on the grounds of Mr. and Mrs. Gavin Preston on Thursday afternoon last under the auspices of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church. The grounds were decorated with Chinese lanterns which gave a festive note and in the evening glowed hospitably, givin ; a silent invitation to partake of ice cream and cake which were served them.

Tables were set under the trees and four young ladies, Misses Mollie Thomson, Hilda McKibbin, Mary Quinn and Lula Smith served tea and ice cream, sandwiches and cake.

The weather man did his best and the weather was all that could be desired.

The ladies in charge were: Mrs. J. W. Ridpath, president of the W.M.S., Mrs. J. M. Simpson, Mrs. McKibbin, Miss Millar and Miss Tanner. Rev. and Mrs. Ross were present and in their kindly manner welcomed the visitors. Others present who assisted included Mrs. Richard White, Mrs. Thomson, Mrs. Preston, Mrs. R. Garbutt, Miss McKibbin and Miss Preston.

Mr. Harry Wannamaker, who taught the Springville school last year had four pupils try the entrance examination, all passed, two with honours.

Mr. Wannamaker has been engaged on the staff of the public school in Lakefield, taking the place left vacant by Miss Simpson's resignation.

In the list of those who passed the entrance from the North Monaghan centre were the names of Ralph Hendren and Mary Hendren, children of Mr. and Mrs. George G. Hendren, formerly of Lakefield. Mary is only eleven years of age, having celebrated her birthday on May 16th. This item is of interest to Many friends in and about Lakefield. Master Donald Hendren obtained honours in passing the examination from Jr. 1st to Sr. 1st.

Friday, July 15th wa St. Swithin's Day. According to tradition it will rain for forty days if it rains on St. Swithin's Day. This year one of the heaviest downpours of the season continued throughout the morning.

Some members of the Salavtion Army Band of Peterborough motored to the village on Wednesday evening last and gave a very enjoyable open-air concert and service.

The Union Excu sion of the Regent street United Sunday school, Knox United Church Sunday school, and the Baptist Sunday school will be held on Thursday next per steamer "Stoney Lake" to Buckhorn. A softball game will be played and a good programme of sports will be run off.

Aged Citizen Honoured.

A very pleasant event took place on the afternoon of Tuesday, July 12th, when the family of Mr. Richard Darling gathered at the Lakefield Park with some old friends to celebrate his ninetieth birthday. Mr. Darling, who is extremely active in mind and body, was born on July 12th, 1837, and is deeply interested in life and in the village activities; he is a regular attendant of the Regent street United church, and is a well-known figure in the village where he moves briskly about, and on Christmas Day last he spent an hour or so sleigh-riding with his grandchildren on the Reid street hill.

Three sons, Messrs. David and Albert and Percy Darling, were present and two daughters, Mrs. J. Reid and Mrs. J. R. Northey were present. The only other surviving member of the family, Mr. Robert Darling, resides in Winnipeg, and was unable to be present at the happy event.

More than thirty sat down to a bountiful picnic tea and spent a pleasant social hour.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Albert Darling and sons, Stanley and Ralph, Mr. David Darling, Mr. and Mrs. J. Reid, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Northey and son, Gerald, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Darling and daughter, Grace, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Millage (nee Hazel Darling), Mrs. George H. Spence and children, Mrs. R. H. Little, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lemay, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Millage, Mrs. Purdy and Misses Mildred Purdy and Mary Webster and others.

Before the party broke up the guest of honour received many good wishes for still more years of usefulness and it was hoped that on July 12th, 1928 would see the party repeated.

Storm.

Lightning struck the house of Mrs. Thomas FitzGerald, occupied by Rev. J. and Mrs. Ross, on Wednesday afternoon during the thunder storm which raged for a short time in the late afternoon. The lightning struck the chimney, wrecking it, and passed through the furnace to the cellar floor which was torn up in spots. Mr. and Mrs. Ross were uninjured, but suffered from the shock.

A coaching class in connection with the Junior Institute will be held in Lakefield in the afternoons of July 20th and July 26th, with Miss Hopkins the instructor. The classes will be held at 2 o'clock in the afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. H. Payne, next door to the post office. Any young ladies who wish to take advantage of this opportunity will be made welcome, whether they belong to the Institute or not. This course will enable the girls to compete in the Peterborough Exhibition in the judging competitions, and is an excellent opportunity for the girls of Lakefield and the vicinity.

When the special train pulled out about eleven o'clock on Tuesday evening with the Orangemen who had gone to the "walk" in Bowmanville, and the Citizens' Band, the members of the local lodge although very tired were also very happy as they had won the banner given to the best equipped lodge represented. The banner was carried proudly in the march from the station to the lodge room. About fifteen of the juveniles, who had made the trip to Bowmanville by motor and had returned early in the ev ning, lined up with their seniors for their march to the lodge room.

JUBILEE ESSAYS

The Examiner is giving today the first prize winning essay in the Jubilee contest conducted by the Grafton Company. This was in the High School section and was written by Ethel Evans of Lang continuation school. The others will be printed in order.

Diamond Jubilee of Confederation.

We, as Canadians are called upon to celebrate this year the diamond jubilee of Confederation. We are asked to observe with all due pomp and ceremony the most important event in the life of Canada, the bringing together of a number of parts of our vast dominion and cementing them into a whole.

Before Confederation, this vast territory was called merely British North America, but on July 1st, 1867, under the leadership of Sir John A. Macdonald, the Dominion of Canada came into being. There were but four provinces willing to enter union, namely: Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, but, under Macdonald's leadership, the Dominion of Canada soon stretched from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

There is a legend that the title "Dominion" came from a suggestion by Tilley of a verse in the prophet Zechariah, "And His dominion shall be from sea to sea."

For many years our country was a vast unsettled country, but as time went on and Britain continued to send us her colonists it became imperative that we manage our own domestic affairs. That is the spirit which British people have always shown both at home and abroad. And it is because of this that British subjects and their descendants are among the most successful colonists of the world. A people given liberty to govern themselves will repay it with love and fidelity. Such has been the history of what we now call the Dominion of Canada.

Of course there have been at times causes of friction but we have realized that governments have not been formed in a day and that the basis of British connection is justice and fair treatment.

But this celebration is more than a stock-taking of ourselves after 60 years of confederation. In this year delegates from every part of our vast empire have met in London and declared themselves component parts of a united whole.

A jubilee is undoubtedly a time of rejoicing and merry-making, but may we not become so engrossed in the pleasure of it that we forget its significance, forget the toil and heartbreak of our forefathers, who struggled so nobly?

And we who are reaping the benefits of Confederation surely we have a duty also. Our task must be the developing of a united Canada. We must be equal to the glorious duty of developing a mightier Confederation.

As implied by its name a jubilee confederation is the sincere and happy meeting of people's diverse in origin but united now for one purpose. Thus it is with Canada—in fact the whole British Empire. The basis of such a confederation is neither gain nor conquest nor achievements of war, but the achievements of peace.

The future of the dominion rests with the people themselves. If their motto be, "We build", they have much to hope for. If religion be taken as the basis of all building Canada will be one of the greatest and best of all countries.

Notice to the Farmers of Otonabee

Whereas I have been appointed Weed Inspector for Otonabee under the Weed Control Act of 1927, and as it is too late in the season to visit every farm, I would kindly ask every farmer to help me out in eliminating this nuisance of Noxious Weeds in the Township as far as he is able during the remainder of the season. Every noxious weed destroyed this year will mean hundreds less next year.

Everybody do their bit.

Yours Respectfully,
JOHN J. MOORE.

ROTARY - Y.M.C.A. CAMP NEWS

Joyful news came to the boys' camp over the week-end in the announcement that a new engine is in sight for the pointer which will replace the camp Johnson until repairs are made on the latter. Whilst negotiating the channel at the mouth of Bell's Creek a shallow part was encountered which caused the casing of the driveshaft to snap.

For a week now the camp has been without a power-boat and thus the ranging power has been limited. However, the boys paddled to Juniper Island and have made almost daily trips to Kawartha Park. On Saturday they hiked along the shore to McCracken's Landing and had a swim.

Raspberries are ripening and a few of the boys have made the ourney to the berry-patch for a bowl of berries.

In the course of a few days, raspberry pie will be on the bill of fare. Ice-cream is made in camp two or three times a week. Needless to remark, there is no lack of volunteers to "turn the handle."

Swimming tests were held on Thursday afternoon with a good proportion of boy passing in each of the three grades.

Visitors to camp over the week-end included Messrs. A. L. Killally, Don Wood, B. L. Burns, P. L. Allison, John Ashmore, Vertle Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. Sloane, Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds.

Six-Year Old Prince Ascends Throne of Rumania

GUNS BOOMED FORTH SALUTE TO KING MICHAEL OF RUMANIA

Multitude Greet Six Year Old Monarch Who Has Ascended the Throne.

REGENTS APPOINTED.

Princess Mother Helen Labors Under Great Emotion During Ceremonies.

BUCHAREST, July 21.—(Canadian Press.)—One hundred and one guns boomed a salute to King Michael I. of Rumania at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, announcing to the assembled multitudes that the six year old monarch has ascended the throne.

A cortege composed of the Royal household, cavalry, the prefect of police and the marshal of the Royal court, preceding a royal conveyance bearing Prince Nicholas, the princess mother Helen, Princess Ileana and the little king himself, passed through the streets from Cotroceni Palace to the house of parliament at 3.30.

Within the building were the members of both houses, all the military and civil dignitaries and the members of the diplomatic corps. The Regents, Prince Nicholas, Patriarch Miron Cristen and Justice Buzdugan entered. They were followed by Princess Helen, who led His Majesty Michael I. (Mihai I) by the hand into the chamber of deputies.

Child Hesitates.

The little child hesitated, then halted, as if in verge of tears.

"Remember you are a king and the son of kings," his mother told him.

Straightening out his puny shoulders the little chap ascended the fifteen steps to the Royal Tribuna and gazed upon the assembled deputies and senators, professors and learned men with the greatest unconcern, never smiling. Then came the cheers.

The Princess mother Helen, dressed in deep mourning and wearing a heavy crepe veil, stood behind her child king. She was pale and evidently laboring under great emotion, but erect and queenly. Prince Nicholas was the first to take the oath, swearing to uphold the constitution, the rights of the Rumanian people and allegiance to King Michael. Meanwhile the little king was glancing about as if in fear.

Then as the patriarch followed with a similar oath, little Michael smiled. The patriarch seemed like a figure which had suddenly emerged from the Bible—long beard and stern features. He spoke in low dep voice, emphasizing the oath in a manner to show his realization of the importance he attached to the sacred moment. Justice Huzdugan's voice was scarcely audible.

Then Princess Helen, whose tears were discernible beneath her veil, led the child forward and out into his new kingdom. He was dressed in a white silk suit, black tie and patent leather slippers. He hugged his mother's arm closely as he filed past the cheering deputies and senators and as the cheers redoubled he clasped his mother's arm to his breast and pressed it to his heart.

"Let's go home, mamma I am hungry," one of the officers of the guards stationed near the entrance to the parliament later said were the first words of his youthful majesty after his inauguration.

Salutes Soldiers.

The little king heaved a sigh of relief as the ceremony terminated and the royal party withdrew. There were no cheers from the crowds which lined the approaches to the parliament buildings. They stood silent and bare-headed in the rain until the royal procession reached the Calle Victoria, where a company of soldiers presented arms and delivered a hearty cheer. The golden haired king appeared dismayed at first then with true regal demeanor arose in the carriage and saluted his soldiers.

"The king is dead, long live the king," the soldiers cried.

Regents Appointed.

Ferdinand the Just, the first king of Greater Rumania, died at 2:15 o'clock yesterday morning at Castelul Palace, Sinaia. Little Prince Michael, not yet six years old, under the tutelage of a regency, is ruler of the largest Balkan nation.

The regents, Prince Nicholas, Patriarch Miron Cristen and Supreme Court Justice G. V. Buzdugan, were officially sworn in before the National Assembly at four o'clock yesterday afternoon. The members of the House cheered long and loud the child King Michael, who accompanied by his mother, wife of former Prince Carol and a princess of Greece, stood stolidly at attention throughout the ceremony.

Carol Will Not Return.

Prince Carol, now at Neuilly, near Paris, who abandoned all hopes of the throne by his renunciation, January 4, 1926, has announced his intention not to return to Bucharest.

Ionel Bratiano, former premier and "strong man" of Rumania, holds the power. With the help of Queen Marie it is accepted that he will unquestionably be a dominating figure over the regency.

"I feel so tired," he said to Queen Marie, who held him in her arms in his dying moments, and then —his last words—"I feel no pain."

For many months Ferdinand has been in failing health. Renowned physicians of France, Belgium and Germany, after attending him last December, expressed the opinion that he might live one month or six.

SOUTHAMPTON, England, July 21 (A.P.).—Threatening weather in mid-Atlantic and the unsatisfactory results of gruelling tests which his flying boat "Whale" was subjected, has caused Capt. P. T. Courtney, the British aviator, to postpone his projected trans-Atlantic flight until Friday evening or Saturday morning.

The "Whale" was in the air for more than an hour last evening and landed in Southampton waters at low tide. The plane was moored to a buoy and Courtney and his crew had considerable difficulty in coming ashore.

As soon as Courtney landed he received a cablegram from the U. S. Weather Bureau announcing weather conditions over the Atlantic. It is understood that the wireless equipment on the plane is giving the aviator trouble.

"What a pity," said the pilot's wife, "I was hoping so much that you would get away tomorrow morning."

It was built by his uncle, King Carol, and at his own request Ferdinand will be buried beside his uncle and his aunt, Queen Elizabeth, better known to the world as Carmen Sylva.

Rumania's new King, Michael First, a flaxen haired boy of six, has already been installed before the National Assembly as Ferdinand's successor, and the Regency Council, which will act until Michael becomes eighteen years of age, was sworn in at the same time. All parties took the oath of allegiance to the new monarch. The Liberal Ministry, after the formality of tendering its resignation to the Regency Council, which rejected it, continued at the helm.

Educator Would Separate the Sheep From the Goats By Establishing Colleges for the Weaker Students

CHICAGO, July 21. —Separation of the sheep from the goats in educational institutions, whereby the weaker students or "castaways," would be instructed in colleges apart from those attended by the good students, may be the next step in modern education.

This suggestion, with the statement that the pace of a four-year college couree is far too hard for approximately fifty per cent of the freshmen who enter, came yesterday from President Walter G. Clippinger of Otterbein college.

A plea to cease "razzing" and "hazing" the freshmen was made by Mr. Clippinger, who declared that there is an opportunity in the first year to fire in individual "a passion for hard work and earnest endeavour and to set before him the objectives of the college course itself."

"It may sound spectacular," he said, "but it might not be amiss to establish an institution of learning for the castaways of the present standard colleges and universities, for an educational institution of high ideals cannot wholly ignore the weaklings, the rejected students."

Such a system would not only help the weaklings but it would be of particular advantage to the good student, President Clippinger said, as it would enable their instructors to work with them at a much greater speed than is now possible.

COMMERCIAL INTERESTS DICTATE BRITISH POLICY TOWARDS CHINA

FOUR PERIODS.

HONOLULU, July 20 (Canadian Press).—Great Britain's policy in regard to China has been "dictated primarily, if not solely, by commercial interest, declared Sir Frederick White, first president of the Indian Legislative Assembly, in addressing the representatives of ten Pacific nations at the Institute of Pacific Relations meeting here yesterday.

In a monograph called "China and foreign powers," Sir Frederick, who is chairman of the British group at the conference, outlined the relations of China to Great Britain and other foreign powers from early times to the present. He divided this historical survey into four periods:

Four Periods.

Chinese seclusion and foreign exclusion from early times to 1793;

The pamphlet is the chief contribution in research that Great Britain makes to the Honolulu conference. It has been published under the auspices of the Royal Institute of International Affairs.

Discussing the period of European aggression, Sir Frederick said: "The critical moment in this period is 1894 when China and Japan went to war over Korea. It is decisive because it set in motion the progress which brought China to the brink of partition by the development of 'spheres of influence,' leased territories and concessions."

Commercial Interests.

After detailing the various concessions and leases which Russia, Japan, Germany, Great Britain and France obtained before 1899 from China, he concludes: "Not only did the 'open door' seem closed forever, as the result of these operations, but the doctrine of 'spheres of influence' (or interest) looked like a mask of partition. President McKinley (United States) then inquired of the powers whether they adhered to the principle of the 'open door.' Great Britain assented to the principle without reserve, the other powers with qualifications, while Russia was evasive and hostile. The purpose of the United States was to secure public declarations, and with the achievement of that purpose, no further action was taken; but the powers had warning that a more or less disinterested party had taken note of their proceedings."

Japan's Policy.

Viewing Japan's earlier Imperial policy in perspective, Sir Frederick Whyte said that it was as justified as "the Imperial expansion of Great Britain across the seas, of Russia across Asia, or of the original Atlantic states of America in their Imperial conquest of the Mississippi valley and the Pacific coast."

Recent Events.

In the light of recent events in China Sir Frederick pointed out that in the Anglo-Chinese commercial treaty of 1902, negotiated by Lord Inchcape, "Great Britain undertook to relinquish the privileges of extra-territoriality if and when China put her house in order." This China did not do, but she did begin the reform of her laws.

Sir Freedrick made the point emphatic that the initiative for adding politics in the Pacific to the Washington conference of 1921-22 came from Great Britain, though the original idea of a disarmament conference came from the United States.

China a Beneficiary.

Of the achievements of the Washington conference, he said that China was the chief, and indeed a very large, beneficiary. Renunciation of territory or privilege was a low price to pay for an option on Chinese goodwill in future. With a stable government in power, or even in early prospect, in China, the Washington conference would almost certainly have been the open sesame to a new era in the Far East. This condition was absent, and Chinese instability brought the hopes of Washington to naught, or delayed their fulfillment for many years.

New Principles.

In his conclusion the British statesman frankly acknowledged the new principles at work among nations since the Great War. He said:

"The British memorandum of December 18th, 1926, seems to recognize the progress which China has made in the last quarter of a century in the arts of administration and in the reform and development of the judicial system. It seems to satisfy to the fullest extent, compatable with security, the aspirations of the Chinese to be master of their own house. It calls upon the powers to follow the British lead, abstain from interference for selfish ends, and give China a fair field in which to use her newly gained liberty, in the hope that she will seize the new opportunity and make good her claim to be a modern civilized state."

SMITH STARTS SEARCHING FOR FRENCH AIRMEN

Maintains That Nungesser and Coli Fell in Quebec Woods.

INDIAN GUIDES.

Black Flies and Rain Have Hampered Previous Expeditions Into Forest.

CHICOUTIMI, Que., July 21 (Canadian Press).—Declaring himself to be still convinced that traces of Nungesser and Coli, the French aviators who attempted on May 9 last to fly westward across the Atlantic, will yet be found in Northern Quebec, H. W. Smith, New York screen-news man, returned to Chicoutimi yesterday following a week's search of the district. He was accompanied by a confrere, L. O'Reilley, and two Indians, Gagnon and Bacon. It was Gagnon and Bacon who, several days ago, were credited with saying that they had not only seen but had actually touched a white aeroplane which was lying in the bush about a week's journey distant from Chicoutimi. Smith and O'Reilly set out with the Indians to reach this place on July 12, but apparently they had not found it, for yesterday none of them made any mention of this feature of their trip.

The expedition was hampered by warm weather, by black flies, by intermittent rains, winds and thunderstorms.

"I persist in believing that Nungesser and Coli fell in the woods here and that they will be found some day," said Mr. Smith.

SEEKING SLAYER AT PORT CREDIT

Toronto Police Investigate Rumors That Duncan Was Seen There.

ASKED EMPLOYMENT.

PORT CREDIT, July 21.—Toronto detectives were here last night in consultation with Constable W. H. Rutledge for the purpose of sifting reports that Harry Duncan, the Tennesee killer and desperado, who broke jail in Toronto, had been seen in this neighborhood.

From three different sources Duncan is reported by persons who identified his picture as having been seen on the Mississauga Road north of here during the last few days.

One farmer named Wells is reported to have told Constable Rutledge that a few days ago a stranger came to his farm and asked for work. He was not particular about wages, said Wells, who further stated that the stranger had a scar over his eye and tattoo marks on the back of his hand.

The stranger carried a revolver in his hip pocket, Wells observed when the former stooped down. Shown a picture of Duncan, Wells said: "That's the man!"

The mail carrier on the Mississauga Road is also reported to have identified Duncan's picture with that of a man he had noticed on his route. Another farmer is said to have described seeing a man whose description tallied with that of the other two.

Many of the ancients possessed great riches. Crocsus owned property estimated to have been worth $6,000,000. Seneca's fortune was about $14,000,000 and the estate of Tiberius amounted to $150,000,000.

JUNIOR FARMER S' FIELD DAY AT PRESQU'IL E IS SUCCESSFUL

Attendance Small Because of Press of Farm Work, But Enthusiasm Great.

MANY CONTESTS.

Hastings County Carries Away Cup For Gaining Most Points in Sports.

PRESQU'ILE, July 21. — The adage, "Make hay while the sun shines," was no doubt responsible for the limited attendance at the Junior Farmers' Field Day at Presqu'ile yesterday. But what the Junior Farmers lacked in numbers was more than compensated for in the enthusiasm of those present, who had finished their haying, or who had placed their trust in Providence for a continuation of a cloudless sky.

The District Representatives of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, responsible for the success of the day, were early on the field, with well laid plans, which made possible the running off of all the many events without a hitch. R. S. Duncan of Toronto, was the able director; W. H. Smith of Brighton, was the busy assistant to Mr. Duncan; A. P. MacVannol of Picton, was the clear-voiced announcer, Professor Sissons, as starter, saw to it that a prolonged pause was made between the words "Ready" and "Go," in spite of the earnest pleadings of of the fair ones toeing the scratch that he make it "snappy." C. F. Patterson of Port Hope, and Wm. M. Croskery of Uxbridge, were responsible for the proper keeping of the records of the events.

Ray Atkin, Stirling; F. C. MacRae, Alexandria, and Ralph Morden of the Y.M.C.A., Belleville, as umpires, gave unquestioned decisions when their office called upon them to do so. The local committee to whom much of the success of the day was due, were the following: Walter H. Smith, Leslie Campbell, Max Harndon, Ray Atkin, Russell Hubble, A P. MacVannoll, Roy Atkin, Russell Hubble, A. P. MacVannoll and Sherman Habbitt. J. B. Nelson, agricultural representative for Peterborough, saw that the names of those wishing to enter the different events were duly recorded.

Representatives of seven counties fought hard throughout the day for the large silver cup awarded each year to the county gaining the greater number of points in the standard sports of the day. This year the cup goes to Hastings county, that county through its" representative having rolled up the colossal number of 69 points. The points made by the other counties were as follows: Prince Edward 33; Lennon and Addington 23; Northumberland 14; Durham 6; Peterboro 5.

The "high boy" was J. Danforth of Hastings, with 15 points to his credit; and the 'high girl" was Miss Ellen Card of Odessa, who came out of the hard day's grind with 11 points.

Boys' standing broad jump: J.Danforth, Springbrook, Hastings.

Boys' running high jump: Allan Meiklejohn Stirling.

Shot put: F. Calnan, Vernonville, Northumberland.

Boys, 220 yard dash: Wilfred Lane, Cressy.

Girls' 100-yard dash—Miss Irene Bailey, Stirling.

Boys' relay, won by Prince Edward County.

Girls' relay, won by Prince Edward County.

A beautiful silver medal, with the following inscription, was presented to each of the winners in the different events: "Quinte Junior Farmers' Field Day, Presqu'ile, July 20, 1927."

The softball games, which were numerous throughout the day, and well on into the evening, were of a decidedly high quality. They were snappy throughout, and the Peterboro (6th Line) girls are past masters in the art of swat, and richly deserved the silver cup they carried home with them. Starting early in the morning, the 6th Liners defeated Lennox and Addington by a score of 8-12. They then tackled Victoria County, defeating the young ladies from there in a 19-6 score.

The men's softball games resulted in a win for Hastings after a hard struggle with Prince Edward and Northumberland. In the game with Prince Edward, the score was 18-3 in favor of Hastings, and in the game with Northumberland, the result was 12-8 in Hastings' favor. The Hastings-Northumberland line-up was as follows:

Hastings—Smith, p; Danforth, c; Hume, 1b; Frazer, 2b; Warren, 3b; Brown, ss; Carlyle, rf; Burkett, cf; G. Broadworth, lf; subs, Hazlett and K. Broadworth.

J. Laughland of Napanee was the official score-keeper.

In the Northumberland-Hastings game, Hastings got 12 runs in the first innings. The standard games played were seven innings. Victoria County young ladies got away early, taking the only record of their line-up with them.

In the evening an exhibition softball game was put on by Hastings and Northumberland girls. A large crowd witnessed the game, and were well repaid for waiting to see it. While there were many novel stunts pulled off, the feature of the game was the catching of a fly by Hastings centre fielder, the catcher being knocked over by another player and yet retaining her hold on the ball. The following is the line-up of this exhibition game:

Hastings—P. Shea, p; M. Hulm, c; T. Heath, 1b; I. Bailey, 2b; W. McInroy, 3b; B. McGee, ss; E. McInroy, cf; L. Mason, rf; L. McConnell, lf.

Northumberland—J. Dick, p; L. Poole, c; G. Smith, 1b; M. Poole, 2b; L. Lean, 3b; N. Greenley, ss; L. Isaac, cf; M. McDonald, rf; I. Bone, lf; subs M. Lonergan and E. Partridge.

Score, 15-12 in favor of Hastings.

The dancing pavilion was well patronized, and many of the younger folk kept cool in the waters of Lake Ontario.

The deceased lady was held in the highest esteem by all who knew her. She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thurston of Dunsford, and following in the footsteps of her worthy parents, she was an ardent church worker, particularly in the Women's Missionary Society.

The funeral, which was held on Sunday afternoon, was one of the largest in this vicinity for some time. The service was conducted by the Rev. R. F. Stillman, of Norwood (formerly of Omemee), assisted by the Rev. E. W. Rowland of Trinity United Church.

Many beautiful floral offerings graced the casket, telling in their own mute way of the love and esteem in which Mrs. Kennedy was held.

Interment was made in the family plot in Emily cemetery.

Left to mourn the untimely passing of a loving wife and mother is a sorrowing husband and four children, Mrs. E. Windrim, Myrtle; Reta, Cecil and Delamere at home; also her stepmother, Mrs. Henry Thurston, of Dunsford; two sisters, Mrs. James Bryan and Mrs. Robert Bryan, of Dunsford; also three brothers, T. J. Thurston of Dunsford, Stanley of Bobcaygeon, and Herbert of Saskatchewan, to whom the sympathy of a wide circle of friends is extended.

ICEBERG USED AS AN OASIS BY FISHERMEN

Two Newfoundland Men Adrift Without Water For Eleven Days.

MEN EMACIATED.

Cut Off in Their Dory While Tending Lines Near Grand Banks.

GRAVESEND, England, July 21 (A.P.).—An iceberg in mid-Atlantic was an oasis to two Newfoundland fishermen adrift without drinking water for eleven days in a small boat. The steamer Albuera, which rescued them, landed the emaciated men here yesterday.

George May and Charles Williams, of the crew of the fishing schooner Donald A. Creaser from Nova Scotia, were cut off in their dory while tending their lines off the Grand Banks. When the fog lifted the schooner had gone. They had one day's food and no water. Three oars were washed away the first day, and the fourth and last oar the second day. On the fifth day they bumped into an iceberg and got water, but were unable to store it. After six more days, near death from thirst and exhaustion, they were picked up by the Abuera. They are now in hospital.

OLD MASTERS

Moan, moan, ye dying gales!
The saddest of your tales
Nor have ye e'er began
A theme so wild as man,
Or with such sorrow rife.

Fall, fall, thou withered leaf!
Autumn sears not like grief,
Nor kills such lovely flowers:
More terrible the storm,
More mournful the deform,
When dark misfortune lowers.
—Henry Neale: Moan, Moan, Ye Dying Gales.

The telephone system in Japan is so far in arrears that an applicant has to wait ten to fifteen years to have an instrument installed. Parents often apply for a telephone in the name of one of their children, as an investment, figuring that, when the child receives the instrument, he will be about ready to set up in business on the substantial sum he can receive by selling the telephone to some one who is willing to pay good cash to avoind waiting.

Add Richness to Plain Foods

Two Sizes—Tall and Small

The Label is Red and White

MANY foods which appear on our daily menus lack essential food value which we need. Many valuable foods do not appear on our menus because they lack flavor.

Carnation Milk meets both problems. It adds richness to "starved foods". It adds flavor such as you can get in no other way.

For Carnation is just pure, fresh milk evaporated to double richness, kept safe by sterilization. Undiluted, it takes the place of cream at one-third the cost. Diluted, it gives finer results in all cooking. Order several tins or a case of 48 tins from your grocer.

RECOUNT IS UNDERTAKEN IN WINNIPEG

50,000 VOTERS.

First Time in City's History of Proportional Representation Figures Challenged.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 21.— The stupendous task of recounting all ballots cast by the electorate of Winnipeg, in the Povincial general elections of June 28, will be undertaken at the instance of J. Kensington Downs, Independent candidate.

Mr. Downs who was a member of the last legislature, was the eleventh in the standing of the 25 candidates at the close of the final count under the proportional representation system of voting. Winnipeg is represented by ten members in the House and in his application for a re-count Mr. Downs contends that a number of ballots thrown out by the returning officer would have assured his election.

The re-count, which invloves approximately 50,000 ballots, will start Monday morning under the supervision of Judge T. J. Cory of the Manitoba county court.

This marks the first time election figures have been challenged in Winnipeg since proportional representation was inaugurated about ten years ago.

DENNE FEED STORE RECALLS OLD TIMES

Name Has Been Associated With Growth of City Since 1856.

Many years ago to be exact, in the year 1856 Henry Denne commenced operations in the Blythe Mills in Peterborough. A few years after that he moved to what was called the City Mills situated on the corner of King and Water streets, the firm then being Denne and Glover, which was afterwards changed to Denne and Sperry.

Following this came his son T. H. G. Denne, who conducted a grain and seed business on Charlotte street, in a store which was part of what is now the Empress Hotel.

Just twenty-five years ago Roland Denne took over the business from his brother, who had moved to 338 George street, and has conducted the business in this location until this month, when he has moved to his own store, at 344 Water street, and his large warehouse at 111 Simcoe street, phone No. 160.

Mr. Denne wishes to thank those who have been his patrons during the past quarter of a century and to assure them that he will appreciate the continuance of this patronage in his new stand, where he is better able to take care of their wants.

GLORIOUS GOODWOOD BRINGS GREAT RACES

British Society Will Turn Out in Force to Watch Two-Year-Olds.

Goodwood, Eng., July 21 Canadian Press. — "Glorious Goodwood" the most exclusive race meeting of the whole season—opens on July 26 and closes July 29. There are two classes of races at Goodwood which contribute to make it one of the most popular meets of the year. These are the important races which bring out the best thoroughbreds on the turf—the Steward's Cup Goodwood Cup, Goodwood Plate and Chesterfield stakes. Then there is the prominence accorded the two year olds, who next year will be racing for the Derby and other classics. Generally speaking the juveniles pointed for the classics first appear at Ascot, and when they reappear at Goodwood the sportlovers are out in force to see if the youngsters live up to first promises.

One two year old has already been selected by sporting writers as the colt to be watched in the great two-year-old race late in the season and the classics of next year. He is Lord Derby's Fairway by Phalaris out of Scapa Flow, and a full brother of the great Pharos. It may be true that Fairway looks outstanding merely because the rest of the two-year-olds are under average.

Fairway won the Coventry stakes at Ascot in fine style, and was easily the best of the two year olds that raced then. After him in order of merit in the two year old realm at this time are placed Lord Derby's Pharamond, a Phalaris colt; Lord Rosebery's San Marino, a Spion Kop colt; Hakim, by Honora, winner of the New Stakes; Philharmonic, another Phalaris colt; and Speyside by Spion Kop. Of the fillies, the Queen Mary Stakes' winner, Stadacona, is considered little better than Scuttle, a Captain Cuttle filly beaten in that Ascot race.

These two year olds are nominated to race at Goodwood when it is expected that they will shake down into something like their actual values. Then they enter the late season two year old campaign, the most important part of the year for the juveniles whose development is always slowed down by the Jockey Club.

The Steward's Cup is one of the greatest sprins of the season, and greatest sprints of the season, and Meet. It is for three year olds and upward. One dashing three year old who will oppose the handicap horses is C. W. S Whitburn's colt Adam's Apple the winner of the first classic, the Two Thousand Guineas. Adam's Apple uncorked a dazzling burst of speed to win the Newmarket race this spring and his reappearance in a high class field promises to be interesting.

The Steward's Cup is a handicap of six furlong's for the cup and $6,000, and is 88 years old. The Goodwood Plate is over a distance of 2 miles and 3 furlongs, attracting the great stayers; and the third of the famous Goodwood Trio, the Goodwood Cup, is even longer, 2 miles 5 furlongs and the oldest of the three, being first run in 1812.

SOFTBALL GAME RESULTS IN TIE

Deloro and Marmora Play a 15-All Game—Called in Ninth.

MARMORA, July 21.—The first men's softball game seen in Marmora for some years was played on the grounds of the Agricultural Society on Tuesday evening between teams representing Marmora and Deloro, and resulted in a tie, the score being 15-15. It was the second meeting of the teams, Manager Mumley's lads tasting defeat last week on their own ground by the large score of 23-10. Since then the Deloroists have tried to improve themselves, and Tuesday's result is a fair reflection of the evenness of play. Each team having fans in plenty to witness the encounter occasioned an attendance of almost two hundred. The battle was waged the full extent of nine innings, and was only called then by Umpire Boudreau on account of darkness. For the first three innings Deloro showed a slight superiority over their opponents, and by good fielding and hitting, led at the end of the third by 3-1. Jack Brady, Marmora's manager, who had been pitching for his team, then gave way to McGrath for a couple of innings, only to have Deloro register four times in the fourth. A series of errors by Deloro in this frame and a few good hits brought the homesters a welcome bunch of seven runs. Abrams, the visiting pitcher, was rested in the sixth and seventh, to return to the mound in the eighth, Murray hurling for those two innings Brooks of Deloro effected brilliant catches in the third and seventh innings. The teams fielded as follows:

Deloro—G. Brooks, lf; F. Gray, ss; W. Kerr, 3b; J. Hemphill, 1b; J. Ethier, 2b; N. Doyle, cf; W. Simmons, rf; R. Murray, c, p; H. Abrams, p, c; J. McCrodan, 3b.

Marmora—H. Brady, 2b, c; O. Trumble, rf; J. Clairmont, c; C. Brady ss; A. Lalonde, 1b; E. Brady, 3b; B. Wright, lf; J. Brady, p, c; M. McGrath, cf, p; T. Cousins, ss; H. Auger 1b.

Score by innings:

BAILIEBORO WINS FROM PORT HOPE

Winners Score Twice in Last Innings to Capture Game.

BAILIEBORO, July 21.—On Thursday evening, the "Beavers" ball team from Port Hope played a game of ball with the Bailieboro nine. As in former games, the closely matched teams struggled from start to finish to gain an advantage.

Bailieboro started with a two-run lead and gained two more runs in the third inning. With steady pitching by Deyell and good support from the infield the visitors were held scoreless for the first three innings. In the fourth the Beavers scored two runs, and in the first of the fifth scored three more to put them in the lead. However, in Bailieboro's last turn at the bat they scored two more runs to win the game by 6–5.

Wade started on the mound for the visitors but was replaced in the third by Wakely. Philips' clever base-running was a feature of the game.

After the game, the crowd adjourned to the Anglican church for a strawberry supper.

Score by innings:

Beavers	0 0 0 2 3—5
Bailieboro	2 0 2 0 2—6

Keen's Popular Recipes for Summertime

People should eat sparingly of heavy dishes during the warm summer days. Salads, fresh vegetables, dainty sandwiches, cheese toasts, devilled eggs, tomatoes and other light, but nourishing foods please the palate and lessen the burden on your digestion.

The following recipes will help to make meals more appetizing. Clip them for future reference.

HOT CHEESE DREAMS

½ lb. American cheese or 1½ cups grated; 1 tablespoon melted butter; ½ cup milk; ½ teaspoon Keen's Mustard; ¼ teaspoon paprika; 1 teaspoon salt; 1 egg:

Mix all the ingredients together into a smooth paste. Spread between slices of bread. Fry the sandwich in butter in a frying pan until nicely browned on both sides. This filling may be prepared and kept indefinitely. A slice of bacon may be used as a garnish.

TOASTED CHEESE SANDWICH

Prepare a filling as for hot cheese dreams, but toast sandwich on both sides.

FRENCH DRESSING

½ cup oil; 2 tablespoons vinegar; 1 teaspoon paprika; 1 teaspoon powdered sugar; ½ teaspoon Keen's Mustard; 2 teaspoons salt; dash cayenne:

Place all of the ingredients in a bottle or cruet, chill, shake vigorously just before serving. A little onion juice, garlic or Worcestershire sauce may be added if desired.

DEVILLED TOMATOES

3 large tomatoes; 2 tablespoons butter; 1 egg yolk; 1 teaspoon Keen's Mustard; 1 tablespoon vinegar; ¼ teaspoon salt; few grains pepper:

Cut the tomatoes in half and over the cut surface of each half spread the butter mixed to a paste with the other ingredients. Bake half an hour in a moderate oven.

OLIVE AND NUT SANDWICHES

Chop finely an equal quantity of olives and nuts and add to it a good mayonnaise made with Keen's Mustard. Spread this preparation between slices of well buttered brown bread and a leaf of lettuce.

NEW MAYONNAISE

Give your mayonnaise a new zest by adding 1½ level teaspoons Keen's Mustard for each egg yolk, blending them before you add the salad oil. For boiled dressing allow 1 level teaspoon Keen's Mustard to each egg yolk.

SAMOA LONELY BUT DELIGHTFUL

MUSICAL PROGRAMME.

A varied entertainment was presented at the Chautauqua tent yesterday, in the first morning programme for the children, the concert by the Casford Concert Company in the afternoon and the musical selections by the same trio in the evening, preluding the lecture-entertainment, "Songs and Stories of South Seas" by the aged raconteur, Mr. Wherahiko Rawei. The story of Samoa and its islands, as told by this man of seventy-seven years of age, proved a fascinating tale and held a large audience intent on the speaker's words for nearly an hour and a half last night.

Dr. Rawei, who was born in New Zealand, was adopted by an English lady who wished to educate a native to go among the natives of the islands and help them. He was educated in Rugby and Cambridge, in England, and then given six years' tuition as a physician and surgeon, to return later to the Samoan Islands and spend the major portion of his life there. For the past five years, he has been touring the Chautauqua circuit, and expects to terminate his contract on November 30th, and return to his island home, where his wife and little grandchildren "watch anxiously" for his coming.

A man of large figure, with much bushy white hair, a white moustache and dark eyes, he appeared last night in native dress, with a fringed shoulder shawl. His voice is strong and resonant, and his address is imbued with sincerity and an evident passionate love for, and absorption in, the stroy of the islands of the Polynesian Archipelago, lying isolated from the world, twenty-two hundred of them, with seven under the rule of the Union Jack, in a southwest corner of the mighty Pacific Ocean.

"Life in the Samoan Islands" was the subject chosen by this Polynesian raconteur, coming in to the strains of "My Island of Golden Dreams," sung off stage, and speaking in a tropical island setting. A description of the primitive dress of the natives, the "hula hula" dress of the islands, made famous by Hawaiian musicians and dancers, was given, and Dr. Rawei waxed very enthusiastic over the discovery by a native women, about a hundred years ago, of a wood fibre which could be transmuted into clothing. The bark of native trees, pounded by a war club and excised by a stone chisel, is used for this purpose, the lecturer showing many examples of the beautifully woven cloth made in this fashion and decorated in conventional patterns with the juice of wild berries, applied with grass-fibre brushes. Another long piece of white cloth, made from a jungle plant, was rolled up into the compass of Dr. Rawei's hands, to show how silky and fine was its texture.

All travelling on these islands is done by canoe, from place to place, the impentrable jungle forbidding land journeying. The villages are built on river banks and the education of the children goes on in outdoor schools under the tall palms which waft gentle breezes over the scholars. These same children, when educated in English, develop a curious avidity for knowledge which is almost insatiable. Dr. Rawei illustrated the shrewdness of the youthful pupils by stories of his own little grandchildren.

The food supply is abundant and leaves the natives nothing to worry over. They have the fresh cocoanut milk, the beneficent breadfruit tree, bananas, yams, guava and mango in great quantities, while the supply of fresh fish is never ending.

Wonderful Echo.

The raconteur dwelt at some length on the marvellous echo in these islands, where lack of noise, as civilized peoples know it, renders even the slightest whisper recognizable in the echo which sends it back and forth among the tall trees. The lecture concluded with a reference to the changed character of the natives, since "the teacher men," the missionaries and teachers of the white people, have come among them and brought the message of Christianity which has altered their savage bloodthirsty ways and head-hunting proclivities to more gentle modes of life.

Dr. Rawei paid a very eloquent tribute to the wonderful work done by the missionaries and their helpers. "It is due to the presence on most of these islands of a minister and a teacher that you white people are now enabled to go among these people in security," he said. He alluded briefly to Robert Louis Stevenson, who spoke of "the marvellous fascination of these islands," and spent the last four years of his life there, after his aimless quest in many lands for health which had forsaken him on his native heath.

Musical Programme

The music furnished during the afternoon and evening by the trio comprising the Casford Concert Company, in Miss Fern L. Casford, pianist and elocutionist; Miss Winifred Casford, violinist and soprano solist, and Miss Byrne Smith, harpist, was excellent. These three young ladies are talented musicians and their programme of music and readings and impersonations was received with much applause.

Their numbers during afternoon and evening, when they formed the prelude for the lecture, included trio instrumental renditions of the lovely "Meditation" from the opera "Thais," by Massenet; an arrangement by Rubenstein of an old German song, and the "Dance of the Wooden Shoe." A violin and harp rendition of Macdowell's "To a Wild Rose," was played; and the violin and piano gave Kreisler's "Midnight Bells' an'd "Forsaken," with an encore in an arrangement of an old negro camp-meeting song. The harpist played "Beautiful Memories," "The Dance of The Wooden Doll," and "Song Without Words."

With harp accompaniment, in old-time costume, was sung "Michael Moriaty" and a dainty encore, and two lovely renditions were in costume by the trio. One was gowned in Spanish style, with colorful frocks, high combs and flowing lace mantillas, the trio playing some of the haunting music of old Castile, and finishing with the "Spanish Serenade." A lovely conclusion to the afternoon programme was the old-fashioned music played by the trio, dressed in Elizabethan style, with pointed bodices, panniers and high neck ruffs, playing in unison "Passefried," the Pizzicato Polka from "Sylvia," and Beethoven's "Minuet."

The readings and impersonations were splendidly rendered, in forceful, dramatic fashion, their recital colored by the vibrant, throaty voice of the reader. "The Mason Family Entertains," a tabloid of real life, was the first offering, followed later by Service's "It's a Mighty Good World After All," and a lengthy, finely-drawn picture in words of Fannie Hurst's story, "Humoresque," depicting the life of the Cantor family in the Ghetto of New York, and the rise of Leon Cantor to fame through his violin and his playing of the "Humoresque," "that laugh on life."

In the evening, Ellis Parker Butler's story of Mike Murphy and the Governor ("Whistle Britches") was given, and received much applause.

Yesterday morning, the children had a special entertainment, in Ralph Gordon's popular programme of cartoon work, impersonations and slight of hand magic.

Today sees the conclusion of the Chautauqua programme for this year, with morning, afternoon, and evening sessions. Tonight, Vierra's Hawaiians offer their original musical production, always a popular event, as a period to five days of splendid entertainment. This year's Chautauqua has proven to be one of the most interesting of the series offered here during past seasons.

Bad Weather Reports Cause Rise in Wheat

CHICAGO, July 21. — (Canadian Press.)— Wheat developed firmness early to-day after initial downturns. Reports of unfavorable weather in Europe and of storm damage in Canada were bullish factors. Opening unchanged to ½c. off, wheat later scored moderate gains all around. Corn, oats and provisions were likewise firmer, cron starting unchanged to 5-8 cent up and then reacting somewhat but subsequently showing a general advance.

Opening prices were: Wheat, July 1.42¾, September 1.38 3-8. Corn, July 99¼, September 1.04⅝. Oats, July 44¼, September 44¼.

Toronto Exchange Dull; Unlisted Stocks Feature

TORONTO, July 21. Canadian Press. — The listed section of the market on the Toronto stock exchange to-day was practically featureless. Trading was light, though the market assumed a broader aspect.

Amulet of the unlisted department was an outstanding feature. Transactions in this issue reached nearly 4,000 shares, and the final sale at 3.44 showed a gain of 34 points. Northern Bakeries was active and stronger at 31 7-8, a gain of 5-8.

Industrial Alcohol was the only feature of the listed issues. It was fairly active and up 1-8 at 32 7-8. Massey-Harris common sold down ¼ to 38 while the preferred gained 1-8 to 190. International Nickel was weak, declining ½ to 61¼. City Dairy was firmer at 126 while Abitibi gained ¼ to 100¼. The distillery stocks were all fractionally weaker. G. and W. down 7-8, at 51, was the weak spot.

Stock Prices Go Up As Call Money Goes Down

NEW YORK, July 21 Canadian Press. — Stock prices made a further recovery in to-day's market, with buying stimulated by a reduction in the call money rate from 4 to 3½ per cent Such profit taking as came into the market by the cautionary advices of some of the large commission houses, was well absorbed.

The captain and second officer of the vessel were wounded. Naval aid has been send. The Solviken is a 2,396 ton steamer built in 1910.

NEWEST WAR MACHINE IS TRIED OUT IN TORONTO.

The newest war machine, a device for use in the training of riflemen and artillerymen in accurate marksmanship, was demonstrated to officers of the Canadian garrison at Toronto by Brig-Gen. Lamont, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O. The "flash spotter," invented by Gen. Lamont is an electrical device which projects on to any target a spot of light indicating the exact spot where the bullet or shell will strike: and in this way is expected greatly to increase the accuracy of army marksmen. The light which it casts is visible both by day and night. In the photographs ABOVE, the officers are shown inspecting a field gun and also a rifle, each equipped with the device. Gen. Lamont is shown with his hand resting on the wheel of the field gun, and in the other picture, holding the rifle.

PARK PEOPLE SEEKING LIGHT

Will Hold Meeting on Monday Night To Discuss Question.

FARMERS INVITED.

The advisability of relaying electric light current to Chemong Park, will be considered at a meeting on Monday evening at eight o'clock, in the Foresters' Hall, Bridgenorth.

This matter of wiring the summer homes of the cottagers to give them the convenience of electric light, has been a moot question for many years. Discussion with regard to it has at last come to a head and arrangements are being made to bring the current out to the park, if possible. It is necessary in order to do this, to have three signatures per mile of farmers or residents along the Chemong Road, before the Hydro Electric Power Commission will consider the question at all.

It is hoped therefore that a large number of the people living along the road, and the farmers in the vicinity, as well as the cottagers at the park, will be present at the meeting. Gordon S. Matthews, president of the Chemong Park Cottagers' Association, and also a member of the Peterboro Utilities Commission, will be present and has promised to bring down from Toronto, if possible, one of the Hydro Commission's engineers, to attend the meeting, and give information along the lines of power transmission.

LIMBS SEVERED BOY SUCCUMBS

Hamilton Boy Dies Soon After Accident at Railway Switch.

CLOSE TO HIS HOME.

HAMILTON, Ont., July 21.—Both legs and his right arm severed within a few inches of his body, little Leslie Staples, Elgin and Kelly Streets, is dead in the General Hospital. The rear wheel of an engine tender backed over the boy in the Ferguson Avenue yards about dusk last night as he was taking a short cut to his home. The family had just moved from 17 Elgin Street yesterday and the boy was within sight of his home when the accident occurred. His right foot became caught in a switch frog and he struggled to release his boot as the engine bore down upon him.

Hearing screams when the grinding wheels reached him, Engineer William Stewart jammed on the brakes and while the big engine was brought to a sudden stop the wheels did not lock until after the limbs had been cut off. The engineer jumped to the ground and picked up the unconscious form in his arms. When the body was taken from under the tender the legs and arms were seen to remain on the road bed. Neighbors called the ambulance and rushed the little fellow to the General Hospital.

With Engineer Stewart in charge of the engine were Marshall Petty, fireman; A. Tufford, yard foreman, and two brakemen whose names were not learned.

The boy spent the early part of the evening at the Wellington Street playgrounds and it was 7.40 o'clock when he started across the yards for home. He was only 40 feet from his home when his foot caught in the frog. Apparently he tried to work the member loose himself, for no one heard cries for help until the engine wheels caught him.

Explaining how his right arm was caught, it was stated that he was in a stooped position, using his right arm to tug at his foot, trying to get it free.

CABINET SHIFT SEEN IN CHOICE OF MINISTERS

CHANGES PREDICTED.

Liberals Believe Changes Are To Be Made—Denial For Tories.

LONDON, July 21 (United Press).—A piquant situation has arisen through the Cabinet's decision that Sir Austen Chamberlain will head the Government during the absence of Premier Baldwin in Canada, while Winston Churchill assumes leadership of the Conservative party in the House of Commons. Hitherto it has been regarded that the Chancellor of the Exchequer was the nominal successor to the Prime Minister, despite the fact that the Foreign Office is held to be the highest post in importance next to the Premiership. Naturally all politicians are excited by the preference shown the Foreign Secretary and some regard the appointment as meaning that if Premier Baldwin were to go, Sir Austen would become the next Premier.

The Liberals are exploiting the strange situation to their own advantage, while the Daily Chronicle, now committed to Lloyd George's views, predicts Cabinet changes in the near future. In this connection it suggests that Viscount Cave may resign so that the Earl of Birkenhead might return to the Lord Chancellorship, thus leaving the India Office open. Such a move, however, is discounted in Tory circles.

Meanwhile the Cabinet is busy clearing up arrears owing to Mr. Baldwin's visit to Canada. This evening it will deal fully with the naval position at Geneva, Rt. Hon. W. C. Bridgeman, Viscount Cecil, and Admiral Jellicoe, the principal British delegates to the tri-partite conference, having returned to London.

The Prince of Wales, with Prince George, who will accompany him to Canada at the end of this month, and Prince Henry, in Hussar uniform, are shown ABOVE on the jetty at Portsmouth waiting to greet their brother, the Duke of York, and his duchess on their return from their Australian visit. Portsmouth tendered a rousing welcome to the Duke and Duchess.

CHAIN RED & WHITE STORES

Why Is It

THAT WE LIKE TO DEAL AT A LARGE STORE?

As a rule the large stores are cleaner and tidier. They are more up-to-date; they carry a better assortment of fresh goods; they are systematic; their greater buying power makes a better price possible.

But the larger stores are usually grouped together in one section of the City and many find it more convenient to deal at the smaller store close by.

The "Red & White" plan has changed all this; they have given you all the advantages of the larger stores right in your own neighborhood. Our stores are near by; they are clean, with fresh groceries of the finest quality; we use the best methods of buying and distributing our products. Large or small, all our stores give you the convenience, service, quality and price that satisfies.

EDUCATIONISTS TO GET MILLION

Reported That Hollywood Millionaire Will Endow World Federation.

TORONTO, July 21 (Canadian Press).—It is reported here that Raphael Herman, Hollywood, Calif., will endow the World Federation of Education Associations, which will convene here August 7 to 12, with the sum of at least a million dollars as soon as that body is legally incorporated and authorized to hold trust funds. The Federation is an international organization and it has not yet been decided in what country incorporation will be sought. The Herman Fund will be devoted to the promotion of internationalism through education.

ACTION IS NEEDED.

Protests over the condition of Chemong road are becoming so heated that before long some echo at least must reach the ears of the Highways Department.

The greater portion of the road has been under the jurisdiction of the Ontario Government for some weeks, and the Highways Department is the only body from whom relief can be looked for and by whom repairs can be instituted.

Traffic along this highway is reaching its peak, and while the conditions are bad enough in the case of local citizens, the effect so far as tourist traffic is concerned is likely to be serious if nothing is done to improve the road surface.

Every motor tourist who drives over the Chemong road at the present time goes away with a firm conviction not only to avoid it in the future but to tell all his friends to do so.

Tourist trade is not encouraged by such conditions, and the department should be urged to remedy the situation before serious harm is done to the reputation of the district in regard to roads.

INVERLEA PARK.

An out-of-town visitor to Inverlea Park was so much impressed by the sight of hundreds bathing there yesterday that he sought a photograph of the beach in order to show the Council of his home city what an asset such a place is to a community.

His appreciation of Inverlea goes to show that while the local bathing facilities are far from perfect, they are much better than are available in some other centres, and for that condition it is well to be grateful.

To hundreds of citizens Inverlea Park, with its beach and its cool shade, is a source of daily delight during the summer months.

At the same time the place should be developed by a programme of yearly improvements.

Much could be done to improve the conditions of the river-bed in the section used by non-swimmers and by small children.

A raft furnished with a diving tower would supply older bathers with constant amusement.

Better ventilation and more sanitary conditions should be instituted in connection with the bathing houses.

These and other improvements that readily suggest themselves should be kept in mind by the City Council, and an effort made to outline a series of changes that could be made from year to year as financial conditions made the work feasible.

A SPLENDID CHOICE.

The committee entrusted with the task of selecting pilots for the London-to-London flight have apparently made a wise choice in deciding upon Captain W. R. Roy Maxwell, Director of the Ontario Government's Air Service, and his chief pilot, Captain Terry Tully.

Those who know the qualifications of the two flyers selected declare that Maxwell and Tully can make the hazardous flight successfully if anybody can.

Both have had years of continuous flying service, Maxwell having flown practically every type of air machine and his associate having, since May 1st, flown over 200 miles every day on fire-ranging patrol in Northern Ontario.

The pilots have the training, technique, skill and courage necessary for the big task to which they have been assigned, and equipped with a giant Wright motored Stinson monoplane, furnished with all the latest navigating devices, it is felt that they have a royal chance of being the first Canadians to fly across the Atlantic and the first aviators in history to make a Canada-to-England hop.

The London-to-London flight will occupy a major place in the minds of Canadians during the next few weeks.

COMPLETING THE CANAL.

The campaign of the Trent Waterway Development Association for the completion of the Trent Canal should be furthered by the announcement that Federal revenues are showing a large increase, and for the first time since the war budgets will exceed $400,000,000.

According to R. W. Breadner, head of the Customs Department, all the customs ports of the Dominion will show an increase this year, and the customs revenue as a whole should reach $180,000,000, as opposed to $140,884,000 in the last fiscal year.

At the same time, in spite of the income tax reduction, the revenues from this levy are already within $4,000,000 of last year's total.

Canada's finances are in excellent shape, and under the circumstances it should be possible to secure the voting of the comparatively small sum needed to complete the Trent.

For some time after the war a policy of retrenchment in the matter of public works was a dire necessity, but that period has passed and the Government is now in a position to supply funds for operations that are necessary and desirable.

The completion of a work that has dragged on for many decades and that requires but a meagre appropriation, surely is both desirable and necessary, and the people of the Trent district should unite in endeavouring to impress this fact upon the Government.

UNDERGRADUATE HAYMAKERS.

The British university students who are here to help Ontario with the haying and the Western Provinces with the grain harvest, arrived at exactly the right moment. Despatches say that 40 undergraduates of Oxford, London and other universities have reached Canada already, and more are coming. They are in the nick of time for the hay harvest locally; and from all accounts there are 40 times 40 farms where the back and shoulders of a collegiate athlete would not come amiss in the next two weeks.

If the visiting students are in a mood to continue their education, they will be in a position to absorb some of the most interesting data relating to Canadian agriculture. They will learn, for instance, what a good forkful of timothy and clover weighs; the difficult art of building a load as rapidly as a fast-walking team can drag it up the loader from rows made by the side-delivery; and the science of scattering a rain-soaked coil with just the right muscular twist of the wrist. Students who apply themselves may also discover that it is best to duck the head as the load enters the barn at the top of the gangway; that fingers should be kept out of sling ropes and pulleys; and, if left in the field, a sleep in the uncut alfalfa is to be enjoyed only at the risk of losing feet or fingers in the mowing knives.

It seems quite a lot to learn in a few short weeks. Farmers who employ the students may be disappointed. But at any rate they ought to get value for their money in the information the visitors will be in a position to give as to haying and other farm operations in some parts of the Old Country. And if the description of hand-raking and single-horse carts and outdoor stacks does not appeal, lectures on British politics might be introduced with excellent effect. Ontario farmers have not the usual time for reading these days, and dissertations by the students on Baldwin and Chamberlain and Lloyd George might do very well as a substitute.

A sad fate awaits the visitors when they reach Manitoba. Owing to the late spring, many farmers were unable to get the wheat in, and barley was sowed instead. Anybody who has survived a harvest knows the difference between wheat and barley; it is estimated there are 500,000 bristly awns in a load of barley sheaves, every one of them highly trained and competent to pierce overalls and underwear, be they blue denim, B.V.D.'s or buckskin. They have been compared to a cat's whiskers, but they are much more like porcupine quills. Only a hardened hurdler, oarsman or cricketer will be able to bear up under the barley. Nevertheless it is to be hoped that things may not turn out a disappointment to the British students, and that they and the farmers who employ them will profit equally from this harvest field alliance.—London Advertiser.

THE GENEVA CONFERENCE.

Surprising to its doubters, who are many, the naval conference at Geneva is still proceeding. What is more, it seems headed for quite definite results. Its outcome will be, as forecast before in these columns, not the weakening of British, United States and Japanese navies, but the modernizing of them and the setting of a standard relativity in power for the three nations.

The differences between the three have been formidable. The United States wants big cruisers and Britain wants small ones. The two of them want more than Japan is willing to grant. Britain wants to discuss battleships and the United States wants them left to the 1931 conference, scheduled by agreement at the Washington conference. And so the divisions of opinion go, seemingly into a hopeless impasse. Yet the delegates plow through them and emerge with "points of contact" which encourage them to go ahead.

Britain wants more and smaller cruisers because they cost less and are more effective within a given total tonnage than large cruisers. Britain has sea bases all over the world, but the United States has not. Therefore, the latter wants larger cruisers, with a larger cruising radius. Britain's cruiser claims bring her near the 500,000 ton mark. The United States began with a proposed limit of 300,000, raised this to 400,000 and declares she can go no further.

Japan, on the other hand, sets the limit at 250,000. But Japan wants more submarines.

As to battleships, Britain wants them smaller, again with the idea of economy. But Britain already has the two greatest battleships afloat, the Nelson and Rodney, and has a powerful lead both in ships of the first line and in cruisers. How to keep this vast array of vessels up to strength, yet to save at least £50,000,000 of the taxpayers' money, is her problem. For save she must. But what will be a saving for her in cruisers, for instance, will mean a great building program for the United States, if a ratio of 5-5-3 for Britain, the U. S. and Japan is adopted. There is a strong "bigger navy" faction in U. S. politics which this would suit. But Coolidge economy and a Coolidge conference which calls for an expensive naval program, would not be good mates for the 1928 election campaign. Therefore, they must be reconciled. Hence the limit in cruiser tonnage, and the insistence on the status quo in battleships until 1931.

At the Geneva conference, then, are found these principal apparent motives:

United States—Political exigencies and a genuine desire to launch a universal arms limitation program with America in the lead, while at the same time keeping pace with the Imperial navy.

Japan—A demand for economy and a need for a strong but moderately expensive navy to keep her vigil in the Oriental Pacific.

These are only the ruling ideas, which are so apparent that they come to the surface. Down beneath is a cross-section involving comparative ship effectiveness and age, extent of peace-time naval needs and the chances on hostilities of the future. No wonder the average layman finds the conference as clear as mud. But he can marvel at one thing and be quite safe. That is the absolute determination of the delegates to come away with something tangible, to let no obstacle, no matter how staggering, stand in their way. For on this conference rests the fate of others in many years to come.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

A West Virginia judge ordered an improperly dressed woman out of the court, quite reasonably believing that only the truth should be naked in the halls of justice.

Cobalt Alderman nearly had his nose bitten off. And a lot of Otonabee and North Monaghan people think that all the members of Peterborough's City Council must have lost their nasal appendages if they can't detect anything wrong with the sewage disposal plant.

Unfortunately, weed inspectors have no jurisdiction in the case of bad cigars.

Tonight's fight will decide whether Mr. Dempsey can come back or will have to stay back.

The Ontario Minister of Health is coming to inspect Peterborough's sewage disposal plant. These Cabinet positions are not such a sinecure after all.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, July 21 (Canadian Press).—A moderate amount of business was done with foreign buyers in Canadian and American wheat and rye here yesterday.

In the domestic market it was reported that a sale of 100,000 bushels of rye was made for export account, and some fair-sized lots of Canadian Western sample oats at 1 cent per bushel under the Winnipeg July option, c.i.f. Montreal. There was no change in car lot prices.

The flour trade was without any special feature to note, prices for Spring and Winter wheat grades being unchanged under a quiet demand.

Owing to the continued good inquiry for all lines of millfeed from both domestic and United States buyers and the somewhat limited supplies available at present, the undertone was very firm and indications are that prices will advance in the near future. The market for standard grades of rolled oats was quiet and prices were unchanged.

Only a small trade was done in eggs but prices were firm. The receipts were 861 cases.

The trade in all grades of butter continued very slow and prices were about steady. The receipts were 136 packages.

The undertone to the cheese market was a shade easier which was attributed to a reduction in the foreign demand. The receipts were 8,506 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 21 (Canadian Press).—Good export buying of United States winter wheat together with smallness of domestic threshing returns, brought about a decided advance in wheat values yesterday. Unseasonably cool weather gave a lift to the corn market. Closing quotations on wheat were firm 1¾ to 2c net higher, with corn 1¼ to 1⅝c up; oats ⅝c gain, and provisions varying from 15c decline to a rise of 2 cents.

Corn prices derived strength not only from widespread prevailing low temperature adverse to corn growth but also from comprehensive unofficial reports indicating serious backwardness of corn crop conditions over Illinois, Iowa, and Missouri. Oats, like wheat, were affected by threshing returns, showing smaller yields than expected.

Provisions were a little easier, despite higher quotations on hogs.

Enjoy a Real Tour on Gum-Dipped Tires

When you tour on Gum-Dipped Tires all roads seem equally good. There is nothing to compare with the smooth, sure performances of these big, low-pressure tires. Jolts and vibrations disappear. Stretches of rough going cannot disturb you or harm the mechanism and well-built structure of your car.

If it is slippery and muddy underfoot, Gum-Dipped Tires, having double the road contact, cling to the road and hold the car unwaveringly to a true, straight course. On grades there is extra traction; at sharp curves or in quick stops you will have perfect control of wheel and brake. Skidding is almost impossible.

Through the development of the exclusive Gum-Dipping process, Firestone has tremendously increased tire mileage in balloon tires. This insulates and impregnates every fibre of every cord with rubber, reduces internal heat and friction and delivers thousands of extra miles with added comfort and safety.

Ask any Firestone Dealer to show you the structure of Balloon Gum-Dipped Tires and to tell you their advantages. He is an authority on this type of tire and is in a position to serve you better and save you money. See him to-day.

SAINT and SINNER

Faith never knew how long she sat, motionless, in the little rocking chair beside the open window, Cherry's baby—still unnamed, because they could not find a name exquisite enough for so exquisite a child—sweetly asleep in her lap. She felt as weak and exhausted as if she had gone through a devastating illness—as indeed she had, an illness which, unknown to the gentle, sacrificing heart of her, had been poisoning her body and mind and soul for years.

That terrible outburst of hers, in which she had berated both Cherry and Bob, had been the crisis of that illness and, not at all curiously, though she was dully amazed, she felt lighter and freed, in spite of that almost paralyzing exhaustion, than she had felt for years. Sickening waves of remorse rolled over her, but underneath them was a steadfast gladness which she could not quell.

The fact was she had been ignored, as a person, for so long that she had almost come to believe that she had no distinct personality. Cast into the shadows of mediocrity by Cherry's flaming beauty, wit and charm, Faith had accepted her family's rating of her uncomplainingly. She had had no sweethearts worthy of the name until George Pruitt had singled her out, the most perfect specimen of young womanhood that he had ever seen. And Cherry had even tried to take George away from her. Bob Hathaway had scarcely seen her, had not been at all aware of her as a girl worthy of love, until he had been engaged to Cherry and his too-trustful heart bruised under her imperious little heel.

And Faith knew, as she sat very still, with Cherry's baby a feather-light burden upon her knees, that it was she whom he loved, as a man wants to love the one woman, and not Cherry.

Well—she drew a deep, quivering breath that hurt—she had lost him now, lost him irrevocably to Cherry. But Cherry had always had him—probably not the best of him, but the romantic core of his heart. After tonight, when she had turned like a vixen upon her husband and her sister, Bob could not pretend to himself or to her any longer that he loved her. He would have his excuse to leave her. Poor Bob. It was characteristic of Faith that she felt sorry for her husband, even while her own heart was like lead in her breast.

She had believed she could make him happy, he being what he was—chivalrous, thoroughly good, sweet, infinitely kind; and she being what she was—thoroughly good, born to be a wife and a mother, unselfish to the point of being ridiculous. But they had been married less than five months, and already Bob was hardly recognizable as the man she had married. Poor Bob! Dear Bob! Tears for him, for his tragedy, began to slip down her cheeks, strangely hot against the iciness of her flesh.

How tired he looked, and much older, grim about the mouth, harassed of eye—those beautiful blue eyes that had sparkled with such a boyish delight in life; he had failed to land the biggest opportunity that had ever come his way—the contract to build the new public library; his young shoulders were already stooping under the burden of expense which she had brought to him, in saddling him with her family. Surely it would be better for Bob if she had so disgusted him with herself that he would welcome her offer of his freedom.

Twilight had settled like a thick gray fog, heavy with heat, when a knock came softly upon her locked door.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

The culotte skirt is well disguised in this evening dancing frock of white crepe de chine with mother-of-pearl sequins and gold embroidery. Embroidered panels at back and front successfully hide the division in the skirt.

"What next—I wonder!"

That expresses the passive attitude that most women take toward fashions.

"I'd like to go and live off in the wilds somewhere for two or three years and then come back to civilization to find something really new to wear," said a woman the other day.

It is just because most of us take this passive attitude, play the role of sheep following a leader, that fashions worry along in much the same rut. And for some reason or other we all seem to be in a particularly passive mood regarding fashions at the present time. We sigh for something really new, something different, frocks and hats and hair arrangements that will show off our charms in new ways—yet not one woman in a thousand is willing to wear anything really new.

We seem to have come to a deadlock. Skirts have become as short as possible, yet no one wants to wear them long again, even for the sake of variety. We have grown weary of the monotony of short hair yet we dread the inconvenience of letting it grow again and of the old struggle with hairpins. We have rung the changes with the comfortable chemise or sheath type of frock—we long for clothes that will reveal more of the natural curves of the body—yet we fear more closely fitted frocks would be less wearable, less comfortable.

The next real novelty in dress fashions—one authority on such matters assures us—will be the culotte skirt. Women won't wear long skirts again—at least not soon—and they can't wear them shorter. Yet there is something unattractive about the short skirt that rides up to show bare skin or a glimpse of lingerie. The culotte skirt—a little shocking thought it may seem—will be a move in the direction of greater modesty. A number of the most prominent of French dressmakers have been experimenting with skirts of this sort—and for autumn we shall undoubtedly see many of them. For sports wear there are culotte skirts with removeable pleated panels that may be snapped into position at the front. For actual sports wear the panel may be discarded. Then there are evening frocks made with the culotte construction of the skirt. The line of division is entirely or partly hidden by means of clever arrangements of drapery or panels at the front.

1.—"Now happiness consists in activity; such is the constitution of our nature; it is a running stream, and not a stagnant pool."
2.—"Foe ever honoured and forever mourned."
3.—"What makes life dreary is the want of motive."
4.—"Striving to tell his woes, words would not come:
For light cares speak, when mighty griefs are dumb."
6.—"Learn that the present hour alone is man's."
7.—"The first great work (a task performed by few)
Is that yourself may to yourself be true."
8.—"Justice, sir, is the great interest of man on earth."

HINTS ON ETIQUETTE.

1. Is it rude to watch a bridge game by peering over the players' shoulders?

2. Is it proper to decline to play bridge, when asked by your hostess, if you feel you lack skill?

3. When entertaining a week-end party, what can you do Sunday afternoon?

The Answers.

1. Yes.

2. Decline, but explain. If she insists, do your best.

3. If in the country, walks are in order. Serving afternoon tea in the garden is pleasant. Asking guests to sing or play often brings unexpected enjoyment.

CLEAN STOVES.

Gas stoves should be cleaned twice a week by washing with soap and water and rubbing with kerosene when the metal is both dry and cold. Newspapers should be used instead of cloths for cleaning.

FLY-TOX KILLS MOSQUITOES

Mosquitoes Thin Your Blood.

Mosquitoes Thin Your Blood

Normal human blood is too thick to be drawn through the mosquito's small piercing tube. They must first inject a thinning fluid. In that way disease germs are set afloat in the blood stream—bacteria or burning fever and crippling disease. There is also the danger of streptococcic infection (blood poisoning) from scratching the bite. Mosquitoes must be killed. Health authorities advocate Fly Tox. Simple instructions on each bottle (blue label) for killing ALL household insects. Insist on Fly-Tox. Fly-Tox is easy to use. Safe, stainless, fragrant, sure.

USE DEEP FAT.

Frying is the least healthful of all methods of cooking and should be employed sparingly. Frying in deep fat is preferable to the ordinary way of using a thin layer of grease.

HELPS TASTE.

Ham, corned beef, tongue and all meats that are not to be served hot are all improved if they are allowed to cool in the water in which they are boiled.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

Friday, July 22, 1927.

(Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Astrologers read this as an uncertain day in which conflicting influences disturb human plans.

There is a sign of promise for all that pertains to romance and engagements to marry entered into to-day should be fortunate.

Amusements are well directed while this configuration prevails, and theatres should be especially fortunate in the coming autumn season.

For outdoor fetes and entertainments the forecast is good. All forms of social intercourse are subject to the best planetary influences.

Under this direction of the stars it is well to delay any comprehensive business plans, for there will be a tendency that is more or less thwarting.

The Moon is in a sign that is supposed to make lovers more determined than in less positive rules and women who flirt may wish they had not indulged in foolish coquetry.

The seers declare that there is to be a stabilizing of the emotions as part of the reactionary trend. Mind will rule more generally, which means that the mercenary side of marriage will be much weighed.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a prosperous year in which investments prove profitable.

Children born on this day probably will succeed in artistic pursuits. Architects are born under this sign.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

WILLOW FURNITURE.

Willow or reed furniture needs almost daily dusting by use of the blower attachment on a vacuum cleaner. A cloth will never keep this type of furniture clean.

GREASE SPOTS.

Grease spots can be removed from leather furniture by a cloth wrung out of warm soap-suds. Carbon tetrachloride removes such stains from other furniture.

BED TABLE.

For the sick child who must remain in bed a bed table is imperative, both for food and toys. An attractive one can be made from a sturdy box a yard long by removing sides and leaving ends and painting it all a pretty color.

NEW CURTAINS.

Beauty in a room begins where the light comes in. Spring should be the time to dress up windows with new curtains and drapes. Glazed chintz is popular now for curtains.

NOVELTY DISHES.

Spring should be the time to introduce new dishes to your family. A novelty salad, a brand new meat dish, or some dessert never served before will add zest to the menu.

COMPANY'S COST.

In figuring the budget, "company" should always be listed. Under this item an emergency shelf should be stocked which will contain such canned fruits and vegetables as can be converted quickly into a salad or hot dish for an emergency guest meal.

COLORFUL VEGETABLES.

A pinch of soda put into the boiling water in which new vegetables are cooked will help them retain their vivid and appetizing colors. Cook new vegetables uncovered.

COOKING BEANS.

Fresh beans and peas should be cooked gently in boiling water with the cover partially off the saucepan to allow the steam to escape.

DON'T OVER-COOK

Vegetables should be cooked until tender, but no longer. Over-cooking makes them strong-flavored and indigestible.

Unique Summer Hygiene

For Safer Wearing of Lightest Chiffons, Etc.

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

KOTEX is the new hygiene that has largely ended the use of old-time "pads" among women. A scientific creation, it offers an end to three great embarrassments of old methods.

Scientifically treated, it deodorizes. Made of a special material, it discards easily as tissue. No laundry, no embarrassment. 8 in 10 better-class women now employ it. Doctors and nurses urge it.

Get Kotex for protection you know is real. See that box you buy is marked "Kotex." If it isn't, it is not genuine Kotex.

To-day's Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY'S REDBERRIES

(Copyright, 1927, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Oh, Daddicums, it isn't Fourth of July!" cried Bimble, a cute little boy rabbit as he looked out of a window in the hollow stump bungalow one morning and saw his father hopping down the path.

"I know it isn't Fourth of July," answered Mr. Longears. "What caused you to think that I had any idea it was?"

"Why, you have a big firecracker in your paw," answered Bimble. "Please don't shoot it off until I come down, Daddicums! I want to hear it go bang!"

"Then what is that red thing in your paw?" asked the little rabbit.

"It is a red pail," said Mr. Longears, "and if you ask me why I have a red pail, as I know you are going to, I will say that I am going to pick redberries and I thought it best to take along a red pail to match them in color."

"Oh, are you going berrying again?" exclaimed Bimble. "Then please let me come!"

"Take me, too, Daddicums! Take me!" begged half a dozen little rabbit children, swarming around their father. "We want to go berrying!"

"Yes, do take them!" added Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy coming out on the front porch with a broom in her paws and the dusting brush tied to her tail. "They have been playing store and mud pies on the steps until they're a sight! Take them to the woods with you!"

"All right—come along, bunnies!" invited Mr. Longears, and soon he and the little rabbits were on their way to pick redberries.

The day before they had picked blackberries which, Mrs. Longears made into pie, and Jingle, if you remember thought she had been caught by a bear. But it was only a blackberry vine pulling at her dress in the back and scratching her.

"What are redberries good for?" asked Bimble, as he walked along with his brothers Stumble and Bumble. Stumble walked between the other two rabbits so when he fell down, as he often did, they could pick him up.

"Redberries, or raspberries, are fine for making into pudding," said Uncle Wiggily. "I hope you will pick many of them, though they are not so plentiful as blackberries."

Reaching a field where there were vines on which grew redberries, Uncle Wiggily began to gather them in his red tin pail, while the little bunnies used, as they had done the day before, baskets made from large grape vine leaves.

As Uncle Wiggily had said, the redberries were not so plentiful as the blackberries had been the day before. But he was a clever rabbit and knew where to look for them. He also showed the bunny boys and girls where to gather the fruit and soon the red pail was well filled, and so were all the little vine baskets.

"I think we have enough berries now," said Uncle Wiggily after a while. "We had better hop home so mother can make the pudding."

"But we haven't had any adventure yet," objected Bumble.

"That's so," said Mr. Longears. "No adventure at all. I wonder——"

But just then, down near the road along which the rabbits must hop to get home, a sad voice was heard saying:

"Oh, dear! Oh, dear! I haven't sold any and what will the poor mice do!"

"What's that?" whispered Jingle.

"I don't know, but I'll see," offered Uncle Wiggily. "But don't be afraid whatever you do." He hopped to the edge of the road and looked over the tall weeds. Then he smiled for he saw Baby Bunty at a little roadside lemonade stand. Bunty was selling cool drinks.

"At least I am trying to sell lemonade," Bunty said, sadly, "to make money to send some poor little city mice children away to the country for fresh, summer air. But nobody has come past this road at all, and I haven't sold one glass of lemonade and I haven't taken in any money and—Oh, dear!"

"There, there, Bunty! Dry your tears!" said kind Uncle Wiggily. "I will buy some lemonade of you," and he did, forty thirteen glasses, one for himself, one for each of the forty eleven little bunnies and one for Baby Bunty herself. Then he said: "I think your lemonade would sell better if it could be colored red." So he crushed some redberries and made the rest of the lemonade a beautiful pink and not long after that Baby Bunty sold every glass she had left. So she made a lot of money for the poor city mice children to be sent to the country and she was happy.

CHORISTERS BID LEADER FAREWELL

LAKEFIELD, July 21.—The fancy work division of the Ladies' Aid of the Regent street church served a hot dinner to the members of the choir of George street United church, Peterborough, and some of their friends on Thursday evening in the schoolroom of the Regent street church. The tables were daintily set and decorated with roses and peonies and presented an attractive appearance. The ladies served a delicious meal which was much appreciated by the visitors who were unstinted in their praise of the hospitality shown them.

After the meal, a purse of gold was presented to Mr. J. N. Renwick, and a corsage bouquet of roses and carnations to Mrs. Renwick. Mr. Renwick has held the position of organist and choir master of George street church for the past sixteen years, and on the eve of his departure the members of the choir felt that they would like to express in some tangible way their appreciation of his services which had always been ungrudgingly given and the remembrance of many person acts of kindness, Mr. and Mrs. Renwick leave behind many friends who will cherish pleasant memories of the acquaintanceship which blossomed into friendship and the good wishes of the George street choir will always follow them.

Mr. Renwick replied in a fitting manner, thanking their friends for their remembrances to his wife and himself and assuring them all of his earnest good wishes for the advancement of the choir in the future, and a hope that the cordial relations between choir and people would continue.

Several other gentlemen spoke, all regretting the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Renwick and thanking the ladies of the Regent street church for their hospitable treatment. A handsome honorarium was received later by Mrs. Nathan Payne, convenor of the fancy work group, as a mark of appreciation from the choir.

VERY HARD LARGE PIMPLES

"My trouble began with a few pimples on my face and hands and soon spread all over them. The pimples were very hard, large and red, and festered and scaled over. They itched and burned so that I scratched them, which caused eruptions. My face was disfigured, and I could not put my hands in water and could hardly do my work.

"A friend advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I purchased some, and in about two months I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Jennie Ducharme, 481 Giroux St., Norwood, Man.

RAIN FAILS TO STOP BIG GARDEN PARTY

Stephens' Church Social Great Success—St. Andrew's On Aug. 4.

BURNBRAE, July 21.—In spite of an all-day rain and very threatening conditions of weather throughout the early evening, the annual garden party of the Stephen's United church, Hoards, held on the church lawn Friday evening, was a real success. Indeed, many claim it to have been the most successful ever held there in the history of the church. The large crowd did full justice to the supper supplied, and the refreshment and fancy work booths did a rushing business so that the total proceeds exceeded $200.

The main item of the evening's entertainment was the splendid performance of Mr. Charles Cook, Indian basso and entertainer, of Ottawa. A casual observer would not believe that Mr. Cook was an Indian, but his plea for the rights of his brother redmen proved his loyalty to the race of his birth.

In songs, both serious and comic, and monologues, both spoken and acted, his artistry was very pleasing to the audience. He possesses a voice of wonderful power and quality, while his wonderful interpretations of characters delighted all. Among his best numbers was a "French-Canadian's political speech in support of a Tory candidate in Quebec."

There is no doubt that should Mr. Cook ever be in this neighborhood again a crowded house will greet him, as he has established a reputation that is nation-wide. Mr. Cook paid glowing tribute to the skill of his accompanist, Mrs. Frank Heagle.

The league softball game between Glen Ross and Hoards could not be played on account of wet grounds and this game will be played on Tuesday night. An exhibition game resulted in a 20 to 19 win for the Glen boys. S. Little of Menie and W. Jeffs of Mount Pleasant played with Hoards.

The Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's, Burnbrae, have announced their garden party date as Thursday, August 4. As usual, a good time is assured, with lots of Burnbrae's famous cooking.

Miss Margaret Milne, nurse-in-training at Buffalo hospital, returned to that city on Sunday after spending a short holiday here with her parents.

Rain continues to fall in abundance and farmers are being held up with the hay crop. Some large yields are being recorded, and with a lot of heavy hay still to be cut, good drying weather is much needed by the farmers. However, it is an ill wind, etc., and other crops are reaping the benefit of the excess moisture. Friday's rain flattened out some of the heaviest patches of barley and oats. Wheat harvest will start the end of this week or first of next if the weather turns warm and dry.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, July 21.—League meetings were resumed on Thursday evening when Earl Fairman, missionary convener, put on the programme with Everett Fairman as leader. Sixty-three were in attendance and the Red group was in the lead. A short programme consisted of a reading by Roy Barnum, review of the Rochester trip by Grenville Meiklejohn, and the topic by Earl Fairman. The meeting was then given over to Miss Brooks, missionary on furlough from West China, and she gave a very interesting and instructive talk on the missionary and civic situations in that rebellion-torn land.

In view of the lawn socials to be held on Thursday evenings during the next month, it was decided to meet on Wednesday evenings whenever possible until further notice.

A large group from the local league journeyed to Rochester on Wednesday under the auspices of the Young People's Leagues of the Bay of Quinte Conference. The trip to Cobourg was made by motor in the early hours of the morning. The SS. Ontario No. 2 left Cobourg dock at 8:30 and reached Genesee dock shortly after 1:30 p.m. The trip to Rochester by train, with delays in meeting officials, etc., held up the schedule so that the bus trip around the city started about 3 o'clock. This was very enjoyable, indeed, with ten buses holding over 300 persons travelling by all the more important places in the city.

Rochester is indeed a very beautiful city, and instead of the houses being crowded as in most cities, Rochester plans call for great open spaces planted to trees and shrubs. The older residential district has some of the finest homes and well-kept grounds one could see anywhere. Wonderful parks with the two fine reservoirs for the city water supply were also in the itinerary of the excursion party. The buses stopped at First Methodist church in the heart of the down-town section where various civic and state officials, as well as ministers and young people's leaders, were on hand to welcome the Canadian visitors. A short service was held in which the friendship already existing between the organizations of the two countries was further strengthened.

The return trip began at six o'clock with the boat leaving Genesee dock at 7 p.m. The early part of the return trip was delightful with a fine warm breeze, but about 9 o'clock a severe electric storm broke and the enjoyment of the trip received a check for a time. A good programme was put on in the main cabin to help pass away the time, and at exactly the midnight hour the crowd filed across the gang-plank at Cobourg dock, well pleased with the day's outing.

Among those attending from this locality were Misses Gladys Simpson, Verna Barnum, Jennie Fry, Bessie Meiklejohn; Messrs. Clarence Barnum, Gerald Barnum, Grant Kerr, Don Kerr, Grenville Meiklejohn, Earl Fairman, Wilfrid Spencer, Everett Fairman, Wilfrid Spencer, Everett Fairman, Roy Fry, Fred Barnum, Don Barnum, Fred Fry, Gerald Petherick, Art Petherick, Thomas McKeown and Lindsay Anderson.

TRAVEL TO AND FROM THE WEST BY LAKE AND RAIL

Palatial steamships flying Canadian Pacific house flag provide triweekly service between Twin Cities and Bay terminals. Contrary to what one might expect it is no more expensive to travel by steamship to Fort William than by rail. It is cheaper in fact, as ten dollars covers the whole of ones meals as well as the berth on either the Keewatin, Assiniboia or the Manitoba which are the finest ocean steamships on the Great Lakes.

By leaving Toronto shortly after noon on a Saturday or Wednesday it is possible in less than three hours to connect with a Steamer at Port McNicholl and enjoy two days and nights afloat. A similar connection may be made at Owen Sound on Mondays. Sault Ste. Marie is the only port of call en route, but it is a voyage replete with interest and charm, a restful and refreshing break in the westward journey and the service is irreproachable. CAVAN INSTITUTE WITHDRAWS PRIZES

CAVAN, July 21.—Cavan Women's Institute held their July meeting at the home of Mrs. Robert Howden on Thursday afternoon. There was a good attendance of members and visitors. The president, Mrs. D. J. Hunter, conducted this meeting.

It was decided to withdraw the prize offered by the institute to the pupils at the annual rural fair to be held in September at Ida.

On writing to the district representative concerning the prize, he drew their attention to the fact that the fair will be held this year one day after the schools open for the fall term, and as the prize is not on the printed program which had been issued in June, it would only give the pupils one day to try for the prize, and this, with their other exhibits to prepare, would only prove a burden. It was decided to lay it aside for a year, and offer it next year, in time to appear on the regular printed program.

Instead of this prize, five dollars is to be offered for sports, a committee to be asked to arrange the details of the sports.

The holding of an institute picnic was discussed. It was decided to hold this picnic at Chemong, the date to be set later.

The matter of inviting a play by talent from a distance, in September, was discussed. It was left to a committee to report.

Mrs. R. S. Staples invited the institute to meet at her home in September.

An invitation was given by the Mount Pleasant Institute to hold a joint meeting with them at the home of Mrs. Bland on the afternoon of the first Wednesday in August. This was accepted.

Miss Bertha McNeil, who for the past two years has been taking a course at Guelph College, was present and gave a splendid talk on the course of study taken up at the college, the life there, a day's routine at the college, and the places or positions open to graduates. It was a very interesting talk, full of information. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Miss McNeil.

After the meeting adjourned a lunch was served on the lawn by the hostess assisted by a lunch committee.

STIRRING LAKE YACHT RACES COMMENCE WITH FISHER CUP

Canadian and United States' Yacht Clubs Compete in Great Series.

FOR THREE WEEKS.

TORONTO, Ont., July 21 (Canadian Press).—With the battle for the Fisher Cup to be fought out here, July 19 to 21, three weeks of stirring races will be in augurated for the Canadian and American yacht clubs on Lake Ontario. The historic Fisher Cup race, which has been the outstanding sporting event on the lake for over half a century, will be followed by the George Cup race on July 27; the Freeman Cup race from Cobourg to Kingston, on Aug. 1; the Lake Yacht Racing Association Regatta at Kingston Aug. 4 to 6, and the Emerson Cup race for dinghys at Rochester, on Aug. 16.

Since 1906 the Royal Canadian Yacht Club of Toronto, has held the Fisher Cup and this year the trophy is being defended by the Cara Mia, skippered by John Taylor or Lorenzo Labbette, as challenger. This is the oldest yachting event on the lake, having been first contested in 1874. It will be sailed on a 21-mile course off the Toronto Island.

The George Cup race, while a junior event with only 20 years of history behind it, is of paramount interest this year because the trophy is at present in the hands of the trustees. It was awarded to the Acadia, Royal Canadian Yacht Club, last season after the Crescent Club's Kathea II. had been disqualified. It was returned by the winners to the committee. In addition to these two famous yachts, entries from Kingston, Ont.; Rochester, N.Y., and Watertown, N.Y., are listed for the race.

The Freeman Cup race is an exciting preliminary to the big regatta at Kingston, Aug. 4 to 6. A large number of the yachts taking part in the regatta will meet at Cobourg and battle for the trophy over the 100-mile course to Kingston. There will be in the neighborhood of 40 entries for the regatta and it is expected that at least half of these will race for the Freeman Cup. This cup is also now in the hands of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club of Toronto, having been captured by The Stranger last year.

In addition to the Acadia and the Eleanor, the following Canadian yachts are listed in the entries for the Lake Yacht Racing Association Regatta: Vivia, Nayado, Scrapper, Lillian, Valerie, Gardenia, Strathcona, Nutmeg, Patricia, Stranger, Italia, Blue Moon, Bluewater, and Seneca. The Class R yachts entered by American clubs include: Aophara, Vitesse, Rogue, Kathea II., Alice and Huskie. Half a dozen Canadian and American lake ports will be represented at this crowning event of the yachting season.

On August 16 two Toronto skippers will be challengers for the Emerson Cup, now held by Rochester, Walter Windeyer and Charles W. Bourke having entered for the dinghy race to be sailed in the lake off the American city.

ASPIRANTS COMPLETE TRAINING FOR NON-CHAMPIONSHIP FIGHT

Winner Will Meet Gene Tunney for Heavyweight Title in September.

BOUT TONIGHT

Over 75,000 Spectators Will Witness Dempsey's Effort to Make Comeback.

NEW YORK, July 21 (Canadian Press).—In what promises to be the most spectacular non-championship fight in the history of the ring, Jack Dempsey will battle Jack Sharkey tonight to decide which is to meet Gene Tunney for the heavyweight championship of the world in September.

They will fight it out at the Yankee Stadium in a 15-round match that has attracted as much, if not more, widespread interest than any title battle on record, chiefly because of the attempted comeback of the most colorful ringman of modern times, Dempsey.

At least 75,000 spectators and possibly 80,000, including many notables, will witness Dempsey's efforts to defy the inroads of time and outpunch his confident and youthful rival. They will pay approximately $1,000,000 for the privilege, Tex Rickard estimated yesterday, but with choice ringside tickets in the hands of speculators bringing as high as $200 apiece, the outlay for onlookers seemed likely to be nearer $1,250,000.

Will Be Broadcasted

Radio microphones are at the ringside and will carry the word picture of the fight over a nationwide hookup which may enable 15,000,000 to 20,000,000 others to get the details of the battle throughout the country as accurately if not more so than will the thousands perched on the fringes of the big American League baseball park.

On the eve of this fistic drama, Sharkey ruled a decided favorite among the experts who have analyzed and weighed the chances of the two rivals. On the other hand Dempsey claimed the support of popular opinion in an apparently overwhelming measure as well as the backing of many close observers.

Few if any previous big ring battles have developed as sharp a contrast of opinion. Where last night Sharkey was backed strongly by a majority of newspaper critics and in wagers at odds ranging from 8 to 5 to as high as 2 to 1, Dempsey remained the firm choice of the fans in the street.

Favor Sharkey

The experts, or rather the apparent majority favoring Sharkey, base their predictions of a victory for the rugged Boston sailor chiefly on his youth, speed and superior boxing craft. He is 25 to Dempsey's 32. He has been fighting frequently and rising rapidly on the heavyweight scale in the past year and a half with decisive triumphs over Harry Wills, Mike McTigue and Jimmy Maloney to his credit. Dempsey has fought only once in four year and then, last September, a losing battle.

A Comparison

While Jack Dempsey gives away seven years of youth in his battle with Jack Sharkey tonight, he retains an advantage in weight, height and reach. Their measurements:

	Jack Dempsey	Jack Sharkey
Age	32	25
Weight (pounds)	196	194
Height	6 ft. 1½ in.	6ft.
Reach (inches)	75	74
Chest normal (ins.)	42	40¼
Chest, expanded (ins.)	45	44¼

Dempsey Arrives

Mentally keen and physically on edge, Jack Dempsey came down to New York yesterday from his training camp on Saratoga Lake to stage the "fight of his life" against Jack Sharkey to-night.

Up at six a.m., as though the stiff training grind were still on, Jack hustled about the camp in splendid spirits preparing for the departure. Just a touch of grouchiness so necessary to peak condition showed in his restless movements. When Jerry the Greek, faithful little trainer, was a bit slow packing a bag, Jack roughed him playfully but none of the less earnestly.

As Dempsey's train pulled into the 125th Street Station in New York, the former champion and his party left their compartments and disappeared 'into the country," where Jack will remain until he comes into the city for the weighing in at 3 p.m. today.

FEW DEFEATS MAR RECORD OF JACK SHARKEY

Left United States Navy in 1924 to Start Boxing.

NINE KNOCKOUTS

Including Mike McTigue and Jim Maloney in Past Few Months.

By NEA Service

NEW YORK, July 21.—Not quite as imposing a record has Jack Sharkey in comparison to the record of his opponent, Jack Dempsey, the ex-champion.

But, as the loquacious Mr. Sharkey would say were you to make a comparison, those records won't win this fight!

Sharkey came out of Uncle Sam's navy in 1924 to start boxing and since that time has engaged in 33 bouts.

Like his friend Dempsey, he has been knocked out only once. That was in his first year of fighting and Romero Rojas turned the sleep punch loose on the Bostonian.

Sharkey has only nine knockout victories to his credit, the more prominent ones being those over the ancient Mike McTigue and Jim Maloney during the past few months.

That Rojas defeat, with defeats in 1924 by Maloney and Eddie Record in 1925 by Charley Weinert and Bud Gorman, are the only ones charged against Sharkey in the boxing records.

And this fight with Dempsey, you ask? Well, Mr. Sharkey would say that one can be entered in now as a victory and how!

PIRATES SPLIT DOUBLE-HEADER

PITTSBURG LEADS

NEW YORK, July 21.—(Canadian Press).—The Pittsburgh Pirates slipped back into first place yesterday by splitting even in a double header at Philadelphia, winning the second game by a score of 6 to 5, after losing the opener, 4 to 3. Mitchell outpitched Dawson in a hurling duel in the opener but the Pirates came back in the final game by slamming the first three hurlers of the five that faced them, for 6 runs. Williams pounded his twentieth home run of the season.

Giants Win.

The Giants put on a spirited ninth inning rally at New York to defeat Chicago by 5 to 4, giving McGraw's club the series by four game to two. The Cubs in consequence were relegated back to second place on a single percentage point margin. Wilson hit his sixteenth homer of the season with Webb on base. Jackson of New York hit two home runs, the first coming with Terry on base in the sixth and the other in the eighth.

Break Even.

The Braves and Cincinnati Reds divided a doubleheader at Boston, the Red legs taking the opener, 4 to 2, and the Braves the final, 2 to 1. The second game was decided in the eighth inning when with the score knotted at 1-all singles by Genewich, Moore and Farrell, produced the winning run. Walker's fifth inning home run was the feature of the first game.

The Robins split a twin programme with St. Louis at Brooklyn, dropping the second contest by 3 to 1 in eleven innings after nosing through to a 2 to 1 victory in the opener.

Pett Petty held the Cardinals to five hits in the first game which was decided in the fourth when Deberry tripled with two on base.

CHICAGO LOSES TO WASHINGTON

Failed to Hit Zachary in Pinches—Many Chances to Score.

ONE GAME SCHEDULED

NEW YORK, July 21.—(Canadian Press)—In the only American League game played yesterday Washington bunched hits in the second and sixth innings to defeat Chicago 5-3 in the final game of the Chicago series. Chicago had numerous chances to score but failed to hit Zachary in the pinches. Zachary weakened, however, in the eighth and Braxton came to the rescue. Speaker broke up the rally by making a great catch of Kamm's short fly and doubling Berg at the plate in the eighth. Ward and Peckinpaugh were forced out of the game by injuries which proved to be not serious.

DEMPSEY HAS LOST ONLY ONCE VIA KNOCKOUT

Ex-Champion Beaten Four Times in Seventy-Eight Bouts.

47 KNOCKOUTS

Defeated Jess Willard in 1919 to Win World Championship.

By NEA Service

NEW YORK, July 21.—Jack Dempsey has been knocked out only once in his ring career, and has been beaten only three other times in 78 bouts.

Forty-seven of these fights ended in knockout victories for Dempsey. Eleven were decision victories, two were no-decision affairs, four were draws and ten were exhibitions.

The battler who stands in a class by himself is Jim Flynn, a Phoenix, Ariz., taxi driver today. Flynn knocked Dempsey out in 1917, but was paid back dearly later.

Dempsey got 17 knockout victories in 1918 and most of them came in the first round against such fellows as Carl Morris, Bill Brennan, Arthur Pelky, Fred Fulton and Kid McCarthy.

His important knockout victories, however, are the ones over Jess Willard in 1919 at Toledo, which gave him the world championship, and the ones over Billy Miske, Bill Brennan, Georges Carpentier and Luis Firpo while defending his title.

That night of nights at the Sesqui stadium in Philadelphia last year when he lost the title to Gene Tunney goes down as Dempsey's greatest loss. His other losses were early in his fighting career to Jack Downey and Willie Meehan.

TORONTO, July 21.—Jim Faulkner turned in his fifteenth victory of the season when he turned a poor start into a good ending in the first game of the double header with Jersey City yesterday. The lanky lefthander ran into a whole lot of grief right off the reel, but kept his equilibrium and after that session was virtually invincible. The third tally of the Cats was a gift, Alexander gumming up a play by being over ambitious. Williams, who held the Leafs to one hit in the opening game of the season, was hammered out in the initial frame when the O'Haraites bunched three hits along with two walks and Neitzke's fumble for four runs. Bratchi who had two hits drove in a pair of runs. Buckalew who replaced him was much more effective, although he was touched up for a triple by Faulkner and a homer by Hargrave which sailed over Roth Eaton's sign.

'Steamer' Lucas has returned from Portland, where he was farmed out. The local sand lotter lacked the necessary experience to be of assistance to a club fighting for a pennant. Vernon Spencer will rejoin the team on Frday.

President Solman has made an offer for Leslie Mann, a veteran outfielder reelased by Boston and signed by the New York Giants.

In the second game Jess Doyle was nominated for pitching duty for Toronto, while Styles did the backstopping. Parks and Daly worked for Jersey City. Toronto won this game by the score of two runs to one, forcing the play an extra innings.

Rochester Wins.

Rochester won the final game of its home series from the Reading Keys yesterday afternoon by 12 to 5. Fred Merkle, in his last appearance as manager of the Reading outfit was ordered off the field by Umpire Fife in the fourth inning, along with Pitcher Parnham. Both objected to a decision at third. A few moments later five more Reading players were ordered off the bench.

Bears Lose.

The Bisons made it four out of six over the Newark Bears and boosted a new winning streak to four straight when they took both ends of a double bill at Buffalo by scores of 5 to 1 and 4 to 3. Mamaux and Bill Moore, victors over the Bisons in the first two games of the series, each tried a comeback and suffered the same fate. Fisher turned the tide of the second game by parking a long homer over the right field fence in the fourth inning scoring Brainard ahead of him.

Syracuse defeated Baltimore 7 to 1, in the final game of the Syracuse series.

Haid and Barnes held the Orioles to six hits.

R.C.Y.C. DEFENDER BEATS ALLOEDE

TORONTO, July 21. —In a light easterly wind with a bit of a rolling sea, Cara Mia of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club, the defender of the famour Fisher international cup, showed complete superiority over Alloede of Rochester yacht club, the challenger and took the first race of the series. She won by a mile in distance, and seven minutes in time. Yesterday's race was four miles to windward and return to be covered twice. It was all over as far as the contention went in the first ten minutes. Skipper Laurie Mabbett of the Alloede must be credited with the honours at the start. When the gun boomed he had Alleoede right on the line dead to windward of the Cara Mia.

But it only took Skipper Tom K. Wade of the defender ten minutes to wriggle out of the leeward berth and go to the front.

EXAMINER BOYS HAVE EVEN BREAK

The Lock Works, Columbias and Examiner played a three-team series at Chemong Park last night. The Examiner defeated the Lock Works in the first game which went five innings. The score was 4-2, and the game proved very interesting. The batteries were:

Lock Works—Nicholls and Gorman.
Examiner—Scates and Dugan.
Umpires—McGraw and Hall.

In the second game the Columbias of Chemong defeated The Examiner 3-2 in a seven inning tussle. This was a very good game and well contested. The Columbias won out in their half of the seventh after the Examiner had led all the way. The batteries for this game were:

Columbias—Gimmell and A. White.
Examiner—Scates and Dugan.

DOWN TOWN WINS MILLBROOK SERIES

Defeats Station Team in Third Game—Great Interest Shown.

MILLBROOK, July 21.—The final game of softball in the series between the "Down Town" and "Station" teams took place at the agricultural grounds on Tuesday evening, the interest taken locally being evidenced by the number in attendance.

Three umpires were apparently necessary to see the game to a peaceable finish, E. H. Barnes giving decisions on fouls, A. Gautt on strikes and balls, and H. Nattress on runs and bases.

The players changed about rather frequently in the progress of the nine innings, initial line-up being:

Station—J. W. Hurchison, p; Burton Russell, c; E. Budd, 1b; W. Budd, 2b; J. Young, 3b; J. Guthrie, rf; D. Armstrong, cf; P. Pitt, lf; S. Sloan, ss; G. Russell, sub.

Score 30-20, favor of the Down Town team.

In the first game the Station men won by 16-10; in the second by a score of 22-18 the Down Town team came out ahead; and in the play-off they maintained their lead of 10 points.

The next series will be between the married and the single men. In arranging the series of games the business men, who make up the teams, have an object in view, as far as the finances are concerned, that is meeting with general approval and generous support.

Having sufficient funds of its own on hand, the British Amateur Athletic Association has decided to make no appeal to the public for financial aid in sending the British athletes to the Olympic games at Amsterdam next year.

SWIMMING SIMPLIFIED

CONFIDENCE AND A LITTLE NERVE ARE FUNDAMENTALS OF DIVING

By James A. Lee.

Diving, like any other sport in any field, has its fundamentals.

Confidence, form, rhythm and timing are the most essential points for a beginner to keep in mind. Have confidence along with a little nerve on the end of a diving board, two to three feet from the water, and you should be able to try diving.

Stand erect, with toes over the end of the board, hands and feet together, and arms stretched over the head; bend body at the waist line and bring the outstretched arms parallel with the thighs.

With the head well bent forward and chin against the chest, proceed to a falling motion. Try to keep the feet on the board as long as possible.

Do this quite a few times, and after gaining confidence and overcoming fear, you are ready to take the same dive with a spring from a standing position, and gradually work into a running plain front dive.

Although diving is not necessary, it will help one to enjoy swimming, especially where there is a diving board.

FRANCE WILL NOT ENTER COMPETITION

French Committee Decided Not to be Represented at Olympic Games.

PARIS, July 21.—(Canadian Press)—France, the country responsible for the renewal of the Olympic games, through the initiative of Baron Pierre de Coubertin, is the first to abandon the Olympic competition and will not be represented in Amsterdam in 1928. The French Olympic committee reached this determination last eevning.

Failure of the French government to vote the credits necessary for the training of athletes and other expenses is responsible for this action.

THE SUNSET DERBY CRAMMED WITH PEP

Crammed with swiftly moving action, interspersed with a delightful vein of light comedy, and possessing two mile-a-minute horse races unsurpassed on the screen for realism, speed and thrills, the First National picture, "The Sunset Derby," which opens to-night at the Regent Theatre, is screen entertainment plus.

Mary Astor and William Collier, Jr., as the young lovers, make a delightful team in the featured roles, and both contribute performances which merit the highest praise.

Ralph Lewis and Lionel Belmore as the livery stable owner and the service station proprietor, contribute the comedy with their good-natured business feud, and, in addition, add a few scenes which are highly dramatic. David Kirby, Burt Ross, Henry Barrows, Michael Visaroff and others are in the supporting cast.

A striking feature of "The Sunset Derby" is the fact that it is highly thrilling and possesses many dramatic moments without once touching melodrama with the familiar movie "villain."

The deft handling of the story, and particularly the workmanlike direction of the racing scenes, merits Albert Rogell, the director, a great deal of praise.

CRESCENTS MEET COGS IN REPLAY

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

WE'VE SOLD THE CAR

We've sold the car,
A good old friend,
The good old car
Is at an end.
Some other hand
Will have the fun,
And try to make
The old car run.

We've traded in
The good old car,
For that's the way
That people are.
Old age had come,
And youth had gone,
And so we passed
The old car on.

It seems unkind,
It seems unfair,
But that's the way
That friendships wear,
Yet none can say
We did not praise
It even in
Its saddest days.

Yes, if you think
We did not claim
We loved the old
Car still the same,
And swear it was
As good as new,
Then ask the man
We sold it to

DELORO WINS EXCITING GAME

Leadership of Contest at Home With Belleville Changes.

FINAL SCORE 6-3.

MARMORA, July 21.—In a game of fluctuating fortunes Deloro obtained the victory over Belleville on the Smelter's enclosure yesterday by six runs to three. Manager Elliott created no little surprise in sending Jack to the mound and playing the juvenile Narrie at shortstop. The former turned in a highly creditable game, but the latter will need experience to approach the standard of play shown by Jack in that position. Hoot Gibson went the whole length for the Nationals, but was unable to keep up the good form of the first four innings.

The scoring started in the third. After Weir had walked, H. Mills singled, advancing Weir to third. W. Mills lifted to Regan. Haper hit to Narrie, scoring Weir. H. Mills scored on Narrie's wild throw to second. Harper took third on a wild pitch. Post grounded to Jack. Hagerman flied to Boudreau.

Deloro replied in their half. J. Quinn walked, Brown singled to right and worked with Quinn the double steal. Narrie grounded to Harper. Bond flied to first. J. Quinn scored on a wild pitch, Brown going to third. Regan hit to the pitcher, retiring the side.

Belleville scored again in the fifth. H. Mills singled. W. Mills was safe on the catcher's error. Harper forced H. Mills at third. Post flied to Huhes. Harper stole second, W. Mills crossing the plate. Hagerman fanned.

Two runs in arrears, Deloro got going. J. Quinn flied to Scott. Brown was safe on Weir's error. Narrie flied to centre. Bond singled and bases. A Quinn tripled to right clearing the bases ahead of him. Boudreau grounded to Harper.

Though the bases were filled in the next frame Belleville was denied a score.

Deloro obtained a much merited run. Jack reached third on a magnificent hit to centre. Hughes fanned. J. Quinn bunted, scoring Jack. Brown was safe on Weir's error. Quinn taking second. Narrie and Bond flied out, retiring the side.

Nothing materialized in the seventh, though a score looked inminent in each half.

In the eight the Nationals treated the Smelters to a run. Jack bunted and was safe at first. Hughes forced Jack at second, stole second, and reached home on an overthrow. J. Quinn fanned and Brown grounded out.

In the ninth Belleville was speedily disposed of and lost their third game with Deloro this season.

Umpires—Collings at plate, Gerow on bases.

Score by innings:
Belleville. .. ..002010000—3 7 3
Deloro .. ..00103101x—6 8 6

HAPPINESS IS THE ONLY GOAL

We stumble through life more or less haphazardly, blindly searching for things and experiences which will make us happy. So often we plan too far in the future and expect to find happiness at some distant time when we will have acquired enough money, secured a certain position or achieved some desired success.

An important truth to remember is that NOW is the only time in which we ever will be happy—that is—the actual ever present NOW with its problems and its opportunities. There may be a certain degree of satisfaction in day-dreaming and building air castles, but the every-day problems of the NOW furnish us the only real material for the enjoyment of happiness.

Many people waste their opportunities, day after day, hoping that in some far distant future they will be rewarded for all the misery they are experiencing now. Most people spend a life-time planning for old age, laying up treasures to be enjoyed after fifty or sixty years of hard work. Such people seldom reach these ages. Their goal of happiness may indeed lie beyond the grave, but the better part of wisdom would be for each one to wholesomely enjoy every moment of the ever present NOW.

It is often said that there can be no real happiness without health. It is therefore, folly for one to attempt to pile up a fortune and often thereby ruin his health so that mature age is never reached or cannot be really enjoyed by one who has not learned to live as he goes along through life.

A great deal more joy can be had out of life as we are living it if we learn how to take care of ourselves and practice certain rules of healthful living. The results are only meager, however, compared to those we can receive if we pass along any helpful ideas to others who are also struggling for happiness through good health.

You, who are reading these health lessons every day, will find great benefit from following the principles which I am advocating. The rules I give you for right living have been accumulated from my own experience and the experience of others. My greatest joy in life is to pass these experiences on to you, hoping you will benefit by them. You will find that your pleasure in life and living will be enormously increased if you will also pass these good ideas on to your friends. Everyone about you is sick or suffering from some ailment and you will be surprised to find how much joy you can get out of teaching others the simple health rules which I am daily teaching you.

Appoint yourself an apostle of health, learn how to live right, and while not forcing your ideas upon others, learn the satisfaction which comes from teaching those who are eager to learn more about healthful living.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Attempts have been made on the life of ELISE MARBERRY, an American girl owning considerable property near the little town of PORTO VERDE, in west central Brazil. She has escaped harm due to the shrewdness of her cousin and protector, VILAK, who with his friend, LINCOLN NUNNALLY, an elderly American chemist, is trying to learn the reason for the strange enmity for Elise.

Elise, Vilak and Nunnally finally emerge from the jungle. Presently they come to the outskirts of a strange city, resembling the old Inca civilization. Here they are made prisoners. They discover they are in the power of CARLOS D'ALBENTARA, whom they had known as an engineer back in Porto Verde.

The ruler of the city decides to marry Elise and to put Vilak and Nunnally to death. They are to be tortured at the feast of Raymi, as are Elise's nephew and Prentiss, who are prisoners also. A friendly Indian slips a dagger to Vilak, who cuts his bonds, then proceeds to awe the natives by walking through fire. D'Albentara is killed. Vilak starts to relate the strange story of Prentiss.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY

CHAPTER XLVII.

"Merely this," Vilak answered. "The first quest for gold, and to my mind the much less important, was the attempt of Limey Potts, Pasquale Branza, and Detto Cicerone. Three rogues working together, they believed—with reason—that they could easily get many thousands of dollars from you by kidnaping Tinky. That was why Limey was in the tree waiting for you to drive by the day Tony Barbetta was killed. He was going to cause you to have an accident or something of the sort and try to kidnap Tinky then. His arrest somewhat disrupted the trio's plans, but didn't block them.

"When Tinky disappeared the first time, it was the Italians who had taken him, one of them riding the horse with the injured foot which had belonged to Prentiss and which I afterward learned they had stolen. They were on the road to Furnass Caves when they were unfortunate enough to meet four mounted gendarmes who watch that place pretty closely just because it is such a haven for crooks and smugglers, and they had to run for it, being compelled at last to get rid of the child, which was crying in terror and otherwise embarrassing their flight.

"Failing in this scheme, Limey, after the others had aided him to escape from jail, decided on a much bolder experiment, which, if successful, he believed would be far more lucrative: that was to kidnap you yourself and threaten you until you gave them any amount of money they chose to ask for."

"Was that the . . . er . . . occasion," the old man murmured, "the soldiers . . . yes . . . soldiers . . . captured us on the way to Villapa?"

"Exactly. Of course, that experiment was a failure, too. Meanwhile the two Italians, who, ne'er-do-wells themselves, were naturally on good terms with the ne'er-do-wells of the native population, had heard vague rumors about some of the Indians in D'Albentara's camp, and catching the poor drunken fellow he saved that night—you don't know about that incident, Elise—tortured him to see what he knew, and found his information highly interesting.

"Then, discouraged by the lack of success in their schemes to get money from Elise, they decided to abandon her in their plans, and follow up the information they had gained. Which brings us to the second and more important quest, the one which concerns Prentiss and D'Albentara."

The tom-toms began to sound monotonously. He listened keenly a moment, then continued. "I've told Nanny many times before that these people aren't Incas. Far from it. But they have been living in these Inca ruins for many generations and naturally have taken over many of the Inca possessions which remained.

"If you remember your histories, you'll recall that the thing they had most of was gold. Gold in such enormous quantities that the Spaniards who first saw their cities wouldn't credit their eyes. Walls of the nobles' houses literally covered with it, great vases, and even furniture made of it. Called it 'the tears of the sun'."

He gazed off toward the chief's palace silhouetted against the starlit sky. "I was in that building with Batalagos this afternoon. In a great stone basement of it is gold. A tremendous amount of gold. Ornamental armor, carved flowers, all that sort of thing. How much it's worth, I couldn't estimate. Besides this there are rich gold mines a few miles away where it originally came from. I'm half inclined not to take you to see either. It's done too much harm, this gold. Killed too many people."

The hideous painted priests began a droning chant. "You know Prentiss is an archeologist. He's always specialized in Inca archeology. Some years ago he got into that trouble with the museum, you remember, and resigned under a cloud of scandal. He told me about it today. Got foolish over some woman, and sold a lot of the museum property which he had discovered to gratify her taste for money. No need going into details.

"But the effect of it was that he was pretty swiftly dropped by most of his friends and acquaintances and, embittered, went off to South America again, intending never to return to the States. He soon resumed his explorations and researches and was working in the eastern parts of Peru when he heard vague reports that there were interesting old Inca ruins off in this direction. So after some considerable wandering over the mountains and desert here in search of it, he finally arrived and found D'Albentara here.

"D'Albentara was one of those unusual persons you occasionally encounter," he went on. "A highly intelligent, cultured man who has gone completely wrong. He was quite suspicious of Prentiss at first, but when he learned that the other's mission was purely an archeological one, treated him very cordially, and they became good friends. Seems he was the ne'er-do-well son of an excellent Portuguese family, and having gone to Brazil to escape arrest after committing a murder, had been a civil engineer and numerous other things until he got into trouble again and had to leave once more.

"In this manner, drifting from wilder spot to wilder spot, he came by accident upon this place which belongs to Batalagos. He was a clever fellow, was D'Albentara, very clever. And it didn't take him long to find out about all the gold Batalagos had here or to make himself the half-breed's chief adviser so that he could set about getting it. To do this, he began playing politics.

"As I've often said, a king or chief is nothing but a different variety of ward politician. Batalagos especially deserved that designation because he wasn't too secure on his throne. He had plenty of enemies, particularly among those natives here who probably had considerable Inca blood in them and certainly came of good stock. Naturally, they bitterly resented having a mongrel like Batalagos over them. So Batalagos began systematically wiping them out. And D'Albentara curried his favor by helping him.

"Well . . . I remarked before that D'Albentara, after he found that Prentiss wasn't gold hungry, became friendly. Probably quite glad to see another white man, particularly an intelligent one. He invited Prentiss to see one of his executions, which was a perversion of the old Inca practice of human sacrifice.

"Prentiss went. The victim whom the gods had supposedly selected for the occasion was a baby, the son of one of the lighter skinned Indian families who had been the chief's worst enemies. A child just as old as Tinky was at the time.

"Prentiss was a scientist, who had steadfastly maintained that it was a bad plan for an archeologist to interfere in local politics. But despite his bitterness, he was at heart a very decent fellow in many ways, and when the execution was about to take place it was a little more than he could stomach. He darted forward, knocked one of the priests down—he was quite husky then—and seized the baby in his arms.

"Of course, they caught him immediately; he was condemned to be sacrificed at once, for his violent act had outraged every god they possessed. He was already on the sacrificial stone and the tattooers had just left him to begin work on the child, when fortunately for him, Batalagos and some of his priests decided that the sacrilege had badly jolted the omens so that the time was no longer favorable. Consequently he and the child were thrown into prison to await a more favorable moment.

"I won't bother you with the details of how he escaped through the aid of friends of the child and, taking the baby with him, after incredible hardships finally got to Diamantino, in western Brazil.

"Back in semi-civilization, he naturally thought he was safe, but he had been there two weeks, trying to recuperate from a wretched fever he had contracted coming through the jungle, when he found that D'Albentara and his men were following him. Not that D'Albentara bore him any personal enmity. He didn't. But the child had become a symbol. If he didn't bring it back, and if Prentiss' act went unpunished, Batalagos' prestige would be enormously diminished, and likewise that of his chief adviser. While if D'Albentara did succeed in returning Prentiss and the child, the grateful chief would refuse him nothing. A fact which Batalagos may or may not have pointed out.

"To make a long story short . . . From Diamantino Prentiss came on east to Porto Verde and shut himself up on his father's old fazenda, letting no one know that he had the child with him. He hoped to throw D'Albentara's men off the track.

"He sailed, of course. He tried to go back to the United States, much as he didn't wish to after his unfortunate affair there. But he was crazy with illness and shattered nerves, and had got into some complicated mess about his passport and citizenship. The consular officials, to whom he told part of his story, thought he was completely mad, and wouldn't let him out of the country.

"That's why he treated you the way he did, Elise. Remembering the bitter quarrel between your family and his own over the ownership of his fazenda, in his half-deranged state your visits only made him more frantic, for he was certain, with that terrible fixedness of mind of a nervously overwrought person, that you were trying to drive him out of his last refuge.

(To be concluded.)

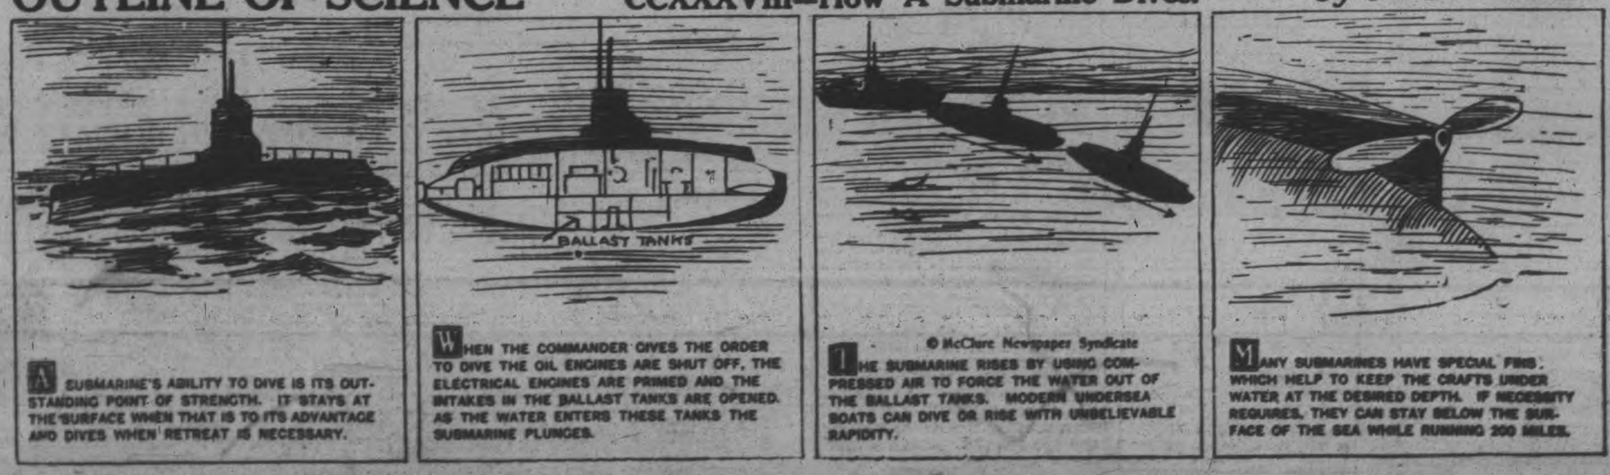
OUTLINE OF SCIENCE — CCXXXVIII—How A Submarine Dives. — by MAX HAHN



A SUBMARINE'S ABILITY TO DIVE IS ITS OUTSTANDING POINT OF STRENGTH. IT STAYS AT THE SURFACE WHEN THAT IS TO ITS ADVANTAGE AND DIVES WHEN RETREAT IS NECESSARY.

WHEN THE COMMANDER GIVES THE ORDER TO DIVE THE OIL ENGINES ARE SHUT OFF, THE ELECTRICAL ENGINES ARE PRIMED AND THE INTAKES IN THE BALLAST TANKS ARE OPENED. AS THE WATER ENTERS THESE TANKS THE SUBMARINE PLUNGES.

© McClure Newspaper Syndicate

THE SUBMARINE RISES BY USING COMPRESSED AIR TO FORCE THE WATER OUT OF THE BALLAST TANKS. MODERN UNDERSEA BOATS CAN DIVE OR RISE WITH UNBELIEVABLE RAPIDITY.

MANY SUBMARINES HAVE SPECIAL FINS WHICH HELP TO KEEP THE CRAFTS UNDER WATER AT THE DESIRED DEPTH. IF NECESSITY REQUIRES, THEY CAN STAY BELOW THE SURFACE OF THE SEA WHILE RUNNING 200 MILES.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

ENSIGN CAPTURES SHIP AND 22 RUM RUNNERS.

Ensign Chabbes L. Duke (inset), of the United States coastguard, 27 years old, single-handed, boarded a moving rum runner in New York Bay, seized her liquor cargo worth $500,000 and then, by a display of daring and cool nerve, subdued and arrested her entire crew of 22 seamen. Duke stood guard over his capture for many hours while waiting for aid to reach him, forcing the crew to remain below. The rum ship, Economy, is shown aground on a mud flat off the Statue of Liberty, where Duke caused her to be driven.

BELIEVE PARTY STILL IN CANADA

U. S. Officials Have Orders To Hold Slayers at Border.

IN MONTREAL MURDER.

MONTREAL, July 21.—(Canadian Press.)—Following prompt orders of Commissioner Landis that the party of three who attempted to cross the United States' border on Sunday night and were stopped at Trout River, and who are wanted by the police as being possibly connected with the murder of Adelard Bouchard, taxi driver of Lachine, Que., who was found dead near Huntingdon, be held up if they made any further attempt to enter the United States, it is believed the party are still in Canada.

BOWLERS BEGIN DOUBLES TODAY

Preliminary Round Has Been Disposed of and First Round Started.

SOME GOOD BOWLING.

Apparently quite fresh after a series of games which lasted into the neither "wee" nor "sma" hours of the morning (it was well after 3 a. m. when some of the players finished), the contenders in the doubles competition of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club got well under way in their games this morning.

The non-arrival of members of the Campbellford club yesterday, which was the cause of much speculation, was explained by a telegram from P. Archer, president of the club, stating that no notice of the tournament was received, and intimating the entry of four couples for the doubles being played to-day. Inquiry here revealed the fact that notification had been sent to the secretary of the club, who is at present on his holidays ,and evidently overlooked the event.

The doubles preliminaries were played off last night and this morning, leaving the way clear for the inauguration of the competition proper. The following are the preliminary scores:

Preliminary.

Scopis and Curvin 15, Sorenson and French 10.

Fox and Freeman 16, Bacon and Cairns 14.

Moore and DeLaney 14, J. Wise and Fitzpatrick 10.

Chenhall and Greenslade 19, Glover and Wiggins 16.

Martin and Taylor 14, Harrison and Donaldson 9.

Archer and Gillespie 15, Allen and Grant 12.

Bennet and Howden 11, Johnson and Sedgwick 10.

J. Wise and Fitzpatrick 28, Wilkinson and Marks 6.

First Round.

In the first round of the doubles, an exciting finish was recorded in the struggle between Coleman and Mayneord and Braund and Routley, in which an extra end had to be played to separate the contestants. ing by 9-7. In the eleventh the lead ing by 9-7. n the eleventh the lead was increased to 11-7. In every one of the succeeding ends, the opposing pair gained a point on the leaders, so that at the fifteenth the scores were level. In the entra end Mayneord and his partner, by little more than an inch got one ahead of the other pair, winning a splendidly contested battle.

Results of the first round were:

Coleman and Mayneord 12, Routley and Braund 11.

GIRL LOSES FOOT IN MOWER BLADES

Horses, Left Unattended, Start Suddenly, Catching Child's Leg.

WESTON, July 21.—Seven-year-old Irene Baker had her left foot severed at the ankle by a hay mower on her father's farm at Richview, about three miles from here, yesterday afternoon. She was playing around the mower when the horses, which were unattended, temporarily became startled and commenced to run.

The little girl's left foot got caught in the sickle of the machine, and the accident happened before the horses could be stopped. J. Baker, the girl's father, had left the horses for a few minutes. There was no one around except Irene's 10-year-old brother Jack, whose quick action in stopping the horses probably prevented much more serious injuries to his sister.

The girl's parents and a neighbor, Mrs. Oliver Dixon, rendered what first aid treatment they could. Dr. Fred Cruickshank of Weston, was called and had the girl rushed to the Toronto General Hospital.

MIST ON COAST CAUSES WRECKS

Three Vessels Run Aground and Two Others Collide Near Boston.

STEAMERS HELD UP.

BOSTON, July 21. Canadian Press —Three sailing vessels were piled up on Cape Cod, a Nantasket excursion steamer and a United Fruit Liner, had crashed in the harbor here, four hundred passengers on a Provincetown ship were marooned all night, and the Leviathan, the world's largest steamship, was awaiting clearance to enter port to-day as a result of one of the heaviest fogs which ever blanketed the New England coast.

No help was in prospect for many hours, unless the fog should lift, and the coast guard crew took up the watch on the beach.

In Boston Harbor 125 passengers aboard the Nantasket excursion boat Mayflower were thrown into temporary panic when she crashed into the United fruit liner Limon at anchor near Quarantine. The Mayflower's port side and the main and hurricane deck superstructures were stove in with an estimated loss of twenty five thousand dollars.

No one was injured and the officers of the ship succeeded in calming the passengers.

WAGE DISPUTE BEING SETTLED

Representatives of C.N.R. and Freight Handlers Near Agreement.

ON FINAL DETAILS.

MONTREAL, July 21 (Canadian Press).—Settlement of the wage dispute between the Canadian National Railways and eighteen thousand freight handlers and checkers employed by the company was practically completed this morning, stated A. R. Mosher, President of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees. A compromise basis between the demands of the men and the company's offer has been reached and only the final details remain to be worked out this afternoon, when the agreement will be executed.

DARING HOLD-UP IS FRUSTRATED

ONE MAN CAPTURED.

DETROIT, Mich., July 21.—Shoppers on Washington Boulevard ran for cover late yesterday afternoon when three robbers, who attempted to hold up a New York diamond merchant engaged three policemen in a gun battle, in which nearly 100 shots were exchanged. A patrolman and two passersby were injured by stray bullets. One of the alleged robbers was captured a few minutes later in an alley nearby. Another was captured a few blocks away. The men seized one of the two satchels carried by the diamond salesman, Solomon L. Freudenheim, whom they slugged with a blackjack, but missed the satchel in which he carried the jewels.

The hold-up occurred on Clifford Street near Washington Boulevard. Freudenheim was about to enter a jewelry store when the robbers car, a large sedan, drove up to the curb and three men jumped out and slugged the salesman, but he managed to break away.

Patrolman John Downs, who was standing on the corner, immediately opened fire on the man who replied and then left Freudenheim lying on the sidewalk and sped north. Downs was shot in the right foot. Two patrolmen from the police tow-away wagon saw Downs fire at the car and opened fire. During exchange of shots, Charles Infield, 43, was shot in the scalp, and J. M. Smith, 19, was shot in the right leg.

Women shoppers, who lined the boulevard screamed and ran for cover in shops during the hail of bullets, and traffic came to a standstill.

A CORRECITION.

Regarding an article which appeared in the Evening Examiner, dated July 4th, 1927, in connection with the erection of Memorial Gates erected in honour of the late Mrs. Charlotte Nicholls, and situated at the east entrance of Nicholls' Park, I might say these gates were erected by Ernest Henry, general contractor, instead of the name of the firm of Henry Bros., which appeared in the above issue and would also remark that I desire to dishonour the partnership of Henry Bros.

EARLY TRAIN IS TOO EARLY

Chamber of Commerce Trying To Get C.P.R. to Change Time.

FROM 4.50 TO 6.00.

On behalf of the travelling public of Peterborough the Chamber of Commerce is trying to arrange with the C.P.R. that the train now leaving the city at 4.50 in the morning will depart at six o'clock, which would bring a Peterborough business man into Toronto just in time to commence his necessary business. As it now is, business people are compelled to get up very early to catch the early train and it brings them to Toronto at 8.10, one hour previous to any business office opening, entailing discomfort in both places.

This train is a Montreal-Toronto through train which does not connect with any other trains, and therefore could be changed without losing any time with any other trains. Thus there is some hope held by the Chamber of Commerce that there will be a change made in the near future.

The people of Peterborough are interested in the situation, for most people now would rather motor to Toronto than have so much inconvenience with the train schedule.

W. Fulton, district passenger agent, has signified his intention of coming to Peterborough next week to discuss the promblem with the Chamber of Commerce, and C. Grout, superintendent of the Ontario Division, will accompany him. This change would in all probability, mean more for the railway, for many persons travelling in automobiles would gladly take the train if they could arrive in Toronto at the right time to conduct their business.

The two rivals did not meet, Dempsey leaving before Sharkey arrived. Physicians reported both men in perfect condition. WEDDING BELLS.

DUNN—EDEY.

A quiet wedding took place at the Sacred Heart Church, Rev. Father Moloney officiating, when Miss Marjorie Georgina third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Edey became the bride of Gordon Thomas Dunn, the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dunn, of Windsor.

The bride looked lovely in a gown of ashes of roses, and hat to match. The bridesmaid, Mrs. George Mason youngest sister of the bride, was gowned in yellow taffeta with hat and hose to match.

Mr. Bruce Edey, brother of the bride, acted as best man.

Later the happy couple left by motor for Toronto, Montreal, Quebec city, Ottawa and Windsor.

On their return they will reside in Nakina.

WILLIAMS—RUNNINGS.

A charming wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Best, Alice street, Kingston, when their cousin Jennie Maud Runnings, elder daughter of Mr. W. J. Runnings of Ida, formerly of Owen Sound, Ont., was united in marriage to Mr. Wilbert Richard Williams, son of Mrs. and the late Mr. William Williams of Claudeboye, Ont.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Mellor of Picton, and the wedding music was played by Mrs. Baxter, England.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father looked lovely in a gown of French bridal satin; a coronet of orange blossoms held her veil of embroidered net, and knots of orange blossoms also edged the court train which was beautifully embroidered and lined with pink crepe romaine. She carried a shower bouquet of ophelia roses lilies of the valley and sweetheart roses, and wore the groom's gift, a rope of pearls.

The bride was attended by her sister, Gertrude of Winnipeg, who wore a bouffant frock of orchid and silver taffeta. Purple velvet ribbon formed an effective bow at the shoulders, the streamers falling to the hem. Her flowers were sweet peas in pastel shades.

The groom was supported by Mr. W. J. McCallum of Kingston.

After a dainty luncheon was served the bride changed to her travelling costume, her dress being of blue and grey figured crepe with faille silk coat in matching tones. Grey hat and gloves completed the pretty ensemble.

The happy couple left immediately for an extended trip through the Eastern States and Bermuda, after which they will reside in Kingston.

LOFTUS—LEVINE.

A very pretty Jewish wedding was solemnized at the Prince George Hotel, Toronto, last Thursday, when Bessie, second eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs S. Levine, 220 Wolfe Street, became the bride of Louis Loftus, son of the late Mr and Mrs. Loftus, of Toronto. The ceremony was performed by Rabbi Voldofsky, of Toronto.

The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming in a gown of rosewood crepe, wearing a picture hat, blonde shoes and stockings, and carrying a bouquet of ophelia roses and lily of the valley. She was attended by the maid of honour, Mrs. H. Cohen, sister of the bridegroom

After the ceremony, a luncheon was served to the immediate relatives and friends of the bridal party, Mr. and Mrs. Loftus leaving later by motor for a honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls, Rochester and New York City.

On their return, they will reside in Peterborough. Many beautiful gifts received were tangible evidence of the esteem in which the contracting parties are held by the community.

LINDSAY—EDWARDS.

A quiet wedding took place yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Goldie, 868 George Street, when the latter's sister, Marjorie Doig Edwards, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to David R. Lindsay of Baintree, Massachusetts. The ceremony, performed by Rev. Dr. Brown, pastor at George Street United Church during the absence of Rev. J. E. Todd, was solemnized under the entwined flags of the Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes. Attendants were Miss Elizabeth McKillop and Mr. Jas. A. Goldie.

A dainty buffet luncheon was served after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay leaving later for Toronto and other points, en route to their home in Baintree, Massachusetts.

IN POLICE COURT.

John Fleming was fined twenty dollars and costs this morning for a breach of the Ontario Temperance Act. This is the second time, this week, that Fleming has been in court under the same charge.

2,403 PERMITS TO CAR DRIVERS

Local Issuer Estimates That 2,500 Have Yet To Obtain Cards.

DECEIT REPORTED.

A statement was issued to The Examiner today by the issuer of the operators' licenses in Peterborough that to date there have been 2,403 drivers' permits issued, which indicates that 2,500 persons in the city and district has as yet failed to comply with the new regulations.

There have been also numerous cases reported that persons have obtained operators' licenses and have not driven the required six months. There has been a penalty of $100 set down by the Highways Department for any person caught doing this.

Many permits have been issued by mail, but the issuer states that not many of these applicants sent return postage, and that if this practice is continued, no permits whatsoever will be thus issued.

HAILSTORM'S TOLL REACHES MILLIONS

Nearly 3,000 Claims Filed in Saskatchewan Insurance Offices.

REGINA, July 21 (Canadian Press) —Successive hail storms during the past three weeks have taken heavy toll in Saskatchewan, and nearly three thousand insurance claims, involving millions of dollars, have already been filed in local hail insurance offices.

Following the storm of July 19, which lashed southern portions of the province, more than fifteen hundred claims have been entered and the number will be materially swelled as a result of another storm that swept the Lumsden and Radville districts late yesterday. At Lumsden many grain fields were levelled, the losses reaching as high as 75 per cent.

SHARKEY'S TRUNKS PULLED UP; FOOLED SPECTATORS ON BLOW

Motion Pictures Run Off Slowly Indicate Punch Was Fair.

THREE AND ONE—OUT!

NEW YORK, July 22 (Canadian Press).—Motion picture operators and laboratory men who developed the official motion pictures of the Dempsey-Sharkey fight to-day announced that the films show that the disputed blow which contributed to Dempsey's victory was apparently fair.

The film was run off three times to permit newspapermen to compare their judgments. Slow motions of the fighters revealed that Dempsey struck three hard rights to the stomach of Sharkey before delivering the left to the jaw that knocked out his opponent. The pictures showed that Sharkey was wearing his trunks pulled higher up than Dempsey was wearing his, which led newspapermen to-day to assert that this fact had probably contributed much to the confusion of last night's witnesses of the bout.

Jack Dempsey and Jack Sharkey split a purse of slightly more than four hundred and fifty thousand dollars for their battle last night, which drew a "gate" of one million seventy-five thousand and an attendance of eighty-two thousand, according to Tex Rickard's estimate. It was the fourth million dollar fight in ring history, in all of which Dempsey has been a principal. The former champion now is assured of a "cut" in the fifth big money fight when he meets Gene Tunney in a return title bout. Rickard's contracts with the fighters called for Dempsey to get 27½ per cent. and Sharkey 22½. Dempsey's share is approximately $252,759 and Sharkey's $206,803.

HAMILTON, July 22. — On the radiator cap of the automobile of Fred Walmsley, Central Fish Market, is the metal figure of a small knight in armor with a lance levelled. On Wednesday as Mr. Walmsley was driving from Ottawa to Kingston he observed a small bird fly against the knight near Kingston, but thought nothing more of the incident until he reached this city yesterday. Upon going to the front of the car, he was amazed to see the small bird, a song sparrow, impalled on the knight's spear.

Tribes Dwell In Land of Fire

NEW YORK, July 22 (By NEA) —Two tribes dwell in the "land of fire" (Tierra del Fuego), the Onas and Yahagans.

The Onas use bows and arrows in the chase. The Yahagans, who inhabit the southern part of the island, have been called the most miserable species of humanity in the Western Hemisphere. A charge of cannibalism made against them, however, has been found untrue.

Sick Baby Breathes Through Tube In Back

CHICAGO, July 22.—(United Press.)—Breathing by means of a rubber tube which extends from one lung through an incision in his back, two year old Albert Katsen to-day held off the death that has threatened so menacingly the past 24 hours. Doctors said he is improving despite his inability to breathe normally and despite their inability to force oxygen into his infected lungs. He has been ill for more than three weeks with bronchial pnuemonia, but it was not until Wednesday that his lungs became so infected that the artificial respiration tube was made necessary.

BALDWIN HANDS BIG BOUQUET TO WESTERN CANADA FARMERS

British Premier Praises Pool Organized in Wheat Provinces as Great Measure of Self-Help and Example of Keen Work.

REPLACED DEPRESSION WITH OPTIMISM.

LINCOLN, England, July 22 (Canadian Press Cable). — Premier Stanley Baldwin to-day paid a tribute to the farmers of Western Canada on their revolutionizing marketing methods in five years through the wheat pool, and causing optimism to take the place of depression. He said it was because he wanted to be among the optimists that he was going to visit Western Canada on his coming tour of the Dominion.

Explaining the improved positions of Canadian farmers, Premier Baldwin, who was speaking at a rally of Lincolnshire Conservatives, said:

"All this has been done by the farmers themselves. Confronted by a slump following the post-war boom, they consulted together and formed a pool of the great wheat producing provinces, and this pool is governed by the farmers themselves. That gigantic effort by self-help and keen work saved thousands of Canadians from disaster."

VISITORS MUST SECURE PASS FROM SOVIET

Application Must Be Forwarded To Russian Foreign Office in Moscow.

SECURE PASS.

Visa Will Be Obtained From a Consulate on Continent of Europe.

MONTREAL, July 22 (Canadian Press).—Canadian citizens and residents wishing to visit Soviet Russia should file an application with a local transportation company for a Soviet visa, which will be forwarded to the Soviet Foreign Office in Moscow. The Foreign Office in Moscow will, in their reply, indicate a Consulate on the Continent of Europe where the intending visitor can obtain the visa, in the case of the Soviet authorities deciding to grant one.

This is the solution of the problem which presented itself to the Canadian public after the Soviet trade delegation had left the country, in consequence of the breach of relations between the Dominion of Canada and Soviet Russia, the particulars having been given out yesterday by the local steamship offices. It would not be advisable for any prospective visitors to Soviet Russia to leave Canada until they have a definite promise of a visa, unless, of course, they are prepared to submit a personal application to one of the Soviet Government officials stationed in Europe and wait three or four months pending the receipt of a reply from Moscow.

A preliminary suggestion that Canadians or Canadian residents wishing to see their relatives or friends residing in Soviet Russia, should proceed to Poland and have their relations come out to see them there, has been discouraged, because it is stated that the Soviet authorities are more reluctant to allow residents in Soviet Russia to leave the country for a short stay, than in the case of residents wishing to emigrate permanently.

FOLLY OF WAR POINTED OUT

FAILURE OF FORCE.

"Violence and the things of violence never engender love and peace," declares Rev. F. L. Hall, minister of the First Congregational Church at Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio. Mr. Hall, who is a member of the Kiwanis Club of his home town, gave a powerful and eloquent address on the Harvest of Hate before the Peterborough Kiwanis Club at the weekly luncheon held in the Empress Hotel to-day.

Five hundred years ago, said Mr. Hall, this principle was laid down by an underprivileged boy, who was good, Genghis Khan. Left an orphan this warrior—"not a Nordic," significantly added Mr. Hall — unable to read or write, fought his way to the sovereignty of his province, mastered the rest of Central Asia, and built up an empire in some respects the greatest the world has seen, extending from the China Sea to the Black Sea and from the Indian border to the frozen Arctic; indeed, he would have conquered the world had his life been prolonged. This mighty warrior, who did more to check the growing power of Islam than did Charles Martel and his Frankish warriors in Europe, realized the futility of trying to win an enemy by force. One sentence explained his whole career. "An enemy conquered," he said, "is never subdued. He will always hate." This maxim governed his whole policy. If his opponents were willing to unite with him, he formed an alliance with them. If they resisted he utterly exterminated them; and such famous Mohammedan cities as Bokhara and Samercand became heaps of ashes and a memory. Mr. Hall expressed the belief that the nomadic conqueror's realization of the failure of subduing by force was something the world had not yet learned.

Ireland An Example.

Ireland, the most beautiful country in the world, was filled with ruins today, the result of men trying to win others by force. For 2,000 years men had been making ruins in Ireland. The tragedy in Ireland was that men so long had done things in hate.

Mr. Hall, drawing from his experiences in Ireland with the American armed forces during the war, drew a number of graphic word pictures of some of the most famous ruins that bear mute witness to the romance and tragedy of the country.

Carol Is Cut Off In Ferdinand's Will With a Paltry Four Hundred Thousand

BUCHAREST, July 22 (Canadian Press). — Under the will of King Ferdinand made public late last night, the former Crown Prince Carol is cut off from inheriting any real estate, but falls heir to about four hundred thousand dollars in cash and stocks. The rest of the King's estate, totalling about one and a half million dollars and including palaces, city dwellings and country houses, is apportioned equally among his other children.

GOVERNMENT TO SUPPRESS ALL REVOLTS

Will Not Allow Former Crown Prince Carol To Obtain Throne.

OF RUMANIA.

Body of Ferdinand Will Lie in State in Winter Palace Until Sunday.

BUCHAREST July 22.—(Canadian Press.)—Peace and quiet — uppermost virtues and aims of King Ferdinand the Just during his life—prevailed while the mortal remains of the beloved sovereign were brought down from the mountains of Sinaia to the low levels of Cotroceni Palace yesterday.

The body of the king will lie in State in the winter palace until Sunday when it will be interred in the ancient cathedral at Curtea de Arges. The lone Hohenzollern, who stood with the allies in the great war, will be given a last salute by them.

On the King's mausoleum will be engraved: "I am a Rumanian first, last and all the time."

Flowers from Queen Marie and the daughters of the Royal couple will cover the bier and throughout the intervening period guards will hold uninterrupted vigil.

Suppress Revolt.

In acclaiming the little Prince Michael as King Michael the First of Rumania, the government announces its determination to suppress any attempts of the supporters of the former Crown Prince Carol to win the throne for him. Yet a conversation between Premier Bratiano and King Ferdinand last December is recalled—"I would have him shot," Bratiano is reported as having told the King when confronted with a report that Carol was leaving Paris and proceeding to Rumania.

"Take care that he does not have you shot," Ferdinand is quoted as having retorted with a laugh.

German Gun Carriage.

Placed on a gun carriage—a gun taken from the German armies, whose leaders were Hohenzollern members of the late King's family, the body of Ferdinand, followed by the entire royal family and delegations from all the countries diplomatically represented in Rumania was transferred to the railroad station at Sinaia. Troops, which under the leadership of General Averscu —until a few weeks ago premier of Rumania—were believed to be supporters of Carol as heirs to the throne, were confined to barracks. Silence reigned while the mournful procession defiled.

Throughout the forenoon thousands visited the castle of Sinaia, where the coffin draped in black was exposed in the great hall of the palace. Peasants and city dwellers marched slowly past, gazing mournfully at the King, who was dressed in the uniform of a General of the Rumanian Army.

The arrival of the cortege at Bucharest was marked by scenes of sadness and sorrow. School children wept silently as the catafalqua, flower laden, passed through the usually gay streets of the capital.

"He was our father," said a peasant woman from the Ploesci oil fields, 40 miles from Bucharest. "Long live his grandson."

A simple and impressive religious ceremony at the Castle of Sinaia yesterday opened the solemn obsequies of the first King of Greater Rumania—Ferdinand. Clouds of incense filled the great hall while the bells of the monastery, perched high on the summit of the mountain, tolled as the soldier generals of the army bore to the train the simple golden oak casket, on which lay the sovereign's sword and cap of the regiment of mounted chasseurs which he commanded.

All day long lines of peasants dressed in their best filed into Sinaia and the towns through which the funeral train passed. Many brought wild flowers which they laid on the tracks. They came afoot, in ox-waggons, in little buggies drawn by shaggy ponies and other vehicles. The train was draped in black as were the stations along the way. Many old folk, who had personally experienced the King's kindness and consideration, wept as the train proceeded slowly through the towns and villages.

Order Reigns.

Complete order reigns throughout Rumania and the infant King Michael's reign is functioning effectively without incident.

The death of King Ferdinand, so long expected, seems to have calmed, rather than disturbed the usually turbulent political situation. Throughout provincial Rumania the peasants and workers are pursuing their wonted tasks in field and factory, apparently indifferent to the change of sovereigns. The army remains loyal to the government.

Sermon Nearly Brings Wedding Disaster Law Requires Ceremony By Three O'Clock

LONDON, July 22 (Canadian Press).—The length of a sermon nearly brought disaster at the wedding of Edward Hulton, only son of the late Sir Edward Hulton, the Manchester newspaper owner, and Mdlle. Kira Levkovitsch, whose father was a General in the army of the late Czar.

The wedding was at Brompton Oratory, and the preacher was Father Ronald Knox. The English law requires that a marriage in a Catholic place of worship must take place with the Civil Registrar in attendance. It must also take place before three in the afternoon, which applies also to non-Catholic marriages.

At seven minutes to three Father Knox was still earnestly delivering his address, and the Registrar constantly looked at his watch. The sacristan approached some of the ushers, and implored them to convey to the preacher how time was passing. Eventually a server approached Father Knox. The latter was not to be hurried but at length he closed his discourse, and the bride and bridegroom made a hurried exit to the vestry to sign the register before the hour struck.

Father Ronald Knox is a son of the former Anglican Bishop of Manchester. He first took Holy Orders in the English Church, but after a few years was received into the Catholic Church. Rather curiously his father was one of the leaders of the Evangelical Party, and since his retirement has been very energetic in opposing alterations to the Communion office.

FARMERS BUSY WITH HAY CROP

RASPBERRIES ON SALE

TRENT RIVER, July 22.—The farmers are busy with the hay crop which is very heavy. The recent heavy rain did some damage to the hay. The hoe crops are looking fine.

Wild raspberries were on sale on Monday for the first time this year. A number from here have gone back to the northern country to pick huckleberries.

New potatoes are on sale at 60 cents a peck.

ANNOUNCEMENT IS PREMATURE

President of Education Associations Denies Toronto Report About Endowment.

NO STATEMENT.

AUGUSTA, Maine, July 22 (Associated Press).—"The announcement is premature and absolutely unauthorized," Dr. Augustus C. Thomas, State Commissioner of Education and president of the World Federation of Education Associations, said when informed of a report from Toronto yesterday that Raphael Herman, of Hollywood, Calif., would endow the Federation with at least a million dollars as soon as it is authorized to hold trust funds.

Dr. Thomas, who was reached at Lakewood, where the State house "Family" was having an outing, said Mr. Herman was interested in the work and had helped the Federation. It is possible that he may make some future provision of this character, but Dr. Thomas declined to make any statement to that effect.

Mr. Herman, at the close of the San Francisco meeting of the World Federation in 1923, offered a $25,000 prize for the best educational plan calculated to produce world peace. This was won by Dr. David Starr Jordan, president emeritus of Leland Stanford University at Palo Alto, Calif.

NEGOTIATIONS START.

British Columbia May Receive $100,000 For Damages to Railroad.

VICTORIA, B.C., July 22 (Canadian Press).—Negotiations by which the Canadian National Railways would pay the province for damage to the old Cariboo Road during construction of its main lines through the Fraser River Canyon are proceeding between the Provincial Government and the railway management now.

As a result of recent exchanges, it is reported the province may receive $100,000 from the railway.

Royal Party Travels With Little Baggage

LONDON July 22 (Canadian Press.—"Travel light" is the slogan of the Prince of Wales; his brother, Prince George; Premier Baldwin, and most of the others of the party of thirty who are to start the trip to Canada tomorrow. The total number of pieces of baggage sent today to be loaded on the steamer Empress of Australia is one hundred. Wales' baggage includes two uniforms, while George has one naval outfit. Both young world travellers, through previous experience, have confined the rest of their needs to the absolute minimum.

SIOUX FALLS, S.D., July 22 (By NEA). — For more than two years Ned Hanson, a wealthy farmer, wandered over the United states after having suffered a lapse of memory. The other day an old neighbour of Hanson's recognized him as he was being carried through the city by a motorist from Jackson, Minn., who had given him a lift.

GOLDEN JUBILEE IS CELEBRATED

Many Old Pupils Return for Celebration at S. S. No. 3, North Emily.

ADDRESS GIVEN

DUNSFORD, July 22.—There was not a cloud to check the golden rays of the summer sun as they broke over the heads of the hundreds of people who gathered at the school grounds of S. S. 3, North Emily, last Wednesday afternoon upon the occasion of the golden jubilee of the erection of the school. Folk were present from all parts of Ontario and from many places in Canada and the United States. The school and grounds were prettily decorated with the Union Jack in a place of prominence. An ice cream booth, where everything that the average summer guest would desire could be purchased, added to the happiness of the day. This was in charge of J. Milton Thurston, Secretary of the School Board, who in his usual pleasing manner sought to increase the comfort of all who applied for wares.

The program was in charge of William J. Patrick, Chairman of the School Board, and consisted of an opening chorus, "Our Own Canadian Home," rendered by the pupils of the school.

Addresses were given by Father Galvin, of Downeyville; Rev. J. F. Everson, of Dunsford; Rev. Reggie McMullen, recently home on furlough from Korea; James Lithgo, of Bobcaygeon; Mrs. Canning, a former teacher; Dr. Parker, of U. S. A., and several others who had been teachers or pupils of the old school.

A history of the public school in Emily for nearly 100 years was given by Hugh Elliott, who has been in the teaching profession for about thirty years, and who at three different intervals has taught nearly twenty years in the Emily school. Mr. Elliott was born and raised in the Emily section and has been teaching there since 1915, and has been reengaged for the ensuing year. He has a unique record as teacher and was largely responsible for the success of the gathering on Wednesday.

A softball game was staged by the visitors at the re-union. The ladies of the section provided a sumptuous supper for all the guests present.

FAENZA, Italy, July 22 (Canadian Press).—An earthquake of extreme violence, lasting two hours, was registered at five o'clock this morning by the seismograph of Bendandi Observatory. The epicentre was estimated to be at a distance of 4,700 kilometers in a south-easterly direction.

'HEAVE HIS TITLE INTO ASHPIT AND HE'D STILL BE A PRINCE'

Whole-Souled Tribute Paid To Hard Working Prince of Wales.

BY CAMERA MAN.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 22. Canadian Press. — "You could take away his title and heave it in the ashpit, and he would still be every bit a prince."

Thus Tracy Mathewson, Atlanta news-reel photographer, spoke of the Prince of Wales to-day as he boarded a train bound for Quebec. Mathewson received word last night that he had been selected as the sole movie camera man to be allowed to accompany the Prince on his visit to Canada, on July 29.

"He is one of the finest individuals I've ever known—and I have known a few in many countries during my 15 years as a news reel photographer," said Mathewson.

"Folks in this country have a wrong impression of him—he's not the rootin', tootin' gay young blade that newspaper correspondents would have you believe."

"Work? That Prince is the hardest worker I've ever laid my eyes on. I've travelled with circuses, with Woodrow Wilson, and a lot of other celebrities in my time—but this Windsor lad has 'em all eclipsed! On my first trip with him, he jumped off the train at every tank town, met the mayor, kissed a baby here and there, shook hands with the squire and village marshal, made a speech and climbed back aboard the train, while I was wheezin' like a wood burner on a steep grade!"

Carrier Pigeon Visits At Trent River Barn

TRENT RIVER, July 22.—A carrier pigeon arrived at the residence of Mr. Wesley Redden, 14th Concession, Tuesday morning, flew into the kitchen and made itself at home. Mrs. Redden caught it in her hand and found it had a red band on one leg and a white band on the other. The numbers twenty-seven and one hundred and sixty some odd were on the bands. Mr. Redden said the pigeon was hungry and remained around his barn all night.

UNITED STATES WILL STAND PAT

Insists On Liberty To Build Any Kind of Secondary Cruiser Desired.

WANTS LIMITATION.

GENEVA, July 22 (Canadian Press) —The United States will stand pat in her insistence upon the liberty to build any kind of secondary cruisers she desires and mount on them types of guns best suited to United States naval needs, according to information available in Geneva last night.

The British have been vigorously advocating the limitation of secondary cruisers to 6,000 tons displacement with a maximum gun calibre of six inches.

This difference of opinion continues to constitute the danger problem of the tri-partite naval conference and is doubtless the main question on which the British Cabinet will deliberate today in London.

BOATS CRASH SIGNALS WRONG

VESSELS SMASHED.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., July 22. — (Canadian Press).—A mistake in signals causing the steamer America to speed up instead of slowing down on approaching dock here caused the Booth liner from Duluth to crash into the tug Violet C., and then run onto shore. The Violet C. was badly damaged and three sailors clambored out to safety as the water poured into their quarters. Both vessels were badly damaged.

MENNONITES DISSATISFIED

TO COME BACK.

ROSTHERN, Sask., July 22 (Canadian Press).—The Mennonites who left Canada for Paraguay, South America, last winter are greatly dissatisfied with the hardships and the treatment they have received. The majority of them are now without funds and complain that the land they have purchased in trade for their Canadian farms is an unsurveyed, waterless wilderness, and absolutely useless for farming. They are appealing to relatives and friends in Canada for sufficient funds to enable them to return to the Dominion and have informed a few Rosthern residents that the land purchased by them is occupied by Indians who have had possession for many years.

This large group of Mennonites from Manitoba and Saskatchewan sold their land in Canada for $7 per acre cash, and the balance in trade of land in Paraguay, and to the number of one thousand, including women and children, journeyed to Porto Cosadi, leaving their relatives and friends in hopes of bettering their fortune. Over fifty people have died in about six months, the majority of them children.

STUART TOO BUSY TO TAKE POSITION

Will Still Serve on Cable Board, Although Refusing Chairmanship.

LONDON, July 21. —(UP). — Sir Campbell Stuart, today confirmed to the British United Press, the report that he had refused the chairmanship of the Pacific Cable Board "I found it would take too much of my time," he said, "It is really a full time occupation and I have too many other interests, however, I shall still remain a member of the Board."

The Pacific Cable Board was very anxious to secure Sir Campbell's services as chairman and there is much disappointment at his refusal to accept the position.

HOLSTEINS PASS REGULAR TESTS

W. Fred Fallis' Herd Makes Good Showing in Semi-Annual R.O.P.

Korndyfle Mercena Alice, 5.2 per cent.; Ranwerd Alice, 3.9; Alice Vale Ranwerd, 3.8; Lulu Alice, 3.5; Alice Vale, 3.5; Alice Rue Vale, 3.2; Alice Korndyke, 3.4.

A. Brady, Campbellford, is the official in charge of the record of performance tests for this district, this having to do with the butterfat content only.

R.O.P. tests, in the case of fully accredited herds, are at least twice yearly, the result in this instance being particularly satisfactory.

M'GILL'S JANITOR COMPOSES SONNETS

MONTREAL, Que., July 22.—(Canadian Press).—Many universities boast poets; and all—it is reasonable to assume—boast janitors. But McGill is probably the only university in North America which possesses a janitor-poet; a man who composes odes to the rythm of his swinging broom and chants the glory of the temple of learning even while he scrubs its corridors.

Harry Barker is a retiring, middle-aged man, with the gentle eyes of a dreamer. He has wielded dustpan and broom in the halls of the commonwealth of learning for so many years that he has come to regard it as his Alma Mater and has become an inseparable part of its life.

Shy and reticent in his manner toward strangers, Harry is always ready to lay aside the implements of mundane calling and discuss poetry with his many friends among the student body. For their benefit he will willingly recite his latest composition, or, with even greater enthusiasm, quote by the yard from the works of his guiding start, Shakespeare. And he follows their occasional ventures in the field of literature with the utmost interest.

He will quote for them, with fine ardor, whatever passage from the Bard of Avon may seem appropriate to the occasion, for not only is he a whole-hearted admirer of Shakespeare, but has attained a thorough knowledge of his works and can render him by the line, page or act with smoothly flowing facility. On such occasions a divine fire leaps to life in his eye and enlivens his gestures.

A like enthusiasm animates the janitor poet when his own verse is touched upon in the course of conversation. His voice is that of a devotee as he chants for you his most recent effusion—perhaps an affectionate tribute to McGill's glorious past, a memorial ode for the Old Arts Building, or the result of a venture into the shadowy undercurrents of mystical philosophy. The mop is diverted from its predestined service and utilized to beat out metrical feet, instead of to whip up the mud deposited by material ones.

Harry will tell the new acquaintance that he is of the "Brook School" of poets,—that is, he is ready to flow on forever. It would be difficult to accord his genius any more definite classification. In an occasional abandonment of rhyme he manifests a modern tendency, but the metrical vagaries of the vers librists fill him with horror. Such titles as "Thoughts on Painting the Floor of the Old Arts Building" and "The Convocation Day Procession", are typical of his compositions, indicating the inspirational debt he owes to his academic environment, but he occasionally turns to nature, as in "The First Winter Day." All of his verses can be best appreciated when recited and many are written to be chanted to such popular tunes as "Swanee River" and "O Canada."

CHALLENGER WINS BY QUARTER MILE

Yaught Alloede Evens Up Fisher Cup International Series.

TORONTO, July 22. — The Fisher cup score is all even as a result of the victory of Alloede, the Rochester Yacht Club challenger in yesterday's race. Wednesday in a light easterly wind and a small sea Cara Mia of the R.C.Y.C., the defender, trounced Alloede good and plenty—almost a mile—in a 16 mile race over a windward and leeward course.

Yesterday in a good wholesale wind from the east and a high rolling sea Alloede had her revenge. The race was twice over a nine mile triangle and Alloede was in front over every inch of the day. Her victory yesterday was just as decisive as Cara Mia's was the previous day although she did not win by quite so much territory. Alloede won by a good quarter mile yesterday.

Gas In the Stomach Is Truly Dangerous

Gas, Pain, Bloating and a feeling of fulness after eating are almost certain evidence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach.

Too much acidi rritates the delicate stomach lining, frequently causing chronic Gastritis and dangerous Ulcers. Food ferments and sours, forming a gas that distends the stomach and often seriously affects the Heart.

It is genuine folly to neglect such a condition or to treat with artificial digestive aids that cannot neutralize the stomach acid. A better way is to get from your druggist a few tiny tables of Bisurated Magnesia and take three or four of them after each meal. This famous but simple and inexpensive stomach sweetner and anti-acid can be depended upon to prove its value in less than five minutes. In most instances relief comes instantly! Pleasant and perfectly harmless to use—Bisurated Magnesia tablets do give wonderful relief in nine out of ten cases. Ask your Doctor or Druggist.

An American and Canadian banking syndicate will handle the transaction.

The new bridge will form a direct automobile route from Detroit and points south and west to Niagara Falls, New England, and the more populous parts of Canada which will be 137 miles shorter than the present route south of the Great Lakes, it is said.

Not Necessary To Diet

The process of digestion in the stomach depends entirely on the supply of gastric or digestive fluids. The active principles of these fluids are known as enzymes. Digestion can only be actually and lastingly relieved by increasing the enzymes in the stomach.

Now this is exactly what Rensyme does. It supplies enzymes to the digestive fluids and therefore immediately restores their effectiveness in digesting the food in the stomach.

Relief is obtained promptly. You do not need to diet. You are soon convinced that Rensyme helps you as no other treatment has ever been able to do.

Mr. John Sector, 667, St. Urbain St., Montreal, Que., writes: "For years I have been suffering with stomach disorders and consequently never able to enjoy my meals. However, I am glad to inform you that I have found in your preparation 'RENZYME' an extraordinary digestant and I notice that you claim for your preparation the power of rejuvenating the stomach and I must say you are absolutely correct.

"You are to be congratulated in your efforts to bring to the General Public and the sufferers with stomach ills, something that really is effective. I am a constant user and will certainly recommend it to anyone desirous of obtaining the healthy functioning of the stomach."

You can obtain Rensyme from your druggist at $1.50 a bottle, or it will be sent to you, postpaid, on receipt of price, if you mention this paper. The Rensyme Laboratories, Toronto, 2, Canada.

BUFFALO TRANSFER VERY SUCCESSFUL

Seven Thousand Head in Good Condition Now in New Alberta Reserve.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 22.—(Canadian Press).—The efforts of the Dominion Government to conserve the wild life in the northern areas are meeting with success, and the Department of the Interior announces that after three years of careful study the transfer of surplus buffalo from Wainwright Park, Alberta, to the Wood Buffalo Park at Fort Smith, also in Alberta, has proved a complete success.

Shipments under way at the present time will bring the total of these monarchs of the plains transferred to their new home to 7,000.

The Department of the Interior, which has charge of the Canadian National parks, believes that the development of the natural resources of the northern areas will depend on a robust native population and an abundance of wild life.

The next step to carry out department plans in respect to the District of Mackenzie where the Buffalo Park has been located has been taken through the appointment of a scientific expedition to determine the possibility of stocking the area with reindeer.

With the successful conclusion of the experiment with the buffalo, the department has completed a unique task. Herds were selected at Wainwright and shipped by rail and water to the new location where they were turned loose. Observers travelled constantly over the range to report the progress of the herds in the new environment. They have reported that the animals appear well-conditioned and that their numbers have increased. The park covers an area of 17,300 square miles and rich meadows and protecting woods are numerous. Not a single mile of the vast area has been mapped nor a single mile of survey run, but a partial study of the district is to be made through an aerial expedition.

Two seaplanes will be utilized and will fly from a base at Cormorant Lake, Northern Manitoba, to two temporary air bases, one at Chipewyan, on Lake Athabaska, and the other at Fitzgerald on Slave River. Flights will be made by the two planes on parallel courses six miles apart, and the whole district recorded by photograph. The data gathered will be used by the department in formulating its future policy with regard to wild life.

Warned by failures in attempts to stock other northern districts with reindeer, the Department of the Interior is gathering data before any of these animals will be shipped to the Mackenzie District. A. E. and R. T. Porsild, men of wide experience in the Arctic, have been engaged and are investigating thoroughly all conditions entering into the proposed attempt. Two thousand reindeer will be introduced into the park, if their report is favorable. Past experience has shown that reindeer cannot thrive where moss is not abundant and suitable for food.

The Porsild brothers spent eight months of last year investigating the reason for the successful introduction of reindeer in Alaska. They worked down the Yukon River towards its mouth and trekked by dog-team to Kotzebue and Point Barrow, finally reaching Aklavik. This year they will work from the delta of the Mackenzie River and cover the Great Bear district and compare conditions with those in Alaska.

FISH OBEY ODD RITES OF 'IOGUK"

SEATTLE, July 22.—In the bleak flats between the Yukon and Kushowin Rivers lives "Old Ioguk," whom the fish obey.

Just before the salmon run up the rivers in spring, Ioguk goes to the river mouths where he performs "magic rites," dancing and chanting to charm the wigglers.

Then, when the fish come upstream, Ioguk modestly walks among the Eskimo homes and collects one-fourth of all the fish caught as his share.

91, HE STILL READS OLD ROLL CALL

Now, at 91, he reads the old roll call of his Civil War unit, but there are no replies. Babler is the last of his command.

He can "walk as well as he ever could," he stoutly maintains when offered lifts wherever he goes.

"They won't let me go fishing alone any more, either," he complains. "Think I'll fall in. Hump! All they want me to do is tend garden. I went out hunting potato bugs and found six. No fun in that."

Five million women in the United States visit barber shops in a year, it is estimated.

QUAINT FESTIVALS RECALL SCOTLAND'S GREAT DEFEAT

Memories of "Flodden's Fatal Field" Are Still Preserved.

COLORFUL CEREMONIES.

Annual Common Ridings Recall Days When Ancient Minstrels Sang Their Lays.

EDINBURGH, July 22—(Canadian Press.)—The rat-a-plan of galloping horsemen is echoing and re-echoing among the valleys of the Cheviot Hills these warm summer days. The shrill notes of trumpet and life are mingled with the lusty singing of age-old ballads that never found their way into Percy's "Reliques", but which yield nothing to that anthology in vigor and color; rollicking airs that breathe the spirit of the troubadour who sang of stout adventures wrought on fair fields, of brave joustings; of love and chivalry, and proclamations delivered in odd corners of village streets and remote country lanes now greet the ear in those towns and villages of the Scottish Border, for mid-summer has come and with it all the annual pageantries which have been carried on since that portion of the king's realm was known only as "The Debateable Land."

"Common-Ridings", they are called. As the term implies, they amount to perpetuating the system whereby a community, in order to retain title to its common lands, was compelled by ancient Scots law to "ride the Marches" once a year. In other words, the townsmen had to make an annual survey of the boundary lines to ensure that all landmarks were intact and that there had been no enroachment upon the Town Common by land-hungry neighbors.

But there is much more to the ceremonies than that, around these simple acts has arisen a wreath of romantic tradition which becomes more colorful every year. In all Border towns and villages where the Common-Riding is still preserved as an annual pageant there has become associated with it some outstanding event in history. This may be local, as in the case of the Dumfriesshire town of Langholm, or it may be national, as in the cast of both Selkirk, county town of the shire of that name, and Hawick, the chief town of Roxburghshire. Curiously enough, the two latter municipalities have founded the celebrations attendant upon "riding the Marches" on Scotland's greatest military catastrophe—the Battle of Flodden (1513). And it came about this way:

The Battle of Flodden found the ancient Border chieftains for the time being arrayed on the side of the ill-starred King James IV. Some historians cynically suggest that they were lured thither by prospects of greater loot. However, that may be, they denuded the Borders of their man-power and since it was at Flodden that, as Sir Walter Scott has it, "....shattered was fair Scotland's spear,
And broken was her shield,"
the casualties among the Borderers were correspondingly heavy.

"The flowers o' the Forest are a' wede awa'" is a plaintive lament that mourns for the Men of Selkirk, warriors from the Ettrick Forest and the vale of Yarrow who had been completely wiped out. The melancholy, wistful and altogether depressing dirge ranks as one of Selkirk's principal anthems and comes into its own at the Common-Riding. However, another favored ballad, decidedly robust, provides a contrast. Its merit lies in the scornful denunciation of the teachery of one of the chieftains who led the Ettrick men to their death.

"Up wi' the Souters o' Selkirk
An' down wi' the Earl o' Home."

The nobleman whose eclipse is thus sought was the third Lord Home, an important person in the reign of James IV. He fought at Flodden, but his thieving instincts were stronger than his loyalty. When he should have been defending his monarch, he was actually leading his men to plunder. It is gratifying for the townspeople of Selkirk to recall that he was executed in 1516. The "riding of the Marches" became an extremely hazardous function after Flodden and in the course of the centuries become inextricably associated with the other.

"The Common-Riding" at Hawick, 12 miles from Selkirk, is somewhat more cheerful, and since the independent citizens of that town will brook no defeatism they pass over to Flodden and centre their attention on an incident that took place in the year after the national calamity; an incident in which the townspeople took revenge upon their English enemies. The story goes that in 1514 a band of English soldiers, detached from the army of the Earl of Surrey, attacked the town, pillaged it and killed many in habitants. The balladist has written:

"All was sunk in deep dejection;
None to flee to for protection;
Till some youths who stayed from Flodden
Rallied up by 'Teri-Odin!'"

"Teri-Odin" is the town's slogan—"Teribus, ye Teri-Odin", which is believed to have been an invocation to the pagan deities, Thor and Odin. Retribution, then, was at hand. The "youths who stayed from Flodden" marched down the banks of the Teviot to the English encampment at Hornshoe, an old Roman Bridge two miles distant, and in the dead of night....

"Down they threw their bows and arrows;
Drew their swords like veteran heroes,
Charged the foe with native valour;
Routed them and took their Colour."

It was a tremendous victory. History is silent with regard to it, but the citizens of Hawick need no historian. This captured Color plays the big part in the Common-Riding. A replica of it is entrusted annually to a native son, selected by the Town Council, and it is his duty to carry it aloft when "riding the Marches." Coupled with that part of the ceremony is "The Chase", a re-enactment of the pursuit of the demoralized soldiers of the Earl of Surry across the Border. It is here that the standard bearer leading a following of scores of enthusiastic horsemen, thunders along the valleys and over hill and dale in the imaginary wake of imaginary Englishmen. The Chase is carried out every day for a week.

It is all picturesque and entertaining. Many other quaint and old ceremonies are carried out. One deserves mention, for apparently it has some connection with the ancient days of the Druids. It amounts to the townspeople assembling on the summit of a lofty mound in the centre of the town, bedecking themselves with oak leaves and standing in reverent silence to watch the sun rise. Langholm's ceremony is woven around a local event, but its general purpose is the same as the others. Peebles and the village of Hobkirk also have their annual "Common-Ridings."

ACTION SECURED.

Publicity given by The Examiner in regard to the deplorable condition of the Chemong road has brought quick results.

Yesterday an engineer of the Highway Department inspected the Government section of the road, and immediate repairs have been ordered that will, it is hoped, bring about a speedy improvement.

The road as far as the Lindsay turn is part of the Lindsay-Peterborough road, the whole of which is to be rebuilt as a Provincial highway, and it was doubtless the knowledge that more or less permanent road-making would shortly be instituted that led to the neglect of the road up to the present.

A tendency to overlook repairs on roads designed for re-surfacing is, of course, not an unusual thing.

Muncipal Councils are inclined to adopt a similar policy—witness Smith street from George street to Water street—and while it is easily understood, the tendency is not one that endears itself to the travelling public.

Until it is ready to begin permanent operations, it is hoped that the Department of Highways will keep in mind the fact that the Chemong road is a very important highway at this season of the year.

THE LONDON FLIGHT.

Permission has not yet been given by the Ontario Government to Captains Maxwell and Tully of the Ontario Government Air Service to take part in the London-to-London flight.

Both these flyers are engaged in the important task of protecting the Province's timber wealth against forest fires, and leave-of-absence for two months to engage in a trans-Atlantic attempt would take them away from their duties at a time when the danger of fires is the greatest.

Both Hon. Wm. Finlayson, the Minister of Forests, and Premier Ferguson have already pointed out this fact, and have declared that the protection of Ontario's forests is of more importance—if not as spectacular—than an endeavour to fly across the Atlantic.

This is undoubtedly true, but most Ontario people will hope that it will be able to secure capable substitutes in the patrol service for the two Government flyers, and that Maxwell and Tully will be granted leave to participate in the great flight.

They seem so well fitted for the task that it would be a pity if the selection of the committee were not allowed to stand.

CHILDREN—AND THE MOTOR PERIL.

The number of accidents occasioned by children running in front of motor cars is constantly increasing, and parents should be constant in their warnings to members of their families in regard to this dangerous practice.

At this season of the year when the children are out of school and have more time to be on the streets, there is an especial need of caution.

More particularly, constant warning should be given in regard to crossing streets in the middle of the block in those sections where angle parking is the rule.

This method of parking not only makes it difficult to watch the traffic, but it narrows the driving area considerably, with the result that a child who darts between two parked cars is liable to find himself squarely in the path of an automobile, the driver of which will have little chance to swerve around enough to avoid an accident.

Children must be reminded frequently of the danger that exists on the streets and warned to be careful always.

The killing of youngsters is assuming major proportions, and it should be everybody's task to endeavour to reduce the death toll.

NEWSPAPER PUBLICITY.

The interest shown in last night's Dempsey-Sharkey fight was a striking testimonial to the efficacy of newspaper publicity.

Only a few Peterborough people had ever seen Jack Dempsey, fewer still had had a glimpse of his opponent, and yet hundreds of citizens were anxious to know the result.

Newspaper stories of the training activities of the rivals, columns of descriptive material dealing with their careers, pictures and other publicity created this general interest in the fight.

Without these stories and pictures most people would have been as indifferent in regard to the heavyweight struggle as an Eskimo is to the death of the King of Roumania.

It is the same story with professional baseball.

Millions of people who rarely see a big league ball game follow the progress of the professional organization, and names of star players are household ones because of the amount of space given by newspapers to baseball.

The part played by the papers in the building up of sporting reputations is not always recognized, but it would be if papers everywhere suddenly eliminated all the free publicity given to sporting activities.

ON KEEPING YOUNG.

Is there anything in all the world more interesting ore more beautiful to see in operation than the fresh and eager mind of a little child And is not the fondest memory any man may have the memory of those youthful days when every sunrise made the world all new, and life was covered over with the freshness and romance and interest that nothing seemingly could rebuke or wear away.

It must be wonderful to be able to keep all that youth and fresh and untouchable eagerness throughout all the long and testing and disappointing years of life! It would be wonderful, if it were possible, but I wonder if it is possible! If it could be done, and the man of years and trials and responsibilities could keep the eager step and the unspoiled freshness and interest of the boy, how mightily life would be changed for many of us! If it could be done would there be anything in all the world so well worth doing as that! I very much doubt it.

For many of us know, to our utter sorrow, how completely the blase and over-tired and unimaginative way of feeling toward life, which is the complete opposite to the child's way, can spoil it completely and fill its every pleasure and prospect with staleness and nausea. Nothing possible can get the matter with life that will so utterly spoil and despoil it as that it should grow stale and lose all taste of freshness and interest. If that could be prevented and the unspoiled zest of eight could be kept until eighty what a wonderful, wonderful world this would be!

But why couldn't it be done? Is there anything that necessitates the death in the man of the unspoiled spirit of the little child? I know of some things that will bring about that tragedy, such as sordidness, or too great self-seeking, or the killing of faith in the soul, but who will say that these are to be named as necessities. Mightn't we say that perhaps it was possible to keep the youthful spirit even with the passing of the years, and that when Jesus spoke about men becoming as little children He talked of something not only possible, but something wonderfully significant and beautiful as well?

It may be, it must be, a difficult thing to learn, this art of youthfulness, but I am sure we ought to be trying to learn it much more than we do. And I am sure that we will learn it much more perfectly some day. My idea of that great future life is of a life where everyone is young in that true, fine sense that there is always freshness and interest and growth and the child's wonder and eagerness and romance and where everything that can grow stale is gone forever.—The New Outlook.

TRAINING IN MANNERS.

Youth is the time for the inculcation of manners. They may be acquired in later life, but the acquirement is attended by difficulties far greater than those which face the growing boy or girl. It is, therefore, gratifying to record that a London woman, Mrs. J. I. A. Hunt, who is interested in the direction of education in that Western Ontario city and who has reason to believe that the manners of school children there are not all that they should be, has been successful in her efforts to bring about the establishment of a course of instruction in manners and deportment in the public schools of London, and that, judging by the enthusiastic reception accorded her proposals by both press and public, her example will be followed in other communities of the Province.

The manners of a boy or girl, a man or a woman, undoubtedly depend upon his or her environment and reflect the circumstances under which he or she has been brought up. Unconsciously children ape the manners of their nearest associates, as they also pattern their speech after that of the people by whom they are surrounded. When a child gives an exhibition of boorishness or makes use of language grossly at fault, it is usually the parents or the others with whom the child associates who must bear the responsibility. It is in this respect, as in so many other respects, that there arises the necessity of a child's extra-domestic training being placed in the hands of individuals who know what to do and when to do it and what to say and when to say it. There are many children who have been enabled to overcome and rose above the influences of a faulty home environment through that careful instruction which they have been given by teachers who were able to furnish a proper example. And there are just as many children who have gained nothing in either manners or speech because of neglect of instruction in this fundamental subject or the inability of the teacher to provide that example which is of such great effect. If training in manners and deportment is to take on a new importance in the educational curriculum, it is essential that it be placed in the hands of men and women who are qualified to give example as well as precept. Otherwise, the effort to bring about an improvement in this respect will fail.

There seems to be a disposition all too common to regard the possession of what are known as "good manners" as a form of mollycoddleism, something not to be attempted by the "regular" boy or girl. Nothing could be farther from the truth. It is by the manner in which he or she conducts himself or herself and the manner in which he or she speaks that a child is judged by his elders. In spite of an obvious decline in both deportment and language, there is still a great preponderance of people who value the right act and the right word far above the boorish act or the ungrammatical pharse, and who judge the child or the adult accordingly. The cultivation of "good manners" is not a thing worthy of contempt; "manners maketh man" is still a truth, and the person possessing them is given a standing and granted a respect which he cannot otherwise attain. Bad manners and bad speech render a child only worthy of pity and cause him or her to become a reproach to his parents.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Possibly the Ontario Government may decide that Captains Maxwell and Tully are needed here to keep the home fires from burning.

Anyway the Ontario Highways Department has discovered that it owns the Chemong road.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, July 22 (Canadian Press). — The foreign demand for grain in the Montreal market yesterday was steady, there being quite a few loads of wheat and rye accepted overnight, and, according to exporters and the tone of cable advices, there seems to be a better disposition on the part of English importers to operate for both immediate and future requirements and the prospects for business are more encouraging than they have been of late.

The only business of importance in the local market was the demand from New York exporters for Manitoba No. 6 wheat, and sales of several loads were made at better prices than could be realized over the cable. There was some demand from domestic and country buyers for odd cars of coarse grains and a moderate amount of business was done. The tone of the spot market was steady.

Prices for all grades of Spring and Winter wheat flour were well maintained under a limited demand from all sources.

The demand from local and United States buyers for all lines of millfeed continued good and the undertone was firm.

A feature of the egg trade was the slight improvement in the demand from local buyers for car lots and a moderate amount of business was done in this respect including sales of Western seconds at 30c per dozen on track here, and Ontario April eggs at 34c per dozen, f.o.b. shipping point. The trade in a jobbing way continued quiet, and prices were unchanged. The receipts were 1,340 cases.

The trade in butter was extremely dull, but values were steady. The receipts were 2,513 packages.

The local demand for cheese was fair, but the foreign trade was inactive. The undertone to the market was firm and prices were unchanged. The receipts were 4,996 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 22 (Canadian Press).—With liberal amounts of wheat booked to arrive here from other market centers Chicago wheat quotations underwent setbacks yesterday after showing considerable strength. Virtually no new wheat export business was put through except 40,000 bushels from Chicago. Wheat closed unsettled, ½ to 1c net lower; corn ½ to ¾c down; oats ⅝ to ¾c off, and provisions showing a drop of 5 to 15c.

Corn and oats swayed with wheat. Reports of rain in parts of Iowa and a forecast of rather general unsettled weather had a particular bearish influence on the corn market despite gossip that 1,500,000 bushels of corn will be shipped east this week from Chicago.

Leading packers and warehousemen were heavy sellers in the provision market.

SCHOONER ANCHORS; MYSTERY SPREADS

Attorney Investigates the Tale of Slaying a Woman Off Gold Coast.

NEW YORK, July 22. — A deep-sea mystery smacking of square rigging days that has preceded the four-masted schooner Kingsway half around the world was the subject of Federal inquiry yesterday.

With the arrival of the 1,200-ton craft off Quarantine, the tale of the slaying of a woman, the escape of her slayer ,and the death of the mate was to be sifted by United States district attorneys prepared to board the ship with armed forces.

First reports that all was not right with the Kingsway came from the American Consul at Monrovia, Liberia ,who reported to the State Department that a woman aboard the craft had been slain by the cook while the ship was off the Gold Coast.

The Kingsway, owned by the African and Eastern Trading Co., sailed last year from Perth Amboy, N.J., for a trading cruise along the African Coast.

The ship carries no wireless and the meagre report of the slaying developed into a mystery of the sea as the ship ploughed its slow way across the Atlantic.

A later report from Monrovia was that when the ship arrived there the captain said his mate had died and he engaged a new one.

Next word came from a trading vessel that reported passing the craft and receiving a message frim its skipper, which said: "Prisoner has broken out. Have no irons in which to hold him. This is a desperate man."

Just who the slain woman was remains part of the mystery. One report had it she was the wife of the captain, another that she was the wife of the cook.

HAWAIIANS ENTERTAIN MANY AT CHAUTAUQUA'S LAST SHOW

Anna Dickie Olesen in Inspirational Talk For Women.

CLOWN FOR CHILDREN.

Interesting Outline of History of the Hawaiian Islands.

This year's Chautauqua series concluded yesterday with a final programme that lived up fully to the excellent character of the previous events of the five day's offerings of this season. Vierra's Hawaiians, in music of their native land, and Anna Dickie Olesen, inspirational speaker, were the attractions yesterday, during afternoon and evening sessions while John W. Mangels, popular clown, entertained the children yesterday morning with juggling feats and a Punch and Judy show.

Mrs. Olesen's lecture on "Opportunity" in the afternoon was addressed to the women of her audience. A speaker of eloquent, forceful type, her clear-cut logic, interspersed by bits of humor and personal reminiscence, she is essentially feminine, her manner and address lacking the element of antagonizing masculinity so ofter introduced by women orators. Her pleasing personality impresses her hearers at all times.

Vierra's Hawaiians gave a very entertaining programme, during the afternoon and evening, of their native music, using a Hawaiian setting, simulating the volcano of Kailauea, with Hilo harbor in the foreground, for their evening performance, and appearing in native costume. Mrs. Albert Vierra, leader of the group, explained in excellent English, the character of the islands, giving a concise outline of their history, and bringing a fresh viewpoint of these isles of the sea to her audience. Deploring the widespread belief in Hawaiians as people of lazy nature, fond of music, and of light love affairs, Mrs. Vierra went on to describe their energy in industry and their craving for education and culture.

These islands, "the crossroads of the Pacific," situated two thousand miles from California, were discovered by Captain Cook in 1778, and named the Sandwich Islands, for his employer, the Earl of Sandwich. In 1812, the firs. missionaries came there and re-christened them. Their two chief industries are sugar cane and pineapple, the irrigated land of the islands producing 15,000 pounds of sugar per acre annually, and the non-irrigated section 8,000 pounds. Their pineapple output in one factory alone is 63 million tons annually.

"The House of the Sun."

In the twelve islands, eight only of which are inhabited, there are 6300 square miles, much of which is mountainous. Their greatest inactive volcano is "The House of the Sun," and Kilauea is the largest active crater. Mrs. Vierra alluded here to the story which has grown up around the presence in the islands of Professor Jaeger, and the belief that he has some power to appease the Goddess Pelee, the volcanoes always remaining inactive while he is in Hawaii. Honolulu has 120,000 people, and the most modern of buildings, schools, roads and parks. Education here is of the highest type. Only about 12,000 pure-bred Hawaiians remain on the islands, inter-marriage having spoiled their race.

"It has been said of these islands," went on Mrs. Vierra, "that food there falls from the trees and swims in the water, that light and heat comes directly from heaven, and that the ocean furnishes refrigeration and sanitation for all. The temperature is never above 90°, and the trade winds keep us cool at all times."

With steel guitar and harp guitar, ukulele, guitar and piano, the group entertained their audiences during afternoon and evening with a number of beautifully-played Hawaiian melodies and popular numbers, interpreting their native music with splendid rhythm, its throbbing, pulsating, haunting fascination rendered with skill by the swift fingers of the dark-skinnee musicians, one of whom also did a native dance that brought him renewed applause. Enthusiasm was general for all the numbers, which had an interlude in the finely-rendered selection by Tschaikowsky, played by the pianist of the group. They played and sang "In a Little Spanish Town," "The Four-Leaf Clover," popular melody, and many other well known numbers. First in Hawaiian, then in English, one member interpreted a number of old time bits that were well received, and the always popular "Aloha Oe" was another lovely number.

In the afternoon, the solo and ensemble numbers included "Yes, Sir, That's My Baby," "Cherie," "Blue Skies," "My Old Kentucky Home," and "There's a Light Shining Bright."

"Opportunity" for Women.

Mrs. Olesen, speaking on "Opportunity" during the afternoon session, received the intent interest of her hearers, men and women alike appreciating the forceful eloquence and charming manner of address of the speaker. Contrasting the mode of life in Europe with that enjoyed on this continent, she spoke of the gratitude which should be felt for the manifold opportunities enjoyed in Canada and the United States, going on to record the three great events in the world's history which had brought to women a better standing. The birth of Christ and the dawn of Christianity set woman in a higher place; the discovery by Columbus of the new world later opened to her boundless fields of endeavor and the Great War itself with its background of tragedy, still brought to woman further emancipation from age-old bonds.

Speaking of the "inferiority complex" which has hitherto bound woman in a world-wide feeling of lesser mental ability than man, the speaker alluded to Madame Curie as an outstanding example of what a woman may do, in the discovery of radium, and her inclusion in the list of twelve people who are able to understand the theory of relativity as expended by Einstein, and the mathematical processes involved in its unfolding.

Mrs. Olesen referred to the third great International Women's Fair recently held in Chicago, planned, executed and financed by women alone, where the exhibits included demonstrations of many differing professions in which women have proved their worth, as real estate operators, farmers and live stock dealers, doctors, dentists, lawyers, architects and even in the field of aviation.

The majority of women entering industrial life, declared the speaker, do so because of economic reasons rather than from preference. The professor who declared that women should not be in business or industry and that their rightful place was in the home claimed Mrs. Olesen's attention in a moment of reminiscence. She had asked him, she said, if he were married, and on his denial, told him to never reiterate such an assertion with regard to women until he had married one of the "poor creatures and put her in her rightful place."

"If I could build an ideal world," she went on, "I would make it a place of homes, where every woman might live and rear her children and be happy, but this is not an ideal world. It is a real one, where many women are forced into industry by necessity, rather than by choice."

The Coin of the Realm."

"Women are poor collectors. "They are paid for their work in business or industry in the coin of the realm, but the coin of woman's realm is a different thing from money. It is the coin of love, affection and devotion, and there are many women who are spending their lives in the home who are unable, of necessity, to collect the financial reward of their serves, and yet do not begin to collect the hundred per cent. of love, affection and devotion that is coming to them."

Women in the political world should learn to stand together as men do. It is this element of solidarity that makes men so powerful in united endeavor, but it is a lesson as yet unlearned by women. "I am now over forty years of age," declared the speaker, "and I hope when I am seventy to be able to say that for the past ten years no woman in my presence has spoken slightingly or critically of another woman."

"Let us forget personalities and stand by the principles that we believe to be right. Women are needed in politics as they are needed in the home. There has been placed in the heart of woman a tender force, a feeling of responsibility for the young and the helpless and the suffering that is vitally necessary to the conduct of the affairs of the world. And there should be women on the board of managers of every institution that has to do with the care of the young, and on every Board of Education also."

Speaking of the thirst for good literature manifested by the people of England, as noticed in a recent visit there, Mrs. Olesen decried the popular theory that knowledge of clothes and fashion and "the newest make of automobile" was necessary for the up-to-date woman, instead of a knowledge of good books and international ideals.

"We have had enough of war," she went on, referring to the need for women to stand together to prevent a recurrence of such calamities as the recent World War. "Women want peace. God's last reserve in the fight against war is the vote of the women against it, and we should be up and doing in our business of stopping war."

Mrs. Olesen concluded her inspiring talk by a reference to the statue of Edith Cavell in London, England, and the inscription on its base: "Patriotism is not quite enough. There must burn in the heart of every individual a greater love for humanity." These were the final words of the martyred nurse and were washed a few minutes later in her own blood.

Mrs. Olesen also appeared on the evening platform for a few minutes to bring to her audience a message of inspiration and cheer. She spoke of the depth of character of the people of Canada, as observed in her stay here, and of the boundless opportunities yet untapped by them, concluding with a plea for the proper training and upbringing of the children of the Dominion. "Morals and customs are catching, even as styles are," she said, emphasizing the great wealth of the nation as embodied in the growing youth of the race.

OMEMEE UNITED S.S. EXCURSION

Young People Enjoy Annual Outing at Thurstonia on Wednesday.

OMEMEE, July 22.—The annual Sunday school picnic of Trinity United church was held at Thurstonia on Wednesday afternoon. Ideal weather conditions prevailed and not a single mishap occurred to mar the pleasure of the picnickers. Several ball games were played during the afternoon and evening which proved very interesting to the many tourists. Many of the younger folk enjoyed a dip in the lake while others preferred to sit on the lake shore and enjoy the cool, balmy breeze.

Following the picnic supper numerous races were run off and cash prizes awarded to the winners.

About sundown the party broke up, all having enjoyed a pleasant afternoon.

Stolen Dog Returns; Playmates Are Gone

Stolen three months ago from its youthful owners, the children of a deceased veteran of the Great War, a collie pup has turned up at its former home in East City, vainly awaiting the return of its little playmates who are now living with relatives in Scotland.

The animal, which was purchased in the Market Square for the children by an uncle, was taken from them by a man on Hunter Street Bridge. This event was duly chronicled in The Examiner. No trace of either thief or booty was found until the unexpected re-appearance of the dog this week.

They will return via the main line of the Canadian Pacific, and arrangements have been made to the end that wherever the train stops the party will be greeted by provincial and civic officials and by the newspaper and by the newspaper men.

FOLLY OF WAR

ance, Mr. Hall closed with the words of the Teacher Who walked the slopes of Galilee, "Except ye love, ye shall never enter the kingdom of heaven."

The musical programme was furnished by Harold Snelgrove, who sang two solos, "Can't Yo Heah Me Callin'," and a Russian Lullaby, and by a friend of Kiwanian Vernon Morphet, Eric Roberts, who has just concluded 92 weeks as saxaphone soloist with WTAM, Cleveland, and is shortly to commence a 42 weeks' contract with WJAY, Cleveland. Mr. Roberts' contributions on the saxaphone were "My Regular Gal" and "Song of the Wanderer."

The thanks of the club were extended to the speaker by Kiwanian Jack Dewart, and to the musicians by President Isaac McNabb.

J. R. Osborne, superintendent of the Chautauqua, one of the guests of the day, spoke in appreciation of the ideals of Kiwanis.

A new member, J. B. Nelson, Agricultural Representative now located in Peterborough, was welcomed on behalf of the club by Kiwanian C. D. Cooke, Chairman of Kiwanis Education Committee. To be a Kiwanian, said Mr. Cooke, one had to be an executive and of good moral and business standing. Kiwanis stood for good citizenship, thoroughness, brotherhood and kindliness. The Kiwanian wore a badge, which displayed by 100,000 others, dedicated to the same principles and ideals.

Dr. J. J. Craig reported on the swimming class for girls conducted by Miss Littlefield of the Y.W.C.A. and sponsored by the Kiwanis Club. Between 60 and 70 girls had learned in six lessons to swim across the tank, said Dr. Craig.

W. M. Lang, booster for the day, was prevented from attending. Prize winners were M. Chenhall, J. Dewart and A. Haddow.

TEACH LAUGHTER.

LONDON, July 22. — At a conference of local education authorities a resolution to teach the pupils to laugh was introduced and referred to a committee of teachers for action. The authorities say the schools are too sober and sedate.

Canadian Department Stores Limited

The first important chain of department stores to be established in Canada, and which includes twenty-one of the oldest mercantile concerns in Ontario and one in Montreal, is under the executive management of five very prominent Canadian merchants, acting under the guidance of this committee is a board of twenty-five directors, most of whom were the previous proprietors of the stores which now form the amalgation.

Mr. G. H. Rennie, President and General Manager has long been well known in Toronto business circles. He was associated with the Robert Simpson Company for a number of years, during which time he rose rapidly to the position of Assistant General Manager. He has been connected with Canadian Department Stores Limited since it's first conception and it is mainly due to his unusual ability that such marked progress has obtained during the period of organization.

Mr. Charles Austin, well-known and successful as a merchant in Chatham, has been established in that town for the past thirty-two years during which time he has built up a business that demands over 75,000 square feet of floor space to house it—with four floors. Mr. Austin is well-known in Canadian commercial circles and has always been prominent in Chatham public life, having served as both Alderman and Mayor at various periods.

Mr. Arthur Robinson, has been responsible for the success of the McLaren Company of St. Catharines of which firm he was in turn Managing Director and President for over twenty-five years. Mr. Robinson's experience in retail merchandising should be a valuable one for Canadian Department Stores Limited From a general store in Alliston he went to the T. Eaton Company where he acted as salesman, buyer and repartment manger for a number of years—thence to the old Golden Lion and later to the W. A. Murray Company.

Mr. C. H. Reid of the old established firm of the Ritchie Company, Belleville is one of the best known and best liked men in the trade. He is a grand-son of the late Sir Mackenzie Bowell, one time Premier of Canada, became connected with the Ritchie Company at an early age and has subsequently served that firm as buyer, manager and President until the amalgamation. The Ritchie Company was founded in 1857—ten years before Confederation.

Mr. R. A. Beamish of North Bay is without question the most prominent and successful retail merchant in the North Country. A native of Pembroke, all of his life time has been spent in Northern Ontario, during which he has built up several substantial and progressive stores, three of which have now entered this merger. Mr. Beamish superintends the stores in the North and acts on the Executive Committee.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

NEW YORK, July 22 (Canadian Press). — The stock market continued to push upward to-day despite repeated selling attacks, but the advance was by no means uniform. The further easing of the credit situation helped to maintain bullish enthusiasm, although there was an unusually heavy volume of week-end profit-taking which impeded the efforts of speculators for the advance.

Gabriel Snubbers was bid up over four points to 86½ on unconfirmed reports that Henry Ford was negotiating for rights to manufacture snubbers on the new Ford models. American Tobacco Common and the B stock and Cluett Peabody also touched new record highs. Outstanding strength also developed in Case Threshing, Crucible Steel, United Cigar, Freeport Texas, and American Smelting.

TORONTO STOCKS.

TORONTO, July 22.— (Canadian Press.)—City Dairy common, with an upward swing of four points to the new high of 1.32, featured a quiet market on the Toronto stock exchange to-day. Brazilian was fairly active and proved a weak feature, declining one point to 165½. British Columbia Fishing common was down 3-8 to 18½, while the preferred was soft at 82. Massey Harris sold down 3-8 to 37 5-8, while International Nickel was unchanged at 61¾. McKinnon Trusts were strong and in demand at 23, a gain of 1½. Page Hersey common gained ½ to 72 and the preferred 1-8 to 144 1-8. Twin City dropped one point to 54. Seagram was strong with an advance of 1¾ to 24. Industrial Alcohol was active and firmer at 32 7-8, a gain of 1-8. British American Oil featured the oil section, advancing 5-8 to 25. Northern Bakeries dropped 5-8 to 31 while Amulet showed continued activity at 3.50.

CHICAGO WHEAT.

CHICAGO, July 22 (Canadian Press). — Unexpected firmness of the Liverpool quotations had an early bullish effect to-day on the wheat market here. Besides the official advices said it seemed unlikely that Europe this season would produce much more wheat than last year. Opening ⅛c to ¾c higher, Chicago wheat afterward showed some additional upturn. Corn and oats displayed firmness, too, corn starting unchanged to ⅛c advance and subsequently scoring gains all around. Provisions were easy.

Opening prices were: Wheat, July 1.42 3-8; September 1.38 7-8; corn, July 99 1-8; September 1.03 5-8; oats, July 44¼, September 43½.

TOURING LADY PLAYERS WIN IN MONTREAL

English Team Makes Great Hit at Mount Royal Tennis Club.

SETS CLOSE

Miss Betty Nuthall Thrilled the Spectators by Defeating Miss Joan Fry.

MONTREAL, Que., July 22 (Canadian Press). — In an exhibition of tennis such as is rarely witnessed on local courts, the members of the English Wightman Cup team of 1927 drove, volleyed, and smashed their way into the hearts of everybody present at their matches at the Mount Royal Tennis Club here yesterday.

Miss Betty Nuthall, with her terrific, smashing play and her peculiar underhand twist service, Miss Joan Fry, with her accurate forehand and her ability in covering the court, Miss E. N. Harvey, with her sound court generalship and her activity at the net, Miss Gwendolyn Sterry, with her hard serving and daring overhead play, and Mrs. John Hill, with her steady and resourceful tactics, all played tennis of a calibre which won them round after round of applause from the large gallery present.

Miss Nuthall Wins.

Those who came largely to see Miss Betty Nuthall, the sensational 16-year-old English flash, were not disappointed. Miss Nuthall thrilled the spectators in the feature match of the afternoon by defeating Miss Joan Fry in a close three-set match, thus reversing the decision at Wimbledon, when Miss Fry won by much the same score.

The afternoon's programme opened with two singles matches, the one between Mrs. Hill and Miss G. Gallery, of Outremont, and the other between Miss Harvey and Mrs. C. V. Christie, Mount Royal. Both matches went to the visiting players in love sets, the local ladies appearing nervous and unable to handle the powerful drives of their opponents.

Two more singles with Miss Nuthall opposing Miss I. Haselden, of Mount Royal, and Miss Sterry playing Miss M. Parker, also of Mount Royal Club, followed. The local players had more success in these matches. Miss Parker, who is one of the most promising of the younger Montreal players, took three games from Miss Sterry and had the English player in difficulty frequently. Miss Haselden managed to win two games from Miss Nuthall, but in both matches the visitors always had control.

Miss Joan Fry made her first appearance on the courts in the next match when she and Miss Harvey defeated Miss Haselden and Miss Parker at 6-3. On the next court Miss Sterry and Mrs. Hill opposed Mrs. Christie and Miss Gallery, and to the surprise and delight of all Montreal registered a victory, 7-5. Mrs. Christie, with her long swooping drives from the back line, and Miss Gallery leaping round with great agility at the net, played first-class tennis and won a well deserved victory.

What was looked forward to as one of the feature matches, but which turned out to be rather tame, followed when Miss Harvey and Mrs. Hill defeated A. S. Cassils and J. K. M. Green, of the Mount Royal Tennis Club.

Best Match.

The Nuthall-Fry singles match, which produced the best tennis of the afternoon, was the next event. Long and fierce rallies from the backline featured the match, with both girls hitting out freely and aggressively at all times.

The Results.

Mrs. John Hill, England, beat Miss G. Gallery, Outremont, 6-0.

Miss E. N. Harvey, England, beat Mrs. C. V. Christie, Mount Royal, 6-0.

Miss ettBy Nuthall, England, beat Miss I. Haselden, Mount Royal, 6-2.

Miss G. Sterry, England, beat Miss M. G. Parker, Mount Royal, 6-3.

Miss Joan Fry and Miss Harvey, England, beat Miss Parker and Miss Haselden, Mount Royal, 6-3.

Mrs. Christie and Miss Gallery, of Montreal, beat Miss Sterry and Mrs. Hill, England, 7-5.

Miss Harvey and Mrs. Hill, England, beat A. S. Cassils and J. K. M. Green, Mount Royal, 6-4.

Miss Betty Nuthall, England, beat Fry, 6-4, 3-6, 6-4.

Miss Harvey and Mrs. Hill beat Miss Nuthall and Miss Sterry, 1-6, 6-4, 7-5.

GREAT CONTEST IS EXPECTED IN CANADIAN OPEN

Championship Play Takes Place at Toronto Next Month.

PREVIOUS RECORDS

United States Golfers Have Carried Off Title in Recent Years.

TORONTO, Ont., July 22 (Canadian Press). — The twentieth open golf championship of Canada will be decided over the fine links of the Toronto Golf Club August 4, 5, and 6, by 72 holes of medal play. With Tommy Armour, United States open champion, one of the entrants, the finest competition in the series is being expected.

The Canadian open championship since the war has usually resolved itself into a battle between United States professionals for the Canadian title. The last Canadian to win it was Karl Keffer, Royal Ottawa, just before the war broke out. The last Canadian runner-up was Charles Murray, Royal Montreal, defeated in 1920 in a play-off between himself, Douglas Edgar, and Tommy Armour, the latter then representing an Edinburgh club. Edgar won the play-off.

The title has gone to the United States every year since the war. The present holder is MacDonald Smith, of New York, who defeated his fellow-citizen, Gene Sarazen. Whether or not Smith will defend his title is problematical.

Toronto Golf Club is one of the oldest organizations on the continent, and the course, laid out under the supervision of H. S. Colt, internationally known British golf architect, was specially surveyed in preparation for the open championship. The distance is 6,613 yards, and the course contains features which remain disturbing even for the best of golfers. Most notable of these is the 17th hold, the "Graveyard." It has defeated outstanding players in previous championships. The hoel is 220 yards in length, and long pits guard the green and dense woods are to the right of the fairway. Par for the course is 73.

The details of the course:

Yards	Par	Yards	Par

New Union Station To Be Opened Aug. 6

TORONTO, July 22.—One of the first official acts of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales on the occasion of his visit to Toronto on Saturday, August 6th, will be to participate in the opening of the new Union Station on Front street. Just what form this ceremony will take has yet to be determined and depends in a great measure on the wishes of His Royal Highness. The tentative arrangements as far as can be ascertained provide for expediting construction work on the viaduct and railway tracks so that trains may be operated in and out of the new station on the ground level. If this can be successfully accomplished, and railway engineers say it can, the train that will bring the Royal Party from Kingston will be the first to enter the new station and discharge passengers.

The formal ceremonies in connection with the opening are likely to take puace in the massive rotunda of the new station.

Official notification has been received by Col. Seth Pepler, O. C. of the Toronto Regiment, of which H.R.H. the Prince of Wales is Honorary Colonel, that the regiment is to furnish the guard of honor at the station on the arrival of the Royal Party.

RUMANIANS VIEW BODY OF FERDINAND

Many Overcome By Emotion at Sight of Beloved Monarch.

BUCHAREST, July 22 (Canadian Press).—In a simple oak casket, covered with flowers from Queen Marie and his daughters, the body of King Ferdinand rested today in the golden hall of Cotroceni Palace. Thousands of sorrowing Rumanians passed the bier to do honor to their beloved king. Groups of peasants, dressed in their Sunday best walked sadly by the coffin. A number of them were overcome by emotion as they gazed on the features of their sovereign, wearing the uniform of a general of the Rumanian army.

ROYALIST LEADER IS SERIOUSLY ILL

PARIS, July 22 (United Press).—The Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholaievitch, former head of the Imperial Russian army and a leader in the White Russian movement, was seriously ill today at a chateau near Paris. He fainted twice yesterday.

White Russia leaders have summoned Baron Wrangel to Paris to determine if followers of the Grand Duke should ally with the Grand Duke Cyril.

SIGNED SHIRTS.

EMPORIA, Kas., July 22.—Freshmen at the Kansas State Teachers College recently were assigned a novel task by the fraternity brothers. They were ordered to obtain the autograph of a girl from each sorority on their shirts. They got the names easily, but school authorities found out about it and investigated. The freshmen were called in.

PETERBOROUGH WON PRIZES AT FIELD DAY

Otonabee Girls Upheud Honor of County—Judging Classes Being Held.

At the Quinte Junior Farmers' Field Day, held at Presqu'ile on Wednesday, the Peterborough County entrants did exceptionally well. J. B. Nelson, agricultural representative, explained to The Examiner this morning that due to the busy season, very few of the young people of this county could attend, but, though lacking in number, the Peterborough contingent made up in quality. The Sixth Line (Otonabee) girls' softball team brought home with them the handsome silver trophy for the girls' softball championship, and four members of the team won second place in the inter-county relay race.

This field day, according to Mr. Nelson, is the first one held in the Quinte district, and was an unqualified success—comparing very favorably with the other junior farmers' field days held in other parts of the province. It will be an annual event and it is hoped that another year the time will be a more suitable one for the farm young people of Peterborough County.

During the past week and continuing all next week the Department of Agriculture is carrying on classes in various parts of the County of Peterborough. These classes are for coaching and practice in domestic science judging, conducted by Miss Edith Hopkins of the Women's Institute staff.

Every autumn there are domestic science judging competitions for girls under twenty-six years of age at the leading exhibitions—including Toronto and Peterborough, and women's institute instructors are busy at this time of the year coaching the girls of the various counties for these competitions.

Classes have been held this week in Warsaw, Lakefield and Hastings. On Monday and Wednesday afternoons of next week, Miss Hopkins will conduct classes in the Department of Agriculture office on George Street. She will spend the remainder of the week training a team of three girls who will represent Peterborough County in the inter-county contest at the Canadian National Exhibition this fall.

BAILIEBORO NINE DEFEAT MILLBROOK

Gilmour is Batted From Box in the Third Innings.

BAILIEBORO, July 22.—On Monday evening, Millbrook ball team journeyed to Bailieboro to have a game with the local nine. In the games so far this year, the two teams have been fairly evenly matched, but Bailieboro played a superior game and snowed the visitors under with a score of 7-1.

Gilmour started the twirling for Millbrook, but was batted from the box in the third. Ingram finished the game for the visitors and did fine work. Millbrook's lone run was scored in the first inning on an overthrow to third. Budd did good hitting for the visitors, but contributed several errors at short.

Deyell was on the mound for Bailieboro and showed his usual steadiness. With twelve strike-outs, he left little for his team-mates to do. However, all fielding chances were nicely handled. Dawson's brilliant catch in the centre gardens was a feature of the game.

Byron Woods umpired on the bases and D. Long was umpire at the plate.

Score by innings:

Millbrook ..... 1000000—1
Bailieboro..... 605101x—7

ARGOS DEFEATED BY OSHAWA TEAM

Motor Town Team Score Two in Ninth to Win Game 5 Runs to 3.

OSHAWA, July 22.—After a short drive from Toronto, the Argos arrived here yesterday afternoon to play the General Motors Junior aggregation. Alexandra Park was packed before the teams entered the field and a great hand was given to the westerners.

The Regina lads had the game nearly on ice in the eighth inning but had it stolen from them in the ninth. Every boy played his utmost, Palmer again holding down the first sack in perfect style, Stirrett twirling his best ball and everybody hitting. Fred Metcalfe drew much applause when, on a fast run, he made a one-handed catch on a hot liner, turned and threw it while in the air and put the runner out at first. Crottier in the field made many good put outs despite the sun, though most of the pasture men could see nothing because of old sol shining in their eyes.

The big hit of the game came when Pep Young, captain and manager of the Argos, cracked out a home run. Pep covered the bases in the true Nurmi style and beat the ball from third to home. Harvey Stirrett secured a two bagger and all the rest of the boys gathered in hits.

The score stood at 5-3 when the eighth inning started but in the ninth Oshawa secured a good hit with two men on bases. The winning run closed the game and the Argos had lost again by a hairsbreadth.

The Red Shirts play in Oshawa again tonight, this time against the St. Andrew's team which won the Ontario Juvenile championship. The largest crowd that has attended a ball game in Oshawa this season was out last night but to-night's crowd is expected to break all records.

SWIMMING SIMPLIFIED

THREE DISTINCT STEPS ARE SEEN IN MAKING THE SWAN DIVE

By James A. Lee.

The swan dive is one of the dives that form the foundation of the diver-to-be.

The swan dive consists of three important factors, namely, the take off, form in the air, and entry in the water.

The take off must be smooth and lively, using at least three steps, the last being a jump. Then swing the arms from a position extended even with the shoulders, downward and upward in front of the body into the swan position. This arm action helps the diver in attaining height.

When leaving the board upward and outward, the body must be rigid and graceful. All movements must be easy and feel natural.

The back should be well arched, head up, arms extended to the sides parallel with the shoulders, ankles together and the toes well pointed.

Just before entering the water the arms are brought above the head with fingers rigid. Keep the body rigid till the dive is completed.

Climbing mountains in Correctly Lubricated Cars

AMONG the leaders in providing the modern conveyances which make mountain sight-seeing the comfortable outing it is to-day, the Rocky Mountain Tour and Transport Company will be recalled by many whose tours have included the great National Park of which Banff and Lake Louise are the scenic jewels.

This famous Transport organization, after several months' testing of Marvelube in its fleet, followed by a careful inspection of all equipment, ordered Marvelube for 1927.

The letter of Mr. J. T. McLeod, Manager of the Rocky Mountain Tour and Transport Co. Limited, in which he confirms his Company's intention to use Marvelube, is of interest to every motorist. It reads as follows:

"Having just completed a thorough overhaul of our fleet . . . we find that our motors have had perfect lubrication by the use of your Marvelube . . . We are confident that we are now using the most efficient transport equipment on the market to-day, which we feel is necessary in the handling of the enormous tourist traffic over the mountain highways . . . With the use of Marvelube we have apparently eliminated any sign of lubrication trouble, and we find our power plants in much better condition than at any other previous overhaul. We must now admit your correctness in recommending Marvelube."

The decision of this big Transport organization to definitely adopt Marvelube, was made only after the Company's expert mechanics had for their guidance the observation of an entire season and the result of the season's operation.

Then, with engines dismantled and with Marvelube superiority made evident by the Freedom from Wear exhibited in the exposed working parts, they were so pleased with this proof of Marvelube's perfect lubricating properties as to freely give credit where credit belongs.

Quantity Purchasing Means Lower Prices

THE DAYS HAVE PASSED when "quantity production" meant cheap goods. With hundreds of thousands of people scattered over hundreds of thousands of square miles, demanding fundamentally the same things—good food, good clothes, good home furnishings—these articles must be produced in tremendous quantities, while still maintaining a high standard of quality. This achievement modern machinery has made possible.

Under these conditions, it is natural that quantity purchasing must mean lower prices. The buyer who can distribute a whole factory shipment to the public within a few days will obtain far better prices than the man who can handle only a few dozen at a time.

By amalgamating the buying of twenty-two large stores, Canadian Department Stores, Limited, brings these lower prices to you, personally, on the same fine quality merchandise you have always bought.

Vienna Business Girls Wear Men's Clothing

VIENNA, July 22.—The chief of police of Vienna has given permission to business women to wear masculine clothing. The chief's action came in answer to a petition signed by 3,000 stenographers, office clerks and shop girls.

In his reply the chief stated that nothing in the Austrian code of law prevents a girl from wearing man's clothes. He pointed out that with the coming of Eton crops and pajamas at the bathing beaches, the next step, to plus fours, morning coats and men's business suits had been foreseen.

A number of leading Viennese women have stated that they welcome this new freedom as a refreshing change from the above-the-knee skirt and the highly artificial vogues that prevail in Vienna to-day. The police permission for the wearing of men's clothes by women is, however, bound by the condition that the clothes must not be calculated to cause a disturbance of public order or propriety.

The famous Austrian League for the Protection of Men against Feminism intends to take up the matter, and has notified the City Council that it will protest against the new invasion of woman in man's spheres

FORMER PLAYER RECEIVES CHEQUE

Millbrook Boys Send Gifts To Will Forsyth, Now in Ill Health.

MILLBROOK, July 22.—Will Forsyth, a Millbrook "Old Boy", who in the years of his early manhood was a member of the local lacrosse and baseball clubs, then in the heyday of their strength, was pleasantly remembered by the present day players on Wednesday evening when they sent to him, through his sister, Mrs. G. F. Harrington, a generous cheque as a kindly reminder of the friendship and good sportsmanship of former days.

The initiative in the matter was taken by several of the other "Old Boys", some of whom had gone to school with Mr. Forsyth, and all of whom desired to express, in some tangible manner, their keen sympathy with him in the chronic ill health from which he has suffered during the past five years.

Mr. Forsyth spent all of his early years in this vicinity, attended the local public school, and has always been actively interested in athletics and clear sport. He was a member of the lacrosse club from this community which had the honor several years ago of playing against the Souris team, then champions of Western Canada, and coming off victorious in the national game.

The unfortunate state of Mr. Forsyth's health in recent years, necessitated his giving up his business at Galt, and made imperative three years' residence in a sanitorium. He is spending the summer in Millbrook for the benefit to be derived from the out-of-doors life. His letter of appreciation for the gift sent him follows:

"I wish to thank you one and all in accepting your gift. I wish to say I am very grateful for it, and appreciate it very much indeed.

"I also wish to make clear this point: There is something else of which, by word, you have said nothing, but which I feel more grateful for, and which I more deeply appreciate. It is that true spirit of lasting friendship which caused you to take this sympathetic interest in my welfare, and which prompted you to think of and carry out this act of kindness.

"During the balance of my life the memory of this incident will ever stand out before me in pleasing freshness, for this reason—that it tells me more plainly than words could possibly do, that those grand, old ties of friendship formed between us in earlier days, now more than a score of years ago, shall remain unbroken.

"Sincerely,
"W. A. Forsyth."

FINDS HIS NAME ON HONOR ROLL

Grain Exchange Employee Finds He is Listed as Dead.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 22 (Canadian Press) — W. Griffiths, a grain exchange employee here, found that he was listed as dead in the civic roll of honour list of the World War when he walked into the City Hall recently.

Griffith had left for overseas in 1914 without claiming a medal he had won for an athletic event here, and it was while an official of the City hall was going through a list of medals unclaimed that he came across the name of Griffith. The latter was later located at the grain exchange, and summoned to the City Hall.

NOISY GOLDFISH.

NEW YORK, July 22.—The noise of two goldfish swimming in front of the microphone, amplified 10,000,000 times, sounded to a radio audience here recently like the drumming of a horse's hoofs on a hard road. The beating of a man's heart, under the same amplification, sounded like the thump of a ship's engine and the ticking of a watch like the cracking of a compressed air drill.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE.

HYDRO WINS FROM SAINTS

Score of Campbellford Softball League Game is 28-12.

SOME QUEER PLAYS.

CAMPBELLFORD July 22. — The Electric Light crew and the Saints played off a postponed game last night, the former winning 28 to 12. St. Andrew's, as usual, insisted upon doing the merciful stuff and brought along a few weak sisters. Nobody credits St. Andrew's with being so dense that they cannot see that a persistence in the fondling of these weak sisters is going to make a mighty gap between them and the league cup, and the fans are, therefore, puzzled to know just what is the big idea. If it is for the amusement of the fans, St. Andrew's should remember that 100 per cent. of their support is Scotch, and that a Scotchman finds it mighty hard at times to see what is supposedly humorous.

Perhaps never before in the history of baseball has a man stood twenty-feet away from second base and thought he was on it, until the umpire sent page boys to inform him that he might interfere with the pitcher if he stood where he was, and that, anyway, he was out. There is talk of Hydro selling this player to the Peterick Corners Wall-Eyes.

In the last of the 8th De Carrol made an attempt to get a home run but it didn't count, as the man at the plate caught the ball just a few seconds before Dr. Carrol's arrival. It was a splendid hit, however.

About the next game will decide St. Andrew's fate, and it is pretty much up to the Saints to do the deciding.

The line-up:

St. Andrew's.—Storrie, p; Reynold, c; Dunk, 1b; Fox, 2b; Blakely, 3b; Little, ss; Peeling, cf; Bland, rf; Irwin, lf.

Hydro.—Johnston, p; Saunders, c; DeCarrol, 1b; Cowell, 2b; Watt, 3b; Tinney, ss; Beatty, cf; Long, rf; Saunders, lf.

TAKE BIRD CENSUSES.

WASHINGTON, July 22. — Censuses of breeding birds furnish valuable material for use in solving many problems relating to the distribution of bird life, says the biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture. With the help of volunteers, the department has been conducting these censuses for several years.

Outside the British Isles, there are fewer than 18,000,000 white people in the 13,000,000 square miles of the British Empire.

SAINT and SINNER

When the door opened to Faith's choking, "Come in!" and she saw Bob standing there, his face showing very white in the twilight, she half started from her chair, but a protesting whimper from Cherry's baby, cradled in her lap, reminded her of her light burden. Her great love for her husband made her want to stretch out her arms to him, to ask him to forgive her for her outburst. But pride proved stronger than love for the moment.

"Sitting in the dark, honey?" Bob's voice strove for casualness. "Want a light?"

"No," Faith answered steadily, glad that he could not see her trembling lips.

In the dim light she saw him stride across the room to the little green-painted chiffonier that held the baby's clothes. Her eyelids, which had been drooping wearily over eyes that had cried too long, flew wide with astonishment as she saw him hoist the little piece of furniture to his back and start across the room toward the door with it.

"What—are you going to do—with that?" she gasped, her icy hand closing about her throat. Was this to be his way of telling her that she could no longer take care of Cherry's baby during the night? "Bob, wait, please!"

"Cherry's packing to leave," Bob grunted from under the weight of the small chest of drawers, but he did not pause on his journey to the door.

"I don't know what her plans are," Bob volunteered as he pushed open the door with his foot and maneuvered his burden through the opening into the hall. "All I know is that she's packing and she wants the baby's things—and the baby, too, I suppose."

Faith ran to the door, her knees trembling so that she feared she would sink to the floor. The baby was held high upon her breast, one of its tiny hands clutching at a loosened strand of dark hair.

"Come back here, Bob!" she commanded him fiercely. "Are you crazy? Don't you know we can't let her go like this? Come back, I say!" She would later be amazed at her own temerity in ordering her husband about, but now she had no room in her mind for anything but fear and horror—horror of herself.

Bob Hathaway set the little chiffonier down with a thump, drew a handkerchief out of the breast pocket of his coat and mopped his forehead with maddening slowness before he obeyed her. When he had closed the door upon his re-entrance into the room, Faith had laid the baby in its crib, and was ready to confront him, hands clenched upon her breast, her eyes glittering like black diamonds in the fading light.

"Did you tell my sister to leave this house?" she panted, unable to control her voice.

Bob took two steps toward her, then halted, still mopping his face with his handkerchief. "Whew, it's hot," he groaned. "No, Faith, I didn't tell her to leave. It wasn't necessary. What you said to her was enough. I don't think any woman with pride would want to continue to live upon her sister after a speech like that. Of course you were right, absolutely right. I was darned glad to see you assert yourself at last," he added heartily. "There's no sense in your making a slave out of yourself for your family ——"

"Oh, hush!" Faith cried sharply. "What have I done? What have I done? Oh, Cherry! Let me pass, Bob! No—don't try to hold me! I'll hate you if you don't let me go to Cherry this instant!"

FUR RUGS.

Fur rugs, like other skin materials, will dry and soil very fast in steam-heated rooms, and should be washed in warm suds, like a dog. If mounted, this is impossible, but such rugs can be cleaned with warm cornmeal.

LIBRARY CLOCKS.

A handsome clock often gives a living quality to a library that adds infinite charm to the room.

GLEAMING SILVER.

The good housekeeper cleans her silver regularly once a week and keeps it gleaming so that it will never be necessary to scour it.

EGG DISHES.

New variety of egg dishes appear each spring when the egg supply increases. Souffles, tartlets, croquettes, eggs in aspic, entrees, timbales are all delicious and healthy. Eggs should be used freely in spring and summer.

MOTH PREVENTION.

Do not wait for your winter coat to get a hole in its front width before having your other woolens cleaned and packed away from the danger of moths.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

SATURDAY, JULY 23, 1927

Conflicting planetary influences hold sway today, according to astrology which finds the planetary government generally unfavorable.

In the early morning it is well to pay bills and look after one's banking interests.

There is an aspect presaging profit to newspapers and other periodicals, for there will be intense interest in foreign news.

Advertising in every line is subject to a good direction of the stars, which indicate increased interest in personal publicity.

This may not be a satisfactory rule for those who travel by water, for storms on the ocean appear to be indicated.

Under this direction of the stars there may be much discontent and restlessness, which should be curbed.

Again sudden changes of temperature and unusual storms are prognosticated.

Hotel proprietors and owners should profit especially at this time when there will be a tendency to seek pleasure without counting its cost.

Much honor and profit are foretold for those already in places in the sun. The stars indicate that to him who hath much will be given.

Money will come to capitalists and not to workers under this planetary rule, it is prophesied.

Danger of fires in public institutions as well as among the forests is supposed to be increased by the aspects of the stars today.

The seers remind the public that the eclipse of June 29 was attended by aspects indicating war that indirectly affects this nation.

Persons whose birthdate it is may be weary of old ties and old duties in the coming year, which will perhaps bring severe tests.

Children born on this day may be exceedingly forceful and individualistic. Both boys and girls may be difficult to guide, but they should have great possibilities.

POST'S BED BUG POISON.

Post's Bed Bug Poison is composed of carbolic acid, Methyl Hydrate and Corrosive sublimate. When this preparation is used according to directions, it is sure death to bed bugs, cockroaches and insects of all descriptions. Two or three applications are all that is necessary, but as it is very poisonous, this preparation should be kept out of reach of children.

STAINED WALLS.

Darkened and smoke stained ceilings may be cleaned by applying a layer of starch and water on a piece of flannel. Let this dry, then brush off lightly with a clean brush.

With the first really hot days, a cook drink is made twice as refreshing by the addition of a few leaves of mint.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

A striking effect is secured by means of the simple device of stitched bias bands of material in this sports frock of plaid gingham.

There is no one smartest cotton fabric this summer. Cottons of all sorts have assumed a new importance and appear in frocks of unprecedented smartness. French dressmakers have deigned to consider cotton as an alternative of silk in the making of afternoon and evening frocks—as well as the less important little frock for morning or sports wear. Never before has cotton been so important in Paris— and American women will soon be coming home with frocks made of cotton grown in this country—and now returning to the place of its origin.

High prices have been paid for these cotton frocks made by the great French dressmakers, but the real advantage of the cotton frock for most of us is its comparatively low price. The woman who must contrive to get variety and smartness on a low dress allowance should certainly take advantage of the present vogue for these materials. Five or six cotton frocks of the sort that you can make yourself or buy very reasonably will give the variety that you need for your summer holiday.

Cotton eponge has been used to make little jacket frocks suitable for country club wear. White dimity may be made with piping of light color or worked with colored faggoting. Organdie may be used for evening frocks of the full-skirted period sort quite as effectively as taffeta. Figured cotton materials of the sort we speak of as English prints, percale, printed and embroidered cotton voile, pique dotted swiss and gingham have all been used effectively this summer.

Gingham has much to recommend it to the woman who wants to make a cotton frock for herself. It is a material that is substantial without being at all heavy and is therefore easy to work with. Then, too, ginghams of the better sort fade very little and wear extremely well.

Sharkey Is Knocked Out In 7th by Jack Dempsey

WILSON'S BACHELOR

DEMPSEY MAKES SENSATIONAL COMEBACK BEFORE 82,000 FANS AT CROWDED YANKEE STADIUM

Jack Sharkey, the Boston Sailor, is Knocked Out in Seventh Round.

RIGHT-HAND WALLOP

Ex-Champion Will Meet Gene Tunney, Present Titleholder, in September.

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, July 22.—(Canadian Press).— Jack Dempsey staged a sensational comeback last night by knocking out Jack Sharkey in the seventh round of a 15 round match before a wildly cheering crowd of 82,000 in the Yankee stadium

Sharkey took the count of ten after going down from a vicious right hand wallop to the jaw. The Boston sailor had claimed a foul blow to the midsection just before the climax, but the referee Jack O'Sullivan refused to allow it and counted him out.

Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion of the world, came back to the prize ring to fight Jack Sharkey for the right to challenge Gene Tunney for the title in September. Dempsey weighed 194 1-2, Sharkey 196.

Huge Crowd.

The lure of the big bronze hard-punching Dempsey and the clever Boston sailorman drew a crowd of over 82,000 to the huge American League ball park. The gate was estimated at well over $1,000,000, a record for non-championship fights.

Referee O'Sullivan.

The referee was announced as Jack O'Sullivan and the judges Tom Flynn and Charles Matheson, all of New York.

Dempsey was the first in the ring. As he appeared down the aisles the huge crowd stormed to its feet, cheering and whistling. Dempsey danced in his corner after shaking hands with the announcer.

Sharkey came in later to another great deafening ovation. He climbed into the ring, leering fiercely about him as Dempsey warmed up with hands on the ropes. The Boston boy strode to Jack's corner and gave the former champion the "eye" touched hands and snarled something in Dempsey's ear. The former champion barely turned his head and went on dancing, his back turned, as Sharkey retreated still glaring.

A battery of cameras were set up immediately under the glaring lights and Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, Tom Heeny and Paulino Uzcudum, both heavyweights, joined the principal's before the lenses. The storm cloud of Dempsey's black scowl appeared as Jack caught a glimpse of Sharkey's lowered brow.

Sharkey sneered, as Dempsey was introduced, then the Boston boy beamed all over as boos mingled with cheers on his own introduction.

After they posed in fighting form the ring was cleared and the battle was on.

Round One.

Dempsey came out in a crouch and fell into a clinch, hammering five short rights to the body as Sharkey missed a left hook. Dempsey bored in again, drilling hard smashes to the ribs. Jack hooked two lefts to Dempsey's head. They were close again and Sharkey got in two more to the head. Sharkey stabbed Dempsey with a left to the head. Dempsey bored in again, took two lefts to the head and again drove short punches to Sharkey's body. A left hook shook Sharkey's head back. Sharkey ticked Jack with two right uppercuts. Dempsey, reeling and groggy, moved about the ring under a fusillade. Sharkey smashed him again with rights. Dempsey was groggy as Sharkey missed a long right. The bell caught Sharkey half way through a right swing. Dempsey went to his corner very tired.

Round Two.

Dempsey's seconds worked on him while Sharkey lay back calm and confident. Jack came out slowly and Sharkey missed a left. Sharkey drove Dempsey to the ropes with a right to the jaw. Dempsey fought fiercely at Sharkey's body but laid on heavy in the clinch. Dempsey missed a wild left hook. In close, they swapped jolts to the ribs. Dempsey held as Sharkey clubbed him to the body. Sharkey nailed Dempsey with a left to the head and drove Dempsey to the ropes with short rights to the jaw. The Boston boy was landing at will, solid smashes to the chin that rocked the former champion. They slugged fiercely in the centre of the ring as Dempsey nailed Sharkey with two hooks to the chin.

Round Three.

A small cut appeared under Dempsey's left eye from Sharkey's jab. Dempsey drove a long left to the stomach and then took a left and right uppercut as he swayed to close quarters. Dempsey missed a left to the head but landed two right jolts on Sharkey's chin. Dempsey shuffled in, apparently stronger, crowding Sharkey with a good attack. Dempsey whipped over a right uppercut as he wove in. Sharkey caught Dempsey with a wicked right smash to the chin as the former champion came in to whale at the Boston boy's body. Sharkey slipped and went down in his own corner but was up without a count.

Fourth Round.

Sharkey was a less confident man as he came out. Dempsey drove Sharkey around the ring with fierce punches to the body. Sharkey breathed hard as Dempsey nailed a left to the chin and a right to the ribs.

Sharkey cut three left jabs into Dempsey's face and hooked both hands to the face. Dempsey's right eye was bleeding badly. Dempsey came in again with a short right to the body and lifted Sharkey's head with a right uppercut. Sharkey missed and took two smashing jolts from Dempsey's left. Dempsey nailed Sharkey with a left hook full on the jaw.

Round Five.

Dempsey appeared to be finding himself under the heart of the milling. Sharkey spit blood as Dempsey swung in close for another short armed body attack, Sharkey met him with a right uppercut coming in but Dempsey got in two lefts to the ribs. Sharkey landed a straight right to the head and Dempsey clinched. A cut appeared on Dempsey's left cheek. Dempsey bore right back, throwing rights to the body but taking Sharkey's left four times to the head. Dempsey hooked a left to Sharkey's head and the sailor wobbled.

Sixth Round.

Sharkey, apparently much fresher than Dempsey, was playing a waiting game. He let Dempsey rush him again. Sharkey was short with a left to the chin, but his right smacked solidly on Dempsey's jaw. Dempsey missed a long left. Dempsey came steadily on, however, ramming away to the body but Sharkey was all elbows on defence. Sharkey slipped a right to Dempsey's face. Sharkey shot Dempsey's head back with a terrific right uppercut to the jaw. It was the cleanest and hardest punch of the fight so far. Dempsey leaned in, however, pushing Sharkey to the ropes. Dempsey caught the sailor coming out with three smashes to the head and the crowd booed as Sharkey deliberately poked Dempsey in the face after the bell.

Seventh Round.

Dempsey was weaving again and Sharkey held, the fire grew hot about his body. Dempsey suddenly whipped his left into Sharkey's stomach and followed with a straight right hand smash to the jaw that sent Sharkey down. Sharkey got to his knees at the count of nine, swayed and then fell flat to his face and the referee counted ten. Sharkey's handlers claimed the blow was foul, but the referee disallowed it. Probably the greatest ovation given a fighter was accorded Dempsey as the referee raised his hand in victory. The stadium fairly rocked. The round lasted only forty-five seconds.

Preliminary Fights.

The first preliminary ended quickly when Joe Monte, of Brockton, Mass., knocked out Frank Muskie, of St. Paul, Minn., a sparring partner of champion Gene Tunney, in the second round of a six round match. Muskie weighed 173, Monte 174.

James J. Braddock, Jersey City light heavyweight scored a six round decision over his Harlem rival, rugged George La Rocco, in the final preeliminary. Braddock floored his rival twice for counts of nine, but could not keep him down.

Braddock weighed 165 1-2 and La Rocco 179.

Sand Zeifert, veteran Pittsburgh heavyweight, stopped the knockout winning streak of Wyoming Warner, Cheyenne youngster, by winning a six round decision. The crowd booed the verdict.

Teddy Hayes, former trainer of Jack Dempsey, yesterday had an attachment served on Tex Rickard, whereby the promoter may be unable to pay off the returns of last night's fight until Hayes' claim of $62,000 against Dempsey is settled, the New York Evening Post says.

PIRATES DROP DOUBLE-HEADER

Pittsburg Loses National League Leadership When Boston Wins Twice.

CHICAGO CUBS LOSE

NEW YORK, July 22.—(Canadian Press).—The Pirates were scuttled at Boston yesterday, losing both games of a double-header and their precarious hold on first place in National League percentage. The scores were 2 to 1 and 5 to 2.

The Boston club played heads-up baseball, fielding spectacularly and completing six snappy double plays in two games.

Cubs Lose.

The Philadelphia Nationals took the first of a three game Philadelphia series from the Chicago Cubs, winning by a 7 to 3 score. Guy Bush and Percy Jones, Cub hurlers, were both ineffective issuing 8 bases on balls and yielding a total of 13 hits.

Cardinals Win.

The Cardinals wrested a 10-inning struggle from the Giants at New York by 7-6 Catcher Devormer's wild peg past third letting Bottomley race home with the winning run. New York trailed St. Louis by five runs when the ninth started bu the score was levelled by a sensational batting rally by the Giants. Home runs by Schulte and Frisch featured the St. Louis attack.

Overtime.

Behind the air-tight pitching of Adolfo Luque, Cincinnati won at Brooklyn, 2 to 1, in the thirteenth inning when the ineffectiveness of Rube Ehrhardt and an error by Herman gave the Reds the deciding run. Luque and Doak pitched scoreless ball up to the tenth when Luque himself banged a triple on top of Hargrave's single, for the first tally in the game.

BUYS BRITISH HORSES.

Unable to find suitable material in America, E. A. Stuart, Seattle horse owner, has purchased six geldings and a mare in England.

IS ERRATIC PLAYER.

Great Interest Taken In Fight

Great interest was taken last night in the Dempsey-Sharkey fight. Hundreds of citizens gathered in front of The Examiner to read the bulletins. The crowd for the most part thought that Sharkey would win, but they hoped that by some manner it would be Dempsey. When the final results were made known a shout went up that was heard for blocks. The Examiner phones were busy for three hours answering inquiries about the fight.

BILLIARD CHAMPION WITHOUT FRIENDS

J. L. Malone, Former "Cue Magician," Will be Buried in the Potter's Field.

MONTREAL, Que., July 28.—(Canadian Press).—Sixteen countries applauded J. L. Malone in his heyday as a billiard champion and "cue magician", but his funeral today to the local potter's field will be that of a man without relatives or friends to claim his body. He took his life by gas on Saturday last in a third floor back room on St. Antoine street.

Efforts made by Coroner McMahon to communicate with someone who might claim the bdy were unsuccessful. Malone had when he died, three cents and a large book full of clippings about himself. In this book were found papers that indicated that he had been recently in the employ of H. Adler and Wagner Company, but a letter from the New York house yesterday said Malone had never been in their employ.

YANKEES BEAT CHICAGO TEAM

Errors by Indians Give Athletics the Game By Five Runs.

DETROIT WINS

NEW YORK, July 22.—(Canadian Press).—The Yankees repulsed the White Sox by 4 to 1 yesterday in the opening game of a Chicago series, scoring all their runs on as many hits in the eighth inning. Connolly yielded only one other hit, a scratch double by Gehrig in the fourth which was wasted. Hoyt pitched a fine struggle yielding seven hits.

Athletics Win.

Philadelphia opened a four game series at Cleveland with an 8 to 3 victory. Errors by the Indians allowed the Athletics to score six of their runs. Ty Cobb reached first on an error in the sixth, stole second, took third when no one covered the bag and came home on Jacobson's bad return throw.

Detroit scored its fourth consecutive victory by defeating Boston 7-3 in the opening game of the series at Detroit.

Lundgren, the Red Sox pitcher, was wild, and also received faulty support. Regan kept Boston in the running with a home run over the left field fence with Myer on base.

Game Called.

With the score tied 2-2 the second game of a double header between the Washington Senators and the Browns at St. Louis was called after the seventh inning yesterday because of wind and darkness. The Browns won the first game, 5 to 4, with a ninth inning rally which brought in three runs.

GOOD JUNIOR GAME PROMISED

Exhibition Game Tomorrow Should be Fast Affair.

AT RIVERSIDE

Kiwanis Juniors are ready for the invasion tomorrow of the touring Argos of Regina.

The Argos have had a strenuous schedule since they left the West some weeks ago. The disappointment here of last Monday was entirely unavoidable, and other cities along the line suffered accordingly.

The Western Provinces as a rule breed clever and husky athletes, and the Argos are no exception to the rule.

The postponement from Monday night till Saturday afternoon will no doubt hinder some from attending, but the majority favor Saturday games, and there should be a large turn out, for many say this will be a good game.

OTTAWA RINKS DEFEAT BRITISH

Touring Lawn Bowlers Lose by Eleven Points to a Picked Team.

LUNCHEON HELD

OTTAWA, Ont., July 22.—(Canadian Press).—A picked team of six Ottawa rinks defeated the touring British Lawn Bowling team by eleven points.

The British bowlers, who arrived yesterday from Montreal, were entertained at luncheon at the Ottawa Lawn Tennis and Bowling Club. Thirty-one bowlers from England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales, with eight ladies who are accompanying the party attended. David Murdock, president, and J. G. Swalwell, vice-president, of the Quebec Lawn Bowling Association, who came to Ottawa from Montreal, gave brief addresses.

Sir George Boyle, C.B.E., replied to the addresses of welcome and declared that in his fifty years of public life he had never had such fine time as that enjoyed with the rest of the British team in Montreal.

STARS' PITCHER HITS HOME RUN

Syracuse Shuts Out Toronto in First Game of Series.

BALTIMORE WINS

NEW YORK, July 22.—(Canadian Press)—Syracuse defeated Toronto yesterday, 3 to 0, in the first of the Syracuse series games. Johnson held the Leafs to six hits and struck out six men in addition to clouting for the circuit.

Bisons Win.

The Buffalo Bisons won at Rochester, when Ogden blanked the Tribe, 5 to 0. Andy Cohen hit a home run, scoring a runner ahead of him.

The Orioles celebrated their home coming by winning yesterday's game with Jersey City, 6 to 3. A four run rally in the sixth featured by Poole's home run and Fewster's steal home overcame the Black Cats one run lead and gave the locals their margin.

WAS COLLEGE STAR.

Rather surprising that Leon Ames, who starred for the New York Giants years ago, didn't send his son to McGraw instead of Pittsburgh. The boy was Ohio State's star pitcher this year.

MAY NATIONALIZE ARGENTINE OIL LAND

Chamber of Deputies Discussing of Bill—Passage Doubtful.

BUENOS AIRES, July 22 (United Press). — The Chamber of Deputies has begun debate on a bill to nationalize oil lands of Argentina. The Socialist Deputy Pena accused several members yesterday of having been appointed by a Standard Oil attorney.

Political circles doubt if the bill will be passed. The provincial governments are opposed to it because it would take jurisdiction of the present petroleum lands out of their hands.

DEMPSEY MEETS TUNNEY SHORTLY

Bout to Take Place in September, Probably in Chicago.

NEW YORK, July 22 (Canadian Press).—The "Hollow Shell" of Hollywood was loaded after all, it seems, and today Jack Dempsey, at 32, is on the high road of a sensational comeback as the result of a stunning knockout victory over Jack Sharkey last night. Although Promoter Tex Rickard today declined to make any definite announcement of his plans, it is regarded as likely that Dempsey and Tunney will fight for the crown between September 15 and 20, possibly in Philadelphia, but probably in Chicago.

Low Blows Hurt

Jack Sharkey, in his dressing room after his defeat, declared Dempsey dropped his body attack below the waist line in the round that saw the knockout.

"It was all right," he said, 'as long 'as he stuck to banging me around the hips, but when he dropped lower ——."

"Not a scratch on me," he muttered as he peered into the mirror to don his tie.

Theaters

FILM STORY OF THE TURF STRIKES AUTHENTIC NOTE

A story of the race track world, intensely interesting and human, and strikingly lacking in the threadbare plot and situations which generally grace pictures of this locale, opened its engagement here at the Regent Theatre last night.

It is "The Sunset Derby," a First National picture produced by Charles R. Rogers, and it is as satisfying and pleasing a production as has been offered local theatre patrons in some time.

Utterly absent is the banal plot of the "fixed race," the doped horse, or the kidnaped jockey. There is no forcing the heroine into marriage or driving the old Kentucky colonel into bankruptcy. It is a story, instead, of a jockey—and, of course, a girl as well—who agrees to ride a small trainer's only horse as a favor, is injured in an accident, recovers only to find the accident has caused him to lose his nerve for riding.

From that point the story progresses to a climax full of drama and thrills and the grand "windup" comes of course in a race that is as perfectly staged as any event on the screen, with a thrill almost as real as if one were really watching from the grandstands with a bookmaker's ticket on the hero's horse.

ARE PLAYING IN PETERBOROUGH TO-MORROW

CHAPTER XLVIII.

Vilak paused an instant while the ironing of the priests took on a sharper angry note. "The rest you can probably guess. The night when we came to warn Prentiss of an attack, he hurried out to put the baby down into a stony part of the cellar where it would be absolutely safe from chance bullets. Then when I announced my plan to flood the fazenda, he realized of course that it would be drowned where it was, and went out to bring it to the tower.

"It was then that D'Albentara and a few of his men who were able to reach the house before the water struck them, caught him, having first killed the dog which was carried off by the torrent. His captors started off with him toward the jungle. But they had been on the way only a day when the baby, who had been quite sickly ever since its first terrific journey, died. This was a contingency on which D'Albentara hadn't reckoned."

"I'm beginning to understand," Elise said. "That's why Tinky disappeared, isn't it?"

"Yes. Up to this time, you hadn't entered his affairs, except for him to steal your rifles which he needed badly and to send you a note or two warning you not to try to help Prentiss. I really think he liked you very much. But seeing all his hopes of gaining part of the vast gold supply of Batalagos going glimmering unless he brought back a live baby for the sacrifice, he naturally thought of Tinky, whom chance had thrown in his way when he found it along the road.

"I am quite sure he wouldn't have done this unless he were fairly desperate. But after you stop to consider it a moment, it doesn't seem such a desperate undertaking at that. The dead baby was approximately Tinky's age and size, and being light-skinned and of very fine aborigine stock, was in general appearance not unlike Tinky, who is, of course, pronouncedly dark. Besides, he could explain away any discrepancies by declaring them the work of time and travel. Though it was unlikely that he would have to do any explaining, for though Batalagos and the priests who were his friends undoubtedly knew the difference, the general public wouldn't be permitted to know. So he had the child stolen in the same fashion as the guns. For obvious reasons, Tinky was well taken care of on his trip and so didn't suffer the ill effects the other poor youngster did."

The angry chant became a dance. The priests began to leap up and down, shaking great gourd rattles. "How did he . . . er . . . steal him and the guns?" the old man asked. "There were no footprints."

"Merely by getting some of his men who were expert tree-climbers like those chaps we saw back in the jungle. If you remember there were trees by the shed where the guns were kept and trees shading the spot where Tinky was lying. They merely followed along the strip of woods which led to the road, let themselves down by vines or leather ropes which some of these Indians are expert in handling, and with their burdens returned the same way. I felt fairly sure it was this when I found a bit of leaf on the floor of the shed which showed bruised marks as though a rope or vine had cut forcibly against it."

"I . . . er . . . see that now. But why were all those . . . er Italians . . . and that Englishman killed in that dreadful way? And how?"

and that Englishman killed in that dreadful way? And how?"

"Tony's death was accidental. He got something which was intended for Prentiss. The other three were put out of the way because after Pasquale and Detto heard of the gold through the tortured Indian, they set out to get it. All of them were killed in a manner, Nanny, which you as a chemist should feel somewhat ashamed of yourself as I do of myself, for not recognizing it sooner. It was curari."

Elise helped the child to crawl onto her khaki-clad knee. "What's curari?" she asked.

"A vegetable poison which occurs sporadically all over South America. Some natives use it to tip their blowpipe darts in hunting."

The old man looked sheepish. "I am . . . er . . . ashamed of myself," he stammered. "Should have recognized it at once . . . yes . . . er . . . at once. Only poison of its kind in existence. Paralyzes all the muscles . . . yes . . . muscles . . . yet at the same time has no effect on nerves . . . Er . . . no effect. . . . So . . . er . . . tortured person can feel all pain acutely . . . er . . . acutely . . . and yet—cannot make move to get away. Ashamed of myself . . . Quite ashamed. How did the curari get into their blood?"

"Thorns. There were a number of thorns in that thicket at the entrance to Prentiss' fazenda where Tony was killed, which were smeared with it. They had been prepared this way on the chance that Prentiss would brush against them. But it happened to be Tony instead who brushed against them when Limey struck him and he fell. That's the way some of the natives were killed, too. Lucky for Prentiss that he went to town as seldom as he did. That's why I made you wear a rain-coat as a slight protection, for I imagined that there was something of the sort, though I didn't know just what, and that's why I burned the thicket. The fingers of the idol are coated with the same poison. And so are the little points on D'Albentara's ring when you press a spring and release them. Which, of course, makes it a fearfully dangerous weapon."

The dance of the priests ceased. The worshipers began slowly drifting out of the courtyard. Prentiss stirred uneasily in his sleep.

It began to grow cool. The old man moved closer to the fire. "Er . . . Prentiss couldn't have told you all, er, I. You must have known . . . er much of it, long before. Or you wouldn't have acted the way you did . . . . How did you learn it? It's quite beyond me."

"Nothing miraculous in the slightest. Merely a simple bit of addition, using facts instead of numbers and that a bit of very ordinary reasoning. I got my first hint from the high collar Prentiss always wore. Man doesn't wear such a collar in hot climate like that of Porto Verde without a distinct reason.

"On the single occasion that he came to the barber's shop to be shaved—incidentally that collar was one of reasons for my adopting the role of my friends Riggs—I noticed that he refused to take it off, and of course I took pains to find out why. I saw the tattooed circle round it, and observed how his neck twitched nervously there whenever I brought the razor near. So I felt sure that the unusual sensitiveness arose because the nerves had suffered some distinct shock and the collar was thus an unconscious gesture of protection as well as a means to hide the tattooing.

"If a man had escaped from hanging after the rope had been placed round his neck he'd probably feel the same way. Then later, when I went out to his fazenda and tripped him up with a vine, I found that the bottle he was bringing from the tower where he kept his perishable kitchen supplies contained milk. This, coupled with the cries, caused me to suspect the presence of a child.

"On top of this, were the fact the stone lamps burning outside his gate, an obvious symbol, probably intended to give protection; the bits of bone chopped in ritualistic fashion which I found in the fire, and the ring which clearly showed signs of some degenerate form of nature worship. So when Tinky's last kidnaping occurred the story in between wasn't hard to imagine.

The court was now deserted, except for four soldiers, humbly waiting to take them off to the chief's apartment for the night. Vilak stretched his long gaunt arms, and yawned.

"I don't know what anybody else is going to do, but I, personally, am going to bed. I'm pretty well worn out, and we've two or three busy days ahead getting ready to make a trek back to civilization. Prentiss tells me there's a way across the desert and mountains to Peru that's very quick and very easy once you know it, particularly if Batalagos helps. Which you can be assured I'll take care he will. You see, we've practically crossed Brazil, and in two weeks of good healthy traveling we'll be in Cuzco. From there we can get a train to the coast, and then take a steamer to anywhere."

Elise glanced at him and shook her head in mock resignation.

"You're too clever," she said. "Much, much too clever to be tolerated. But I can't help being terribly grateful to, you, and more than that, being awfully fond of you. I don't know what I'm going to do about it."

He yawned again, then rose to his feet, and surveyed her quizzically. "Am I to consider that remark as cousinly, esteemed relative, or as rather in the nature of . . . a proposal?"

She started to make an indignant reply, then checked herself, and smiled. "Take it anyway you like," she answered slowly.

He took a placid puff of his cigaret. "Thanks," he said suavely. "You've saved me a lot of trouble. I had just decided to do it myself."

THE END.

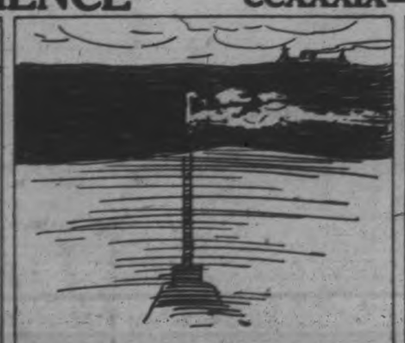
OUTLINE OF SCIENCE — CCXXXIX—How the Submarine Sees. — by MAX HAHN

SUBMARINES WOULDN'T BE NEARLY SO USEFUL IF THEY DIDN'T HAVE THE MARVELOUS SEEING APPARATUS CALLED A PERISCOPE. WITH THIS DEVICE THE UNDERSEA BOAT WATCHES THE ENEMY WITHOUT MUCH RISK OF BEING SEEN.



© McClure Newspaper Syndicate

IF THE ENEMY IS NEAR, THE SUB DOESN'T SPEND MUCH TIME WITH THE PERISCOPE EXPOSED. THE PERISCOPE CREATES A WAKE EASILY SEEN BY NEARBY CRAFT.

THIS DIAGRAM SHOWS THE OUTSTANDING FEATURES OF THE OLD-STYLE OR COMMON PERISCOPE. ALTHOUGH THIS INSTRUMENT SHOWS ONLY A SIXTH OF THE HORIZON AT A TIME, IT CAN BE REVOLVED SO THAT THE OBSERVER KEEPS POSTED ON THE ENEMY'S MOVEMENTS.

CRESCENTS WIN FROM LEADERS

Cognawagas Suffer 10 To 3 Defeat—Billingsley Great.

CLUBS BUNCHED.

With Jack Billingsley pitching a brand of ball that baffled his former teammates all the way, Crescents defeated Cognawagas at Exhibition Park last evening, the score reading 10 to 3. Crescents supported their twirler's fine performance on the mound by fielding and hitting in championship form, as a result of which the Cogs put in a miserable evening. They got only five hits while Crescents were pounding Vannest and galloping around the paths for a total of ten runs, which by the way is the worst beating the league leaders have taken this season.

Three of the four clubs are now bunched as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	Tied.
Cognawagas	5	3	0
Crescents	4	3	0
Raybestos	3	3	1
Bethany	1	4	1

Crescents opened with a run in the first after two were out, when Mackness, subbing for Rooke at first base, dropped two thrown balls off grounders, Kenneally going in with a stolen base also to his credit. Vannest did not give Mackness much chance to handle the throw off Ranger's tap to the box.

Cogs got the run back with two down. Cripps singled and went home when Rooke, who had arrived in time to replace Mackness, singled into middle. The ball went through J. Jones, allowing Cripps to score, and Rooke to make third. Wilson's grounder to Billingsley retired the side.

Crescents took a nice lead in the third. Le Barr walked and J. Jones was dead-headed. Kenneally lined out to first, advancing the runners. Ranger looped one back of second to score LeBarr and Jones. Ranger stole second and tallied on Corbett's honest triple between middle and left. The next two went out.

Two more runs came in the fourth. F. Jones popped to the pitcher; Billingsley walked, and LeBarr sacrificed. Prest dropped J. Jones' fly, allowing Billingsley to score, and Kenneally's drive through short scored Jones.

Billingsley was pitching carefully, mixing them up, and Cogs were getting nowhere. In the fifth, however, Prest, who drew a pass, was sacrificed by Smith. He took third an Vannest's fly to LeBarr and scored when Williams sent a fly to J. Jones. F. Jones also tried to get under the ball with the result that the Spalding dropped to the ground. Then F. Jones went back and took Crary's fly.

Cogs sent another run across in the sixth, on Cripp's single to middle, Rooke's out and Wilson's sacrifice.

Crescents made a rousing finish by scoring four runs in the seventh, on singles by Kenneally and Ranger, Corbett's infield out, a pass to Barry, and Mein's double. A double play, Vannest to Rooke to Williams stopped the merry-go-round.

The box score:

SOCCER CUP GAME NEXT SATURDAY

Masseys Versus Thistle in the Final of Gordon Cup.

AT KING EDWARD PARK.

A very important soccer game is scheduled for Saturday afternoon between the Thistle (Gordon Cup Holders) and the Masseys (the league leaders) in the final of the 1927 Gordon Cup tie which will be played at King Edward Park. Kick off will be at 3 o'clock prompt.

After so many years participation in soccer, the Masseys have never been fortunate enough to gain the most desired trophy in soccer circles in the city, the G. N. Gordon Cup, and intend annexing it also so as to give it a place alongside the Holloway Cup they won this season.

Last season the Thistle and the Quakers had a complete eleven but one, while the Thistle had only four players and the referee declared the game off.

The Masseys team will be: Fowler, goal; Wade and Grant or Buchan, backs; Logan, Mann and Blowers, halves; Willis, Logan, Beggs, Laidler and Sharman, forwards.

All Thistle players to be at the pavilion not later than 2.45 prompt, when the team will be chosen.

WATCHFUL GUARD PREVENTS ESCAPE

Catches Man Trying To Get Out of Sing Sing in Garbage Barrel.

OSSINING, N.Y., July 22.—In a barrel of garbage with a false bottom, John C. Brennan, hold-up man, serving a sentence of from 7½ to 15 years sought to escape from Sing Sing yesterday. Like his predecessor, Charles Joseph, who shied an apple at the prison garbage man in the hope of escaping unnoticed from the wagon, only to hit the horse, which ran away, upset the cart and pinned him underneath, Brennan was unsuccessful.

Keeper John McCartin observed an unusual movement on top of four barrels of garbage from the prison kitchen, placed inside the south gate to be loaded on the wagon of Joseph Luskits, garbage man, just after noon yesterday. He drew forth the 155 pound, 5 foot 7½ inch person of Brennan.

Last night, Brennan was confined in "solitary" refusing to give the names of those who hid him in the barrel. He may be indicted by the Westchester grand jury for an attempt to break jail and may be required to serve the full fifteen years of his hitherto indeterminate sentence. When Brennan was convicted of a $4,500 payroll robbery in Staten Island, Sheriff Atwell expressed fear of an attempt to rescue him by members of a band of Philadelphia gunmen. All prisoners deny knowledge of how Brennan got in the barrel, and who put the garbage in place after his entrance.

SCIENTIST URGES STUDY OF WATER

Common Fluid Neglected By Research Workers, He Says.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., July 22. —That water was one of the great mysteries of chemistry, and that science would be put on a much sounder basis when research workers cease to neglect and abuse water, were declarations of Dean James Kennell of New York University in an address before the American Chemical Society Institute here yesterday.

In a chemical sense water was perhaps the most reactive substance known to science, yet it remained almost as much of a mystery to the chemist of to-day as oxygen was 150 years ago, he asserted.

"Because water is so universal in our own small part of the universe," Dean Kennell said, "we take it for granted that we know all about it, and on this more or less casual assumption we have built up a vast structure of theory when we are completely ignorant of the basis of the assumption.

The history of science affords numerous instances where whole schools of investigators have gone astray through the neglect of such precautions.

"The laws of gravitation should be just as rigidly correct on the sun or the moon as on the earth but that also is an assumption."

FORD AGENTS EXPERIENCED

Messrs. Hood and Cumming Have Handled These Cars For Years.

WILL OPEN SHORTLY.

Long experience in Ford service is brought to Peterborough by Ross J. Hood and C. F. Cumming, who have taken over the Ford Motor Company agency in Peterborough and district. Both men have been with the company for a number of years.

Mr. Hood was formerly in Port Perry for eight years, where he established one of the most successful agencies in the province, building it up from a small beginning, mainly upon the stress that he laid on service to his clients.

Mr. Cumming, formerly of Toronto, has served the Ford Motor Company in a numer of executive capacities. He was formerly a district sales manager in the Toronto branch but latterly was chief of the Tractor Department.

As a result of their experience both men are competent and possess a thorough knowledge of the business.

Mr. Cumming told The Examiner to-day that he has considerable faith in the City of Peterborough and district, and is convinced that he will be able to give service of a kind that will demand the attention of the public. He hopes to be able to announce very shortly the specifications and prices of the new Ford models, and stated that according to information he had received from the head office, these cars represent the greatest value ever put before the public by any automobile concern.

While not in a position to give the exact date on which the new model will be presented, Mr. Cumming declared that he would be able to service all present Ford owners within a week, and would also be in a position to service the other garages with a complete stock of parts.

They have acquired the Peter Hamilton Company building, which is being remodelled, and when completed will be one of the most up-to-date show rooms and repair shops in this part of the country. Special equipment as passed by the Ford Motor Company, will be installed, and the services of some of the leading Ford mechanics in Ontario have already been secured.

Mr. Cumming is confident that the new model will revolutionize the automobile industry, and expressed the opinion that it would benefit prospective purchasers if they would wait and see the new Ford model.

Maexchen, a pet circus stork in Germany, attacked fourteen lions and drove them in panic to their cages.

BOARD REFUSES PERMITS TO ALL CLASSES OF INDIANS

BURLEIGH FALLS MAN.

No Distinction Made Between Treaty and Non-Treaty Indians.

According to a ruling of the Liquor Control Board, upholding a refusal of a liquor permit to Jack Jacobs, a non-treaty Indian of Burleigh Falls, the provisions of Sections 132 to 146 of the Indian Act, forbidding the sale of liquor to Canadas' aboringines apply to all Indians within and without the reservations.

A great deal of light has been thrown on this somewhat obscure point, by a communication which The Examiner has received from the Provincial Director of Permits, who quotes a circular on the subject which has just been prepared by the Acting Solicitor to the Board for issue to vendors of Government Liquor Stores. The following is the text of the memorandum to local vendors:

Two Prohibitions

I remind you of the provisions of Section 44, Liquor Control Act, thus: "No permit shall be issued under this Act to any person to whom the sale of intoxicants is prohibited under the provision of any Act of the Dominion of Canada."

The Indian Act adds point to the above prohibition, inasmuch as Sections 135 to 146, inclusive, of the Indian Act, passed by the Dominion Parliament, contain positive provisions against selling or furnishing of liquor to Indians, with severe penalties attached.

Further, the Permit Department having been asked about a case touching the rights of an Indian who had paid taxes in a certain town as a citizen for some years, and had voted in elections, and who was said never to have drawn Government Treaty money, the same was submitted to the Indian Department, with the result of a reply from Deputy Superintendent-General Scott, dated June 23rd, 1927, which I here quote for your information, only disguising the name of the Indian and the town, viz.:

"I have been requested to reply to your letter of the 11th instant to the Superintendent General of Indian Affairs with respect to the status of A.B., a man apparently of Indian blood who has been residing in the town of Z for some years, and who has made application for a liquor permit.

"In reply I beg to say that Section 135(a) of the Indian Act, being Chapter 81 Revised Statutes of Canada, provides for a penalty for any one who 'sells, barters, supplies or gives to any Indian or non-treaty Indian, or to any person, male or female, who is reputed to belong to a particular band, or who follows the Indian mode of life or any child of such person, any intoxicant, or causes or procures the same to be done or attempts the same or connives thereat.' There are a few persons in most Indian bands who for one reason or another are not on the membership list of the band although they were born and brought up on the reserve and are looked upon by the people of the locality as Indians of the band, and A.B. may be so situated. If he is, I am inclined to think that he would come within the provisions of the section above quoted as being 'reputed to belong to a particular band.' The fact that an Indian pays taxes and votes in the Municipality in which he resides does not of itself change his status.

"On the information before me I can only advise that your correspondent refrain from issuing a liquor permit to this applicant."

The positive provisions of the Indian Act will be appreciated when we are thus advised against issue of a liquor permit to a man who seemed to have ground for exemption from the operation of that Act.

The only exception which I observe in the Indian Act is where it provides against a penalty when the intoxicant is made use of in case of sickness under the sanction of a medical man or under the direction of a minister of religion, when the burden of proof that the intoxicant had been so used shall be on the accused.

Vendors and Permit Issuers will accordingly be on guard against issuing permits to Indians or selling liquor to them for beverage purposes.

COOLIDGE AGREES TO REPAIR DYKES

President Authorizes Expenditure of Federal Funds For Purpose.

RAPID CITY, South Dakota, July 23 (Canadian Press).—The Federal Treasury will be opened by President Coolidge for funds to repair the broken dykes on the Mississipi River, but he has reached no decision on another recommendation of Secretary Hoover to have the Government help meet interest and authorization charges on levee bonds in the devastated area.

French Women Try To Improve Work

PARIS, July 23 (United Press).—French women who work at home under sweat-shop conditions are being enrolled in a society that is trying to help them improve their work and also to get better pay for it.

An exposition of home-made products — knitting, underwear, baby clothes and various art objects—has brought the movement into public notice. A thousand women already have joined the society and have found that their earnings have been increased and their labor made more pleasant.

Aside from intelligent advice and trained instruction, the women have been able to reduce the toll taken by middlemen and to find better markets.

GIVE MINISTRY TIME TO WORK ASKS MEMBER

Chemong Road Received Insufficient Attention From Local Authorities.

TO USE ROLLER.

Resident Engineer Will Make Personal Inspection of Highway.

Much of the criticism directed against the Department of Highways in relation to the condition of Chemong Road is unfair, commented W. H. Bradburn yesterday in discussing the situation with The Examiner. Mr. Bradburn points out that it is only a matter of weeks since Chemong Road was taken into the Provincial system, and that the Ministry is being criticized for failing to do in a few weeks what local authorities left undone in many years. The Suburban Area Commission spent a great deal of money in work on the section of the road between the Fourth Line and the Park, declares Mr. Bradburn, but left the part nearer the city severely alone when the prospect appeared imminent of the taking over of the road by the Provincial Department. The Provincial member further points out that the Department has to face a similar situation in other parts of the province, when local roads are absorbed in governmental transportation plans.

Chemong Road was in very poor condition on June 22 when it was taken over, observed Mr. Bradburn. The complaints of the past two or three years, especially during the summer months, showed that the road received indifferent attention from the county in the past.

In order thoroughly to acquaint himself with the present condition of Chemong Road, G. Greig, the engineer in charge of Residency No. 3, has arranged to visit the district, and on his findings will depend very largely the nature of the repair and construction measures to be undertaken. Residency No. 3 extends from Toronto in the west to Frontenac County in the east, and includes this district. It is also intended to bring a roller from Port Hope for use on Chemong Road.

CABINET MEETS AGAIN MONDAY

Hoped Way Will Be Clear For Return of Delegates to Geneva.

DISCUSSIONS PRIVATE.

LONDON, July 23 (Canadian Press).—Another meeting of the British Cabinet has been set for Monday for discussion of the problems aroused by the naval reduction conference at Geneva, after which it is hoped the way will be entirely clear for the return to the parleys of the two chief British delegates, the Right Hon. W. C. Bridgeman and Viscount Cecil.

Although the full reports made by these delegates received the unanimous approval of Ministers at a lengthy Cabinet session yesterday, it is not known whether they received or will receive before they depart, any fresh instructions. No official communique relating to the session was issued. Political writers here represent the Government as extremely anxious for a harmonious agreement and as believing that Lord Cecil and Mr. Bridgeman will return with hope for a settlement.

Return With Approval

LONDON, July 23 (United Press).—The British delegation will return to the naval armaments conference at Geneva next Tuesday heartened by the Cabinet's approval of its actions at the conference, and ready to break the cruiser deadlock if a way can be found without sacrificing her cruiser demands. Further discussions were scheduled over the week-end between W. C. Bridgeman, First Lord of the Admiralty and head of the delegation; Lord Cecil, another delegate; and Admiralty advisers.

As a result of yesterday's three hour conference with the Cabinet, the British delegates will return to Geneva with a clear understanding of the concessions, if any, it may make and the limits beyond which the Government feels it is impossible or unwise to go. Bridgeman, it was said, asked the Cabinet, not for specific decisions, but for advice as to the best means of overcoming the obstacles which are sure to be met when the discussions are resumed at Geneva.

FRIEND MADE CAROL'S CLAIM

Added Title "King of Rumania" To Statement, Says Paris Paper.

NOT IN ORIGINAL.

PARIS, July 23 (Canadian Press).—The stir created in European courts by the words "King Carol of Rumania" in a statement to the newspapers, which was taken to indicate that the banished Prince considered himself the successor of King Ferdinand, has subsided. The alarm appears to have been premature, one newspaper declaring that inquiry showed that the title was added to the statement by an over-zealous friend, who gave it to the newspapers. The statement, as originally issued, this paper said, contained nothing which could possibly be construed as a claim to the throne.

TRIPARTITE NAVAL CONFERENCE ABOUT TO RESUME NEGOTIATIONS

British Cabinet Discusses Naval Limitation at All Day Session.

REPORTS HEARD.

Delegates Will Return to Geneva Immediately to Resume Labors.

LONDON, July 23 (Canadian Press).—The tri-partite naval conference at Geneva is saved at least temporarily and the negotiations there for further limitation of naval armaments will be resumed.

This was decided yesterday at the longest Cabinet council held since the anxious days of the coal strike last year. The ministers sat for more than four hours to hear the reports of Viscount Cecil and W. C. Bridgeman, First Lord of the Admiralty, on the difficulties which have been encountered at the Geneva conference, and to discuss them.

It was decided that Viscount Cecil and Mr. Bridgeman, who had returned to London to report on the conference, will return to Geneva almost immediately to resume their labors and that they will return with the Cabinet's full approval of the lines which they have taken hitherto.

Little real apprehension has been expressed here that the conferences had collapsed. This fear was excluded by the fact that preparations for Premier Baldwin's departure for Canada with the Prince of Wales today have continued to go forward, but it was thought that difficulties might arise within the Cabinet itself.

Yesterday's council was held in the Premier's room in the House of Commons, Premier Baldwin presiding and Sir Austen Chamberlain, Foreign Secretary; the Earl of Balfour; Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and a majority of the Cabinet being present. Despite the length of the sitting, it is understood that discussion was still unfinished when the meeting broke up because various ministers had political engagements in the country.

No official communique was issued, but it was stated authoritatively that the Cabient approved the attitude of the delegates and authorized their return to Geneva. It is understood, however, that further discussions of details are required and that the ministers will confer over the week-end with experts of the committee of Imperial Defence.

FREIGHT OFFICE IS ON ITS WAY

OUT CHARLOTTE STREET.

The freight office that has caused so much comment in the city has finally left its resting place in front of the Canadian National Station on Charlotte Street. Beginning early this morning the structure was placed on rollers about half a foot high, and with the front end attached to Cooney and Jopling's truck by a thick cable, was slowly hauled across the railroad tracks.

Working while the rain poured down this morning, the workmen, under Foreman William Lytle, finally had the "house" quite a distance on Charlotte Street. Although various means were used to move the office, the only one that had any real results was the present—the use of rollers.

Old-Time Cowboy Dies With Boots On And Faithful Pony Beside His Bed

EDMONTON, Alta., July 23 (Canadian Press). — Like cowpunchers of of the old times, E. J. Elliott, 71, trick rider with a wild west show, died with his boots on at Edmonton Exhibition yesterday, his favourite buckskin pony by the side of his bed.

With some prescience of his approaching end, the old buckaroo arose in the morning, carefully bathed and shaved himself, dressed himself in the regalia of a cow puncher, called for his pony, and laid himself down to await the end.

"I'm going to pass out soon, folks," he told the group of cowboys and cowgirls, "and I might as well get ready for it."

Some time ago a doctor in Minneapolis told him that his heart was in a bad state, and that his death was only a matter of time. With one arm around a cowgirl's shoulders and the other resting on the neck of his faithful steed, he suddenly fell back—dead.

Great Ypres Service In Honor of Defenders

LONDON, July 23 (United Press).—Thousands of pilgrims, including hundreds of poor mothers who lost sons in the Battle of Ypres, were on their way today to that historic city for the "Menin Gate" ceremony tomorrow. The railways are providing special facilities and the ceremony, which will be broadcast, will be the most impressive of all memorial ceremonies. The names of 7,300 Canadians are among the 56,000 names inscribed on the Menin Gate of soldiers who lost their lives in the defence of Ypres.

FARMER KILLS UNKNOWN MAN WHEN HELD UP

Alex. Hodges, of Beeton, Throttles Man in Kitchen of Home.

FRACTURES SKULL.

Farmer Had Received Large Sum Day Before—Bandit Had Revolver.

BEETON, Ont., July 23 (Canadian Press)—Alex. Hodges, bachelor farmer residing close to this town, early today killed an unknown man in the darkness of the kitchen of his home after a wild struggle in which the stove, furniture, and windows of the room were wrecked and bespattered with blood.

According to his own admission, Hodges was held up when he entered his home. He grappled with the bandit who fell into unconsciousness after a grim battle, with his fingers terribly lacerated in his attempt to tear the farmer's throat.

The bandit died, according to physicians, from a fractured skull. The wound was sustained either by falling against the stove or under it or when he was lying in a semi-conscious condition on the floor. Hodges admitted kicking the burglar as he fell to the floor.

The farmer had received six hundred dollars in payment for cattle. He was entering the house when the light from a flashlight was thrown into his face by an unknown man. Although he was covered with a revolver, Hodges jumped at the man, tossing the weapon to one side. The fight proceeded about the room. The bandit tried to seize Hodges by the throat and in so doing had his fingers torn badly by Hodges' teeth.

There were no papers on the bandit by which he could be identified. He carried a loaded revolver, a ring with skeleton keys, two ladies' watches and a considerable sum of money.

Man Not Identified.

Local and Provincial police who are investigating the killing of an unknown bandit by Alex. Hodges early to-day have so far been unable to identify the dead man, though the theory that it might be Harry Duncan, Tennessee murderer and escaped convict, who recently made a daring escape from the police at Toronto City Hall, has been practically dispelled owing to the fact that he has no missing finger, as has Duncan.

Hodges Taken To Barrie.

Following the arrival of provincial police officers at the scene of the terrific fight staged by Alexander Hodge at his farmhouse near here last night in which he killed his assailant, Hodge was taken to Barrie. Whether he will have to face any charge, has not yet been determined. After being questioned he was allowed to return to his home.

Much Loot Found.

The body of the dead man was also removed to Barrie, where an inquest will be conducted. His clothing consisted of a dark grey woolen suit, sand colored shoes, dark tie, belt and raincoat, and a white felt hat. In each pocket of his coat was found a lunch of biscuits and cheese wrapped in white paper. On his person were found a 25 calibre automatic colt revolver, $157 in currency, four rings, one of which was a splendid diamond, one nickel-plated watch, and one gold one with carved design. There were also numerous other trinkets found amongst his belongings.

One of the rings found was stolen from Mrs. Fred Pearson, wife of the local postmaster, on June 3 last, when her home was robbed. The watches have not yet been identified, but it is thought they were stolen during a series of robberies here last winter.

PROPOSE DIVORCE TAX.

PARIS, July 23.—France has discovered that it has been overlooking an important source of revenue in the large numbers of divorces granted foreigners who come here to secure them. Paris lawyers have proposed the institution of a heavy tax upon divorces which not only will swell the national coffers, but will decrease the high rate of separations.

Makes No Dates That Far Ahead

BELFAST, Me., July 23 (By NEA).—Mrs. Mary E. Stewart is spry for her age and she will be 101 in February, but she isn't making dates a year in advance. At a recent reception when the new American Legion home was dedicated here, Gov. Ralph O. Brewster told her that he "hoped to see her a year hence."

"I appreciate the compliment but am not making dates that far ahead," Mrs. Stewart replied.

FAREWELLS INFORMAL.

LONDON, July 23 — (Canadian Press).—The Prince of Wales, Prince George, Premier Baldwin and members of the party left London to-day on the first lap of their journey to Canada. They will board the Empress of Australia at Southampton. The departure was of a most informal nature. The King did not appear, but the Duke of York arrived early to bid his brothers farewell. The Princes came in a closed motor car, and after chatting with several members of the Cabinet and other friends they entered the train with Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin.

FINE CRUISER DOCKED HERE

VISITORS ENJOY TRIP.

The Bilma IV, one of the nicest craft in Canadian or American waters, has been docked at the George street wharf during the last week. This yacht is from Sarasota, Florida, and owned by W. G. Selby, president of many large oil companies in Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Mr. Selby happened to be a visitor at the New York Motor Show held last year, when the film of the Trent Waterway Development Association of Peterborough was shown. Here Mr. Selby found that his craft, at that time, was many feet too large in length and breadth, and so much interest was taken by him in the motion picture that he at once ordered the new boat that has been docked at the local wharf, which is sixty inches in the beam.

Mr. and Mrs. Selby, in a visit to the secretary of the Trent Waterway Development Association, expressed their intense gratification to him and to the association for telling them of such an exquisite trip.

The boat is fully equipped and has a captain, deck hand and chef on board.

The visitors were shown the Lift-Lock in action and on seeing the boats lifted in mid air, they remarked that they had never seen a finer piece of engineering in all America.

POLICE COMMISSION CANCELS EXISTING AUTO BUS LICENSES

Two By-laws Passed at Request of the City Council.

TO END ON AUG. 15.

Responsibility of the Municipal Body Stressed By Judge and Magistrate.

Complying with a request from the City Council, the Board of Police Commissioners, meeting today in the Board Room of the City Buildings, passed two bylaws revoking existing licenses for automobiles carrying more than seven passengers, and forbidding the operation of such vehicles without having obtained a permit. The bylaw, the Commission decided, will come into effect on August 15th.

There were present, His Honor Judge E. C. S. Huycke, chairman of the board, Magistrate O. A. Langley, and Mayor W. T. Holloway, Joseph Wearing, City Solicitor, S. R. Armstrong, Secretary of the Commission, and Chief of Police Samuel Newhall.

Judge Huycke and Magistrate Langley, both stressed the fact that the Commission were passing the bylaws, as presented, solely at the request of the City Council. The Council, it was emphasized, had to assume the responsibility of future contingencies arising from the passing of the bylaws. 'We are only doing what you are asking us to do and in the way you asked," said Judge Huycke, addressing Mayor Holloway.

Mr. Armstrong read a letter from Mr. Wearing in which the City Solicitor gave his legal opinion to the validity of the revoking of licenses by the Commission.

A letter from R. R. Hall, solicitor for the Border Cities' Transit Company, which is asking for an exclusive bus franchise in this city, was

21 Lashes For Biting Off Ear

NEW LEXINGTON, Ohio, July 23 (Associated Press).—Primitive punishment was meted out by authorities at the mining town of San Toy, Perry County, when Ray Wiggins received twenty-one lashes at the whipping post for biting off the ear of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Amanda Taylor.

The sentence, pronounced in the Mayor's Court upon recommendation of an infuriated crowd, was declared legal under Ohio laws by Prosecuting Attorney J. W. Dugan of Perry County, who said such punishment was legal if both parties agreed to it.

Wiggins agreed to the will of the crowd, and after receiving twenty-one lashes on his bare back fifteen minutes were given him to leave town.

YOUNG KING ASKS PEOPLE TO BE LOYAL

King Ferdinand Appealed to His Subjects to Support Prince Michael.

LAST LETTER.

Says God Willed That He Should Be Ruler After Him.

BUCHAREST, July 23 (Associated Press). — While the body of his grandfather, Ferdinand of Roumania, lay in state in the Golden Hall of the Cotrocini Palace, and with his father, Prince Carol, in exile near Paris, five-year-old Mochael, King of Roumania, yesterday began his reign with an appeal to his troops for loyalty to the fatherland and the throne.

In an order of the day, issued over his signature, the child sovereign paid tribute to his grandfather, describing his reign as brilliant and glorious for Roumania, "His fatherly heart will ever be present day and night in time of peace as well as in time of war with the entire race, in sadness as in moments of glory," the order said.

Confident of Loyalty.

"Soldiers," the document concluded, "we are confident that all, from the chiefs of the army to the humblest soldiers, will give proof of the spirit of discipline which is the pride of the army, and that you will remain worthy of the confidence which your country has placed in you, devoting all your strength and souls to the fatherland and throne."

Bucharest has been deeply impressed by a private letter which King Ferdinand wrote to Premier Bratiano two days before his death, interest centering chiefly on the King's remarks concerning Prince Carol, to which a sum of $400,000 in cash and stocks was bequeathed in Ferdinand's will made public yesterday.

"My son Carol must seek to impose respect for the present regime on all desirous to injure or destroy it," the late King wrote. "The situation created by his renunciation of the throne was brought about in such a way as to make it his most imperative duty as a Roumanian, as a son, and as a parent, to respect the undertaking entered into of his own free will without being influenced by anyone."

Appeals to Subjects.

The King appealed to all good citizens to aid Prince Michael to the utmost of their power in promoting the orderly progress of the state.

"God willed that the crown with which the fortunes of the country are indissolubly wound up should pass to the head of the minor Mihai (Michael) the king wrote. "I pray heaven will accord him its benediction; that under his reign Roumania may be strengthened and enlarged—Roumania, which has been built up by so many sacrifices."

King Ferdinand also expressed confidence in Prince Nicolas, his son, and in the other members of the regency which has now taken up the task of directing the rule of young King Michael.

Among the bequests made by the King in his will included estates and houses in Bucharest to Queen Marie, who gets Sinai Castle and the Cotrocini Palace. The Princess Elizabeth and Princess Ileana and Prince Nicolas receive certain estates. Young Michael inherits about $250,000.

ESCAPES JAIL IN SHORT TIME AFTER CAPTURE

Isaac Sellyeh Out, In, and Out Again Within 48 Hours.

KNOWN FOR ESCAPES.

Man Who Escaped From Marmora Yesterday Got Away From Local Jail in 1925.

MARMORA, July 23. — Within 4 hours of his release from the Ontario Reformatory at Guelph, after serving a two and a half years' sentence Isaac Mitchell Sellyeh was rearrested on a warrant of 1924, and despite the handicap of a withered leg broke loose from jail, repeating an exploit of May 17, 1925, when he made a daring escape from confinement in Peterborough. Outside assistance is believed to have been one of the factors of the get-away.

Sellyeh's detention was on a charge of having stolen a Ford car, the property of G. Kerr of Marmora, in 1924. Before being placed in the cell in Marmora at 4 o'clock in the afternoon the prisoner was searched by Constables Gillen and Hill. He made his escape by battering down the door with a heavy instrument which had evidently been passed through the window to him, while the constable who had guarded him all night was absent from the cell for 25 minutes getting breakfast.

Marmora police believe that Sellyeh headed for Belleville on a truck with a woman and two other men as passengers.

Sellyeh is of an Indian cast of features, has a small black moustache, is five feet eight inches high and his physical deformity is considered to be a likely aid in his detection as only half of his right foot remains.

The police of the neighborhood have been asked to aid in running down the fugitive.

Escapes Jail.

Sellyeh's conviction in Peterboro more than two years ago was on charge of fraud and theft in passing bad cheques on Messrs. Cherne and Atkins. He was sentenced to six months in jail, from which he made an audacious escape in broad daylight. Making his way out of the cell he reached the reception room where prisoners are formally turned over to the custody of the jailer. Here he obtained keys which gave him access to the store room through which he rummaged until he found his own clothes, and a rope. He then cooly entered the women's cell, which was empty, fastened one end of the rope, threw the other over a wall at the north end of the jail, and slid down to liberty. Calls were hurriedly sent out by the police to Campbellford Cobourg, Port Hope, Lindsay, Lakefield and other towns near the city and a close watch was maintained. On the following day he was captured at Marmora by Hugh Gillen, chief of police there, one of the men who took him into custody two days ago.

The remaining $40,000 of the $85,000 would be raised by public subscription.

Although the ranch, including machinery and equipment, may be purchased for $85,000, it is stated that $265,000 has been expended on it. The project will go before the Government almost immediately.

NORWOOD PUPILS PASS MUSIC TESTS

Miss Evelyn Scott Attains the Degree of A. T. C. M.

NORWOOD, July 22.—Results of the examinations in connection with the Toronto Conservatory of Music held in Norwood recently have been received by the teachers, Miss B. E. Pearce and Mrs. N. C. Porter.

Miss Evelyn Scott has completed her course in singing with honors, having obtained 71 per cent., and is now entitled to her diploma as associate of the Toronto Conservatory of Music, A.T.C.M. Miss Scott has done all of her vocal work under Miss Pearce, and as much of her theory work has been written off through self-study, she deserves special congratulations on her ambition and application.

Miss Rhoda Frost has completed the piano examinations necessary for Associateship of Toronto Conservatory of Music, taking the good mark of 67 per cent. Miss Frost has still to write her theory subjects before securing her diploma.

Miss Lottie Slater, a pupil of Miss Frost, has passed her junior piano, 66 per cent., so congratulations are doubly due Miss Frost.

Miss Ona Doxsee has taken her intermediate piano, 66 per cent., and undoubtedly Miss Doxsee's artistic gifts would have placed her again over the honor lines had her duties on the teaching staff of the Public School allowed her even a little more leisure before the examinations which immediately followed her school examination work.

Miss Helen Thompson, of Havelock, heads the junior piano with honors, 77 per cent., and Wilson Riseboro secured honors with 71 per cent.

Helen Dickson, the only primary piano pupil, has a good pass to her credit, 66 per cent., the pass mark being 60.

Mrs. N. C. Porter, teacher of piano and voice, received from the Toronto Conservatory of Music the marks obtained by her pupils who tried the recent examinations held at her home. All were successful, obtaining good marks.

Primary piano—Georgina Metcalfe, Helen McGee.

Primary school piano—Angeline Scott (H).

Elementary piano—May Webster.

OLD MASTERS

Tying her bonnet under her chin,
She tied her raven ringlets in;
But not alone in the silken snare
Did she catch her lovely floating hair,
For, tying her bonnet under her chin,
She tied a young man's heart within.

CAROL OF RUMANIA SPENDS RESTLESS DAYS AT HIS VILLA

Former Crown Prince Calls Himself "King of Rumania."

IN SECLUSION.

Said To Be Earnestly Resolved To Succeed His Father On Throne.

PARIS, July 23 (Associated Press). The man who might have been king—and who still would be, apparently—is spending restless days behind the drawn shutters of his villa in fashionable Neuilly.

Through a press statement, issued in his behalf last night, he indirectly let the world know that he calls himself "King Carol of Roumania," but since then he has vouchsafed nothing and nothing has been vouchsafed for him to explain it and how he expects to exercise the prerogatives that go with the title.

Remains in Seclusion.

The former Crown Prince is remaining in seclusion, mourning the death two days ago of his father, King Ferdinand of Roumania. But whether his grief is mixed with regret over what might have been if he had not renounced claim to the Roumanian succession in 1925 or with hope that he one day may actually ascend the throne left vacant by his father and now held by his own five-year-old son Michael, Carol refuses to tell.

Whatever the thoughts of the former Crown Prince, it was learned from sources close to him that he has in no way abandoned the hope of sitting upon the throne of Roumania, and there is no doubt in the minds of those close to him that he is earnestly resolved to succeed his father.

This resolution thus far, however, has not been translated by acts of initiative that would make him a dangerous pretender, so far as known.

A general paralysis of will power and ambition is the manner in which former friends and supporters describe his attitude since his father's death.

Must Return to Wife.

Professor Jorga, "the grand old man of Roumania," Carol's tutor and lecturer at the yearly conferences at the Sorbonne, told the Associated Press some time ago, "Carol can never expect to return to Roumania unless he gives up Mme. Lupescu, returns to his wife Helen, and lives under the same roof with her and his child."

"Carol will never be King of Roumania while remaining shut up in his Neuilly villa," said a Roumanian who has been acting as Carol's go-between with the press. "He must gamble with popularity even with his own life. One cannot ascend the throne of Roumania against the financial and political opposition of the Brationos without making a fight for it. This, we understand, Carol is not prepared to make at the moment."

Keep Children Well During Hot Weather.

The occasional use of the Tablets prevent stomach and bowel troubles, or if trouble comes suddenly—as it generally does—the Tablets will bring the baby safely through. PHANTOM CAR SCARES.

PITTSBURG, Kan., July 23.—Driving along a cemetery road the other night, E. W. Alberty and his daughter passed a speeding motor car that they saw was driverless. Figure On Radiator Impales Little Bird

HAMILTON, July 22. — On the radiator cap of the automobile of Fred Walmsley, Central Fish Market, is the metal figure of a small knight in armor with a lance levelled. On Wednesday as Mr. Walmsley was driving from Ottawa to Kingston he observed a small bird fly against the knight near Kingston, but thought nothing more of the incident until he reached this city yesterday. Upon going to the front of the car, he was amazed to see the small bird, a song sparrow, impalled on the knight's spear.

OBITUARY.

ROBERT POLLOCK.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 23.—News reached town yesterday afternoon of the passing of Robert Pollock, at his home on Cathedral avenue, Winnipeg.

The late Mr. Pollock, who was in his eighty-eighth year, was a brother of Mrs. Fred Dinwoodie, of town, and came to Canada from Southampton, England, in early manhood. He was of Scottish parentage, his father sailing from the port of Southampton as chief engineer on one of the Peninsula and Orient Line boats.

Arriving in Canada in his 20th year, the deceased located in the village of Lennox, where for 25 years he carried on a general store business. He then moved to Winnipeg, where he has been in the employ of the Ackland Carriage Company as accountant.

Mrs. James Easton, a sister residing at Harrigate, England, a half brother residing in the west, and Mrs. Fred Dinwoodie, of town, survive to mourn the loss of an affectionate brother.

The late Mr. Pollock was a charter member of the Masonic lodge at Lennox and was, at the time of his death, their second Master. In religion the deceased was a Presbyterian.

Interment will be at Winnipeg, beside the remains of his wife, who predeceased him only four months ago.

Much sympathy is being extended to his sister by her host of friends in and around Campbellford.

THE NURSING MOTHER.

Often Finds Herself Weak and Feeling Worn-Out.

The nursing mother more than any other woman needs rich blood and plenty of it. The demands upon her health are many and severe. Household duties and the care of her children exact a heavy toll, while hurried meals, broken rest and indoor living tend to weaken her. No wonder she is often indisposed through weakness, headaches, backaches and nervousness. In this condition the blood will always be found weak and watery, and relief will come only through enriching the blood. For this purpose Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is the best blood-making tonic known. Through their use many weak, ailing wive and mothers have found new health and strength. As an example of this Mrs. Sarah Cortez, Ellenstown, N.B., says:—"While nursing my baby I became run-down, very weak and nervous. My head ached all the time and I was not able to do my work. I had often read of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and began using them, and what a blessing they proved. Before I had used a half dozen boxes I felt like a new person, and by their continued use for a while I was entirely restored to my former health and strength. I take pleasure in recommending Dr. Williams Pink Pills to everyone suffering as I did."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

LOOKOUT BLAMED FOR SHIP COLLISION

Pilot is Fined and Officer Has Certificate Suspended By Court.

MONTREAL, Quebec July 23. Canadian Press. — Indifferent lookout on the part of pilot Rodrigue Lachance and Third Officer J. S. Duffield, of the S. S. Canadian Trapper, was held to be responsible for the collision that took place on the night of June 24th, three miles from Red Island, River St. Lawrence, between that ship and the wooden schooner, Bale St. Paul, resulting in the foundering of the sailing vessel.

The court, presided over by Wreck Commissioner Captain L. A. Demers, ordered Pilot Lachance to pay a fine of $400, in four instalments, and suspended the certificate of J. S. Duffield for a period of one month from the date on which it is received by the court.

The master of the Canadian Trapper, being in his cabin at the time of the collision, and being justified in taking a rest, was exonerated from all blame.

FLIGHT POSTPONED.

Weather Conditions Are Unfavorable For Whale's Trip to New York.

SOUTHAMPTON, July 23.—(Canadian Press.)—Disheartening reports of weather conditions over the Atlantic were said last night to leave little chance of Captain F. T. Courtney, the British aviator, starting on his projected flight to New York before Monday.

The enforced delays were beginning to breed an atmosphere of impatience, especially among the air force officials at Calshot, who were disposed to complain that Captain Courtney had needlessly rushed his preparations without the forethought and careful organization requisite for such an attempt.

Meantime, experts were busy perfecting the wireless apparatus on the flying boat Whale.

The local weather yestreday was stormy and against trial flights, but the airman hoped to make such a flight, which would be his fourth, Sunday morning.

DRAGON FLIES, MAYBE.

NEW YORK, July 23. — A South American whose name space does not permit printing is full but the first part of which is Dr. Ricardo Fernandesy Grouterez, sailed for Africa recently from New York, taking with him a box of South American flies with which he hopes to exterminate the tsetse fly, deadly scourge of the veldte. When one is informed that these winged insects, for which no name has yet been found, show jaguars in the Amazon jungles such a nasty time that Mr. Jaguar prefers suicide in the river to their attacks, a good idea of what is in store for the tsetse fly is obtained.

MONTREAL, Que., July 23. — (Canadian Press.) — Declaring that there was no evidence on which to base a charge of murder against Dr. Ernest D. Aylen, of 2253 Delormier avenue, Judge Marchildon here yesterday ordered his release from custody. Dr. Oscar Dunn Duckett, of 4152 St. Hubert street, who, with Dr. Aylen, was held criminally responsible by a coroner's jury investigating the death of 17 year old Dorilla Germain, of Quebec City, was committed for voluntary statement on a charge of murder and will appear on July 27.

Dorilla Germain died in the home of Dr Duckett and Dr. Wilfrid Derome, morgue autopsist, testified yesterday that she died from the effects of an illegal operation.

KING GIVES FINAL PARTY AT PALACE

EMBARK TO-DAY.

Premier Baldwin Presides at Cabinet Meeting Which Discusses Naval Question.

LONDON, July 23 (Canadian Press). — The Prince of Wales, all ready to start to-day on his visit to Canada, attended yesterday's garden party at Buckingham Palace, making his last formal appearance before leaving for Southampton to-day.

Yesterday's garden party, which is the only one King George and Queen Mary are giving this year, was of special character, as it was in the nature of a send-off to the Prince of Wales and a welcome home for the Duke and Duchess of York after their tour of the Antipodes.

Garden parties are the most democratic among the entertainments given by their Majesties, enabling the King to meet an immense number of people on easy social terms and 10,000 invitations were issued for the one held yesterday.

The party was favoured by sunny, warm weather, but only just escaped rain which had been prevalent this summer . With the weather in doubt, it was noticed that there was a very much smaller number of elaborate frocks than usual.

Royalties Present.

There was quite a large circle of royalties, including the Prince of Wales, King Fuad of Egypt, and a number of Indian ruling chiefs. President King of Liberia also was a guest.

The Prince of Wales dined with his parents last night . He and his brothers have adopted the slogan, "Travel Light," and the Prince's baggage includes but two uniforms, while Prince George is taking only one naval outfit.

Florists were busy all day decorating the liner Empress of Australia, on which the party will sail, and the beautiful suites which will be occupied by the Prince and Premier Baldwin respectively have been adorned with quantities of carnations, roses, and many coloured hydrangeas.

The Premier, having presided at a Cabinet Council yesterday, which discussed the naval question and having made the necessary arrangements concerning his absence , everything last night was in readiness for the trip to Southampton in the morning.

WORLD PEACE BY EDUCATION

Aim of Association Meeting in Toronto is World Brotherhood.

GREAT PROGRAMME

TORONTO, Ont., July 23.—(Canadian Press).—A great gathering from a professional standpoint is the second biennial conference of the World Federation of Education Associations, which will bring to Toronto about 6,000 educationists from all over the world between Aug. 7 and 12. But the most important aspect of the huge conference is its unofficial aim—the furtherance of world peace through education. With practically every nation in the world represented, the importance of the meeting in the quest for universal peace is obvious.

A comprehensive programme of subjects for discussion has been prepared, but educationists of all the nations that will be represented are looking beyond the merely professional aspects of the conference to the influence of education on the affairs of the world.

"I look on this federation as a means of promoting world peace through education," says F. W. Goldstone, General Secretary of the British National Union of Teachers, "and the fact that the idea had its birth in the United States is, I think, particularly significant when it is remembered that the United States is not a member of the League of Nations."

The programme for the conference includes discussions on the training of teachers, care of the young, illiteracy, and the relationships of education to international peace in various aspects. Every phase of education will be discussed, including preschool, elementary, secondary, higher, adolescent and adult education.

"World brotherhood through education" is, in fact, the keynote of the convention, in the words of Augustus O. Thomas, President of this vast organization. The programme includes addresses by representatives of all the leading nations, among the speakers being Dr. E. W. Kuo of China, Vice-President of the Federation and President of Southeastern University, Shanghai; Frank W. Goldstone and E. J. Sainsbury, England, and many others of the delegates.

The World Federation of Education Associations was organized at San Francisco in 1923, the first biennial conference being held at Edinburgh, Scotland, in July, 1925. Much of practical value was accomplished at that meeting, which was attended by representatives of 47 nations and 220 associations.

LEGAL BATTLE OVER RECOUNT

Opponents Contend There is No Provision in Law For Recounting of Vote.

P. R. SYSTEM.

Returning Officer Ordered to Procure Ballots and Election Papers.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 23. Canadian Press. — A legal battle to establish the validity of the recount of ballots cast by Winnipeg electors in the provincial general elections of June 28, looms as a likely development, according to reports in political circles here yesterday.

Application for recount was made by J. Kensington Downes, Independent, the last member to be counted out under the proportional representation system of voting which was used in electing ten city members.

Those who oppose the recount contend that there is no provision for a recount under the P. R. system and that the report of the returning officers and supervisors of the election count is final. The general clauses with respect to recounts in the Manitoba Election Act, some authorities maintain, are not applicable to the city.

A summons has already been served on C. V. McArthur, returning officer for Winnipeg to produce the ballots and election papers for the recount which has been set for Monday morning. More than 50,000 ballots were cast by Winnipeg electors.

Lord Harris At 76 Still Cricket Expert

LONDON, Eng., July 23. Canadian Press. — Lord Harris, although rapidly approaching the octogenarian stage—he was born in the West Indies in 1851—has not yet given up an active part in cricket, while he is one of the most alert members of the Marleybone Cricket Club Committee. He may often be seen at Lord's having a spell of batting. He still opens his shoulders to the bowling and thoroughly enjoys his practice. It is more than half a century since Lord Harris was a member of the Eton Eleven against Harrow, but he still preserves the straight bat, times the ball in his forward play and makes the cut and leg glance as certainly as in those far-off days.

Skin Is Now Clear Had Disfiguring Eczema

Two letters which tell how Dr. Chase's Ointment has cleared the skin of Eczema.

It is not unusual for people to use pleasant smelling salves and lotions for diseases of the skin with the idea that they have medicinal value. This is of course a mistake.

Dr. Chase's Ointment is a medicinal preparation which is composed of the most effective ingredients known to science. For this reason it is looked upon as the standard treatment for eczema and similar skin troubles.

Mrs. Sadie Waid, Lennoxville, Que., writes:—

"My little sister's face was all covered with eczema, which even spread to her ears and was just a mass of running sores. We tried several kinds of salve, but without success, until we saw in Dr. Chase's Almanac several testimonials upholding your Ointment as a relief for eczema. After using a couple of boxes, she was entirely free from sores and thanks to the Ointment, her face is left without any disfiguring scars."

Miss Clara Yates, Bolton Centre, Que., writes:—

"I had very stubborn little sores on my face, for which I used Dr. Chase's Ointment, when the sores entirely disappeared. Dr. Chase's Ointment is the only ointment I would dare to recommend. I have also used the K. & L. Pills, which I found very beneficial."

MUSINGS AT A MANSE WINDOW

THE STORMY PETREL of church life in New York is the Rev. John Roach Straton, D.D., pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church for ten troubled years of that church's and his own history. The latest of his troubles started in his Board of Deacons last month when one member introduced a resolution to close the Young People's Bible Study Class. This is the group which had several all-night meetings, at one of which 19-year-old Warren Straton, son of Dr. Straton, had an experience which convinced his parents that he had "a visitation from God" and a "baptism of the Holy Spirit," in the course of which he lay prone upon the floor and talked and sang unintelligible words. The five deacons who resigned from that board gave as their reason their belief that the church was drifting toward pentecostalism, a form of Holy Roller worship.

POINTED REMARKS.

Preaching on "The Truth About the Present Troubles in Calvary Baptist Church," Dr. Straton said he still loved the deacons and referred to one of them as "really one of the best and most spiritual men in New York."

"That he is not utterly devoid of sound judgment is proved by the fact that he was once heard to say that he regarded his pastor, (that is, myself), as the greatest man in America. Truly that showed a sapient mind and an understanding heart!"

Those who don't know Dr. Straton will scarcely know how to take these words. They seem to brand him as either a fool or an egotist. No doubt, like the rest of us, he has had his foolish moments—and egotism has not yet been quite eradicated from his make-up; but he is neither a fool nor an egotist. Those who know him know that he was just poking fun at those who had been finding fault with him.

"I really believe these boys have hoped to help me by this thing. They have simply undertaken to give a sort of spiritual spanking, but I think the need is really on the other side of the house."

DANCING ALL NIGHT.

Referring to the class regarding the conduct of which complaint has been made, he said: "This class has been running for nearly a year. I have been in the meetings a number of times, and they have always been sane and scriptural, and fine in spirit. We have never held but three all-night meetings during the ten years I have been here, and instead of deploring such meetings, we ought to rejoice in them and have more of them, for they are strictly biblical, and Jesus Himself spent many nights in prayer.

"I well know that such meetings must be wisely guided, but in God's name, let us not shut the door of this church against the Holy Spirit in our frantic fear that Satan and his substitutes may come in! And I will say this in full frankness and honesty:

"If other young people can dance all night, hugging each other to the weird strains of jazz music, and then take unchaperoned joy rides, accompanied by hip flasks as aids to the lusts of the flesh, I do not see why either our young people, or our old people for that matter, should not stay in church all night, under proper leadership if their souls are hungry for the deep things of God."

EXPELLING THE BAD ONES.

In the course of his sermon the preacher appealed to his deacons to come back and help in the work of the congregation. "Some good people have gone out of this church because of misunderstanding, as well as the evil ones we have had to put out, and some of the good ones have later regretted their haste in departing and have come back hungry for the truths of God which are here preached, and they have gone joyfully to work again for the Lord.

Likening his church to a locomotive, he said that several different groups of opponents had tried to take the throttle away from him. He explained that in the last case he had, good-naturedly let these boys try their hand at the throttle for a little while that they might see just how hard it is to run a modern church train under the trying conditions of today and that the machine had tossed them from the driver's cab to the coal tender.

FALSE SIGNALS.

"I was duly elected, ten years ago, as engineer of this gospel train, and my hand is again firmly on the throttle, and despite the heavy load and all the efforts to wreck us, thank God the old train is still making the grade. I will not have my work here wrecked by false signals if I can help it, and when God's time comes for a change of pastors it will easily be brought about. Until that time comes and as long as God leads on and helps, I will be found at my post of duty."

THE TROUBLE STATED.

When Dr. Straton sets out to state a case there is no mistaking his meaning. We may not always be able to agree with him, but in any case we understand him. Explaining the trouble, he said: "The trouble is, in a nutshell, that they have simply been mistaken as to my views and intentions. They have had some honest difficulties over whether or not healing is in the atonement, but I certainly feel the thing they should have done was to heed the pastor's request to take time for further Bible and historical study upon the question of healing; that they wait and hear my series of sermons this fall, and that they should not act in haste.

ATTACKING CERTAIN PAPERS.

Attacking a morning and an afternoon newspaper for their versions of the trouble, Dr. Straton said:

"Because I have advocated the exclusion from this church of one former officer who perjured himself, of another who tried to handle the real estate of the church trickily for his own profit, and of another who was caught red-handed misappropriating the money of the church, and others who were just plain liars or crack-brained traitors to their trusts; because I have dared to preach the whole gospel here, I have been opposed and fought and lied about, and harassed from within the church, and bombarded by some of the yellow newspapers from without the church, until now it has reached the point that, for the sake of God's work, I am having to stand here in the trenches and do battle for my God, when I ought to be resting and preparing for another year's work."

NO NEW SECT.

It has been said that Dr. Straton intends to found a new sect and use Calvary Baptist Church as its headquarters. This he denied last week when he preached a sermon on "The Fight for the Faith."

"I have contended as best I could for the faith once for all delivered to the saints of God. Some one had to lead the battle against these errors and departures from the faith. God knows I have not desired the leadership thus thrust upon me. The real issues between fundamentalism and moderism are between an infallible Bible and a man-made history."

"SMART SET."

In order to clear the ground for truly constructive soul-winning, the preacher made an attack on the character and ability of a member of his congregation whom he did not name, but whom he called "a discharged ex-secretary," whose public statements he wished to contradict.

"I am not a covetous preacher and a mammon worshipper. I hoped through my outside work for newspapers, magazines and other organizations to have an income sufficient to take care of the necessities of my family, so that whatever the church might give us could all be devoted to our missionary and benevolent objects."

He explained that he wrote for such magazines as "Smart Set" in order to save the souls of the readers, and denounced it as diabolically false when his discharged secretary exhibited such articles as "utterly sensuous."

WHAT'S THE CAUSE?

What is the explanation of such a stormy career as this gifted preacher has had during the last ten years of his ministry? Are there faults on both sides? It is just possible. It has been written that all who will live as they ought to live shall suffer persecution. That may be one reason for the stormy time he has had. The forces of evil never feel kindly toward the forces of righteousness whether in the pulpit or in the pew. Whatever the cause it is still true that when a man's ways please the Lord He maketh even his enemies to be at peace with him. This may take time, and it may first require a war, but it is sure at last.

—Allan Fairbairn.

IS IT SO?

ALL LIFE is honeycombed with the silly hypocrisy of keeping up appearances. The world boasts of its mighty achievements, its increasing knowledge, its amazing discoveries, yet all the time it is beset by paralysing fears—fears of famine, war, revolution, death. Man has developed the world, but he fails strangely to manage himself. We swagger—but we're scared.

Held In Contempt

THE NEW TESTAMENT does not hide from us the fact that the banner of the cross was uplifted amid a world's contempt. It stirred into activity many prejudices. There were the prejudices of the respectable. Respectable persons then, as now, had very little to do with hangman's ropes; what were their bewildered minds to make of a religion that had taken a gibbet for its sign? There were the prejudices of the intellectual. St. Paul wrote frankly and fully about these, and St. Paul was borne out by history. And then there were the prejudices of materialism. Goliath himself confronted by an unarmed and unskilled stripling, was not more scornfully undisturbed than was the might of the Roman Empire at the first unfurling of the flag of the cross. It was the emblem of everything that was unintelligible from the throne to the Caesars. Could failure challenge success? Could weakness overthrow strength? Could the whimsy of religious fanaticism outlive the foundations of the Eternal City? It was foolishness any way you might look at it—this message of the cross. So said old Mr. Prejudice as, with his sixty deaf men under him, he kept his sullen vigil upon the walls of Mansoul.

"I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto Me."—John 12:32.

—J. M. E. Ross.

Disenchantment

THERE is an experience which I doubt not has been the experience of many of us. It is the experience of disenchantment, when the early vision, the early hopes, and perhaps the early faiths of life have seemed to fade away; when we become conscious that we have lost the handling of that thread which was to lead us through the labyrinth of life; when the key which was to unlock the wondrous doors, which would reveal to us life's higher and larger purpose, has somehow slipped from our hand, and we find ourselves, like the knight of old, in a land of sand and thorns. That experience is not a unique experience; it is not an experience, as some have imagined, limited to the latter ages of the world's story. If you go back into the dark past, there will rise many a figure that has passed through the same phases of experience, and I would ask you today to go back with me into the dim history of ancient days, and there light up, through that dark past, the story of one who encountered this experience, and watch the vision and revelation by which faith was restored, and the energy of a life-purpose revived.

"And Moses said, I will now turn aside, and see this great sight, why the bush is not burnt." — Exodus 3:3.

Children's Corner — TELL US A STORY

AS the great sculptor, Thorwaldsen, advanced in years, and began to feel his freshness of conception leaving him, he said one day to a friend, "My power is decaying." His friend asked what he meant; and the sculptor pointed to a statue of Christ. "That," he said, "is the first of my works I have ever felt satisfied with. Till now, my idea has always been far beyond what I could execute. But it is no longer so. I shall never have a great idea again."

Twenty Five Cents

THEY say that money speaks!
I am twenty-five cents.
I am not on speaking terms with the butcher.
I am too small to buy a pint of good ice cream.
I am not large enough to purchase a box of candy.
I am too small to buy a ticket to the movie.
I am hardly fit for a tip.
But, believe me, when I go to church on Sunday I am considered some money!

Churches And Churchmen

BY I. SEEWELL.

Poverty Is An Evil.

PREACHING in the Community Church, New York, Rev. John Hayes Holmes enunciated six principles to guide young persons who are troubled by belief that religious ideals and capitalistic business are incompatible. He said that he believed our economic order was irreligious in most of its methods and in its spirit, but he did not believe in renouncing the world and accepting voluntary poverty. In the course of his address he stated that poverty was an evil, whether voluntary or involuntary.

"I see nothing to be gained from surrendering to it, however high the motive. Poverty is blighting, withering, corrupting, degrading, ugly. It is a superstition that it has in itself any elements of virtue. Poverty and wealth are the evils of economic life, and both must disappear from society before it can be called good."

Continuing he said: "I venture to recommend to young people a better way, in the form of certain precepts as our rules of life:

"1. Elliminate the desire for wealth from your thoughts, and the pursuit of wealth from your program of life.

"2. Choose a job that is honest and clean, and that has a maximum of social usefulness.

"3. Work at your job early and late, and make it by your devotion a glorious service of mankind.

"4. Accept the income your job brings you—the laborer is worthy of his hire.

"5. Live on the income you earn, establishing your life on a rigid basis of simplicity.

"6. If you have a surplus—if you earn more than your simple life demands, if you invent a machine or write a book that brings you wealth, if you inherit an unearned fortune—accept it and use it to help on great works of social change for the reconstruction of the economic order, so that this order shall be made consistent at least with the religious ideals of justice, righteousness and brotherhood."

Dr. Speer on China.

DR. ROBERT E. SPEER, Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A., says the principle of mercy alone cannot control in our relations with China, for you cannot separate mercy from justice. Although we still have the old ethics, there is not one of us who has not been baffled as to how to apply them. There are men today who see only part of the truth; they want us to apply only mercy; but Christ was first the King of Righteousness, and, second to nothing except that, he was the King of Peace.

The path of life is divided between a man's duty as an individual and his duty as part of a social unit. Although we must act alone, there are always others along our path. Through the church we learn that there is not confusion in our obligations.

We are living in a greatly accelerated world. Christianity is the only religion that can live with progress. The story of Christianity is the story of the unfolding of a road. Our Lord said, "I am the way," and the early Christians were called people of this new way.

* * *

Religious Idealism.

A RENAISSANCE of religious idealism is needed today. Much of the indifference toward religion is found in the spirit of our age. The duty of Christian people is to create an enthusiasm for spiritual ideals. Christian idealism has been the source and spring of all that is best and fairest in the world. If we discount the religious ideal, we become realistic, rationalistic and materialistic to such an extent that the high things of life have not the place in our thought which makes them powerful in the shaping of character, of true manhood and true womanhood. Thus spake Dr. Ribourg in St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, New York.

* * *

Prayerless Churches.

LIONEL FLETCHER, in his book on "The Effective Evangelist," says that a prayerless church is a powerless church. If we could only realize what a weapon is at our disposal in prayer we would use it unceasingly, and find it our delight to be thus called of God to the work of intercessors on behalf of a stricken and sinful world. Let the ministry send out a call to the people to join with them in prayer. Remind them that throughout the world there are thousands who give themselves to private prayer every Saturday night, asking the Almighty to make bare His arm and revive us again, and persuade them to set aside at least fifteen minutes every Saturday night for this purpose. If this is done, in many places blessing will be realized in conversions quite apart from any special services.

* * *

A Question Propounded.

SOMEONE asked Prof. David Smith, of Belfast, why it is necessary to have Christ represented as a great High Priest, ever living to make intercession, if love is the impelling power that wrought out our redemption; for love does not need to be appeased or reconciled. The Presbyterian says it is the oft-recurring question stated in various phrases through the centuries, but meaning always the same thing. Perhaps human thought as well as human language are both inadequate, but it is definitely announced in Scripture, though it has become a rock of offense to many who live today. If we can think of our redemption as the necessity of the very nature of God, rather than achieved through one of His impressive attributes, the gift of His Son to us because of His holiness, His mercy, His wrath against sin, and His unchanging justice, we will then get nearer to Paul's explanation of the necessity of the redemptive plan, not crossing the bounds of His holiness nor ignoring the demands of His justice.

It is thrice strange that the very men who insist that the physical universe is under the mandate of law, and that it cannot be ignored or transgressed, will wince and finally revolt if one insists that law in the spiritual world is as positive and insistent on recognition as law in the world of matter. The just claims of the broken law must be met.

The whole story of the Mercy Seat which covered the law in the Ark of the covenant was an attempt at telling us this great and precious thing, that the broken law is met in mercy by the blood of atonement, offered by the High Priest as he entered the Holy of Holies. Thus the symbol in the temple becomes the reality in the heavens.

Dr. Fosdick's New Guide to Ethics.

BISHOP MANNING evidently feels that the hour has come to lift up his voice in protest against some, at least, of the teaching of Dr. Fosdick. And it is well that someone in authority should point out the solemn danger, implied in the new guide to ethics provided by this popular preacher, for the thousands of young people who look to him for spiritual leadership. One of his great admirers has been telling with glowing enthusiasm of how beautifully he was winning his hearers by assuring them that if the old moralities did not charm them, they could find a new norm in accepting "what is beautiful" rather than "what is ugly." Speaking at Smith College Commencement he has repeated the same subtle statements. Bishop Manning has drawn attention to the fact that the most beautiful thing in the camp of ancient Israel was the molten calf of gold, and the cry went up, "This be thy god, O Israel."

The implications of such a creed provide a philosophy and programme of life which would outrun Voltaire and Rousseau. When men try to break the tables of stone on which they see the severe requirements of the Ten Commandments written, they learn to their sorrow that on whomsoever the stone falls it will grind him to powder.

When leaders break away from what they rather contemptuously call "a definite code of right and wrong," it is impossible to conjecture where the halting place will be. Such language is worse than suspicious and dangerous.

Dangerous Temptations.

CHRISTIAN people, and especially those who as officers in the church, have accepted a special responsibility, need to watch the beginnings of evil. There is force in the exhortation of an old writer to avoid the beginnings of evil. The most dangerous temptations to Christian people are not those that are usually considered the greatest. They are not likely at once to deny the Lord or commit flagrant violations of law. There is more danger in yielding here a little and there a little, from the right. Sabbath-breaking or profanity are not indulged in because any one great temptation is too strong for a man, but by a gradual process. We do not become cold in Christian service through any sudden chill, but by first neglecting one duty, then another. Those who followed the Saviour slept during His agony in the garden before they forsook Him and fled. Peter's denial came after he had started to follow afar off. All who would serve faithfully and well must avoid the beginnings of evil.

This is true of churches as well as of individuals. They do not become cold and negligent, or formal, or loose in doctrine or practice, by any sudden transition. On the contrary, the change is usually unnoticed save by those who recollect the past and put it side by side with the present.

It is easy to be critical and condemn, but let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he also fall. Let all who have professed faith in Christ jealously guard every avenue of approach to heart and head.

Moral Dandyism

THERE is such a thing as moral dandyism—spick and span, immaculate, shining with self-conscious virtue—and nothing is more intolerably exasperating and repulsive. The creature of kid-gloved piety, with a home-made halo over a sneering face, who is unmoved by the suffering of the world, who turns away from the ugly bleeding wounds of humanity, and is never hurt by other people's pains, who, wrapped up comfortably in cotton wool, simply does not want to know about the festering vices and offensive habits of the disagreeable people outside—here is a spiritual disease that only God can cure. Nothing but the searching fire of Christ's moral purity can burn our smug self-contentment into deep self-abasement, our painted pride into sincere penitence.

—Frederick A. Atkins.

A Scientist And The Bible

HERBERT SPENCER speaks of five factors as the most general forms into which the manifestations of the Unknowable are redivisible. These five forms are Space, Time, Matter, Motion, Force. The Holy Spirit has given us these five manifestations of God's creative power in the first two verses of the Bible:

In the beginning	Time
God created the heavens	Space
And the earth	Matter
And the Spirit of God	Force
Moved	Motion

WHAT SOME THINK.

MANY people think they are virtuous, merely because they are tame and inoffensive. Tameness is not a virtue, it is merely the absence of a vice. It is merely the indication of a force too feeble to run to excess. Virtue appears then only, when a strong force is wisely exerted under a strong regulation.

NON-TREATY INDIANS AND LIQUOR.

An interesting point raised by a Peterborough County Indian who claimed that because he did not receive federal assistance and was thus a non-treaty Indian who paid municipal taxes and had the right to vote, he should also have the privilege of purchasing a liquor permit and buying liquor, has been disposed of by a letter received by The Examiner from the Liquor Control Board of Ontario.

Indians, whether treaty or non-treaty are apparently beyond the pale when the purchase of liquor is to the fore.

The Indian Act is quoted by the solicitor of the Control Board as sufficient justification for refusing permits to Indians, even when they are not member of bands sharing in Government grants.

They may pay municipal taxes and exercise the franchise but they are not to be allowed to purchase liquor in Ontario.

Throughou. the province there are numerous non-treaty Indians who will be affected by this ruling.

American tourists may secure permits, an Oriental who has only been in a short time in the country is quite at liberty to purchase strong drink if he so desires but the original inhabitants of Canada are put in a class by themselves.

TIME TO PUT THEM OUT OF SIGHT.

A souvenir of the defunct street railway that could well be spared is the condition of the "devil strip" on Water street from Smith street to the end of the now useless line.

When this thoroughfare was paved, the "devil strip" was not completed and nothing has been done since to improve it condition with the result that it constitutes a menace to traffic that should receive the early attention of the City Council.

Apparently the rails have been used for the last time; they are neither ornamental nor useful, worse than that they are dangerous and should be removed and the centre of the road paved and put in decent driving shape.

A street railway track over which no street cars run is in addition a poor advertisement for a progressive community, causing visitors to ask embarrassing question.

Water Street North calls for action on the part of the local authorities almost as badly as the Chemong Road has been calling for action from the Ontario Highways Department.

The situation should be cleared up as soon as possible by the City Council.

THE MASTER SHOWMAN.

The victory of Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion of the world, over Jack Sharkey, Boston contender for the crown now held by Gene Tunney, may have been tainted in the opinion of some followers of the fight game but at least it must be admitted that the result was good business and after all the prize ring is now a part of the realm of big business

The "come back" of Dempsey means wealth not only for himself but for Rickard, promoter extraordinary for Tunney.

Dempsey is to the ring what Babe Ruth is to baseball.

He is a master showman, colorful, spectacular, powerful, possessing an amazing faculty of drawing crowd.

Only such a figure could have attracted over 80,000 people to a fight in which no title was at stake; only a non-champion of Dempsey's type could have drawn the biggest crowd that ever witnessed a non-championship match.

Dempsey, matched against Tunney for the world's title will attract double the attention that would have been aroused by a Sharkey-Tunney match.

Perhaps the largest attendance in the history of the ring will pay a fortune into the coffers of Mr. Rickard and the pockets of Messrs. Tunney and Dempsey next September when the Manassa Mauler will endeavour to regain his title from the Scholarly Marine.

MAKING THE ROADS SAFE.

I will take away the license of every motorist who drives in a dangerous manner," declares Hon. J L. Perron, Quebec's Minister of Roads, and emphasis is added to his statement by the fact that already nearly 600 motorists in that province have had their permission to drive taken away.

Hon. Mr. Perron's determination to bring about safer driving conditions in Quebec should be duplicated by a similar resolve on the part of Hon. George S. Henry in Ontario.

We have the same three classes of dangerous drivers of whom the Quebec Minister of Roads complains, the drunken motorist, the young fool who turns the highway into a speedway, and the truck-driver who handles his big machine in accordance with the theory that might is right.

Each one of these is a menace that will have to be dealt with more rigidly if the roads are to be made safe.

The motorist who attempts to drive while under the influence of liquor should go to jail long enough to convince him of his folly.

The speeding irresponsible youngster who "steps on the gas" regardless of traffic conditions should be dragged away from the wheel until the authorities are sure that he is fit to be entrusted with the handling of a car.

The truck driver must be taught respect for the rights of others; the tendency on the part of such drivers to acts as the bullies of the highway will have to be permanently checked.

These things are possible under the drivers' permit system now being launched in Ontario; let us trust that Hon. Mr. Henry will use the new machinery with the same vigor as Quebec's Minister of Roads is displaying.

CLOTHES AND THE GIRL.

(From The Ottawa Journal.)

Perhaps it is true that there is a woman at the bottom of nearly everything that happens. Eminent men tell us a good wife is the prime qualification for success, millionaires pay tribute to feminine frugality as a determining factor in their lives, absconding cashiers and home-wreckers seldom fail to blame "the woman in the case." If girls wear too many clothes they are endangering the welfare of the next generation, if too few the morals of this one are in imminent peril. The situation perhaps does not worry the fair sex greatly, but there it is.

Now we read a plaintive protest in the Baltimore Sun from an anonymous "Philadelphia manufacturer of hosiery" to the effect that business is going to the dogs, and international relations are threatened, because the girls simply refuse to adopt a definite style of attire and stick to it.

"You girls are just wrecking business," he said. "You have thrown away petticoats and corsets and driven the shoe manufacturers crazy and nearly into bankruptcy in attempting to follow your moods in slippers and shoes. I can't make out that you are wearing much of anything now but a high-heeled slipper, a long stocking and something around your waist.

"You have wrecked the cotton planter and the cotton manufacturer and you haven't improved the market for wool or woollen goods. You have made an international episode between the United States and Japan with your demands for silk substitutes, and you are bankrupting and driving crazy the Oriental silk people and the Occidental rayon manufacturer.

"Will you never sit down, cover yourself up and keep quiet until some of us manufacturers can get our nerves back?"

On the same page of the Sun appears a letter from another anonymous individual wh odeclares Baltimore women "wear their dresses so short that they sit down on their stockings," and then they blame the street railway company because, they say, the rough seats wear out their silk hose. Undoubtedly something ought to be done about that, also.

BUSINESS AND CITIZENSHIP.

Mr. E. W. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, put a comprehensive thought in a few words recently when he wrote: "I have never known of a permanently successful corporation whose officers were not good citizens of their own country, and I never expect to see one."

Whether or not this was intended as a double-barbed thrust, it may be accepted as such: a warning to corporation heads, and a rebuke to the section of the public which still considers all corporations, and especially large ones, as enemies of the people, selfish, grasping and grinding. There was a time when this public point of view was to a considerable extent justified, not so much because of public as of employee exploitation, when the entire fabric of law was built to serve the employer. This pendulum has since swung far to the other side, and along with this has come a new appraisal of a corporation's functions, based on the conviction that the individual, big or little, prospers or falls with the community. The alignment of good citizenship with business is therefore definite. The corporation official who appreciates his obligation to his industry must recognize his duty to serve the welfare of his fellow-citizens, who include his employees as well as his neighbors.

But this is not the only reason why leading officials of large corporations, men of achievement, are so often found on hospital boards, engaged in encouraging various phases of community welfare work, and give of their time and money to advance every worthy cause. They realize that work of this sort must be done, and that men accustomed to expert management of large affairs are best fitted to promote it. They are both good citizens and good business men, and have an earnest desire to raise the general level of citizenship, happiness and prosperity.

It happens, moreover, that the big corporation is not what it used to be. It is larger, represents more capital and has a greater personnel employed. It is no longer owned by a few. Its shareholders are counted by hundreds or thousands. Many thousands of workingmen own shares in "big business," and are accumulating more extensive shares yearly. Many a large corporation is controlled by the public in small individual lots, its officials are merely trustees, and must surely have the point of view of the good citizen if they are to prosper.

How can the business man wrapped up in his own thoughts and his own purse compete against such odds? He doesn't do it for long. Mr. Beatty says he never expects to see a permanently successful corporation whose officials do not exhibit the qualities of good citizenship. He might well have included business men in general in his reference.—The Globe.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

There seems to be a distinct trace of a Jonah about Capt. Courtney's "whale."

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, Ont., July 23.—Cattle market this week showed a return to better marketing conditions. A good run of cattle for Monday's opening including some choice well-finished heavy steers, met a good brisk demand for practically all grades, except for the plainest common, unfinished cattle. For every thing of fair to good quality there was a good active market, with prices averaging from 15c to 25c higher than the previous week. The same activity prevailed all through the week, the early advance being steadily maintained. For the unfinished stock there is a slower demand, but few cattle have been carried over, each market seeing a good clean-up.

A feature of the week's trade has been the good opening for the heavy steer type, of good quality and finish, to supply the demand for the export dressed beef trade to Boston.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., July 23 (Canadian Press). — The export trade in Canadian grain here yesterday was quiet, and sales of only a few loads of wheat were made and a little barley, while oats were dull.

Outside of a sale of two loads of No. 3 Canadian Western barley made in the local market for export account at 99½c per bushel, f.o.b. Montreal, the trade was confined to car lots and the tone of the market was steady.

There was no improvement in the demand for spring and winter wheat grades of flour and prices were unchanged.

The undertone to the millfeed market continued strong owing to the good demand and the limited supplies available. The demand for standard grades of rolled oats was limited, but values were firm.

The egg market was slightly more active than it has been of late, and the undertone was steady. The receipts were 1,179 cases.

The butter market was without any new feature to note, business being quiet and prices unchanged. The receipts were 4,347 packages.

Despite the indifferent demand from local and foreign buyers, the undertone to the cheese market was strong and values scored a fractional gain. The receipts were 8,774 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 23 (Canadian Press). — Prospective serious damage by black rust, especially in Canada, unless weather conditions improve, brought about active buying and higher prices in the wheat market yesterday. Closing quottions on wheat were firm at ¾c to 1½c net advance, with corn ¾c to 1⅝c up, oats unchanged to ¼c better, and provisions 5c to 10c off.

Word that 1,000 cars of wheat would arrive here from Omaha, in time for delivery on July contracts, failed to offset the influence of black rust and other bullish factors, such as export buying of 160,000 bushels here yesterday, the largest amount in quite a while.

There were also official advices that Europe this season would raise little if any more wheat than the short crop of last year. Besides, private cables said the French crop situation threatened to become grave. Much of the selling yesterday was based on an estimate from a leading private authority that with ordinary conditions the Canadian Prairie Provinces would yield 380,000,000 bushels.

Weather unfavourable for corn growth gave independent strength to the corn market. Offerings of new oats tended to check price gains in the oats market. Provisions lacked support.

Editor, Evening Examiner:

FRATERNAL GREETINGS

An Appreciation.

On Thursday, 14th proximo, members of Royal Arthur Masonic Lodge, city, visited the Protestant Home, and in accordance with arrangement made with the Superintendent, Miss Lancaster, gave automobile transportation to many in the Home, chaperoned by the superintendent, to Chemong Park, where, associated with the West Group of ladies of St. Andrew's Church, city, all were entertained in the spirit of Christian kindness at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Breyfogle. The day was an ideal one, and "The Maples" in true homelike serenity and orderliness in each of its varied and thorough appointments looked out in quiet dignity upon the well-kept grounds, guarded by the waters of Chemong Lake—their wee, watery feet incessantly pattering along the western front—princely in conception and mathematically perfect in execution.

Mere social distinctions had no place on the program of events and Christlikeness was clearly manifested in all who participated in the many and varied enjoyments of the day. The manager of Woolworth's gave to many members of the Home, expert entertainment in his motor launch for several hours of the afternoon on the bright, rippling wafers of the lake, his genial countenance and spirited conversation floated merrily in the breezes, capturing the attention and giving zest to the kindly humour and keen witticisms of the happy participants; while his well-knit, rotund proportions gave assurance of ample ballast to his trim, seaworthy little craft. Then, too, the entire party—some in pairs, others in groups, engaged in wholesome conversation, inspiring humour, clean witticism and mild athletic sport, beguiling the passing hours, while in the nearby waters of the lake parties of young ladies, in bathing costume, disported themselves with an agility and an heroic abandon, outdoing the nymphs and mermaids of the families of old Father Neptune, so aptly rehearsed in story and in song of the fairie-days of the ancient past. Toward evening the breeze lessened to a zephyr; beautifully graceful curves appeared on the surface of the lake, as though the very spirit of God moved upon the waters, guiding the zephyrs in their courses, bringing the mind and heart of man to a state of solemn contemplation of the beauty and majestic calm of the God of all the earth—"whose we are, and whom we serve." And thus, while the cravings of the inner man were being satisfied, the wants of the outer man were receiving due attention by the ladies of St. Andrew's church; and I am fully convinced of the fact that to be an expert, good housekeeper is the greatest and the best accomplishment to be possessed by Canadian ladies in all social conditions and spheres of human existence. And we pray that Canadian women may be true "Mothers in Israel:" that Canadian sons be as plants tenderly grown up in their youth; and that Canadian daughters be as corner-stones polished after the similitude of a palace. Then "no weapon that is formed against Canada shall prosper." As "the stars in their courses fought against Sisera," so shall enemies of Canada—God helping us—be vanquished, and our persons and our homes be immune "from the fiery darts of the wicked," whether they be of the material or the spiritual world. Not a single mishap of any kind occurred to dampen the happy ardour of the day, for "He who made, upholds and guides the universe," is also "the sleepless keeper of Israel;" and He takes cognizance of, and vouchsafes safe conduct for those who put their trust in Him. Stirred by pleasant memories of bygone days, when we rejoiced in the breezes coming off Lake Huron, causing the trees of the forest to clap their hands, and affording the hardy woodman many tangible evidences of the encouraging fact that he was accomplishing something which will eventuate in that which is beneficial to the best and highest interests of humanity and glorifying to God, who is our Father, our great Benefactor, our Saviour and our Redeemer. He, too, "caused the outgoings of the morning and the evening to rejoice;" and the light of the setting sun on the cirrus and stratus vapours of that beautiful evening produced a subduing effect—a very glorious effect within the mind and the heart of anyone capable of observing and appreciating the aesthetic work of the great divine Artist portraying the infinite glories of His unfathomable mind in sublunary matter of His own creating. On that evening—from among the young trees standing guard in rear of "The Maples" at Chemong Park, Mr. Breyfogle cut a natural, well-formed walking stick which he presented to me in person, and which I will ever highly esteem as a trusty and useful souvenir of one of the happiest days of my declining years—a day in which the touch of the hand of human kindness stirs afresh the realization of the great fact that the day of days is near at hand, when Christ shall come again in Second Advent power; and great glory and establish His kingdom on foundations of righteousness, peace and love, and "His kingdom shall have no end." Amen, so must it be.

Ever sincerely your wellwisher,
ROBERT HARRISON,
The Protestant Home,

U. S. WON'T GIVE GREAT BRITAIN SUPERIOR NAVY

Kellogg Sends Gibson Instructions Against Any Concessions.

MAY MEAN FAILURE.

Two Official Resumes Issued By Washington To Re-exert Pressure on British.

WASHINGTON, July 23—Secretary Kellogg has cabled instruction to Ambassador Gibson at Geneva that, under no conditions will the United States yield superiority to Great Britain, either in tonnage, in number of ships or in gun calibre.

Coming at a time when the British delegates have returned to London to re-consult the Cabinet, this is substantially an ultimatum that the British must give in to United States terms, or that the conference will fail. Mr. Kellog has been informed by members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that the Senate will not ratify any treaty that commits the United States, on paper, to inferiority on the seas.

Senator Moses (R., N.H.) a member of the Foreign Relations Committee conferred with the Secretary on Thursday and strongly backed this position.

"I am confident," he said later, "the Senate will not ratify any treaty which does not give to the United States complete parity with Great Britain on the seas—in tonnage, in number of ships and in calibre of guns. It may be that the British delegates at Geneva will attempt to say that an attitude of this character is aggressive on our part.

"But times have changed since the Napoleonic era and the United States with its undoubted ability to outbuild any nation, in a race for naval supremacy, with its increasing commerce upon the sea and with all the other commercial elements which the British bring forward, will not submit to imperil its position especially after we have carried out in such perfect good faith both in letter and in spirit the treaties emanating from the Washington conference. We are not willing again to see ourselves duped."

Two Official Resumes

That the Administration is taking advantage of the lull in the Geneva sessions to reinforce its position and re-exert pressure upon the British was further evidenced by two official resumes put out informally during the day. The department issuing them declined to permit their source to be given.

One assailed the reported Anglo-Japanese agreement upon a 500,000-ton surface craft limit.

"This would mean," it said, "that Britain would dictate to the United States the type of vessels we would have to build, a type that is not well suited to our geographical requirements in view of our lack of bases, and a type that could only carry a six-inch gun."

It criticized the reported British promise to grant submarine parity to Japan as a violation of the Washington five-five-three ratio, and emphasized that as the United States gave up the right to develop naval bases in the Western Pacific such a concession to Japan would render "our situation in that region seriously compromised."

Reviews United States Proposals

The second resume reviewed the United States proposal at Geneva as a logical following up of the Washington treaties and charged Great Britain with unwillingness to support those principles.

"A review of the various proposals made at Geneva by the representatives of the British Empire," said the statement, "would lead one to believe that their intent has been to discredit the work accomplished at Washington."

"The natural question arises: Against whom must Great Britain prepare a fleet of cruisers approaching her strength in this class of vessel prior to the world war? She disclaims the thought of any possible serious differences ever arising between herself and the United States, yet she insists on a type of cruiser that is unsuited to our needs, but is advantageous to her own. She is unwilling to grant freedom of action in this respect to the United States. She is also apparently agreeable to granting Japan equality in submarines with herself and the United States.

"Under this procedure what becomes of the ratios of relative strength accepted in principle at Washington and in what direction are the negotiations at Geneva leading?"

GRAND OPERA LOSS LESS THAN USUAL

More Support Given By Public at Convent Garden.

LONDON, July 23.—(Canadian Press).—The hope that Grand Opera will ever be produced in London upon a paying basis seems a forlorn one, although it is likely that the loss upon the season at Covent Garden which has just finished will be smaller than usual. Last year's loss, moreover, was only half that of the year previously, and a heartier measure of public support has been extended this year.

"We are satisfied with the season's work, although the financial position will not be ascertained fully for some little time", declared a member of the London Opera Syndicate which now controls the season's performances at Covent Garden. "The two performances of the 'Ring' were particularly successful; we could have given a third and still filled the house.

"The performances of the 20-odd English singers during the season have proved immensely popular, and we were glad to be able to include them.

"The most popular operas? Well, that is rather difficult to decide. They have all been so ardently supported that comparisons are impossible. 'Turandot' has created the greatest sensation."

A very enjoyable bridge party was held by the ladies of the Peterborough Golf and Country Club at Chemong Park yesterday afternoon, at the residence of Mrs. R. Desbecker, who kindly opened her spacious summer home for the occasion. The rooms were beautifully decorated with a profusion of flowers and the table from which tea was served was lovely with its draperies of Mexican drawn work and flowers of wistaria shades, arranged in a large central bowl and laid in garlands on the cloth. A huge bow of moss green taffeta ribbon was drawn over the centerpiece, making a unique final touch to a charming arrangement. The guests were received by Mrs. Desbecker and Mrs. Alan Cameron, captain of the Ladies' Golf Club. Arrangements were in the hands of Mrs. C. G. Graham, and tea assistants were Mrs. Reg. Turner, Mrs. Lionel Scott, the Misses Margaret Denne, Jean Fraser, Mary Denne and Betty Cluthe of New York. Fifteen tables of bridge were played, the first prize being won by Mrs. A. L. SAINT and SINNER

On her short, swift journey down the hall to Cherry's room, hideous fears flitted like bats through Faith's mind. Had she made Cherry hate her? Would Cherry really leave the only home she had, taking her baby—the precious, adorable baby with her? Had she cost her own sister—the little sister whom she had always worshipped and served—out into the world, penniless, burdened with a child to support?

"That you, Bob?" Cherry's strangled voice called out.

"It's Faith, Cherry! Please, darling, let me in!"

There was a long silence broken at last by a loud sob. Then, when Faith was about to begin pleading again, the key turned in the lock and the door was opened a crack.

"I—I didn't want to see you—just yet," Cherry sobbed from within, as she clung to the doorknob. "I—I wanted to be all ready to leave—so you'd know I wasn't just—bluffing—"

"Cherry, darling!" Faith cried despairingly. The door yielded reluctantly to her pressure and in a moment she was kneeling beside a huddled little figure on the floor. "Why do you want to leave me, honey? Surely you didn't think I meant—that! Will you forgive me, Cherry? Oh, darling, I can't bear this! Don't hate me!"

"I'm not angry with you, Faith!" she gasped. "I don't hate you, honey! I adore you! Didn't you know that? But I thought it would be so much better for you—and Bob—if I went away and took my little baby—"

"You shan't take the baby," Faith sobbed. "And I'm not going to let you go either. I'd not be happy another minute of my life if you did. Oh, Cherry!" She strained the slight figure to her breast with a fierce possession, more maternal than sisterly.

"You ought to let me go!" Cherry had the strength of character to protest. "It's not good for your marriage, having all of us here. And it's not good for me to be dependent. That's the reason I wanted to work. I can't bear to live on Bob's generosity any longer. It's not good for me," she reiterated, with childish desperation, her golden eyes searching Faith's face hopefully but fearfully.

"Don't be absurd, darling," Faith begged her, cupping the beloved, tear-flushed little face in her hands. "We belong together, Cherry. Mother would be terribly unhappy if she knew you were away from me. She always trusted you to me."

Cherry gave in suddenly, her effort at establishing her independence of the sister who had always been too kind to her succumbing to the mention of the one name that had always been able to stir her profoundly.

Faith, after a bit, during which they held each other very tightly, helped her to replace the garments she had flung out of closets and dresser drawers. When they had finished and Cherry was stretched wearily upon her small, green painted bed, Faith forced herself to return to her room, where she knew she would find Bob awaiting her.

She found him seated in her own low chair by the window, the baby upon his knees, one of his big, brown fingers held tightly in a miniature fist. The quizzical smile with which he had been regarding Cherry's baby lingered as he looked up at his wife.

"Cherry's going to stay, of course? I knew she would. It's rather a pity, isn't it, all things considered?"

She did not dare ask him what he meant.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

SUNDAY, JULY 24, 1927.

This is read as a quiet day by astrologers who find the planetary government benefic.

There is an aspect that is held to indicate receptivity of mind and a thoughtful trend that should be favorable for ministers and speakers of other vocations.

Under this sway interest in aviation will be quickened even more than in the month of May by more than one important event, it is foretold.

Inventors and inventions are well directed at this time when there will be revealed new marvels of science.

Business is under a rule of the stars that is most encouraging to enterprise, which will show a tendency toward remarkable expansion.

Combinations of capital will be more comprehensive than ever before, the seers declare, and for that reason international ties are to be even more complex than formerly.

This should be a lucky day for visiting friends and relatives, especially those whose favor is of special value.

Gifts presented while this configuration prevails are believed to be of special significance to giver and recipient.

Romance is not likely to flourish today as there is an ominous aspect that is supposed to stifle true love and to encourage the mercenary spirit.

Astrologers warn women that initiative in seeking attention from men will be less rewarded than in the past, since reactionary planetary influences are strong.

France, Germany, Italy and India continue subject to sinister aspects that presage sensational events.

War and earthquakes are predicted for European countries which are to experience startling happenings.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of change and pleasure in which they enjoy reunions with friends.

Children born on this day may be inclined toward frivolous tastes and should be wisely trained to serious interests.

MONDAY, JULY 25, 1927.

There is a sign read as especially favorable to ocean travel and voyages begin today should be most lucky.

Consumption of oil and all its products is to be so much increased that cost will advance, if the stars are rightly interpreted.

Personal correspondence is subject too sway that should be most beneficial. Even love letters are less perilous than commonly.

Since Confederation some of the greatest inventions of this or any age have been made. Among the many industries that have made such wonderful progress is the monumental industry. Only a few years ago the lettering, carving and finishing of them was all done by hand. Today we have electric and compressed air power to drive our chisels in place of the hammer and mallet.

This enables us to turn out more Monuments and do the work more perfectly. We are always pleased to show our workmanship and quote prices. Our plant is the best that money can buy.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE VICTORIES OF FAITH

THE VICTORIES OF FAITH

By Wm. E. Gilroy, D.D.
Editor of The Congregationalist.

The international Uniform Sunday School Lesson for July 24. The Victories of Faith. 1 Samuel 17:31-37, 40-42, 48-51.

And when the words were heard which David spake, they rehearsed them before Saul: and he sent for him.

And David said to Saul, Let no man's heart fail because of him: thy servant will go and fight with this Philistine.

And Saul said to David, Thou art not able to go against this Philistine to fight with him: for thou art but a youth, and he a man of war from his youth.

And David said unto Saul, Thy servant kept his father's sheep, and there came a lion, and a bear, and took a lamb out of the flock.

And I went out after him, and smote him, and delivered it out of his mouth: and when he arose against me, I caught him by his beard, and smote him and slew him.

Thy servant slew both the lion and the bear; and this uncircumcised Philistine shall be as one of them, seeing he hath defied the armies of the living God.

David said moreover, The Lord that delivered me out of the paw of the lion, and out of the paw of the bear, he will deliver me out of the hand of this Philistine. And Saul said unto David, Go and the Lord be with thee.

And he took his staff in his hand, and choose him five smooth stones out of the brook, and put them in a shepherd's bag which he had, even in a scrip; and his sling was in his hand: and he drew near to the Philistine.

And the Philistine came on, and drew near unto David, and the man that bare the shield went before him.

And when the Philistine looked about, and saw David, he disdained him; for he was but a youth, and ruddy, and of a fair countenance.

And it came to pass, when the Philistine arose, and came and drew night to meet tDavid, that David and ran toward the army to meet the Philistine.

And David put his hand in his bag, and took thence a stone, and slang it, and smote the Philistine in his forehead, that the stone sunk into his forehead; and he fell upon his face to the earth.

So David prevailed over the Philistine with a sling and with a stone, and smote the Philistine, and slew him: but there was no sword in the hand of David.

Therefore David ran, and stood upon the Philistine, and took his sword, and drew it out of the sheath thereof, and slew him, and cut off his head therewith. And when the Philistines saw their champion was dead, they fled.

* * *

The lesson for today logically precedes that of last week, and a seeming discrepancy in the chronological order is one of the things that reminds us that various historical writings of the Old Testament are compilations in which the editor, or compiler, has availed himself of more than one account, interweaving these various accounts into the narrative.

Here in our lesson we have a concrete picture of the youth, David, in an exploit which has challenged, since the day when it was written, the imagination of the young. Incidentally, for older readers this story has become a spiritual symbol of real strength as opposed to mere size and bluster.

On the one hand is Goliath the Philistine, a giant physically, parading, as was the custom in ancient warfare, before the opposing armies, defying anyone of the hosts of Israel to come out and fight him in personal combat. The men of Israel were fearful of his apparent power and were impressed by his bravado and bluster. No man volunteered to go out, even trusting in spiritual forces, and pit himself against this swaggering champion of the Philistines.

Too Young to Fight.

Into the camp of Israel came a young shepherd boy, not as a fighting man, but bringing refreshment to his older brothers. They thought of him as too young to fight and they had left him keeping his father's sheep. But the open-air life of a shepherd, protecting his flock in those dangerous areas, was not entirely the beautiful pastoral thing that we often associate with shepherding. There were times when this young lad had to defend his flock against attack, and he had killed a lion and a bear, even going after the bear and rescuing a lamb that the animal had taken.

The lad who had killed a lion and a bear was not apt to be very fearful of what he described as "an uncircumcised Philistine defying the armies of a living God." But David trusted to his own weapons and his own mission. He went forth with a sling, choosing a few small stones.

Goliath was not quite prepared for warfare such as that. Manifestly he was affected by the psychology of the thing. He did not know quite what to make of it, and he had not quite recovered from his surprise until a smooth stone out of the sling found a vulnerable spot in his armor, penetrated his forehead, and felled him to the earth.

It was a day of victory for Israel, for when the Philistines saw that the champion was dead, as the record says, they fled.

We leave to the boys and girls the story in its mere details, to emphasize the way in which this lesson has been again and again repeated in history. The great and swaggering things of life are often inherently weak when they are challenged with the spirit of real courage. It is not in size that strength consists. Especially in the moral and spiritual realms the thing that seems so small as to be almost negligible is discovered to be the thing of real power. It was this that Paul had in mind, reinforcing his whole observation in life, when he spoke of God as choosing weak things to confound the mighty, the things that are naught to bring to naught the things that are.

Example Often Repeated.

It is the lesson of the walls of Jericho falling before the trumpet blasts and marching power of a few determined men; of a great Spanish armada dispersed and terror-stricken by a brave-hearted and resourceful English admiral with a few ships; it is the story of a few praying women attacking the Goliath power of the liquor traffic in America, and of that giant, strongly entrenched in the business and politics of the country, collapsing before their determination and their prayers. We can stand a little more of that spirit of trust in the right to finish this job, and the many jobs that still confront those who would destroy the strongholds of iniquity.

The lesson of David's sling is that he used the weapon that he had, which he knew, and to which he was accustomed. It is in the power to use wisely and well what we have that our chance of effective service lies.

For the Safety of the Highway

Drivers are most responsible and can do most to keep motor travel safe

Provincial highways have been made safe by their builders. Easy grades and curves have been established, guard rails have been erected at dangerous points, and a comprehensive system of warning signs has been set up. Counties have built their roads safe, too.

The constantly increasing traffic is creating new problems of highway traffic control. Each new situation is carefully studied and taken care of in the interest of drivers and the public by yearly revisions of the law.

Yet no artificial regulation of traffic can be so effective as the natural co-operation of motor drivers seeking their own safety and wishing to extend courtesy to others on the road. In their hands lies the most potent instrument for keeping the highways safe. On them rests the greatest responsibility.

A Dangerous Character on the Road

It is an outlaw, for The Highways Traffic Act provides penalties where lights are not properly adjusted or brakes or steering gear are out of order.

Glaring lights are against the law and a menace to traffic. From the Motor Vehicles Branch of the Department may be obtained free a list of lenses approved by the Department and simple instructions for adjusting headlights.

Your first step in safety lies in having your car in perfect condition when you go on the road. Then practice caution and courtesy as you use the road. The increased speed limits puts a new responsibility on you in this respect.

Follow the Roads and you will know Ontario

The good roads belong to you and all other tax-payers in the Province. Use them for you are paying for them.

Travel about the Province and see new scenes and know new people. Take your family along and let the children learn their most useful geography lesson in a practical way.

There's education, as well as good health and pleasure on the highways. Follow them and you will have a wider knowledge of your Province, and know your fellow-citizens better.

MANY MAINTAIN STOMACH BLOW BEAT SHARKEY

Opinion Differs as to Whether Boston Sailor Was Fouled.

DISPUTE RAGES.

NEW YORK, July 23 (Canadian Press).—Jack Dempsey's comeback yesterday developed one of the most heetic controversies in heavyweight ring history with a bitter debate swirling around the question of whether or not the former champion fouled Jack Sharkey before knocking out the Boston sailor in the seventh round of their battle on Thursday night.

The dispute raged among newspaper men, officials and fighters with as fierce intensity as the battle within the ring last night. Instead of being finished, the fight, it seemed, had just begun. After a day of heated post mortems, in which slo-motion pictures and a broadside of official opinions were brought to bear, the issue was no nearer settlement than when yells of protest came from Sharkey's corner at the finish of the bout in the Yankee Stadium.

The motion pictures, it had been felt, would be a final arbiter but three showings before a group of experts left opinion as widely divided as it was at the ringside. To a majority perhaps it seemed that Dempsey landed two or three dangerously low rights to the body just before connecting with the left hook to the jaw that toppled the ex-sailor. These wallops appeared to be low but not foul in the opinion of Tex Rickard as well as of many other observers. Nearly as many more, however, chief among them Johnny Buckley, Sharkey's manager, insisted that the pictures proved Sharkey had been fouled at least twice, and that Dempsey should have been disqualified.

Referee Rules

One of the two official judges, Charles F. Mathison, sided with those claiming a foul, but Jack O'Sullivan, the tall, veteran referee, whose decision settled the matter in the ring, declared unqualifiedly that Dempsey's blows were fair, although low and close enough to the border line to prompt a warning. Both fighters, however, O'Sullivan added, landed low punches at various time—Dempsey on three or four occasions, and Sharkey twice—but none of them were regarded as damaging by the official.

If Sharkey was fouled, however, there appeared no official evidence of injury to support his claims.

Financial Dispute

Financial details of the bout came in for their share of dispute. Treasury officials in Washington disclosed reports placing the gate at $985,027, with an attendance of 77,283, but Tex Rickard's figures were $1,083,529.70 for a paid attendance of 81,000.

$250,000 Profits

The fighters' purses also were variously figured, but it was understood Dempsey received considerably more than his advertised "cut" of 27½ per cent. It was said his actual share was 37½ per cent. or about $352,000 as compared with Sharkey's 22½ per cent. "cut" of $210,000. This boosted the total purse to the principals above $550,000. With taxes and expenses deducted the profit to Rickard and his "600 millionaire" stockholders in the Madison Square Garden Corporation was figured at around $250,000.

Dempsey Gets Out

After a day in which every movement was kept in strictest secrecy, Jack Dempsey slipped out of New York by automobile for Wilmington, Del., at 4.15 yesterday afternoon on the first leg of a hurried trip to Los Angeles. He was accompanied by Leo. P. Flynn, his manager, and several friends.

Dempsey decided on the hurried trip to California after a conference with Tex Rickard yesterday, during which all details for the championship battle with Gene Tunney in September were completed. Process servers, camped close on the former champion's trail, also are believed to have prompted the surprise departure. The sheriffs failed to serve papers upon Dempsey for a suit brought against him by Teddy Hayes, former member of Jack's camp for alleged back pay.

PONTYPOOL WINS.

Defeats Yelverton in Ball Game at Ballyduff Garden Party.

PONTYPOOL, July 23.—The strawberry festival held at Balyduff on Friday evening was the best ever held in this locality. It was the opening of their new closed shed, which is a great asset to their church. In the evening a ball game between Yelverton and Pontypool was played. The latter were the winners by the score of 5-4. Leskard people put on their play, at which they excelled themselves. Between acts a good concert was given, consisting of speeches by F. W. Bowen, M.P., C. T. Armstrong, and solos by Orme Gamsby. An autograph quilt was auctioned off, which helped considerably to the finances. Mrs. (Rev.) Walker was presented with a quilt by the ladies of the church, the ladies being represented by Mrs. W. Whiteside, who made the presentation.

ALLOEDE YACHT CAPTURES CUP

Rochester Boat Wnis Fisher Cup From Cara Mia of Toronto.

LED ALL THE WAY.

TORONTO, July 23. — Alloede of Rochester Yacht Club lifted the Fisher international challenge cup from the R.C.Y.C. of Toronto, when she won the third and deciding race for the mug yesterday from Cara Mia, the defender, by over a mile.

Alloede went to the front a mile after the start and was never again headed. She led by a quarter of a mile at the end of the first round of nine miles and on the second round gained on every leg

Weather conditions at the start, which was delayed 1½ hours waiting for wind, seemed to favor Cara Mai. She took the lead at the outset in light airs, but one mile out Alloede found a favorable slant, and went to the front.

On the first leg, a three mile reach, she gained 300 yards of distance and 2 minutes and 25 seconds in time.

On the second leg, a three mile thresh to windward Cara Mia gained slowly and reduced Alloede's margin to 150 yards in distance, and 1 minute and 20 seconds in time.

On the leg back to the mark the wind which had been easterly shifted from east to north-east, and commenced to gain in strength. Alloede reached the new wind first and pulled away, finishing the first round with a lead of ¼ of a mile in distance and 2 minutes and 55 seconds in time.

JAPAN PROTESTS MEXICAN PLAYER

Claim Robert Kinsey is American Citizen Living in Mexico.

NEW YORK, July 23 (Canadian Press).—The United States Lawn Tennis Association has announced receipts of a formal protest from Japan against Robert Kinsey playing as a member of the Mexican Davis Cup team.

The Japanese and Mexican teams are scheduled to meet in St. Louis July 29, 30 and 31. The protest was made on the ground that Kinsey is an American citizen. Kinsey married a Mexican girl recently and has been engaged in business in Mexico for some time.

Decision on the protest is expected to be announced in St. Louis probably on Monday.

The Davis Cup regulations say that any amateur may represent a country of which he is a naturalized citizen, or in which he has been a resident for more than two years, immediately preceding a tie. The protest was based on the belief that Kinsey has not been a continuous resident of Mexico for that period.

The majority of motor-boat owners follow the lead of famous boat racers by using Champions.

The experience of these daring men is convincing proof that for utmost speed, power and, above all, dependability, use Champions.

Champion is the better spark plug because of its double-ribbed sillimanite core — its two-piece construction and its special analysis electrodes.

TAIL ENDERS DEFEAT BEARS

Newark Loses Hard Fought Battle to Reading Club By One Run.

ORIOLES WIN.

NEW YORK, July 23. — Canadian Press. — Harry Hinchman made a fine start with the Reading Club at Newark yesterday, when the tail-enders defeated the Bears in a hard-fought game by the score of 3 to 2. Nick Harrison, who pitched for Reading, was wild and walked eight men, but was always invincible with men on bases, outside of the sixth and eighth innings.

The Orioles followed up Thursday's victory by winning the second game of the Baltimore series over Jersey City 7 to 4. Poole of the locals, and Shannon, Jersey City, talcied home runs, while Dick Porter Clouted out his nineteenth circuit smash, giving him a lead of one over Bissonnette, of Buffalo.

ENGLISH GIRL TO SWIM CHANNEL

Miss Millie Hudson Will Make Attempt Next Month.

NOW IN TRAINING.

DOVER, England, July 23. — Canadian Press. — Miss Millie Hudson the young Hammersmith girl, who hopes to swim from Cape Grisnez to the English coast in August, has been training steadily for some time, first in London's open air baths and now at Dover. She is built for long distance swimming and her chances are considered favorably.

"She does not claim to be a sprinter," her adviser, Rob Derbyshire says, "but she can keep going for hours at a steady pace without tiring." In trials Miss Hudson appears somewhat slow compared with say Miss Gertrude Ederle but spectators are impressed by her ability to maintain a powerful, steady stroke without showing the least distress.

Inside Sportin Dope

By A Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Seeing this is being writ Thurs., I ain't able to say nothing about the big fight, except that it is a hand of three Jacks—Jack Sharkey, Jack Dempsey and the Jack taken in at the gate—and seeing that prize fighting is now big business, the last Jack is the most important of the 3. Looks to me, Mac, like Barnum sure said a mouthful. The dear old public always pay. As for me, all the mill is going to cost me is a hour at the radio.

Well, Mac, the folks seem to be getting excited over this here Toronto marathon swim, though they ain't no chance of the big honours coming to Peterboro. At that I could name a No. of local birds which has been soaked for years that might have a chance if we could get them in. But I kinda lost interest in the race since the field glass privilege has been let. The way I figger it, the biggest kick outa the whole show'll be at the go-in when the greased beauties do the big parade to the water. And the same G.B.'s will have plenty of competition among the spectators. They ain't much left for a girl to take off nowadays when she wants to have a dip.

Locally, they ain't a whale of a lotta excitement, sportively speaking. The Petes and the Deloro crowd managed to stage 1 smart ball game last Sat., but most of the pews was empty, and them what stayed away missed a neat battle in which 2 clever young pitchers—both Peterboro productions, by the way—turned in a worth-while card. Mister Swanston's lads is shaking down into form, and they oughta be ready to give the winners of the other group in the Lakeshore circuit a tough time when they clash next month.

The lawn bowlers has been having their innings this week, and the way they have been hitting the kitty oughta bring a protest from the Humane Society. The toughest part about the lawn bowling game is that it generally hits the same birds what is curlers in winter. Their better halves is curling widows in the cold weather and bowling widows the rest of the year, and the only time their families get a chance to give them the once over is when it thaws in the winter or rains in the summer months.

Talking about sport, Mac, ask any motorist his opinion of the Chemong road. 1 bird sez to me that the Chemong Park cottagers was the best people in this world, and when I sez, "How cum?" he comes back with, "Driving over that road every day would shake the hell outa anybody." So that's that.

Well, Mister Sporting Editor, it's time for the liver and onions, so you and the customers'll halfta excuse me now.

Sportfully yours,

A. WISE CRACKER.

REMARKABLE GAIN BY WEAK COUNTIES

Advance of Derbyshire and Leicestershire Makes Season Outstanding.

LONDON, Eng., July 23.—(Canadian Press).—No longer, apparently, is the county cricket championship the monopoly of the chosen few. With the season half over, two of the lowly ones, in Derbyshire and Leicestershire, are entrenched in the first four places, and moreover deserve to be there.

Yorkshire, which has suffered three defeats, is apparently beginning to decline. Lancashire, the champion county, is hardly so potent a winning force as it was a year ago. Probably Nottinghamshire would carry the vote of most people as the most likely county to deprive Lancashire of its position of supremacy. Nottinghamshire is esconced in second place, close on Lancashire's heels.

It is not merely the rise of the weaker counties that make this cricket season the most interesting one since the war, so far as the county game is concerned. It is the defeat of the strong that has given this season's county cricket the charm of the unexpected. Warwickshire inflicted a startling defeat on Yorkshire, and in a second encounter managed to wrest first innings points from them. Worcestershire secured its only victory at the expense of Middlesex. Middlesex itself, weak in bowlers, emerged from two smashing defeats to dismiss the mighty Yorkshire batsmen for 81 runs.

Derbyshire, described at the beginning of the season as the "mystery" team, has more than fulfilled expectations. Furthermore the team is youthful and might be expected to be better next year.

Sporting writers declare Yorkshire has passed the pinnacle of its post-war fame. It is charged with neglecting to develop its younger players in matches in which they could have afforded to rest men with established reputations; men like Kilner and Bell have been allowed to depart to other counties.

Nottinghamshire, championship aspirants, are undoubtedly a difficult side to get rid of. But their defect is that their bowling is too largely dependent upon one man—Larwood. With Richmond apparently not having a good season with his "funny stuff," Notts have no dependable wicket-getter outside the young fast bowler.

FRANCE WINS DAVIS CUP GAME

Takes Three Straight Sets From Denmark, Winning European Zone.

TENNIS COMPETITION.

COPENHAGEN, July 23. — Canadian Press. — France won the European zone Davis Cup tennis Competition by defeating Denmark in the final yesterday.

Following victories by Gene Borotra yesterday and Henri Cochet on Thursday, in the singles, Borotra and Jacques Brugnon annexed the third straight and decisive victory in the doubles. They defeated Peterson Peterson and Ulrich of Denmark, 6-4 6-0, 6-3.

France now will meet the winner of the American zone competition for the right to challenge the United States for the cup.

KOZELUK CALLED GREATEST PLAYER

LONDON, Eng., July 23. — Canadian Press. — "The greatest male lawn tennis player in the world," is C. B. Cochran's description of Karel Kozoluh, professional tennis player from Prague. Spectators who have seen Kozoluh in action in London this summer do not treat Mr. Cochran's description lightly. Kozoluh is not a spectacular player. He has a quiet method and therefore does not impress the casual onlooker with any particular sense of brilliancy.

But his control of the ball both in pace and direction is so complete, and he accomplishes his shots with so little effort that an opponent whom he is beating easily, often appears to outshine him.

This was the case in many of Kozoluh's games with Howard Kinsey. Anybody entering Holland Park where Kozoluh beat Kinsey 7-5 7-5, would at a quick glance take the American to be the better player. Kinsey is known as one of the hardest hitters in America and from a court of canvas-covered wood which is extremely fast, his smashes were rebounding like cannon-balls. But the way Kozoluh took the pace out of these smashes was brilliant in the extreme.

LYONS WORKING HARD.

Owner Charles Comiskey insisted that Ed Walsh be worked overtime when he was starring with the Chicago White Sox and thereby cut short his career many years. It seems the same tactics are being adopted with Ted Lyons.

PIRATES DOWN BOSTON BRAVES

Win Gives Pittsburgh the Leadership of the National League.

GIANTS DEFEATED.

NEW YORK, July 23 (Canadian Press).—The National League leadership yesterday changed hands for the fifth time in as many days when the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Boston Braves 5 to 2, while Philadelphia downed Chicago.

Triples by the Waner Brothers in the 7th inning were big factors in a four run rally that brought victory to the Pirates at Boston. Foster Edwards, former Dartmouth College star, was driven from the box in that inning.

Cubs Lose

The Philadelphia Nationals made it two straight over the Chicago Cubs at Philadelphia winning by a score of 6 to 5. Two base muff by Hack Wilson and a bad throw by Pick counted for two Philadelphia runs in the 8th that won the game. Fred Leitch hit a homer in the sixth inning with the bases filled.

Giants Defeated

The Cardinals gained in the National League race by launching a home run attack to win at New York 7 to 4. In the seventh Douthit hit a homer after which Schulte walked and Schuble, the 19-year-old shortstop, followed with another four-bagger to put the game away. Frisch stole second for his 30th steal of the season in the third inning.

Allows One Hit.

Red Lucas came within a straw of pitching a no-hit game at Brooklyn when he blanked the Robins while his Cincinnati team mates made off with a 3 to 0 victory. Lucas allowed only one hit, a grounder in the sixth which went through Critz's legs for a possible error, but as it turned out the official scorer credited Deberry with a single, thereby preventing Lucas from joining the ranks of famous no-hit pitchers.

STAGES COMEBACK.

Veteran Tennis Player Enters Semi-Finals For Clay Court Championship.

DETROIT, July 23. — Canadian Press. — John Hennessy, Indianapolis, veteran tennis player, attempting a comeback, fought his way into the semi-finals of the national clay-court tennis championship here yesterday defeating Yoshire Ohta in a brilliant five set duel. Two of the sets were played Thursday, but the climax of the game was in the fourth set, which Ohta won by taking the 25th and 26th games. The scores was 3-6 6-3, 6-1, 12-14, 6-2.

In doubles play Tilden and Wiener played their way into the finals, disposing of Seligson and Shields in the semi-finals without the loss of a set.

Belated Ninth Inning Rally Fails to Win for New York.

SENATORS LOSE TWO.

NEW YORK, July 23 (Canadian Press).—Ted Lyons registered his fifteenth victory of the season yesterday when Chicago trounced the Yankees 7 to 5. Barrett led the White Sox attack with three singles and a triple. Falk cracked out his eighth homer of the year in the seventh with one on. New York staged a belated rally in the ninth during which Ruth triples with two on the sacks.

Senators Lose Two

Although outhit the Browns won both games of a double header at St. Louis from the Washington Senators, 7 to 6 and 3 to 2. Washington got 13 hits and St. Louis 8 in each game.

The Browns ponded the veteran Walter Johnson for 7 hits in the first three innings of the first game and drove him from the mound. Ballou and Crowder, formerly with Washington, pitched for St. Louis.

By James A. Lee.

To learn the back dive, take position on the end of the board, standing on the balls of the feet with heels extended over the edge.

Place toes two to three inches apart and heels together, arms directly in front even with the shoulders. With a sideward and upward swing, throw arms up vigorously, helping to attain height.

The back dive is completed in one movement, that is leaving the board with an arched back, arms and feet together, both well pointed.

The back dive is controlled by the head. The head controls the body and is tilted slightly backward at the highest point of the dive. If diver feels he is not going over enough, bend head vigorously.

Before going on the board, practise arm movements to co-operate with the spring. Always concentrate on height, graceful natural movements and body rigid in all entries.

BOSTON GREETS EIGHT AVIATORS

Thousands Crowd Into City To Greet Atlantic and Pacific Fliers.

MEETING IN CITY.

BOSTON, Mass., July 23. Canadian Press. — Countless thousands reversed their usual week-end programme to-day, and converged on the city to roar a lusty welcome to the eight airmen heroes of the hour, who were meeting here for the first time.

The hundreds of thousands, who yesterday jammed every vantage point to roar a greeting to Colonel Charles Lindbergh, and later returned to salute the Hawaiian fliers, Lieutenants Lester Maitland and F. Hegenberger were to-day prepared to greet the other trans-atlantic fliers Commander Byrd and his companions of the America and Clarence Chamberlin of Columbia and Germany fame.

WOMEN'S DIVING CONTESTS WILL BE HELD IN TORONTO

BIG RACE ENDS MONTH

Besides Women's Meet August Also Brings Outdoor Championships at Barrie and $50,000 Marathon at Toronto.

TORONTO, Ont., July 22. Canadian Press. — August promises to be a big month in Canadian swimming circles. On the first of the month at Barrie, two Canadian outdoor swimming championship events will be held, the 50 yards, free style for women, and 100 yard backstroke for men. Both of these titles are now held by Torontonians, Hilda Houstis having navigated the 50 yards in 30 1-5 seconds, and Earl Warner swimming the 100 yards in 80 seconds.

The Canadian variety springboard diving championships for women are on the agenda for August 6 at Toronto and it is expected that divers from all parts of the Dominion will compete. The results will have considerable bearing on the selection of the team to represent Canada in the Olympics next year.

Each competitor will be required to make 10 dives, five of these being compulsory, and the remaining five being selected by the contestants.

1 Plain running dive.
2 Running forward somersault.

From a 10 foot springboard:

3—1½ running somersault.
4 Backward spring and forward dive.
5 Running Molberg.

The five voluntary dives from the 10-foot springboard will be selected by competitors from the Olympic chart and no compulsoryy dive may be used as a voluntary one.

The contests will bring out many of the younger divers of the Dominion and Canada's hopes for the Olympic contest seem much brighter than heretofore.

Various smaller events are scheduled to be held throughout the month, and then on the last day, comes the $50,000 Marathon event over a 21-mile course in Lake Ontario, which attracted a record number of entries.

LOUISE DRESSER FEATURED WITH JASON ROBARDS.

Louise Dresser and Jason Robards who played in support of Dolores Costello in Warner Bros.' "The Third Degree" are again seen together in "White Flannels." In the former film Miss Dresser was cast as the circus adventuress who deserted her child. In this one she plays the part of a devoted mother.

Those who have seen her as the mother in "Broken Hearts of Hollywood," and "The Goose Woman" know the power of Miss Dresser's acting when she has an adequate role. In "White Flannels" she is cast as the draggled, weary wife of a miner; a woman who has sworn that her son is not to spend his days in the mines.

Losing the true proportion of things, she fancies that fine clothes and learning will make him a gentleman. All the meagre force of her strength is expended working and saving that he may go to college. His life's happiness is almost ruined by the well-meant dominance of his mother, but fate takes a hand, and mother, son, the sweetheart of the boy, and his best pal, are caught up in a maelstrom of disaster which leaves them back much as they began, but possessed of a truer estimate of the things that really matter in life.

Robards gives a masterly performance as the son. Others in the cast are Virginia Browne Faire, Warner Richmond, George Nichols and Brooks Benedict. Lloyd Bacon directed. "White Flannels" comes to the Regent Theatre next Monday for a two days' run.

GOLF NEWS.

By MARY K. BROWNE

(Written for the United Press)

Copyright, 1927, by United Press

It is somewhat amusing for me to be giving golfing hints, when I am one of the most avid golfers in search of hints myself. However, what I am going to set down here are hints I have picked up, used, and passed on to very good advantage.

When you reach a dog leg hole (mule's leg would perhaps be more appropriate from the vicious stubborn ways some of these holes are laid out) you probably find it difficult to get your stance in relation to the line you hope your ball will take.

The tee is probably faced toward the hole and you want to go to the right or left, to open up the hole for your next shot.

I find that if I line up my drive by getting behind the ball, selecting an outstanding weed at the front of the tee which is in the line of flight and then try to eliminate the hazards and the location of the green from my mind, by taking my stance in relation to this short imaginary line from my ball to the front of the tee, it helps immensely.

The same system works in the fairway when you must take a line away from the hole to play safe.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE — By Ahern

The tendency after you have taken your correct stance away from the hole, is to pull your shot around toward the green, unless you are able to forget the green temporarily and just feel yourself practising to get off a straight ball on the line of that object you have selected in the line of flight.

I got the idea of lining up my putts from an article by Cecil Leitch, former British champion. She recommends selecting a blade of grass or light spot, anything which attracts your attention and is about six inches from your ball on the green, directly in line with your putt. Place your putter behind the ball so as to start your ball in this line.

Of course, this will not insure your ball going into the cup, for you must follow through correctly so as not to slice or hook your putt. It will, however, help a lot in getting your correct stance and the proper line.

Another hint which I believe has saved me some grief is, if you have missed your drive and can not possibly get home with your longest club, don't try to use a brassie out of an iron lie, for you may miss your next wood the same as your tee shot. Take two safe irons and get home in three.

Time and again I have seen players try to make up by taking a wooden club in the rough after a short missed drive. Two midirons will get you the same distance as a spoon and a mashie. This is especially a good hint in medal play, when one must look at trouble in the sense of "slow recuperation" rather than "quick surgical operation."

For example, you are in a trap and you think you must try to get some distance in order to get home in your next and you take the risky club. If you get out to good advantage, but if you are just normal or below normal, as we are most apt to be, you miss your shot, then take the club you should have taken in the beginning and just play safe.

You must recuperate slowly from trouble in medal rounds and play safe out of trouble. "Bravado" doesn't pay and you are not a "boob" just sensible.

If it it a match and your opponent is off to a good start, then, of course, you must "operate." Go for your shot, you lose anyway.

It is the same story whether your opponent beats you by one stroke or by ten on a hole in match play, but it is another story in medal play.

Another thing, don't hand yourself too much when it comes to the selection of the right club for a given distance. Study your own limitations. If you can't get to a one-shot hole with an iron use a spoon, even if your opponent elects to use a mashie, for the very simple and obvious reason, if you under-club yourself for "looks," you will press and the results will be more embarrassing than the chagrin of using a longer club than your opponent.

NEED FARMERS

PEKING, July 22. — China needs farmers. Hundreds of thousands of acres which ordinarily produce rice and millet are not even being plowed this year. With more than 2,000,000 men in the armies, and many others turned brigands because of the annual seizure of their crops, the prospect is serious.

ABBEY NEEDS MORE MONEY

Income of Famous Empire Shrine Not Sufficient For Upkeep.

ACCOMMODATION NEEDED.

LONDON, July 23.—(Canadian Press).—What does it cost to "run" Westminster Abbey, and where does the money come from? The Dean of Westminster, Very Rev. Foxley Norris, enlightened a million or so listeners on the radio on these points on Sunday night recently when he pleaded for financial support for the ordinary needs of the Abbey. A big appeal was successfully made a few years ago for restoring the fabric of the building, which was tottering gradually to decay. All the money which was then raised, however, is in trust for the purpose indicated. It is the ordinary day-to-day need for maintaining the Abbey which causes the Dean and Chapter disquietude.

In 1888 the revenues previously derived by the Abbey from its own estate were commuted by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for the payment of an annual sum of $100,000. This amount was barely sufficient in the year named for the payment of clerical stipends, the payment of the organist and choir, cleaners, vergers, and for the proper custody of the many priceless documents in the care of the Abbey. Moreover, Westminster Abbey has of late years entered into the common life of the people of Great Britain and of the Empire at large as never before in its history. It is estimated that 364,000 people, from all quarters of the earth, visited the Abbey in the course of a year.

When absolutely essential services have been provided for there is left only $40,000 a year for the upkeep of the choir (the men are all professional singers), the maintenance of the choir school, for payment of vergers and other minor servants, and for the keeping of records and other documents.

It is rather startling to learn from the Dean that the Abbey does not possess a vestry. It wants other extra accommodation badly, too, Dean Foxley says that owing to the scanty nature of their existing resources rich vestments belonging to the Abbey, some of which were used as long ago as at the Coronation of Charles the First, are falling into decay.

Irish Hearts

"IRISH HEARTS," with May McAvoy, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

CHAPTER ONE
The Locket

Killanmaul crowns the hills above the sea a good day's walk from Knockbotherum. Below, awash in the low tide, half a dozen fishing smacks ride perilously near to the black rocks of the shore line. The village looks to the west, and at sunset, when the sea becomes a meadow of golden red, the adventurous youth of Killanmaul dream dreams. In the heart of the sunset lies the rainbow gold of opportunity; beyond the horizon lies America. And since '48 the flower of Ireland's youth has sought and won laurels of prosperity and happiness in the land of Liberty.

The Irish Free State remains Erin, and the Irish still venture forth — carelessly, romantically, dreamily. Youth does not change with politics. Youth reads fairy tales in clouds and hears the call of other lands in the restless waves of the sea. Emmett Murtough was dissatisfied. He had outgrown Killanmaul, he believed. Little there was for him in this village in which his forefathers had lived and had died content with their lot, though the Lord knows there was never too much and not always plenty for their needs. This was not to be for Emmett Murtough. He would go to America, the land of plenty.

There were other reasons for Emmett's discontent. He had been the beau of Killanmaul. His blue black hair and his deep blue eyes, his sturdy figure and the songs he sang—they had proved irresistible to half a dozen colleens who had hoped for a wedding ring. From Killanmaul to Knockbotherum the farmers' daughters along the way had heard his voice in the night as he tramped his way homeward. Many the pretty miss there was who had passed the time of night with this gay young devil of Killanmaul. And some of them bowed their heads now when he passed with his eyes straight forward and his chin in the air. There was gossip. Indeed and indeed young Emmett had no right to play fast and loose with the girls of the county. The old women knew and the fathers of moonlight-mad daughters began to hear and to wonder at the downcast eyes of their Marys and Annies. At the village inn, kept by the talkative Widow O'Farrell, there were murmurings. Emmett liked it not. Marriage to any of them was not for him. To be tied down, indeed, with a bit o' land and a cow and a pig or two and the bother of "childer"—no; it was not for Emmett Murtough. Over there, across the horizon, were riches and glory.

"There was Sheila Kildare. What would he do about her?"

Of course, now, there was Sheila Kildare. What would he do about her? Sheila who laughed when he tried out his bag of tricks upon her and who looked up into his eyes with all the love of her young heart when he told of his dreams and wooed her as one who would give her the ring and the name. A brave little baggage was Sheila! As Emmett mused over his wooing of her he felt his cheek reminiscently. A strong girl with a temper! The sting of the blow she had implanted there that night when he had forgot himself—and Sheila—smarted now. How could such a girl be so old-fashioned, the Murtough wondered; wanting to stay in Killanmaul and fearing to go into the West; content upon the run down farm of the Kildares. A good piece of land it was and with right working could be made into a profitable holding. But farming was not for Emmett Murtough. Besides Old Tom Kildare did nothing any more. The weeds grew rank over his potato vines, and Sheila could not attend to it all. If the farm were in good shape even the Murtough would consider it, but it was not for him to slave and sweat in the field. Across the sea there was a man's chance, the road to riches. And Sheila—well, Sheila would forget.

Yet the Murtough did not want Sheila to forget. There was a dainty girl and a lively girl, a girl a man might be proud to dress in silks and satins when good fortune smiled. Pictures of American women in their fineries arose in Emmett's eye and he clothed Sheila in like apparel. He would send for her when he had won his place. Win his place he would; others who had gone before him had won riches; why shouldn't he? There was no doubt in the Murtough's dream.

Now Sheila loved Emmett Murtough, but she had no illusions as to his dreamy, romantic self. A practical girl she was with all her sweetness, and practical she had had to be, what with Old Tom to care for since her own dear mother had passed away. And him selling this and selling that until there was scarce a litter of pigs at pigging time and the potato vines empty at the roots and weeds a-running over all. All for what? A jug of the "crathure" to keep him in spirits! Old Tom mourned his wife; and well he might. It was she who had cared for the farm and who had brought forth from its soil the living for Tom and the little Sheila. Tom Kildare had a been a handsome man and easy with the blarney. He would have made a great politician, so the frequenters of Mrs. O'Farrell's Inn had said with wise nods over their glasses. Had he not denounced with sentences ringing of ancient days the cruelty of England? He had indeed. But never did he venture forth in a fishing smack and seldom was he seen with a hoe in his own fields. The fate of Ireland was nearest and dearest to Tom Kildare during his good years and now that the good years were on the wane it was too late. So Sheila carried the burden of the Kildare farm and cottage and all its content.

There are fairies in the deep woods of Killanmaul. Only the good at heart may see them but they are there dwelling at the roots of great trees and dancing upon lacy ferns in the silver moonlight. There is not a child born in the countryside but that the fairies foregather and upon the wee one confer the gifts of fortune. And, the more lowly the home the greater the gifts. It is the way of the fairies of Killanmaul. Now the fairies see far in the future; nor do they consider only the moment when the wee one first looks into its mother's eyes. The prosperous cottage of today may be the poverty hut of tomorrow and the fairies, wise in their goodness, bestow their gifts as the child shall need them. Well they knew Tom Kildare and his blarney and who can say that they did not know that the good mother of Sheila would pass away and that Sheila must have courage and bravery and goodness to contend with life. These gifts they bestowed upon her, the blue eyed baby who was now the active head of the Kildare home. Sheila dreamed of the fairies. But never had she known of their benefactions until that day of the Fair at Knockbotherum.

Not the oldest of the hundreds who attended the harvest fair at Knockbotherum knew of her origin, this wrinkled and wearened old woman who played upon the superstitions of her clients. The booth where she made her headquarters was one of constant awe for the boys and girls who would know their fate but who had not the pennies with which to question. Mother O'Reilly she called herself, but the country folk swore she was gypsy and they pointed credulous fingers at her shawl of many colors and the twisted red and yellow satin, weather stained and dirty, which crowned her grey head. Every year she came to Knockbotherum for the fair and many were the parents of grown children now who nodded at her as they passed the booth and recalled that day twenty years ago when she had foretold the love life that was to be theirs.

ALL COUNTRIES REPRESENTED IN TORONTO MEET

Educationalists' Gathering Will be Great Value to Dominion.

DELEGATES SEE CANADA

Six Thousand Will Attend Meetings Next Month—From Many Countries.

TORONTO, Ont., July 23.—(Canadian Press).—When the World Federation of Education Associations decided to hold its second biennial conference in Toronto from Aug. 7 to 12, it made a decision which will result in tremendous advantage to the Dominion. For 6,000 educationists from all over the world, people trained to teach others, will come, many of them for the first time, to see the Dominion for themselves. Not all of them will remain in Toronto. The British delegation, in particular, 350 strong, is coming two weeks ahead of the conference and will stay afterwards to see as much of Canada as possible. Before the conference they will make short excursions from Toronto; after the conference a large number of them will travel west to the coast, partly to see the country and partly to establish contact with the teachers in Western Canada and in British Columbia.

The British delegates are taking an exceedingly active interest in the conference generally. Premier Stanley Baldwin recently commended the conference to British educational associations, urging that they be largely represented and pointing out the benefits to be gained through such international gatherings. The chief delegates from Britain are F. W. Goldstone, Secretary of the National Union of Teachers, and E. J. Sainsbury.

One thousand official and 5,000 unofficial delegates will represent about 50 countries. Every European country with the exception of Russia will be represented; and delegations will come from China, Japan, India, South Africa, South America, Australia and New Zealand. Augustus O. Thomas, of Columbus, Ohio, is President, and large delegations will come from across the line.

While the majority of the European delegates will be able to carry on discussion in either English or French, it is expected that at least a score of languages will be employed during the conference, and a Toronto committee has been busy for some time arranging for interpreters.

The teachers of Canada in general, and the teachers of Toronto in particular, will be hosts to the visiting educationists. The committee under Dr. E. A. Hardy is busy arranging excursions and side trips; the outstanding excursion is to be a visit to Niagara Falls and a trip through the Southern Ontario fruit belt on Aug. 10 when the visitors will be guests of the Ontario Government.

BOYS ESCAPE AS GUARDS EAT

Two Youths Being Taken To Industrial Home Later Captured.

FEARED LASH.

BRANTFORD, Ont., July 23. — Canadian Press. — Leaving two of their three charges in an automobile in front of a restaurant on Dalhousie street, while they went inside for a meal, officials of the St. John's Industrial Home, Toronto, found, two of the lads, Peter Ivansky, 14 years, Polish, and another lad, the same age, named Nornard, a Canadian, had disappeared, when they finished the meal and went to the car in order to resume their journey to Toronto.

The journey was from Windsor, where the lads had been picked up, having been committed to the home, following misdemeanors in the border city.

The lads were individually handcuffed and made good their escape, said one of the lads when he was questioned by the Paris chief. One had previously been incarcerated three years and had received corporal punishment, while the other was looked upon as needing detention for his misdemeanors.

POLICE COMMISSION

also read, Mr. Hall concurring in Mr. Wearing's opinion.

Asking if any attempt had been made to ascertain the possibility of adequate service being given by the only other company operating a bus franchise in the city, Cooney & Jopling, His Honour, on being told that this company could not finance the operation of more than five busses, declared, "I think we should treat Cooney & Jopling fairly, and even liberally, but they cannot meet the requirements of the city. If there were any possibility of the local firm giving equal service, he thought Cooney & Jopling should be given the preference. "Every member of the Council is of the same opinion," replied the Mayor, "but they cannot give the service."

The Council wished, said the Mayor, to have things in shape to enable the company to spend $100,000 giving an excellent service without the investment of a dollar on the part of the city. It was desired to have everything in order for the handling of the crowds, such as were in the city on Exhibition Week. If the Border Transit Company did not get the exclusive franchise, they would wash their hands of the whole matter, and leave the city transportation problem as it was before. The City Council had approved of the by-laws.

Mr. Wearing said that he and Mr. Hall had tried to make the by-laws airtight to prevent future complications.

On the suggestion of Magistrate O. A. Langley, the Mayor pledged the Council to the undertaking of full responsibility.

The two by-laws were passed unanimously. The passing of the third by-law will later be asked of the Commission to limit the number of bus operating companies in the city to one, which will be granted the exclusive franchise.

BURGLAR BITES PLUCKY LADY

Mrs. Frederick Wilkins Tackles Intruder, Who Escapes.

TEN MINUTE TUSSLE.

TORONTO, July 23. — (Canadian Press).—When she discovered a burglar in her home here yesterday on her return from a shopping expedition, Mrs. Frederick Wilkins was attacked by the intruder, whom she endeavored to hold until the arrival of police.

After a ten-minute tussle with the man, during which Mrs. Wilkins suffered injuries to her body and a wound on the hip, where her assailant bit her, he escaped down the cellar stairs and out of the window.

The police investigated the affair, but could find no trace of the marauder, who is described as being of medium height and youthful in appearance.

GIVES WARNING ABOUT LOSSES

A. M. Robertson Had To Go To Court To Recover Money Advanced.

Having been stung himself, A. M. Robertson passes on the following quotation from the question and answer column of Saturday Night of July 16. Under the heading, "Putting up money for a job," the query of a correspondent is thus answered:

"You say that the Northern Pulpwood and Lumber Co. has offered you a position on the understanding that you put up money as a guarantee of good faith. They promised to start you at $40.00 a week, increasing until in two months you would be getting $70.00 a week. Their letter to you was signed by Mr. R. H. McKee. You are by no means the first or the last who has answered such an advertisement. A company called the Northern Pulpwood Lumber and Timber Co. Limited, Bank of Hamilton Bldg., Toronto, of which Mr. R. H. McKee was manager, did a lot of advertising in this way and asked applicants to put up varying sums as a guarantee of their integrity. I would advise you to have nothing to do with this company."

Mr. Robertson who advanced money to Mr. McKee in connection with an agreement whereby he was to be appointed assistant manager of a company, headed by Mr. McKee, secured a judgment against him last fall for $1,500 representing a capital sum and interest for six years.

BRITISH VISITORS SAYS NEWS LACKING

Ruthven Stewart, Here To Hunt, Sees Protection in Reform of Lords.

QUEBEC, Que., July 23. — Captain Ruthven Stuart, international big game hunter, and well known as a politician ,who has been staying at the Chateau Frontenac, has left for Vancouver en route to the Yukon Territory, where he will spend fifty days in hunting big game between the Yukon River and the south fork of the McMillan River.

Leaving Vancouver July 29th, he will be a passenger on the s.s. Princess Louise to Skagway ,and will proceed thence to Fort Selkirk. He is well known in Canada, having hunted in Northern Quebec and the Canadian Rockies, as well as in Newfoundland.

Captain Stuart, who is closely in touch with political conditions in Great Britain, was asked what he thought of the proposed reform of the house of Lords now being discussed before the British House of Parliament. He declared that the object of the Baldwin Government was to strengthen the House of Lords in view of the possibility of a radical Labour or even Communist Government coming into power in Britain. In the light of recent events he thought this a distinct possibility, and British statesmen with their usual farsightedness, were preparing quietly to provide protection for their country.

Captain Stuart also urged the great necessity for more European and British news in the Canadian newspapers, and deplored the lack of such news in the papers of the United States. This means united States apathy and indifference to European matters. He commented that "the result of this may one day have serious consequences."

WOMEN OF EMPIRE OPPOSE SEX FILMS

Cause Misrepresentation of the West Among Natives, Says League Conference.

LONDON, England, July 23 (Canadian Press) Indian women in bright-hued saris, women with tanned faces from the South African veldt and the country districts of Australia helped to make a picturesque assembly at the Royal Society of Arts, Adephi, where women from all parts of the Empire have attended the conferences of the British Commonwealth League.

The conference has been chiefly concerned with the social and industrial condition of women other than those of British race under the British flag, and problems of government relating to the franchise and women and nationality.

Resolution passed under the chairmanship of Mrs. Corbett Ashby, included a call to the Government of India and the Colonial Office to take action to prohibit the circulation within the Empire of dramatic cinematograph films unsuited to native races owing to their misinterpretation of Western conditions, which tend to give a false impression of sactioning lax standards of sex conduct.

The attention of the Government was specially drawn to the problems of women with regard to the care and protection of half-castes; the appointment of women as protectors of the native women; the sums of money set aside for health and welfare purposes, especially maternity welfare; the choice of competent women to act on commissions and committees dealing with local problems.

ZOO OWNER'S SON IS KILLED BY WOLF

Animal Drags Child From House in Spite of Maid Servant's Attack.

RED BANK, N.J., July 23.—Tommy Holton, 2½ years old, the son of Oliver W. Holton, owner of the Twin Brooks Zoo at Middletown, N.J., died yesterday afternoon at the Woodley Hospital from wounds sustained on Thursday when he was attacked by a huge timber wolf that had escaped from his father's zoo.

The brute sprang on the lad once, was driven off by a maid, and then got into the house, seized the child and dragged him out of doors again. The servant, Mrs. Alma Mazza, rescued the child a second time after she had stunned the wolf with a blow from a shotgun butt. The child's father found the animal in a dry pond near the house, and shot it.

Leopard Escaped.

Nearly a year ago an Indian leopard escaped from the Holton collection of wild animals, and after terrorising Gloucester and Ocean Counties, was caught in a trap in a chicken yard near Toms River and killed.

The Twin Brooks Zoo occupies nearly 200 acres of the heavily wooded 230-acre estate owned by the Holtons. The zoo itself is enclosed by a 9-foot barbed-wire fence with two gates, which are kept closed except when opened to let persons in and out.

Four Hundred Animals.

Within the enclosure are paddocks, runs, cages and buildings housing four hundred animals, birds and reptiles.

The Holton home, an imposing stucco structure, stands about 500 yards back from the State highway, between Red Bank and Middletown, concealed from the road by trees. It is outside the fence surrounding the zoo, and about a quarter of a mile by a wooded road to the west gate of the animal enclosure.

BAY RUPERT FAST IN ICE SAYS REPORT

Fur Trade Steamer Being Pounded Heavily and is Taking Water.

BUILT LAST YEAR.

Company's Montreal Office Has Received No Word as to Fate of Boat.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., July 23.— The steamship Bay Rupert, reported at noon yesterday as held fast in the rocks of Labrador Coast, southeast of Nain, was still in that position late in the afternoon according to a message received here early this evening. She was pounding heavily and taking much water fore and aft. She had jettisoned her cargo which was floating around.

The message which came from Smokey, Labrador, stated that the steamer Moveria, 360 miles to the south-east, speed 12 knots, was proceeding to the rescue of the Bay Rupert.

The position of the Bay Rupert was reported by Captain Snelli, of the Moveria, as 14 miles north of Cape Harrigan.

No Word Received.

MONTREAL, Que., July 23.— Although cable communications from St. John's, Nfld., state that the Hudson Bay Company S.S. Bay Rupert is fast on the rocks in latitude 55.9 north and longitude 59.9 west, which would place the steamer off Cape Harrigan and just north of Hopedale on the Labrador Coast, no definite word direct from the ship was received yesterday by the company's Montreal office, though it was admitted that information had come in from other sources. However, it was decided not to divulge any information until such time as there was some authentic news either from the Bay Rupert herself or from the S. S. Nascopie, which should be somewhere in the vicinity.

The cable dispatch from St. John's, Nfld., stated that the Marconi wireless station at Smokey, Labrador, received an "S.O.S." from the Bay Rupert stating that she was fast on the rocks in the above mentioned location.

Launched Last Year

The "Bay Rupert," which was only launched last year to replace the "Bay-Eskimo," lost in Ungava Bay during the previous season, was specially constructed for navigation through the heavy ice fields to be encountered on her voyage north to the Hudson Bay Company trading posts in Hudson Bay and along the southern shore of Baffin Land. She left Montreal on July 11 for the Labrador Coast, where she was to deliver supplies to Hudson Bay posts and to the old Mravian Mission posts, the trading rights of which were taken over this year by the Hudson Bay Company.

The "Bay Rupert" is in command of Captain T. F. Smellie, who has a high reputation as a competent navigator and mariner. He was to be assisted along the Labrador coast by Captain J. C. Jackson, who command to old Moravian Mission posts, ary schooner "Harmony" that traded along those shores out of London, England, for the last quarter century.

Collect Furs

The "Bay Rupert" was due to call first at Rigolet, on the Hamilton River, after leaving Montreal, and was then to continue northwards along the Labrador Coast to Hopedale, Main, Okkak, Hebron and Fort Burwell. She was then to sail for Stuparts Bay, Churchill and Charlton Island before returning to Port Burwell from whence she was to proceed direct to Ardrossan, Scotland, with the furs collected en route at the different trading posts.

In addition to her crew, the "Bay Rupert" took out some eleven apprentice clerks who came out from Scotland aboard her with the object of going to the Northern posts. The Rev. Father O'Brien and Dr. R. P. Stewart were other passengers.

Crew Taken Off

MONTREAL, July 23 (Canadian Press).—The crew of the S.S. "Bay Rupert," ashore on the Labrador Coast, has been taken off the steamer and is at Farr Yards Island, a small settlement in the vicinity, with the exception of Captain Smellie and nine of the crew who are standing by the steamer. The above information was contained in a message received at the Hudson's Bay office here today.

INDIGNANT WHEN BEES GET DRUNK

GALLIPOLIS, O., July 23.—A still, or stills, somewhere in the woods near his farm, has almost ruined the once fine apiary of William Harper.

His bees fly out every morning for their usual round of honey gathering and many of them return to the hive staggering drunk. Harper wouldn't mind an occasional spree on the part of the workers, but the stay-at-home bees won't stand for it. They set upon the inebriates and kill them.

With his hives fast being emptied, Harper has appealed to prohibition officers to seek out the still that he believes is furnishing the intoxicant. He says the bees probably feed upon mash left exposed by a moonshine plant.

EMIGRATION FIGURES SHOW BIG DECREASE

Ports of Entry to United States in Eastern Canada Show Falling Off.

MORE TOURISTS.

Over 600,000 More Canadians Pay Visit Across Border Than Formerly.

MONTREAL, July 23 (Canadian Press).—Emigration from Canada to the United States continues to decline. This is shown by the annual figures of U. S. Immigration District No. 1, headquarters at Montreal, which were announced yesterday by Commissioner Landis.

For the last few years the annual statistics have shown a decrease, being in contrast to conditions a number of years ago, when emigration attained heavy proportions. The figures announced by Commissioner Landis cover ports of entry from Eastport, Me., to Cape Vincent, N.Y.

"During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1927," stated Commissioner Landis, " a total of 45,831 aliens applied for permanent admission to the United States in this district, as compared with 49,861 during the previous year.

"Altogether, a total of 34,499 were admitted as compared with 42,722 the previous year.

"At the Atlantic seaports the decline was also experienced. A total of 6,845 applied for entry on arrival at the ports of Halifax, Quebec and St. John, and all but 18 were admitted. During the previous year a total of 7,738 applied for admission, and all but 25 were admitted.

More Tourists.

"Although the number admitted for permanent entry is again smaller, passenger travel over the border shows a heavy increase. In this district, approximately 650 miles of the 3,000 miles of international boundary between Canada and the United States, a total of 5,756,895 persons crossed into the United States. Of these 2,720,609 were U. S. citizens, the others being aliens.

"This is more than 600,000 increase over the previous year, when the total inward passenger movement was 5,118,000.

"Calais, Me., was the port with the greatest traffic, this port alone accounting for 2,374,000. It is the principal gateway between the Maritimes and New England. The dams being built across the mouth of the St. Croix river and some of the inlets from Passamaquoddy Bay, as part of the Passamaquoddy Bay tidal power development, are to carry on their crests a roadway 30 feet wide. It will be completed in 1929 and will afford a new gateway between Canada and the United States. Moreover, the route between Saint John and Boston will be shortened approximately 40 miles by this new gateway. Its effect upon the enormous travel through Calais remains to be seen."

THE MARKETS

Stocks Rally To-day After Weak Opening

NEW YORK, July 23 (Canadian Press). — After an hour of week-end profit-taking following the opening, in which several recently active issues sagged sharply, renewed strength came into the stock market to-day with motor issues in the lead. Easy money continued to supply the motive power for buying operations, which were largely of a professional character.

Chrysler, which has been active for several recent sessions, started the day with a sharp gain, and later continued upward until it reached 52½. Motors rallied from an early sinking a new high for the year. General spell during which it was depressed about a point, and moved up to 217¼, a new record peak.

New rail shares were dull and featureless, and oils were quiet, possibly in consequence of resistance in the Oklahoma area to latest efforts to curtail drilling. The substantial net loss in profits for the first half of the year reported by Maland was practically without effect on the market.

Public utilities were also inactive, despite further reports of steadily expanding earnings. The closing was firm. Total sales approximated only 700,000 shares.

Mine Market Firmer Though Trading Light

TORONTO, July 23 (Canadian Press).—A distinctly firmer undertone in light trading featured the market on the Standard Mining Exchange today. Amulet was again the favorite in the tranctions though its volume was moderate. It sold up 4 cents to 3.47. Goldale was active and firmed five cents to 33. McIntyre featured the dividend paying gold stocks with an advance of 15 cents to 26.00. Hollinger was up six to 18.30, and Teck Hughes one cent to 8.29. Area was a weak spot with a loss of three cents to 39, in fairly heavy trading. Nipissing gained two cents to 5.62, as did Pioneer to 72. Noranda dropped 23 cents to 92.00, while Towagmac declined five cents to 3.35.

Wheat Prices Go Up; Weather Bad in West

CHICAGO, July 23 (Canadian Press.—Wheat displayed an early upward trend today. Liverpool quotations were strong and high temperatures in the Pacific Northwest suggested a spread eastward that boded ill for the spring crop. Starting at ¼ cent to ¾ cent higher, Chicago wheat scored a slight further advance and then reacted somewhat. Corn, oats, and provisions were likewise firm, corn opening unchanged to ½c up and subsequently showing gains all around.

Opening prices were: Wheat, July 1.43¾, September 1.40¾. Corn, July 1.00, September 1.05½. Oats, July 44¾, September 43¾.

Toronto Market Quiet; Brazilian Is Strong

TORONTO, July 23 (Canadian Press). — Trading was exceptionally quiet and practically featureless during the abbreviated session of the market on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Brazilian was quiet and strong at 165⅞, a gain of ⅝. Cosmos Common firmed ¼ to 26½. The preferred declined ½ to 99½. City Dairy and Industrial Alcohol were steady and unchanged at 135 and 33 respectively. Consumers Gas gained one point to 181, while International Nickel held firm at 61¼. Massey Harris Common declined ½ to 37. Northern Bakeries weakened one point to 30½. British American Oil was in demand at 25. Amulet was again the market leader but under selling pressure it eased one point to 344.

SAYS BIG BONFIRE SET HOUSE ALIGHT

Barriefield Man Sues Kingston Jubilee Committee For Loss.

KINGSTON, July 23. — Edward Burnside of Barriefield, whose house was destroyed by fire on the night of July 1, has issued a writ through his solicitors against Robert J. Reid and James Halliday of this city, in which he claims damages amounting to $3,000 through the alleged negligence of the defendants.

The City Council general committee in charge of arrangements for the celebration of the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation, appointed a subcommittee in charge of fireworks and displays, Messrs. Reid and Halliday being members of this sub-committee.

The sub-committee had in charge the big beacon fire which was lighted on Barriefield Heights on the night that Mr. Burnside's residence was destroyed, and the claimant attributes his loss to the negligence of those in charge of this phase of the celebration.

Defendants deny negligence and claim that there is no proof that the bonfire caused the burning of Burnside's house.

DEATH.

PARRINGTON. — This (Saturday) morning, at the family residence, 499 Donegal Street, Vera Mabel, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Parrington, aged 9 months. Funeral will take place from the family residence at 2 p.m., Monday, July 25th, to the Little Lake Cemetery.

MONAGHAN COUNCIL ORDERS LEGAL ACTION AGAINST CITY; WON'T ALLOW CONNECTIONS

F. D. Kerr, K. C., Instructed To Take All Necessary Proceedings.

BECAUSE OF STENCH.

Township Won't Make Agreement For Sewer Service Lest Case Be Prejudiced.

Instructions to F. D. Kerr, K.C., to begin legal action against the City of Peterborough and a refusal to make agreements with the city for sewer connections for residents of suburbs were the principal decisions reached by the Township Council of North Monaghan at a special meeting held on Friday. The Township Solicitor, Mr. Kerr, is to taken steps to have the conditions existing at the sewage disposal plant remedied, and, to avoid prejudicing the Township's case the Council will not authorize any of its ratepayers connecting with the City's sewers or enter into any agreement with the city regarding sewer service.

Mr. Kerr, both now and in the past, has very strongly advised that the Township Council enter into no agreement with the City of Peterborough for residents of the Township to connect with city sewerage system, and thereby prejudice the rights of the municipality in an action against the City of Peterborough. It was moved by Mr. Hunter and seconded by Mr. Kent, that the petitions for sewer connections be received and that the question of sewer connections for the residents of North Monaghan be not dealt with at present.

Moved by Mr. Waterman and seconded by Mr. Dobbin, "That under the very unsanitary conditions in the Township of North Monaghan caused by the terrible stench from the sewerage disposal plant of the City of Peterborough, the Council of the Township of North Monaghan hereby refuses to consider the petitions before them for connections with city sewers. The Council hereby refused to be a party to any agreement with the City of Peterborough, and thereby prejudice the rights of the residents of the Township."

Moved by Mr. Hunter and seconded by Mr. Dobbin, that F. D. Kerr, K.C., be instructed to take legal proceedings against the City of Peterborough until a satisfactory decision is arrived at and the interests of the residents of the Township of North Monaghan are properly safeguarded. Mr. Hunter stated that the deputation present would like to know what the Council intended to do in regard to sewer connection. This consisted of Messrs. Earl Moncrief, Bert. Sanderson, and James Juby, who were present to ask for sewer connections on the Provincial Highway, and W. J. Byers, who presented a petition for the sewer and water main on Chamberlain Street West.

Roland Denne, president of the Peterborough Fair Board was present and requested the Township Council to lease to the Peterborough Fair Board a number of feet on the south side of Lansdowne Street to be enclosed by a wire fence and the present board fences to be removed.

BRITAIN DENIES NEW ALLIANCE WITH JAPANESE

Assertions of European Newspaper Regarding Conference Refuted.

MAY ISSUE STATEMENT.

Cabinet Discusses Publication of Review of Policy at Geneva Naval Parleys.

LONDON, July 25. — (United Press.)—Assertions in a continental newspaper that the visit to London of W. C. Bridgeman and Viscount Cecil, Great Britain's principal delegates to the Geneva Naval Disarmament Conference, was for the purpose of discussing with the cabinet a renewal of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, are emphatically denied in authoritative quarters here.

It is stated that no matter what happens in the present controversy over the limitation of naval armaments, the alliance is dead, because Britain could not, at the present time, afford to affront the United States, nor could she incur the hostility to Australia and Western Canada to such a revival.

The declarations of the aforementioned newspaper are evidence of the insidious propaganda being circulated against Britain at Geneva and in the United States, the object of which is to create a bad feeling between the two countries and to give a false idea of Britain's minimum naval demands.

May Publish Statement.

LONDON, July 25. — (Canadian Press Cable.)—It seems likely that in order to clear the air on the questions at issue at the Tripartite Naval Conference at Geneva, an official summary of Great Britain's policy in connection therewith will be issued by the government this week.

Premier Baldwin gave his colleagues of the cabinet his views thereon prior to his sailing for Canada on Saturday and after to-day's cabinet meeting Great Britain's position may be more clearly defined. Several members of the Government already have urged that a comprehensive statement of the British policy should be published.

Cabinet Meets.

LONDON, July 25. — (Canadian Press.) — A special conference of members of the Baldwin cabinet was held at Number 10 Downing street this morning to make a final review of the progress at the Geneva Tripartite naval conference.

FARMERS GET BIG PAYMENT

Prairie Wheat Pools Will Return to Members $27,000,000 This Week.

NEW GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG, Man. July 25 (Canadian Press)—The farmers of Western Canada who are members of the Prairie Wheat Pools will receive a total of $27,000,000 during the present week

E B Ramsay, secretary of the central selling agency of the Western Pools, today announced an interim payment on wheat, amounting to 20 cents a bushel on durum, 15 cents per bushel on the higher grades, and 10 cents per bushel on some of the lower grades

Of the total, Saskatchewan farmers will receive $17,825,000; Alberta $6,500,000, and Manitoba $2,696,700

No payment is being made at this time on coarse grains, but a final payment will be announced soon, Mr Ramsey said

Mr Ramsey also announced the following as the initial prices for deliveries on the new crop (1927) on basis Fort William: Numbers 1 durum and Northern wheat, $100 per bushel; No 2 Canadian Western oats, 34 cents per bushel; No 3 Canadian Western barley, 50 cents per bushel; No. 1 Northwestern flax, $1.50 per bushel; No. 2 Canadian Western rye, 70 cents per bushel.

NEW YORK, July 25. Canadian Press. — A Chinese clerk, who ran amuck in a grocery store in Pell street, in the heart of Manhattan's Chinatown, cut off one of the ears of a Chinese customer, and hacked two others last night, before he was shot and killed by a policeman.

CHAMBERLAIN WILL EXPLAIN NAVAL POLICY

Secretary of Foreign Affairs Will Probably Make Statement to Commons.

ABOUT BRITISH PLAN

Many Misconceptions in Foreign Press About English Attitude Towards Conference.

LONDON, July 25. — (Canadian Press). — Sir Austen Chamberlain, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, will preside at the Cabinet Council this morning for further consideration of the naval question. The Secretary may make a statement in the House of Commons this evening on the Government's policy at Geneva, but this will be decided at the Cabinet meeting this morning.

Should the Cabinet decide to favor the pronouncement of a policy and a debate on the subject in the House, it will give W. O. Bridgeman and Lord Cecil, the chief British delegates to the tri-partite conference, who will probably return to Geneva to-morrow, at least the backing of the opinion of Parliament.

Explain Attitude.

A subject of anxiety to the Ministers is what they regard as the misconception voiced in both the United States and Japanese press about the British policy, and it is supposed that Sir Austen's statement, if he makes one, will be largely devoted to trying to remove these misconceptions.

The Geneva difficulty is still the theme of many speeches and newspaper articles, and Wingston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, speaking at Bicton Park, Devonshire, said that no effort should be spared to bring the conference to a successful conclusion. He added that however much an agreement was desirable, an agreement to spend gigantic sums on naval construction for many years to come might be worse for all concerned than moderate expenditure following upon freedom from any agreement.

Conference Successful.

Mr. Churchill expressed the belief that he would not be required to provide for an additional £40,000,000 for naval expenditures and that the conference would be successful.

J. L. Garvin, editor of the Sunday Observer, has a long article in that paper to-day devoted to the Geneva problems. He strongly advocates the suggestion recently made by the U. S. Ambassador, Alanson B. Houghton, to Harvard University: "A people's pact for a hundred years."

Mr. Garvin declares that this suggestion is as practical as it is reflective, and that Great Britain is ready.

Visit King George.

LONDON, July 25. — (Canadian Press).—W. C. Bridgeman, First Lord of the Admiralty, and chief British delegate to the tri-partite naval conference at Geneva, had an audience with the King last evening. Mr. Bridgeman and Lord Cecil came to London from Geneva several days ago, and have been going over the situation with the Cabinet. He informed the King of the progress of the events at Geneva and went into details on the naval problem.

FERDINAND IS LAID TO REST AMONG ASHES OF PREDECESSORS IN QUAINT MEDIEVAL MONASTERY

Thousands of Peasants Walk Barefooted For Miles to Catch Glimpse of Beloved Sovereign.

FLOWERS FROM CAROL.

Queen Marie Sustains Herself By Her Extraordinary Courage and Fortitude.

CURTEA DE ARGES, Roumania, July 25 (Associated Press). — Roumania bade a sorrowful and affectionate farewell to its beloved King yesterday. With a simplicity and lack of ostentation, in consonance with his life, Ferdinand, whom the Roumanian peasantry prefer to call their "father," was laid at rest among the ashes of his royal predecessors in a soldier's oaken coffin in the quaint medieval monastery of Curtea de Arges, which was Roumania's first capital.

The fiercely hot afternoon sun was sinking behind the green malachian hills as the widowed and grief-stricken Queen Marie took leave for the last time of the king who had shared the throne with her for thirteen trying years. The Queen's final act was to place over the grave a wreath of fleur-de-lys which she had picked herself, and a large pillow of white roses from former Crown Prince Carol, now at Neuilly.

As the royal mourners were leaving the church, little King Michael, looking anxiously into his mother's eyes, said plaintively: "Are they going to leave grandpa here alone? Can't I stay with him?"

Several times during the interment ceremonies Queen Marie seemed near collapse, but her extraordinary courage and fortitude sustained her. The smiling youthful features so many knew when the Queen visited Canada and the United States last year were now replaced by a face deeply drawn and marked by inexpressible anguish and grief.

Another sad figure was the young Queen Marie of Jugo-Slavia, Ferdinand's favourite daughter.

Foreign Correspondents Present.

In the funeral cortege from Bucharest was a train of ten coaches on which foreign correspondents were passengers. Devout peasants lining the route for the 150 miles had set up burning torches containing holy oil, the symbol of eternal life.

Eager to catch a final glimpse of their beloved sovereign, thousands of other peasants walked bare-footed for scores of miles in the torrid heat from the provincial districts to Curtea de Arges. One 75-year-old bemedalled veteran, who fought in King Carol's army in 1877, begged the newspaper correspondents to allow him to board the train, so that he could join in the final tribute to the King. They gratified his wish.

Iron Crown.

The Iron Crown, which both Ferdinand and his predecessor wore, and which was made from the metal of a cannon captured by the Roumanians from the Turks at Plevna in 1878, was also aboard the correspondent's train. Guarding it were General Presan and General Marderescu, Generalissimo of the Roumanian Army.

Beside Founder of Rumania.

King Ferdinand, founder of new Rumania, was laid at rest yesterday, alongside his great uncle, King Carol, the first builder of old Rumania, while the nation poured out its sorrow, love and devotion.

After an impressively solemn and moving orthodox religious service over the body of the dead monarch in the Royal Chapel adjoining Cotroceni Palace on the outskirts of Bucharest, the body was borne by a special train over the 150 mile route to this little medieval town, where the bodies of Rumania's ancient sovereigns are interred.

Thousands Present.

The decision of the government to bury King Ferdinand on Sunday enabled hundreds of thousands of peasants and toilers to forsake their wonted tasks and witness the funeral. As the cortege passed through the picturesque countryside, peasants dressed in pure white pajama-like garb and bare feet, prostrated themselves on the ground and repeatedly made the sign of the cross, while others emptied flasks of holy water on the funeral train. Everywhere there were emblems of mourning.

Only once before had Rumania witnessed such a magnificently solemn event—that was when King Ferdinand and Queen Marie were crowned at Alba Julia five years ago. The state, the church, the army and the people combined to give King Ferdinand a fitting funeral, not only because they felt he was a great and wise monarch, but also because he was a good, kind, honest man.

Touching tributes to his unselfish, modest and self-effacing character were expressed everywhere.

Saint upon Earth.

"He was a saint upon earth," said Queen Marie to the correspondent of the Associated Press, who had known both sovereigns for fifteen years.

"I would gladly have given my own life if he could have been spared, for after all the country needs a King more than a Queen. But it is a great satisfaction to know that he died only after all the useful ends of his life had been fulfilled, and he achieved the great goal of his life—the unification and pacification of Rumanians under one flag."

Asked if the state or family intended to erect a monument to King Ferdinand, Queen Marie replied: "His greatest monument is greater Rumania and the affection of his people. They will endure when even marble memorials crumble."

Sobbed Aloud.

Throughout the burial service Queen Marie struggled valiantly to keep her composure, but the strain obviously was too great for her. She frequently buried her face in her hands and sobbed aloud. During the actual interment she kept her eyes riveted upon the coffin as if her very heart was going into the grave with her dead consort. Princess Ileania and Prince Nicolas, who accompanied Queen Marie on her tour of the United States, were completely overcome, their bodies shaking convulsively with grief.

Little King Michael stood beside his mother and watched the ceremony at the grave with dazed and confused eyes. His tender years made it impossible for him to realize the solemnity and importance of the events which he was witnessing.

"The poor little chap does not know what it is all about," said Queen Marie to the correspondent. "He knows only that he has lost the dearest relative, who loved him with the same devotion as if he were his own child. It was the King's habit to give his grandson a little present every day, but now that has ceased forever."

Services Majestic.

The church services at Cotroceni Palace were majestic in their simplicity and beauty. A solemn requiem Mass was celebrated by the patriarch of the Rumanian orthodox church, assisted by a score of other prelates. The famous Gregorian

Queen Marie Recoils On Seeing Own Grave

BUCHAREST, Rumania, July 25 (Canadian Press).—One of the most dramatic moments at the funeral of King Ferdinand at Curteu De Arges yesterday took place when Queen Marie, following the coffin into the little church, caught sight of her own prepared grave immediately next to that of her late husband. She first gazed tremblingly into the deep pit dug in the floor of the church for Ferdinand's body and then with a noticeable shudder of recoil glanced at her own tomb, which church and state authorities prepared long ago to receive her as consort of the King.

BULLETS FOUND WITH GARBAGE

Careless Disposal of Live Cartridges Endangers Safety of Incinerator Men.

INSPECTOR'S WARNING

Accustomed as they are to seeing many queer things in the garbage which they are continually unloading, the men at the local incinerator experienced a decided shock the other day when they discovered a number of live explosives among the refuse they were about to deposit in the destructor. Closer examiantion revealed four No. 10 gauge cartridges, four No. 12 gauge cartridges, one British .303 rifle bullet, one German rifle bullet and a .45 revolver bullet.

Orders have been issued by Sanitary Inspector C. S. Stapleton to the garbage men instructing them to keep a sharp lookout for evidence of similar careless disposal of explosives. Mr. Stapleton declares that the garbage of anyone guilty of like disregard of the safety of others will be left untouched by the men, until the wisdom of such caution is brought home to them.

According to Mr. Stapleton such undesirable finds have been made several times since the war. On one occasion a cartridge exploded just as one of the men in charge opened the door of the furnace. The bullet narrowly missed the man and buried itself in the woodwork of the building. In many cases oil or gasoline soaked rags and cloths are thrown in the garbage causing a sudden flame which endangers the lives of the men.

Rain Provides Jobs For Farm Laborers

Many orders for farm help are still unfilled in the local Employment Bureau. The demand for men, always large at this time of the year, is intensified by the delays in getting in the hay through the heavy rains experienced all over the district during the past week.

Several vacancies are reported for carpenters, especially for the construction of private dwellings.

Very little labor turnover is reported from the local factories. Forty-six new applications for employment were received by the office during the week. Jobs were found for thirty-seven applicants.

MANY KIDDIES DAILY ATTEND PLAYGROUNDS

Facilities Provided By Board of Education Are Much Enjoyed.

MANY ACTIVITIES.

League Softball Games and Swimming Lessons Attract Many.

With school playground activities now in full swing, the children of the city in increasing numbers are taking full advantage of the facilities provided by the Board of Education for their enjoyment. Even the heavy rains of last week failed to deter a small number from repairing to their haunts of happiness. Outdoor amusements in wet weather are out of the question, and quiet indoor games and pastimes were provided in lieu of the livelier sports in the open.

At the Queen Alexandra playgrounds the average number of children who play under the watchful eyes of Miss Batten and Ralph Knox, is around 180, including morning and afternoon figures. At King Edward, where Miss McDonald and Ken Goheen are in charge, the numbers average 240 each day, and at Central grounds, where Attendance Officer James Abraham and Miss Rowe exercise personal supervision, the morning and afternoon figures total about 240. Mr. Abraham is general supervisor of the entire summer arrangements.

Needless to say, the "curriculum" which includes softball, merry-go-rounds, swings, sand pits, basketball and volley ball, is very popular among the rising generation.

Swimming Taught.

Twice a week swimming lessons are given by the supervisors. Forty pupils at Queen Alexandra and thirty-two at King Edward are taking advantage of the feature of the programme. In the swimming class at Inverlea Park there are fifty learners. A course in swimming was given more than eighty children from the playgrounds by Miss C. Littlefield of the Y.W.C.A. The pupils were selected by the supervisors for the class, which was sponsored by the Kiwanis Club. The final of the six lessons of the course was given last week by Miss Littlefield, and very gratifying results were returned. Fully 70 per cent. of the children, none of whom could swim before the lessons, were able to cross the tank unaided. The playgrounds are closed on Saturday afternoons.

On the 20th and 21st of the month 205 of the children were given free admission to the Chautauqua entertainments.

Softball Played.

Following the precedent of previous years, the softball competitions have been regularly organized and three league games have been played up to date. On July 19 Central beat Queen Alexandra 10-9; on the 21st Central routed Queen Alexandra 19-5; in the girls' match between King Edward and Central, the former triumphed by 15-5.

Some picnics will be arranged during the season, which will wind up with a grand field days.

WOMAN HURT CROSSING ROAD

Mrs. Haverly Steps in Front of Car on Charlotte Street.

BADLY INJURED.

While attempting to cross Charlotte Street on Saturday afternoon between two cars parked in front of Atkins' second-hand store, Mrs. Haverley, aged sixty-five years, and almost totally deaf, of Cavan, walked across in front of a car driven by James Dutton, Jr., and was badly injured about the head and body.

Mrs. Haverley apparently did not see the car or hear it coming and as she stepped out between the cars hiding her sight in each direction, she stepped directly in the path of the automoile which was coming east.

Her collar-bone was broken, one arm had a deep cut above the elbow, and her head suffered a slight skull wound, caused by the impact. Dr. Amys attended the injured woman at the scene of the accident, and then had her rushed to Nicholls Hospital.

Reports from the hospital this afternoon show that the injured woman is resting as easily as can be expected.

Graves of Fallen Are Decorated By Canadian Legion

Tribute Is Paid To Those Who Passed to the Great Beyond While Fighting For Right and Now Lie in St. Peter's Cemetery.

WREATH IS LAID TO THE MEMORY OF CAPT. E. T. BROWN ON MONUMENTAL FOUNTAIN IN CONFEDERATION SQUARE

Returned Men Marched in Solemn Parade, Led By Three Local Bands—His Lordship Bishop O'Brien Delivers Address.

Despite threatening clouds, a large number of citizens gathered at St. Peter's Cemetery yesterday afternoon to join in the solemn decoration services in honour of many brave young men of this city who left here in 1914 to fight for the defence of their country and homes—losing their own lives in thus doing.

Previous to the parade to the cemetery, a wreath was placed on the monument fountain in Confederation Square from the local branch of the Canadian Legion to the memory of Captain E. T. Brown, who fell in action at Batoche. Captain James Abraham, acting in the absence of Colonel C. Ackerman, was in charge of the parade and the decoration service. Over sixty returned men marched in the parade, led by three local bands: The Machine Gun Pipe Band, the 57th Regimental Band, and the Salvation Army senior Band.

A representation of the City Council, His Worship Mayor Holloway, Aldermen Greene, Fife, and Phelan, members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Peterborough, and E. A. Peck, M.P., were also in the parade.

On their arrival at the cemetery, the impressive hymn, "Nearer, My God, to Thee," that seemed to reach to the very souls of all present as they stood with bowed heads in the driveway, was played by the massed bands under the leadership of F. W. Robinson, of the Salvation Army.

Captain Abraham, in a short address, stated that they were gathered together for another year since the Great War to honour their comrades who so bravely paid the supreme sacrifice for love of their country and dear ones at home. Each year our numbers diminish, and roll-call is increased, and so our comrades are not lost, but have gone before. He then called on Mayor Holloway for a few remarks in honour of the 'boys who had not returned.'

"I wish to thank the Canadian Legion," remarked the Mayor, "for their kind invitation extended to me to give an address this afternoon. We are all gathered here thinking of some relative or friend that so nobly died in the recent terrible strife to gain freedom. I can assure you that my deepest sympathy is extended to the widows and children of this city. Only through the bravery of the dead and the living veterans do we now possess a free country, and it is a sense of both duty and pleasure to honour them on such a day as this. Thus it is my wish that the day will never come, when the present and future citizens of Peterborough will fail to do homage to those who so nobly died that we might live."

Bishop O'Brien.

His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, in a few remarks, stated that it was a wonderful thing that the citizens of this city should have the opportunity to gather in a body like that of yesterday to honour the city's heroes who had died—and associate with the living. "Even though the latter came back," remarked the Bishop, "they also went through as great a danger as those who now lie at rest in our own cemetery or in Flanders' Fields; thus should we pay homage both to the living and the dead for the days to come. We must honour our citizens who united and aided us; those who paid the supreme sacrifice for our liberties.

"Canada has always had wonderful response from her men from the very beginning of any uprising that took place ;as far back as the Fenian Raids, or the uprising of 1900, and then finally the terrible Great War. They are always ready to take up arms when the very thoughts of danger arise. Thus should we follow their example and so have a greater

FIRE DESTROYS FOUR TAXI-CARS OF H. DUNSFORD

Early Sunday Morning Blaze Completely Guts Brock Street Garage.

TOTAL WRECK.

Short Circuit Is Supposed to Have Been Cause of Fire.

What might have resulted in a big conflagration occurred yesterday morning at six o'clock when a garage and four sedan cars belonging to Harold Dunsford of the Dunsford Auto Livery, were completely burned by the devouring flames. Had it not been for the promptness of the Fire Brigade the fire would have reached the Brock street rink and adjoining terraces.

As far as can be ascertained the blaze started from a short circuit in one of the cars. Mr. Dunsford stated yesterday that he had gone to the four o'clock C.P.R. train and that on his return to the garage he had not noticed anything wrong. At 6.00 a. m. he heard a neighbor rapping loudly on the door and shouting that his garage in the rear was in flames. Two alarms were then sent in to the fire hall, one coming from the box on the corner of George and Brock street, while one person turned in a 'phone alarm.

On arriving at the scene of the fire, Assistant Chief George Smith turned in a general alarm, calling out both shifts of the brigade. Three lines of hose were then laid, in an effort to check the fire from reaching the adjoining terrace. The firemen fought their way through the intense heat and smoke and after much difficulty managed to get two of the cars into the yard, but these were on fire in so many places that it was useless to try and save them.

Explosions fom the tanks in the rear of the cars also made it impossible for the firemen to get near them. After a great effort, the fire was finally brought under control so that there was no danger of the flames reaching any of the buildings so close to the garage. The heat was so great that even the aluminum bodies of the sedans were melted. Three of the sedans were of the Hudson type, and one of these, a new 1927 model, purchased by Mr. Dunsford just a few months ago. The other car was an Essex sedan.

Nothing remains of the automobiles but charred bodies and wet, dirty matting that was only Saturday beautiful upholstering.

Two of the cars were in the yard at the time of the conflagration, but the flames, fanned by a slight wind, reached these, and in a short itme, there was nothing left of these but twisted metal that had once been a part of the engine or the steering gear. The tires on all the cars were burnt through to the twisted fibre that is put on as a sort of inside protector to the tire.

The total loss will amount to about eight thousand dollars, which is partly covered by insurance.

COMRADES KILL OFFICER'S SLAYER

Forced to March Behind Policeman's Coffin and is Then Riddled With Bullets.

VERA CRUZ, July 25.—(Canadian Press.)—Luis Estrads, who killed a policeman on Thursday, while resisting arrest, yesterday was riddled with bullets fired by the dead officer's comrades, as he stood at the side of the grave where his victim was being buried.

He had been forced to march behind the policeman's coffin to the cemetery and was buried immediately after being shot down.

The shooting of Estrads, who originally had been wanted for a minor offence, has caused a sensation in Vera Cruz, and the authorities have started an investigation.

BIG WEDDING IS ON TUESDAY

Arrangements Are Completed for the Stillman-Wilson Ceremony at La Tuque.

NECKLACE LOST

LA TUQUE, Quebec, July 25 (Canadian Press).—The final touches are being added to the arrangements for the wedding at Grande Anse tomorrow of "Bud" Stillman, Princeton student, and son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Stillman of New York, and Miss Lena Wilson, a union that will culminate a romance that was begun when the Stillmans spent their summers at Grane Anse and Lena was an attache of the summer home. The ceremony will be solemnized by the Abbe Lamy, cure of Grandes Piles. Miss Wilson is still at La Tuque, and reports published in New York papers to the effect that "Bud" had carried out a gay "lochnivar" adventure and had "kidnapped" his fiances on account of domestic disputes were received by the Wilsons with considerable amusement. Lena's movements have been perfectly free, and Saturday night she engaged in a shopping tour at La Tuque. Incidentally she lost a valuable necklace on the street and this has not yet been found.

MAN JUMPS OVERBOARD

BODY RECOVERED

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., July 25.—(Canadian Press).—Identity of a man who was drowned on Saturday when he leaped into Lake Ontario from the passenger steamer Chippewa, plying between Toronto and Lewiston, was unobtainable here yesterday. C. W. Fieldus, an official of the steamship line, stationed at Lewiston, said the body was recovered before it sank and was taken to Toronto, where it was turned over to a coroner.

According to Mr. Fieldus, the man leaped from the boat as it was about to enter the Niagara River. A lifeboat was lowered within a minute and a half and the body recovered. The purser on the Chippewa, who is a physician, worked over the man but could not resuscitate him, Mr. Fieldus said.

Passengers who witnessed the death leap told of it upon their arrival in this city. They said he was smoking a cigarette as he plunged over the side of the craft and shouted, "To hell with everything," as he fell into the water. A life preserver was thrown to him but he refused to grasp it.

WILL INSPECT PORT NELSON

Hon. C. A. Dunning to View Proposed Hudson Bay Railway Route.

CANOE JOURNEY

OTTAWA, Ont., July 25 (Canadian Press). — Next Wednesday the official party including the Minister and Deputy Minister of the Department of Railways and Canals, will start a trip which will take them to Port Nelson and Fort Churchill on the Hudson Bay, thus carrying out the intention of the Minister, Hon. C. A. Dunning, to personally view conditions as they exist at these ports, one of which will be the terminus of the Hudson Bay Railway.

The official party will consist of eleven persons. The start will be made from Ottawa on Wednesday night, the party arriving in Winnipeg on Friday morning, and leaving immediately for the end of steel on the Hudson Bay Railway at Kettle Rapids. NO POLAS IN ENGLAND.

Chicago Judge Is Given Ticket

CHICAGO, July 25 (Associated Press).) — Judge A. W. Summers, of El Dorado, Ill., sitting as a vacation Judge in Chicago Traffic Court, who announced last week that he intended to fine pedestrians who walked across the streets against the traffic lights and enforce other traffic regulations, to-day faced a charge of speeding.

Judge Summers was returning from a golf links with Judge C. H. Douglas, of Mattoon, Ill., as a guest, when a stern-faced policeman stopped them.

"Where's the fire?" demanded the policeman.

"But, officer—" countered the Judge.

"No 'buts,'" said the policeman, 'tell it to Judge Summers."

'But I am Judge Summers," countered His Honour, 'and here's another Judge to prove it."

"Well, that's a good one," retorted the policeman, "here's your ticket."

Judge Summers said he thinks he will plead guilty.

LIBEL SUIT IS SETTLED

Ford Agreed to Co-operate With Bernstein in Destroying Editions of Book Printer.

"THE INTERNATIONAL JEW"

NEW YORK, July 25 (Canadian Press). — Settlement of the $200,000 libel suit brought by Herman Bernstein, writer and editor, against Henry Ford, based on anti-Jewish articles in the Dearborn Independent was announced yesterday by Samuel Untermeyer, Bernstein's attorney. The settlement followed a letter of retraction made public by Untermeyer.

As part of the consideration for the withdrawal of the suit, Untermeyer said, Ford had agreed to co-operate with Bernstein in an effort to obtain and destroy editions of "The International Jew," a book composed of matter taken from articles in the Dearorn Independent, which has been translated into several foreign languages.

In his letter of retraction, Ford wrote to Bernstein:

"You are, of course, familiar with the context of the public retraction and apology for the articles appearing in the Dearborn Independent that I have made and spread broadcast. I sincerely regret any harm that may have been occasioned to the people of that great race and am anxious to make whatever amends are possible.

"I take this occasion to retract and apologize for those parts of the articles that appeared in the Dearborn Independent concerning you and for the alleged interview with me assailing you that was published in that paper.

"It was not intended in that article to imply that any of the matters concerning the Jews appearing in the Dearborn Indeepndent were based upon information furnished by you. You have at no time said anything to me that would justify such an inference."

Business Women Hit Bachelors As Selfish Ascribe Conditions to Want of Romance

OAKLAND, Calif., July 25 (A.P.). — Whether selfishness, the want of romance or a high income tax is responsible for bachelorhood, was a question that divided the opinion of delegates attending the national convention of the Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs here reently.

The question was brought up through introduction of a resolution asking for increased exemption on income tax for unmarried persons.

Miss Martha Connole, St. Louis lawyer, who presented the resolution, said the change she proposed would help the single woman to support a family.

"Seventy-five per cent of unmarried business women are supporting one or more parents or less fortunate members of their families," Miss Connole declared "I have discovered that single men have a tendency to clear out and let a sister or several sisters meet most of the responsibilities of the home

"Bachlors are selfish or they wouldn't be bachelors They're afraid of assuming the obligations, financial and spiritual, of marriage. Women have a deeper sense of moral responsibility than men.

"There are two kinds of marriages nowadays—the kind that is really only a legal partnership, without children, and the kind in which both parents share equal responsibility in rearing children."

Miss Mary Zapp said she disagreed with Miss Connole;

"Bachelorhood is growing among both men and women," she said, "because the modern girl seldom finds a man who meets with her approval as a companion and who still earns as much as she does. Our own financial independence is to blame."

Another delegate declared that bachelors of both sexes are bachelors by accident.

"All men and women would marry if they could," she said. "It is all a question of romance, which some never find and others do."

CAMPBELLFORD, July 23. — Hundreds of kiddies wished for the rain to stop yesterday, but were bitterly disappointed. However, they still have their picnic to look forward to.

Rain could not hold back the Hydro employees from their annual picnic at Presqu'ile yesterday. Early in the morning in a downpour of rain many took their departure from town. At noon word was passed around that it was not raining at the picnic ground, and that was the signal for others to leave, but only to find, on arriving there, that the folk were not singing "It Ain't Goin' to Rain No More."

In spite of the rain which continued throughout the day, a good time is reported. The races and other sports were pulled off in the pavilion, which, when not so occupied, was the scene of some pretty dances.

The snap-shooting, of course, was done outdoors, and Campbellford captured the cup in this event. Though drenched, the crew from town thought that the cup was worth it.

ENGLISH GENERAL DIES IN ENGLAND

Commander of British Troops During Indian Massacre in 1919 is Dead.

LONDON, July 25 (Canadian Press).Brigadier-General Reginald E. H. Dyer, former commander of the British troops in India, died on Saturday night at Long Ashton, near Bristol. Brigadier-General Dyer was the subject of an investigation in connection with the alleged massacre of many civilians at Amritsar, British India, in the Spring of 1919, in the course of his ruthless suppression of the Punjab rebellion.

This caused a tremendous outcry in England and a heated controversy. Dyer was charged with having ordered the troops to fire on thousands of civilians, several hundred of whom were killed.

Eventually an army council, having considered the report of a special investigating committee, and a statement by General Dyer, upheld the Commander-in-Chief of India for removing Dyer as commander in Punjab and barring him from holding further army positions in India.

Are mine alone!

A CAT-AND-MOUSE SYSTEM.

The point involved in the complaints against the arrest on old charges of men just released from the penitentiary is that these men should have been tried for these offences at the time they were convicted.

When an offender against the law has served a sentence for one crime and is given his liberty, only to find an officer waiting for him outside the penitentiary gate with a warrant for his arrest for something done before he fell into the hands of the authorities, there is too much of a cat-and-mouse appearance to the affair to suit those who appreciate the spirit of British justice.

All the charges should be heard before a prisoner is committed to jail on any particular one of them, for a convict should surely have the right to feel that when his sentence is served he has made expiration for his misdeed and is in a position to start life afresh.

The present system is certain to set up in the hearts of men who are victims to it a bitter contempt for the law and a determination to make society suffer for what has every appearance of being persecution.

A LOST OPPORTUNITY.

Municipalities, like individuals, are inclined sometimes to follow a "penny wise pound foolish" policies that show lack of foresight.

The demolition of the buildings on the northern part of James Stevenson Park and their sale for the proverbial song illustrates what we mean.

One of these residences in a good state of preservation, might have been saved for use as a club-house, affording dressing-room accommodation, shower baths, etc., for athletic clubs using James Stevenson Park.

So long as that park is used for athletic purposes, and doubtless no matter what scheme of improvement may be decided upon there will be facilities for sport there, adequate dressing quarters would be of the greatest benefit.

In Toronto's athletic grounds, maintained by the city and used without charge by sporting organizations, there is splendid accommodation in this respect.

Here a building that could at slight expense have been converted into a thoroughly adequate club-house, has been handed over to the wreckers for a few dollars.

FOOD FOR THE FUTURE STUDENT.

The student of the future, reading the history of this particular period, will doubtless have much over which to ponder.

He may perhaps be amazed to find that for a few minutes of hammering each other in the prize ring two burly boxers were each paid over two hundred thousand dollars.

Two lumberjacks would punish each other more severely in an argument over little or nothing and with no prize money in sight; here in Ontario the other night a farmer and a bandit who invaded his house met in a combat that for grim determination and deadly intent made the Dempsey-Sharkey fight appear as harmless as a Sunday School debate.

The student of tomorrow will puzzle over these things, particularly when he remembers that for a dollar a day, and much less than that in many cases, men fought with every deadly weapon that science could devise, facing death at every minute in the world's greatest war.

One dollar a day for the soldier, $25,000 for the gallant youth who alone in the "Spirit of St. Louis" triumphed in a dash over the Atlantic Ocean, but nearly half a million dollars for a few minutes' boxing!

THE PARKING PROBLEM.

The angle system, as a solution of the parking problem, does not seem to be scoring an outstanding success.

Already the plan is coming under heavy fire.

Complaints against it are to the effect that it narrows the street, tends to encourage parking for hours, thus interfering with business, shuts off gas tanks and makes getting out from the curb a difficult operation.

There is undoubtedly some weight in each of these charges, particularly in the complaint that merchants find their stores cut off by parked cars.

The time is not far off when the Council will have to consider the advisability of prohibiting parking in the business section altogether.

At present there is considerable latitude being given, and it is being abused to an extent that constitutes a nuisance.

Business and professional men are among the worst offenders in this respect, where they might reasonably be expected to set a good example to other drivers.

The result is needless congestion in the business section, stores cut off from motoring customers, and general confusion that could be avoided if a time limit in regard to parking were strictly enforced.

There would be no particular hardship and much benefit in regulations that completely prevented parking in the business section.

BUY CANADIAN GOODS.

Incomplete trade returns for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1926, indicate that a larger proportion of the increased imports came in by way of Canadian ports. The steady insistence on the point by so many interested, for reasons varied in motive, coupled with the enterprise of steamship companies and further improvement of ports of entry and harbor advantages, has not been without effect. It is plainly to be seen that if the St. Lawrence is to be deepened and made navigable for 25 to 28-foot ships, imports by that route would not only be increased on Canadian goods, but large quantities of imported goods for the United States would come in via Montreal and the St. Lawrence.

One other deduction which may fairly be made from the returns for the past fiscal year is that of the increased imports, 65 per cent., or two-thirds of the total, were manufactured goods not mainly for construction purposes, and remanufacture, but largely of finished manufactures coming into competition with goods of Canadian make. The "Made in Canada" idea should help in the sale of an automobile or a farm implement, because it may fairly be impressed on a buyer that home-manufactured goods help to increase the demand for farm products and repay the farmer and other autobuyer in trade. It cannot be made too emphatic in statement that the American market is closed tightly against the products of the Canadian farms, and until that is changed the interest of the Canadian farmer and of every other man whose income depends on an open market for his products will be served by purchase of Canadian-made goods.

Since 1882 Canada has been buying more goods from the United States than from Great Britain, although the British market is the best for Canadian products. Coal, oil and cotton count up heavily in the total imports from the United States, but the steel, implements, foodstuffs and manufactured goods should be restricted, not merely by tariff increases, but by an accepted purpose among Canadians to buy and use made-in-Canada goods wherever possible.—Hamilton Spectator.

FOR CANADA.

Signs are not wanting that the suggestions made in these columns of a yearly national and practically uniform observance of July 1, echo a nation-wide sentiment. Newspapers east and west, as well as many individuals writing to them, are urging that the spirit of the jubilee ceremonies is the best foundation upon which to build a sturdy ideal of patriotism. In the interim newspapers arriving from widely scattered points in distant parts of Canada, show that the jubilee was not only universally observed, but that the fervor displayed was a revelation to all who had anything to do with planning the arrangements. All of the reports of the ceremonies emphasize that view. In none of them are there indications of sectional feeling, or airings of sectional grievances. It is as if the whole country had joined in the determination to forget everything in the desire to show to itself and all the world that this is a real confederation; that it may have household troubles at times, but that these are soluble and will not break the union of Provinces and hearts.

Another noticeable feature of the reports and editorial comments is the practically unanimous belief that the celebration had value as an object lesson to the many foreign elements, which go to the making of Canada's population. In particular it seems to be thought that its effectiveness was marked upon comparatively newscomers from European countries, which, since the war, have been torn by revolution, anarchy and other violent experiments in government. Some of these new settlers have undoubtedly had the idea that Canada might be fertile ground for continuing these experiments. They have been confounded because of the discovery that freedom, liberty and a chance to live in comfort are here for the winning, hand in hand with law, order and individuality. If but for such alone a yearly nation-wide celebration of Dominion Day, with part of the program devoted to patriotic exercises, would be worth while. Its effect on the whole country, however, would be inestimable. The "get-together" spirit of the jubilee should be utilized to the full to create a still stronger bond of sentimental affection and practical co-operation than the Dominion has ever known.—Brantford Expositor.

WOOLLENS AND ADVERTISING.

Canadian woollen manufacturers are declared to have had an excellent public response to their traveling exhibit of Canadian merchandise. Placed on display in different cities and at annual fairs, this display of Canadian manufactured woollen cloths and garments has been of definite value in convincing the public that woollens and woollen goods manufactured in Canada rank in quality with the best imported articles.

What the Canadian manufacturers are doing in this manner is along sound lines; they are placing a concrete case before buyers and consumers; they are talking about the quality of the Canadian products and the good value that they represent rather than about the patriotic duty of Canadians to buy Canadian goods, willy-nilly.

The president of one of our largest woollen companies has expressed his disapproval of advertising as an economic waste. What he had chiefly in mind, no doubt, was paid advertising that tells the consumer about specific goods; he has not hesitated to speak generalities about the merit of purchasing goods made in Canada. That is advertising, even though it happens to be free advertising given by the publications that carry the speeches.

It may be that advertising would help the woollen industry to some extent, or at least some of the mills that have long contended that as their goods are not sold direct to the consumer, or as they are not trade-marked, or as this or as that, they could not benefit from advertising. There are exceptions, striking exceptions, chiefly among Canadian knit goods mills, of Canadian firms that do advertise their wares on modern lines. Penman's, Zimmerknit, Stanfield's, may be mentioned, and there are many others. The percentage of firms manufacturing cloths and advertising them is much smaller and, generally speaking, the cloth mills have been less successful than the knit goods mills, who have advertised to a large extent. It may or may not be significant that some of the British woollen cloth makers, who are most successful in this market, are big advertisers.

If the woollen display means that Canadian woollen manufacturers are going in for more advertising, it must be regarded as a step forward, and a step that may signalize a continued advance towards the goal of prosperity for the Canadian woollen industry.—Financial Post.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Peterboro—Toronto—Montreal

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, July 25 (Canadian Press). — The foreign demand for grain in the Montreal market on Saturday was of the usual quiet character, with the result that the volume of business was small, and confined principally to odd loads of wheat.

The trade in cash grain in the domestic market was quiet, the demand being principally for odd lots to fill immediate wants. Prices were unchanged.

The demand for all lines of millfeed continued good, and values were steady. The movement of standard grades of rolled oats was small, but the tone of the market was firm.

The egg market was moderately active and values were firm. The receipts were 1,466 cases.

A fair amount of business was transacted in all grades of butter, and the undertone was firm. The receipts were 3,386 packages.

The trade in cheese was quiet, but prices for all qualities were well maintained. The receipts were 6,748 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, July 25 (Canadian Press). — Indications of big arrivals of new winter wheat next week led to a material setback in wheat prices on Saturday after an early advance. The finish for wheat was heavy, ¾ to 1⅛c net lower, with corn ¾c to 1⅜c down, oats ⅛c to ⅜c off, and provisions varying from 7c decline to a rise of 5 cents.

Announcement that 800,000 bushels of North American wheat had been bought on Saturday for shipment to Europe had but little if any market influence as a check on declines due to prospective increasing movement of new domestic winter wheat. For a time, however, prices showed a decided upward slant on account of chances that black rust might receive a sudden impetus from high temperatures threatening to advance eastward over the Rockies. Winnipeg despatches gave assurance, though, that the weather on Saturday on the Canadian Prairies was clear and not likely to promote rust.

Corn and oats gave way when the wheat values turned down grade. Cool temperatures in the corn belt last night were offset by a forecast of warmer weather and showers. Oats prices were somewhat weakened by the fact that arrivals of new oats here on Saturday showed good quality.

In the absence of any aggressive support, the provision market was inclined to sag.

ROBERTS MAKES GAME OF ANSWERS

Position at Literary Conferences Proves Interesting Mental Exercise.

TORONTO, Ont., July 25.—(Canadian Press).—Acting as question answerer at three literary conferences in swift succession sounds like a task calculated to bring on an attack of brain fever. But Dr. Charles G. D. Roberts, who was recently elected national president of the Canadian Authors' Association, accepted the role of literary informant at the Canadian Chautauqua at Muskoka without any appafent dread of the consequences.

"I make a game of it," Dr. Roberts explained before leaving Toronto. "It is understood in advance that I am not omniscient and there is no complaint if I am stumped by a tricky question. Approached in this manner it provides absorbingly interesting mental exercise."

According to the president of the authors, the questions propounded last year at the first session of this unique summer school evidenced strikingly intelligent understanding of the subjects under discussion. At this year's Chatauqua he is being subjected to a species of third degree in the technique in poetry writing, Canadian literature and contemporary English literature.

Possibly with the idea of keeping Dr. Roberts in a properly subdued state of mind, the Canadian Chautauqua also captured a prominent critic for the Muskoka assembly. John W. Garvin, who is delivering a series of lectures, is president of the Radisson Society of Canada and, in addition to writing widely on literary subjects, has compiled several anthologies of Canadian verse.

The title of one of his half dozen lectures is "Poetic Diction, Players on Pipes, and Personality" and the others sound just as intriguing.

When a summer school of Canadian Literature was inaugurated in the beautiful Muskoka district last year it proved very popular with Canadian writers and even a larger number of knights of the pen—or typewriter—rallied there this year. A highly attractive feature of the course is that the lectures are held out of doors.

PRINCE'S RANCH READY FOR HIM

Wales Will Find It Much Improved Since Last Visit.

HOUSE ENLARGED

HIGH RIVER Alta. July 25. — (Canadian Press).—When the Prince of Wales revisits his ranch near here in August, he will find many improvements have been introduced since his last visit in 1924. The property, under the management of Prof. W. L. Carlyle, is beginning to make some return to its royal owner for the sums he has spent in stocking and developing it.

It has always been the Prince's ambition to make his ranch, more than anything else, a model of its kind and an example for other farmers in the Dominion. The EP ranch extends over 6,000 acres, small as some ranches go, but it is high grade land and is in one of the richest grain-growing and stock-raising regions to be found in Western America.

The ranch house has been enlarged and otherwise improved since his Royal Highness last saw it. A new lounge hall and extra bedrooms have been added. The whole dwelling is simply furnished. A few comfortable lounge chairs, a well-filled book case or two; and one or two water-color pictures of neighborhood beauty spts are the only appearance of "luxury."

Its sporting equipment however is very complete, and the Prince will be able to enjoy good sport when he comes. On his own property wild duck abound on one or two small lakes and on a tributary of the High River that winds through the ranch and provides it with water. Mountain trout are numerous in this stream, some of them attaining considerable size, while not far away prairie chickens and partridges are to be found in flocks at certain seasons of the year. When bigger game is sought, the Prince has not much farther to ride before he comes across the trail of herds of wild deer that range over the foothills of the Rockies.

The Ranch house is solidly built of logs. The farm buildings are up-to-date in every respect and are placed in crescent shape facing the south.

The view from the house, which is 3,000 feet above sea level, is picturesque and impressive, with the peaks of the Rockies in the distance seen over a vast intervening area of rolling prairie.

One of the Prince's first steps was to place on the ranch a herd of pure bred shorthorn cattle selected from his farm in Dartmoor, England. To this herd has been added some of the best strains of Canadian cattle, and these are already for breeding purposes.

The Prince later turned his attention to the raising of useful horses. The King presented his son with his thproughbred "Will Somers", and although this horse proved a disappointment on the Turf, his value at stud has been considerable. The first stud of sturdy Dartmoor ponies that Western Canada has known was next established on the ranch, and there is a brisk demand for them.

Next to attract the Prince's attention were sheep. He brought some prize-winning rams and ewes from the famous herd of the Duke of Westminsters, principally Shropshire and Hampshire breeds. They have flourished so well on Canadian soil that many other farmers have established similar herds from stock established by the Prince.

A considerable area of the ranch is under tillage, so that the property is practically self-supporting, providing almost the whole of the fodder required for the horses, cattle and sheep. This area extends to about 200 acres, and oats and sunflower seeds are the principal crops. These provide winter feed, the ample grass lands offering all that it necessary during the summer months.

SHE STUCK—AND WON.

KANSAS CITY, July 23.—Ten years ago, Miss Irva O'Gorman, cigar-stand clerk, bought 25 shares of stock in an oil-land holding company. For years it was considered valueless and she had almost forgotten about it when a well was brought in recently. Now she is rich.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

On Friday and Saturday Cherry was frantically but happily engaged in getting her "business" wardrobe assembled, for, after the reconciliation between herself and Faith following Faith's unprecedented outbreak, she did not seem to think there was any doubt at all that she was to go to work for Bob, as his private secretary. And Faith, humbly fearful of causing another scene, did not, by a word of a look, permit either her husband or her sister to know that he heart was sick with fear whenever she allowed her mind to contemplate the picture of Bob and Cherry spending their days together in the peculiarly intimate relationship of employer and secretary. She tried not to think.

And Cherry kept her so busy that there was little time to indulge in fears. On Friday morning Cherry made a flying trip to the shopping district, driving down with Bob on his way to his office, and when she returned at eleven it was with her arms full of parcels. She was as excited and rose-flushed as a child when she displayed her purchases.

At thirteen, Faith, feeling almost grown-up and proud of the responsibilities which her semi-invalid mother had thrust upon her, had taken upon herself the thrilling task of making Cherry's lovely little frocks for her. She was still Cherry's modiste, had made nearly everything the girl had worn, except during that unreal, glamorous period when Cherry had been engaged to the old millionaire, Ralph Cluny, and she had been able to afford the services of "Madame Denise," the cleverest modiste in the city.

"Won't this gingham-check taffeta be adorable for the office?" Cherry bubbled ecstatically. "Make the brown-and-yellow check first, won't you, darling? You could cut it out to-day—see, here's the pattern! Just a simple little thing, with a wide, round organdie collar. Look! This yellow organdie exactly matches the yellow in the silk. And a sash—very wide, honey, bound with the taffeta. Won't I look business-like, though? Oh, I'm just dying to get back to work!"

Midnight Saturday found Faith limp and hollow-eyed with fatigue, but two of the dresses were finished. The brown-and-yellow checked taffeta with its wide yellow organdie sash and deep collar was rivalled by an adorable, diminutive frock of jade green linen, splashily embroidered with purple and yellow wool, a bizarre effect which Cherry's flaming beauty could carry triumphantly. There were three other dresses to be made, but Faith, trembling with weariness, told herself that they could wait a week or two, at least until after the worst of the hot spell.

She was alone in the house, except for her father, who had been sleeping since nine, and Cherry's baby, which had been squirming and fretting with the heat. George Pruitt had called hours ago and carried Cherry off in his car in search of a cool breeze; and Bob, after prowling restlessly about the house until ten, had suddenly decided to go to his office and work on plans for a new-rich family's home. She had been acutely conscious, before he left, of his unexpressed annoyance with her for slaving so doggedly on Cherry's clothes.

She spread the two lovely dresses on Cherry's bed, mechanically straightened the disorder of dresser and closet—a disorder which was characteristic of Cherry; then dragged her numb body to her own room. The baby was awake and fretting piteously. She dusted a healing powder over its moist, hot body, prepared a bottle of cool water, and dozed as she held it to the eager, red little mouth. She was asleep almost before she had laid her tired body upon the hot sheets, but when she awoke, at Bob's stealthy entrance an hour later, she found to her amazement, that her pillow was wet with tears shed in her dreams.

Uncle Wiggily

By Howard R, Garis

To-day's Bedtime Story

(Copyright, 1927, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Hokey pokey! Hokey pokey!" cried a jolly voice out in front of Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow one day. "Hokey pokey!"

"My goodness, what a funny name for a little girl or boy!" squeaked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy. "I hope it isn't any of your children," she went on to Mr. Longears. For the rabbit gentleman had forty 'leven little bunnies, to say nothing of Baby Bunty, who was forty twelve, and there being so many the muskrat lady could not always remember all of their names.

"Hokey pokey! Hokey pokey!"

"Hokey pokey is no child of mine!" said Uncle Wiggily. "It must be the name of some new kind of breakfast food being advertised. I'll hop out and take a look."

But when the rabbit gentleman reached the front porch he saw only a kind old, wrinkled monkey gentleman, walking along and pushing in front of himself a little red cart. It was the monkey who was crying:

"Hokey pokey! Hokey pokey!"

"What is the matter?" asked Uncle Wiggily politely.

"Why, nothing is the matter, thank you," chattered the monkey. "I am just selling hokey pokeys, that's all. Do you want one?"

"What in the world is a hokey pokey?" asked the rabbit.

"Ho!" cried the monkey, "you must have forgotten when you were a little rabbit boy. Look here!" With that he opened a tin can in his red cart and took out something wrapped in cold waxed paper. And when the paper was taken off Uncle Wiggily saw a little sandwich made of sweetened honey cakes with a slice of pink ice-cream between them.

"That is a hokey pokey" explained the monkey, holding the ice-cream sandwich out to Mr. Longears. "Eat it!"

"Is that all I do?" the rabbit gentleman asked as he swallowed the last of the cold, sweet sandwich. "Just eat it? Is that all?"

"Oh, no, you must pay me for the hokey pokey if you please," the monkey answered.

"That is no more than fair," agreed Uncle Wiggily. So he gave the monkey gentleman five cents and the monkey, having both front paws on the handle of his cart, made change very cleverly with his tail, giving Uncle Wiggily back three cents.

"Hokey pokeys are two cents each!" chattered the monkey.

"They would be cheap at twice the price," chuckled Mr. Longears. "I'll take another if you please," which he did, handing the monkey two pennies. The hokey pokey monk dropped the pennies from the end of his tail into his cash box, and went on down the path, calling:

"Hokey pokey! Hokey pokey! Who wants a hokey pokey?"

And you may be sure many of the animal boys and girls did, for it was a hot day and the ice-cream sandwiches were cool. So that was the beginning of the hokey pokey monk coming to Woodland. But it was not the end of him, for he planned to stay all summer. It was a delight to see him hand out hokey pokeys with his paws and make change with his tail. When Nurse Jane said Uncle Wiggily was buying altogether too many hokey pokeys, the bunny would smile and say:

"Oh, I do it just to see the monkey make change with his tail. It isn't that I care so much for the hokey pokeys." And Mr. Twistytail, the pig, and Uncle Butter, the goat, said the same thing when they bought the ice-cream sandwiches several times a day.

Well, one afternoon, about a week after the hokey pokey monk had come to Woodland, Uncle Wiggily was buying a banana flavored one when, all of a sudden, the Bob Cat swooped around the corner and tried to catch the rabbit. But just in time Uncle Wiggily dodged around the hokey pokey cart and got away. The Bob Cat made such a dash that he upset the cart and spilled out all the chopped ice which the monkey gentleman used to keep his ice-cream sandwiches from melting.

Then the Bob Cat felt chilly and ran away, not getting Uncle Wiggily at all. But the monkey sadly chattered:

"Oh, now my hokey pokeys will melt before I have a chance to sell them, for all my chopped ice is gone!"

"I'll make things right for you, since it was by your cart I saved myself from the Bob Cat!" said the rabbit. So he took the monkey gentleman to the cave of Mr. Whitewash, the polar bear, and bought a big cake of ice. And when this was chopped it kept the hokey pokeys fresh.

So everything turned out all right, and the monkey sold his ice-cream hokey pokeys all summer.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

For Tuesday, July 26, 1927.
(Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Astrologers read this as a day unfavorable to many activities on the planet Earth. For this reason it is wise to be cautious in business.

The early riser should benefit, for in the morning friendly aspects guide whatever is constructive and progressive.

There is a fairly promising sign for seeking employment, provided applications are made in the opening hours of the commercial world.

Both men and women who exercise authority should give orders in the first part of the day, if they desire cheerful co-operation.

At this time there may be a widespread temptation to speculate, but brokers should be avoided while this configuration prevails.

Judgment is not to be trusted under this direction of the stars and this applies as much to choosing a wife as to selecting a rising stock.

Merchants may find trade quiet, but they may be assured that intense activity will mark the autumn months.

Under this planetary rule upheavals regarding installment plans of purchase may be widespread and agitation regarding credit schemes may be expected, the seers prophesy.

Financiers and professors of economics are to express opinions that will cause new interest in the thrift, astrologers declare.

There is a sway said to encourage deception and dissonesty among persons of good reputation.

Greed for money will cause increase of certain crimes such as forgery, embezzlement and counterfeiting, it is foretold.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a satisfactory year where income and business are concerned.

Children born on this day may be secretly intensely ambitious and inclined to seek the society of the wealthy. They should be taught the true value of hard-earned success.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

SPRING GREENS

Italian markets can offer health and appetite to housewives this time of year. For they sell a wide variety of vegetables such as kale, greens and artichokes.

CHILDREN'S TASKS

Small household tasks assigned to children when their vacations begin will help mother and discipline children.

NEW CUSHIONS

A couple of smart, new cushions, quilted like grandma's old patch-work coverlet, are quite the newest thing to liven up the porch corner and add an attractive, old-fashioned note of hospitality.

KITCHEN FLOWERS

The housewife who courts cheerfulness will keep fresh flowers on her window over her kitchen sink, or in some other conspicuous place in her working kingdom.

MILK CUSTARDS

Soft custards, with white of egg floating on top, or baked custards in vanilla, coffee, orange or almond flavor, give children both milk and eggs and are often more tempting to them than either food alone.

AWNING INSPECTION

All awnings should be examined for repairs or replacement a few weeks before the burning sunlight necessitates putting them up.

SOILED COLLARS

Before putting shirts into the washing machine, soiled collars, cuffs and spots should be scrubbed thoroughly until all dirt is loosened.

DRESS

In the sketch above is shown a net stocking of lisle or silk which many women choose in pastel shades either for morning or evening wear. The brightly colored plaid silk stockings at the right are appropriate with strictly sports ensemble. Just below the net stocking at the left is shown a fancy weave lisle stocking which is frequently chosen in pastel colors for informal afternoon and evening wear. A beige stocking at the right shows darker brown device in the form of an anklet. An airplane is embroidered on a flesh-colored silk stocking to match the sandal with which it is worn. Below at the right is a nude stocking with card design embroidered on the leg. The foot is woven to wear with sandals which are open at the side.

A woman is never any better dressed than her stockings. More and more, it seems to me, women like to choose their own stockings. Once a friend felt that if she knew the size stocking your foot required, that was all that was necessary. She could then buy your stockings for you in a perfectly satisfactory way. But stockings have become too personal and individual for that. A woman ought to be as insistent in the matter of personal choice in stockings as a man is in the matter of neckties and cigars.

It may be that you follow the French fashion of wearing stockings of a real nude color—or of nude with a slightly sun-burned cast. Nude color is a variable term—and the woman who takes pains with every detail of her dress actually matches her nude stockings with her own sun-burned skin. The stocking that would be a perfect nude for you wouldn't be nude at all for your neighbor, and a stocking that was a perfect "flesh" for you last January would look too pale and pink this August.

Many women here and abroad cling to nude tones for evening, but the nude that is chosen for evening is of a rosier, softer cast than that for daytime.

Stockings of gray and especially gunmetal are less gray when worn than when seen over the counter, for almost always they are of such thin silk that the flesh tones show through. Mrs. Coolidge sponsors white stockings for wear with white shoes and frocks, but there are certain other well-dressed women who prefer the effect of nude stockings with the white ensemble.

Printed chiffon in rather small floral design remains a favorite for the practical, all-round daytime frock this summer. Mrs. Lindbergh, mother of Col. Charles Lindbergh, chose a frock of this sort to wear at one or two notable occasions during her son's reception in New York and Washington.

TO ERECT MONUMENT.

Brotherhood of St. Andrew Sponsors Subscription To Honor Balsam Lake Victims.

H. A. Mowat, general secretary of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, and Canon H. P. Plumptre, rector of St. James cathedral, have signed an appeal for funds to erect a monument at the graves of the victims of the Balsam lake tragedy who were drowned in Balsam Lake a year ago. All the initial expenses connected with the recovery, transportation and burial of the bodies to the amount of $2,000, it is stated, were met by the organization.

The proposed monument, a beautiful cross, with a kerbstone, enclosing the whole plot, will cost $1,200.

PASSENGER CAUSES AIRPLANE ACCIDENT

Thought To Have Seized Dual Control While Taking First Ride.

CHICAGO, July 25. — (Canadian Press).—The seizing of the dual control of an airplane by a youth taking his first ride in the skies may have caused the accident that hurtled two men to their deaths and seriously injured a third. The victims, Ray Westphall, 21, Chicago, and Irwin Hybel, 22, Dundee, Illinois, were instantly killed, while the pilot of the crashing plane, Carl Hawkinson, 24, was burned and injured internally.

Extra-Safe Summer Hygiene

When Wearing

Sheer, Thin Frocks

FLOWERED chiffons, lovely pastel crepes, sheerest, thinnest frocks! — women wear them now, under their most severe hygienic handicap, in peace-of-mind and safety.

Eight in 10 better-class women have discarded old-time "sanitary pads" for KOTEX, which has the amazing absorbency of 16 times its own weight in moisture—5 times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads.

Kotex also deodorizes. Another important factor. Discards, too, as easily as tissue. Thus no laundry; no embarrassment of disposal.

Constance Talmadge May Get Divorce

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., July 25 (Canadian Press). — Constance Talmadge, the film actress, last night started a two months' trip to Europe. She said the trip was for a "good time" and perhaps a divorce.

WHO IS YOUR SKINNY FRIEND, ETHEL?

Tell him to take McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets for a couple of months and get enough good healthy flesh on his bones to look like a real man.

Tell him, it's the only way to take those grave-like hollows from his cheeks and neck.

Tell him that thousands of thin, puny, peaked, scrawny men all over America have improved their physical health and appearance and bless the day they first heard of these wonderful sugar-coated tablets so full of weight producing vitamines.

Ask for McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets. McDermid & Jury, Bond's Drug Store, McDermid Drug Co., James Lynch and every druggist worthy of the name sells them — 60 tablets—60 cents. Any thin man or woman can put on five pounds of healthy flesh in 30 days or your druggist will willingly refund the purchase price.

One woman put on 15 pounds in six weeks. Children grow robust and strong—feeble old people feel younger in a few weeks.

New Treatment for Indigestion

A Drugless preparation which restores the digestive juices to the inactive stomach.

This new treatment is after the nature of insulin, since it supplies to the stomach the active principle which brings about the digestion of the food, just as insulin carries on the work of the pancreas.

Again it is like insulin because it is taken from the digestive organ—the stomach—of animals and after suitable preparation administered to the human stomach.

Digestion is brought about in the stomach by means of digestive juices, which attack the food in the stomach and break it down into ingredients which can be absorbed by the blood.

For one reason or another, these digestive fluids become dried up and you suffer from indigestion. The active principles of the digestive fluids are known as enzymes. By introducing new enzymes to the digestive fluids of the stomach, you positively remove the cause of indigestion.

This is exactly what this new discovery, which is known as Renzyme, does. It supplies enzymes to the digestive fluids and therefore immediately restores their effectiveness in digesting food in the stomach.

Someone has said that the soul of man is in the pit of his stomach. One thing certain, one cannot accomplish much or enjoy life while suffering from indigestion.

For centuries scientists have sought relief from stomach troubles. All sorts of drug combinations have been tried without affording more than temporary relief.

Now the problem has been solved by the discovery of Renzyme. It is only after years of work in the laboratory and almost endless experiments that this product has been perfected in a form that will keep indefinitely when bottled.

The merit and effectiveness of Renzyme has been thoroughly established in hundreds of cases and medical doctors who have watched its action in chronic indigestion are most enthusiastic in its praise.

It is nature's relief for indigestion. It is immediately effective and cannot fail because it transfers from one stomach to another the active principle which brings about digestion of the food.

FERDINAND IS LAID TO REST

At the end of the service Queen Marie, her features expressive of agony and grief, stepped forward and kissed the pale, wasted face of her dead consort, and then fell into a swoon. Little Princess Ileana, who seemed to be the bravest member of the family, soothed and consoled her mother.

Princess Mother Helen lifted the infant King in her arms so he could embrace his grandfather for the last time. He was followed by King Alexander of Jugo Slavia, ex-King George of Greece, and Prince Hohensollern Signaringen, King Ferdinand's brother, and members of the regency.

Royal Salute.

The coffin was then sealed by the patriarch and as the catafalque emerged from the church the royal salute of 101 guns was fired, aeroplanes dropped flowers and a group of Ileana's girl scouts stood rigidly at attention. The gun was then placed on a large gun carriage and drawn by six superb black horses, was drawn through the flag-draped streets of Bucharest. All church bells tolled a funeral dirge and tens of thousands of spectators stood with bowed and uncovered heads.

Gives Interview.

Queen Marie sent for the Associated Press correspondent on Saturday night, and in a long interview which took place in a room adjoining the improvised chapel where Ferdinand lay dead, discussed her present and future plans for carrying ing on the work which death has forced the King to abandon.

With marked emphasis the Queen declared she had never sought, nor would seek in the future, the regency of Rumania.

"Had I desired to become Regenut" she said, "I need only have told the King, and he would have arranged it either immediately or in his testament. As his widow, and one who shared the responsibilities of the throne with him for 13 years, it is my duty to give all my energy, strength and devotion to the good of my country. That was the King's dying wish."

When the correspondent asked the Queen if Prince Carol had expressed any repentance before the King died, she broke down and between sobs said:

"Neither the King nor myself received a single word from him. It was his pitiless indifference, silence and continued indiscretions in Paris which broke the King's heart and hastened his death. But the King in his will and final letter to Premier Bratiano expressed toward his first born the same extraordinary generosity and forgiveness which formed such a striking part of his character.

Sends Wreath.

"Carol's single act when he learned that the King had died was to telegraph to his sister Marie asking her to place a wreath of white roses as near as possible to the King's body."

Queen Marie was strong in her conviction that Prince Carol would never attempt to gain the Rumanian throne.

"My heart is broken and my soul crushed," she said, "but I must keep up a brave spirit. Throughout the King's long illness he clung to me with pathetic and heroic devotion, striving to stave off death, which was slowly creeping upon him. But there are some things which even a Queen cannot accomplish. When little Mihai (the present King) learned that his great forbear had died, he asked me 'Has the clock inside grandpa stopped?'"

Gives Estate to Helen.

When Queen Marie noticed that the King had failed to leave anything to the Princess Mother Helen, she promptly gave the latter a large royal estate overlooking the Bay of Constanza.

"I was once young myself," Queen Marie wrote to Princess Helen, in making the gift, "and I know what it is to be without one's own house wherein to live."

Princess Helen, who was quite overcome by the Queen's generous act, acknowledged the gift in most touching terms.

Died Catholic.

Contrary to the impression abroad that King Ferdinand had become a member of the Rumanian Orthodox Church, the Sovereign actually died in the Roman Catholic faith. When the monarch's heart failed and he seemed on the brink of eternity the Apostolic nuncio administered the last rites of the Catholic church.

During the latter days of his illness the King became more ardently pious than ever. The sick room was filled with the holy images and statutes symbolic of his personal faith.

As King Ferdinand was ex-officio head of the Rumanian National Orthodox Church, the religious services held upon the arrival of the body at Cotroscent Friday conformed to the Rumanian State religion.

OBITUARY.

MARY ELLEN BRENNAN.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 25. — General regret is felt throughout the town, more particularly among the young people, in the passing of Mary Ellen Brennan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brennan, Frank Street.

The deceased, who was in her 60th year, was born at Wellman's Corners, and, with the family, moved into Campbellford five years ago. She attended St. Mary's Separate School for some years, passing her entrance examination with a very high standing. In the High School she was considered a most promising student, and as a member of the High School basketball team ,on which she played forward, she was looked upon as one of the school's best players.

Since October last the deceased had been pretty much confined to her home with that most dreaded disease, tuebrculosis, but only within the past few weeks did her condition become such as to occasion alarm. Everything that loving hands and kind hearts could do for the afflicted one was done, but she passed peacefully away on Saturday at noon.

Besides her parents, five sisters and four brothers survive to mourn the loss of a kind and affectionate sister. The sisters are: Mrs. Harry Cassidy, Campellford, Mrs. D. H. O'Connell, Sarnia, Mrs. William Cain, Stirling, Mrs. Raymond Dunk, Campbellford, and Mrs. John Duff, Jr., Campbellford. The brothers are Dennis, Vincent, William, and Donald, all of Campbellford.

The large number of spiritual and floral tokens on and surrounding the casket gave mute testimony of the high esteem in which this young girl was held by her school girl friends and those in the neighbourhood in which she lived, who had come to know her by her genuinely cheerful and pleasant manner.

The funeral took place at 9 o'clock this morning to St. Mary's Church. After the funeral mass the body will be taken to Stirling for interment in St. James' Church Cemetery.

JUDGE VANCE.

MILLBROOK, July 25.—The death of George Montgomery Vance, senior Judge of the County of Simcoe, occurred at the private patents' pavilion, Toronto General Hospital, on Friday, July 22, in his sixtieth year. He is survived by his widow, two daughters, both of Toronto, one brother, J. A. Vance, of Winnipeg, and two sisters, Misses Alice of Toronto and Lottie of New York. The funeral takes places to-day from Trinity Church, Barrie.

CHURCH BURNED

Built in 1527 and Contained Many Old Relics.

LISBON, July 25 (Canadian Press). —The famous old Church of St. Antonio, at Estoril ,a fashionale suburb of Lisbon, was burned to the ground on Friday night. The fire-fighters were unable to extinguish the flames owing to the lack of water.

The church was built in 1527. It contained notable wood carved altar frames, ancient tiles, pictures, and other valuable artistic relics.

The women in the mountains of southern Serbia have trimmed their hair with sheep shears in a "childish bob" since antiquity.

SLICK BUSINESS.

ELIZABETH, N. J., July 23.—Pat Mitchell, negro, is skinning himself into a fortune. He is the fastest skinner of catfish in the world, he says; at least, he is earning from $25 to $47 a day at his trade. Catching catfish is an important industry here and the workers are paid by the number of fish they handle.

GRAVES OF FALLEN ARE DECORATED

patriotic feeling such as these war heroes had in those dark days of 1914-1918."

E. A. Peck, M.P., was forced, by a sudden shower of rain, to shorten his address ,but he remarked that it was his hope that the citizens of Peterborough would recognize the great responsibility that these heroes undertook when they went away to fight for their all—King and homes. He also extended his deepest sympathy to the widows and children who had been deprived of husband and father who had gone to their defence and had so bravely died for them.

Following the addresses, the following roll-call was read by Captain Abraham of the boys whose graves were decorated yesterday in reverent honour of their brave and noble deeds:

Capt. R. Picard.
C.Q.M.S. J. Kane.
Sapper J. Mahoney.
Pte. N. Peters.
Pte. P. Burke.
Pte. D. Wheeler.
Driver J. McCarthy.
Pte. Pat Hanlon.
Gunner V. Grady.
Pte. J. Scully.
Pte. G. Tucker.
Pte. R. Ranerd.
Pte. R. Bolin.
Pte. W. Watson.
Pte. John Kylie.
Gunner V. Clancy.
Pte. F. Booth.
Pte. R. Boyle.
Pte. T. Theobald.
Pte. H. Feeley.
Pte. John Gorman.
Pte. W. L. Meagher.

At the conclusion of the reading of the roll-call, the solemn "Lord Lovat's Lament" was played by the Pipe Band. It seemed as if the very clouds were taking part in the service, for as the notes of this impressive lament were heard they blotted out the sun for a time, and then Last Post was sounded through the stillness of the congregation, who stood with bowed heads near the graves of their loved ones.

Decoration ceremonies were also carried out by Captain Abraham, assisted by other members of the Canadian Legion. On every grave a Union Jack was placed — the emblem for which the brave heroes died; both those now living and the ones who responded to their last call—that of the Great Commander.

Owing to the heavy downpour of rain, the bands and veterans dismissed immediately upon leaving the cemetery.

SMITH FALLS WINS TROPHY

FOR C.P.R. SHOPS.

HAVELOCK, July 25. — Despite the heavy rain on Friday the baseball game between Smith Falls and Havelock for the Scully Cup was played about 5 p.m., and resulted in a victory for Smith's Falls by a score of 7-2. It was raining quite heavily when the teams lined up for the game. R. Campney of town was the referee for the strikes and balls and Mr. O'Brien of Smith's Falls was the referee for the bases.

The cup was donated by J. J. Scully, general superintendent of the Canadian Pacific Railway Co., with a view of promoting clean sport and will be for annual competition. Two conditions are attached, namely: the games must be played during June, July and August, and the players must all be employees of the company who have have been in their employ for at least six months before taking part in the competition.

MASS MARRIAGES.

PARIS, July 22.—For the sake of economy many couples in a workmen's quarter of Paris are married en masse. They assemble every Saturday, line up, and the principals and witnesses sign the marriage register as they pass into the big "wedding salon" of the City Hall.

HYDRO REPORT SHOWS GROWTH

The annual report of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario for the fiscal year ending October 31st, 1926, shows a continued growth in the use of power in the Central Ontario district, the peak of 42,000 horsepower having been reached in October of that year, and of 43,901 h.p. in December.

The power generated in the Central Ontario System was as follows:—

	Normal Operating Capacity Oct. 31 h. p.	Peak load during fiscal year, h.	Total output during year k. w. h.
Sidney	4,020	4,423	14,760,800
Frankford	3,485	3,215	11,741,900
Meyersburg	6,430	8,579	19,919,290
Hague's Reach	4,500	4,691	10,065,260
Ranney's Falls	9,650	11,394	35,955,960
Seymour	4,020	4,316	16,442,700
Healey Falls	12,060	15,818	32,796,460
Auburn	2,010	2,547	9,822,470
Fenelon Falls	1,000	938	3,779,140

Peak loads given are direct sums of plant peaks as shown without allowance for diversity in time.

During the year the following power was purchased for the Central Ontario System:

Campbellford	1876	1930	221,900
Pet. Hydraulic Power Co.	.....	2010	84,890
Can. General Electric Co.	.....	268	1,800

The power from the Hydraulic Power Company and the Canadian General Company was taken under a reciprocal arrangement for surplus power.

The peak load in horsepower used by Peterborough from the system increased from 4,525 in October, 1925, to 5,715 in October, 1926.

Surveys Being Made.

Detailed surveys and investigations on Koshabog and Loon Lakes are being carried out in connection with the proposed Crow River storage scheme, although no actual construction work has yet been done. The purpose of this storage scheme is to enable the plants on the Trent River below Healey Falls to operate at full capacity at all seasons of the year.

The revenue of the Central Ontario System for the year, as shown in the operating account, was $1,957,193.17. The cost of operation includes $97,897.96 for provision for renewal of generating plants, lines, stations, rural power districts, etc.; $38,617.05 provision for contingencies in power department; $54,400.73 provision for renewals in utilities and $48,741.58 provision for contingencies in connection with utilities. With provision for these reserves, amounting in the total to $239,656.82 the cost of operation was $1,965,721.84, or $8,528.67 greater than the revenue.

There are twelve municipalities that own their own distribution systems under cost contracts with the Commission in the District, and the combined operation of these municipalities for the year shows a net surplus of $70,844.03 after providing $30,549.95 for depreciation, and there were no deficits.

Figures for Peterborough.

The Peterborough local system in the statement of assets and liabilities shows reserves for depreciation, etc., amounting to $63,952.50; local sinking funds amounting to $87,932.57, and additional operating surplus of $58,136.39.

The net cost for domestic light in Peterborough was 2.2 cents per k.w.h. and for commercial light 1.6 cent, and the average cost of power furnished was $15.81 per h.p. per year. In 1916 the net cost of domestic light was 6.1 cents and of commercial light 5.6 cents, and the average cost of power $16.10 per h.p. per year.

Compared with the rates paid before the City took over the local distributing system the saving to the local users of electricity in 1926 was: Domestic light, 4,438,633 k.w. hrs., at 7c per k.w.h., the old rate, $310,704.31; paid under City rates $95,170.61; saving $215,533.70. Commercial light, 3,117,120 k.w. hrs., at 10 cents, the old rate, $261,387.01; paid under City rates, $50,324.99; saving, $261,387.01. Power, average used 4,045 h.p., at $20.00 per h.p. per year, the old rate, $80,900.00; paid under City rates $63,969.15; saving $16,930.85.

In this comparison it is calculated as though before the City took over the system the rate was $20.00 per h.p. for the average use, while it really was on the peak or installed capacity, and smaller installations were charged at higher rates than $20.00. However, after giving the old rates the benefit of this, the saving to the people of the city in 1926, comparing what they did pay with what they would have paid under the old rates, was:

In Domestic light	$215,533.70
In Commercial light	261,387.01
In Power	16,930.85
Total saving in one year	$493,851.56

Making the comparison on the same basis for the years 1917 to 1926, inclusive, the saving to the people of Peterborough has been $2,677,000.79.

TYNE EXPERIMENT IS TRAINING BOYS

Authorities Get Together on Scheme For Building Up Boys For Overseas.

LONDON, July 25. — (Canadian Press).—Lord Lovat, Parliamentary Under-Secretary for the Dominions, recently launched a project of considerable importance on Newcastle-on-Tyne when he opened a hostel for training lads in agricultural work. The training schemes which are now being carried on under the direction of the Ministry of Labor have already achieved considerable success, but hitherto, in the schemes of training youths for work overseas, it has been found necessary to take the youths away from their own towns and put them on training farms in another part of the country. Under the new scheme the training is to be given actually in the towns where the youths live.

Unemployment on Tyneside is particularly acute through the long-continued depression in shipbuilding, coal and iron. In late years it has become increasingly difficult to find work of any kind whatever for lads leaving school. It is to deal with this problem that the Newcastle work has been started. The city authorities have handed over a building which has been converted into a training hostel to hold 50 lads at a time.

Boys between 14 and 17 for Canada and between 15 and 19 for Australia will be taken who are of good character and healthy. They will receive a preliminary training in agriculture through the National Farmers' Union, whose members have arranged to take them daily on farms adjacent to the city. They will travel free of cost to their work daily on the city tramway services. In the hostel itself they will be taught preliminary milking, carpentry, bootmending, harness repairing, and physical training. Lectures will be given on elementary agricultural subjects. The period of training will be normally three months and 200 lads a year will be trained.

It is claimed for this training that it can be carried out at the minimum of cost; that lads will learn farming on farms which are run as economical concerns; and that the farmers can give individual help, since not more than three lads will go to any one farm. It will thus be possible at an early date to eliminate any who are unlikely to become suited for the life they will require to lead in the Dominions. It is believed that by means of good food, regular work and supervision, lads, often undersized and ill-fed, through the severe conditions of unemployment, can be made into young men ready to take the chance in life which the Dominions have to offer to all who are ready to take the chance on the land.

The scheme has the help of the Government through the Overseas Settlement Committee and represents the co-operation of the City Council, the National Farmers' Union, the Guardians of the Poor, and the education authorities of the city.

The Overseas Settlement Committee are paying half the costs of the scheme. The City Council, the guardians and private citizens are contributing to the costs.

STOLEN PENNY RETURNS.

CHICAGO, July 25.—The Chicago chief of police recently received a check for $4.61 from a conscience-stricken New Orleans man who said that 29 years before he had stolen a penny on a street car and later stole 50 cents from his mother. The check covered the amount, with interest.

MANY PARTS IN TABLE.

AUGUSTA, Me., July 25. — There are 253,963 pieces of 44 different kinds of wood in a table owned by W. J. Beauchaine here. It contains 588 distinct designs and weighs 188 pounds. Although only three feet square, it required 25 years of spare time to construct.

There are more brunettes than blondes among motion pictures actresses because dark hair and eyes usually show up better on the screen.

SAILORS TELL ABOUT VOYAGE

Two Members of Kingsway's Crew Imprisoned at New York.

MURDER CHARGED.

NEW YORK, July 25 (Canadian Press).—Six of the crew brought ashore for questioning by Federal authorities added their versions late yesterday to the tale of the Kingsway, whose log of murder, mutiny, and hunger outthrills many a salty yarn spun by romancing skippers in the glamourous old slave-trade windjammer days. The men who were taken to the Federal building for examination are: Hans Malibar, Frederick Kline, Alex. Christensen, Eric Anderson, Sigmund Schwanboy and Thomas Murray. Their testimony is a part of the Government's investigations into the death at sea of Lucille, the 25-year-old wife of Earl Battice, New Orleans mulatto. Battice and Waldemar K. Badka, alleged lover of the slain woman, are now in Tombs Prison.

Lingering Six Days

The Kingsway's log says the woman was buried at sea after lingering six days with a cut throat, and that Battice, the ship's cook, who is charged with her murder, slashed her throat with a razor because of her alleged acceptance of Badka's attentions. Badka is being held as a material witness.

Meanwhile, the trim, four-masted schooner, her pale-green sides glimmering in the oily wash, her sails battened to her skeleton spars, bobbed in the harbor just inside Quarantine last night, manned only by her skipper, Captain Fred E. Laury, whose home port is Norfolk, and Cudgo, the Congo cook. It was Cudgo's amateurish messing in the galley that made the men so sick it became necessary to free Battice, who had been placed in irons after the death of his young wife to pacify and feed the muttering crew.

Captain Laury, a genial skipper of the clipper-days type, the tropic tan of his weather-beaten face belying his approximate 55 years, related his story in a cabin session with Assistant United States Attorneys Mintzer and Simpson of the other death on the trip: that of Frederick Mortimer, first mate of the vessel, whose passing is also regarded as "suspicious" by authorities.

Nursed Grudge.

Mortimer, described as the original "Pike" of Jack London's "Mutiny of the Elsinor," nursed a grudge because he was not made master after the death in Pensacola, Fla., of the ship's first captain, Captain Laury said.

"It seemed to prey on his mind," said the skipper, adding that Mortimer's resentment was passed on among the crew in a way to create sympathy so that sometimes they obeyed his orders in preference to mine."

Mortimer disregarded the necessary precaution in the tropics to wear a helmet, became ill and died off the coast of Africa, Capt. Laury told his questioners.

Supposed Mutiny.

The ship's log says the men "refused to work," and he was asked if during the supposed mutiny, Badka had struck him in the face.

"I'd have killed him as sure as I stand here if he had," the skipper replied, bristling.

Battice, with his young wife, was shipped as cook at San Juan. On the day they sailed, Captain Laury continued, a young woman came to the wharf to see Battice. She said the cook had promised to take her with him.

"Of course, I wouldn't permit her to go on the voyage," the Captain said. He explained that Lucille, becoming jealous because of the realization of the existence of "another woman," then made no resistance to Badka's advances.

Cudgo is ill with an internal trouble, and will be removed to Ellis Island to-day for treatment.

Game Called in Seventh - Leafs and Stars Tied

PIRATES WIN FIRST GAME OF DOUBLEHEADER

Giants Stop the Winning Streak of Pittsburg in the Second Game.

RETAIN LEAD

Robins Split Double-Header With Chicago at Brooklyn —Ten Innings.

NEW YORK, July 25.—(Canadian Press).—The Giants stopped the Pirates by 9 to 3 in the second game of a double header before 40,000 here yesterday after taking the short end of an 11 to 6 verdict in the opener. Carmen Hill pitched his fifteenth triumph in defeating New York, the Corsairs pulling him through by driving Barnes to cover during a six run attack in the seventh.

In the night-cap, the Giants put across a seven-run rally in the sixth, knocking Dawson off of the peak, to sew up the game.

As the Cubs broke even in a double bill with the Robins, Pittsburgh was able to maintain its slender hold on the league crest.

Break Wins.

The Robins split a double header with Chicago at Brooklyn forcing the Cubs to yield after ten innings in the opening engagement by 3 to 2 while the Bruins took the closing fray by 7 to 1. Petty went the route in the Robins' triumph which was their first over Chicago this season. Hack Wilson connected for his 17th homer of the year.

In the second game, Blake kept eight Brooklyn hits well scattered while his mates gave him a two run lead in the third inning.

St. Louis Loses.

Cincinnati defeated the world's champions at Cincinnati when they hit St. Louis pitchers hard, winning 9 to 4. Bressler led the attack with two three base hits and a single in five times at bat. Frisch scored from first in the eighth inning on an ordinary single which Bressler fumbled momentarily.

TENNIS NEWS.

By MARY K. BROWNE
(Written for the United Press)
Copyright, 1927, by United Press.

There are so many players who go on year after year "soaking" the ball on every stroke, content with the occasional "hum dinger" they get over the net and in bounds.

They are not getting out of the game the fascination of the rally, where the ball is in play for a number of trips across the net, each succeeding stroke designed to get the opponent out of position, then win by a foxy placement.

Also the "wild" players is not giving his opponent any fun. If his ferocious drives do find the court they are so swift his opponent probably cannot return them. So the entire fun of exchanging shots is lost.

It is not tennis just to occasionally outhit your opponent. Outwit him and you are "playing the game."

The majority of champion tennis players were wild in the first stages of their career and no one wilder than Big Bill Tilden. Now no one is steadier than Big Bill.

How do you steady down?

In the first place, get the ball over the net.

If you look at the analysis of errors of important matches or get someone to keep tally of your errors, you will find that usually more points are lost in the net than out of bounds.

Molla Mallory, present National Champion, lost to Elisabeth Ryan in the English Championships several years ago, after Molla had taken the first set 6-0. Molla said, "If only someone had told me 'get the ball over the net.' I was netting and netting them but didn't come to until too late."

It isn't hard to lift your strokes over the net. It is usually only a question of keeping it in mind and accomplished by tilting up the racket slightly or by finishing your follow-through higher and out. Not across close to the body and down, because that will pull the ball down too soon and into the net.

Next, cut down on the power of your stroke. Speed of stroke is not as important as the destination of the shot.

Get the ball where you are aiming, slowly at first, until you have acquired control and then increase your speed. As a matter of fact, it is never necessary to put your whole strength into the shot. If you time your ball it will go off neatly with very little physical strength, behind it and sufficient speed.

Try to visualize the pendulum of the clock as the baton of the symphony director, and you will understand timing. It is smoothness and rythm to the stroke which produces speed under control. That is what you should be aiming at, not wild uncontrolled hitting.

The first principles of sound tennis tactics is to Get the Ball in Play. In other words, return the service safely or, if you are the server, avoid the costly error of making double faults.

Obviously, if you get the ball in play you give your opponent the chance to make the error and the longer you keep it in play, the more chance you have to win on his error.

Eighty per cent. of the points of big matches are won on errors and only twenty per cent on service aces and placements, which are points won outright, when the opponent is unable to lay his racket on the ball.

Even good players win few points on soaking the ball with all their might.

STARS HOLD LEAFS TO TIE

Game is Called in Seventh on Account of Rain—Score Three All.

SECOND POSTPONED

NEW YORK, July 25.—(Canadian Press).—Syracuse and Toronto played six innings to a 3 to 3 tie at Syracuse before the game was halted by rain in the seventh. The second game of the scheduled double header was also postponed.

The Tribe captured the Rochester series from Buffalo, three games to two, by breaking even in a double header. The first game was won by Buffalo, 5 to 2, while the Tribe won the second by 4 to 3.

Bears Win.

Al. Mamaux hurled the Bears to victory in both games of a double header with Reading at Newark. The scores were 4 to 1 and 3 to 1 and Mamaux allowed but three hits in the first game. He eased up in the abbreviated night-cap and was touched for five blows. The Keys got but one hit until the eighth inning of the first game when two singles and a base on balls gave them the sole tally.

Break Even.

Jersey City and Baltimore broke even in a double header at Baltimore, the visitors taking the first game 9 to 7 through a three run rally in the ninth, which the Birds were unable to match. A six run lead in the third inning of the second game sent the Orioles off to win 10 to 7. Moore clouted for the circuit in the first game.

Monahan in each game and Sheedy and Poole in the finals.

BRITISH COLUMBIA WINS SOCCER GAME

Shut Out Edmonton in Semi-Finals of Western Play-Offs.

EDMONTON, Alta., July 25.—(Canadian Press).—Playing a more methodical brand of football and getting the best of what few breaks that were going, Nanimo City, soccer champion of B.C., won from the Edmonton Canadian Legion team here on Friday evening by a score of 3-0, in the first set-to of a two-game series to determine the team to proceed to Winnipeg to play in the western finals of the Connaught Cup competition.

The first half was scoreless.

The teams will play their second game Monday. Smoothness in every department and a defence that compared very favorably with anything seen here in years, plus a two-goal lead, should enable the Coasters to emerge in the series.

FRANCE WILL ENTER OLYMPIC GAMES

Large Perfume Manufacture Loans Required Sum to Finance Teams.

PARIS, July 25 (Canadian Press)—France will, after all, figure in the Olympic games at Amsterdam in 1928.

Upon learning that the French Olympic Committee had decided last Wednesday not to participate in the Amsterdam competition because of failure of the French Government to vote the necessary credits for the training of athletes and other expenses, Francois Coty, perfume manufacturer and proprietor of The Figaro, offered a loan of one million francs to defray the expenses of preparation until Parliament is able to vote the appropriation in the Fall.

The offer was accepted by Count Clary, President of the French Olympic Committee. In addition, The Paris Journal has opened a public subscription to meet Olympic expenses which has already brought in a substantial sum.

WINNIPEG RETAINS LIPTON ROWING CUP

Canadians Were 84 Points Ahead of Minnesota Boat Club of St. Paul.

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 25.—(Canadian Press).—The Sir Thomas Lipton Cup, the grand aggregate prize of the Northwest Rowing Association's regatta was retained by the Winnipeg Boat Club, at the conclusion of two days sport here on Saturday. The Canadians scored 192 points. The Minnesota Boat Club of St. Paul was second with 108 points, the Kenora Boat Club of Kenora, Ont., fifth with four points.

On Saturday, Winnipeg won victories in the senior doubles, the bantam fours, the senior singles and the senior eights. Winnipeg was second in the juniors fours which was won by the Minnesota Boat Club. Duluth took the work boats fours by a quarter of a length from Kenora.

WINS CHAMPIONSHIP NORTHERN DIVISION

Results of Regatta Qualify Winners for National Meet at Gananoque.

CARLETON PLACE, Ont., July 25 (Canadian Press). — The Ottawa-New Edinburgh Canoe Club won the grand aggregate championship of the Northern Division of the Canadian Canoe Association at the annual regatta held here on Saturday. The Ottawa-New Edinburgh crews gathered in 31 points and the Rideaus of Ottawa got 26. Carleton Place won 6 points and Gananoque 3 points.

The faces qualify the winners placed to enter the National Regatta at Gananoque next Saturday.

HARVARD-YALE LOSE

English Team Defeats American College Team in Tennis Tournament.

CHATHAM, England, July 25.—(Canadian Press).—The combined English services tennis team on Saturday defeated the Harvard-Yale team eight matches to three. The English team took four of the singles and four of the doubles, while the American college men captured two of the singles and one of the doubles.

To my humble way of thinking, Max Carey, now with the Brooklyn Dodgers, but who won his great fame with Pittsburgh, must be rated as one of the greatest ball players of all time, with few peers as a base-runner.

To the ability to take a commanding lead and seldom be caught napping by the pitcher and the art of breaking perfectly with the pitch, add great speed and a most deceptive slide and you have the reasons for Carey's great skill on the bases.

While it isn't generally known, Max Carey, during his 16 years connection with the National League, has topped that organization in 10 of those years as champion base-runner, first winning the title in his third year as a big leaguer.

Twice during those 10 years he has captured the title for four consecutive seasons. After winning in 1913, he failed to repeat in 1914, but was first the next four seasons. He slipped back in 1919, largely because he played in only 66 games. He came through in 1920, failed the following year and then won the base-running honors for four successive seasons.

During 16 years in the majors, Carey has pilfered 688 bases for an average of 43 per season, a most remarkable performance.

When you recall that Ty Cobb, great base-runner that he was, has led the American League only six seasons in 22, it gives you some idea of Carey's brilliance as a base-runner.

G. N. Gordon Soccer Cup Final Postponed; Players Chased By Rain Into the Pavilion

To the discouragement of many local soccer fans who faced the downpour of rain, that was interspersed with occasional bright spots, on Saturday afternoon, the G. N. Gordon Soccer Cup final was postponed, after the Masseys and the Thistle had only played ten minutes of the game.

A full eleven was placed on the field of play by the Masseys, while the Thistle were only able to muster nine players, and they had sent a messenger away to try and make out the quota.

After the customary spin of the coin, both teams endeavoured to control the ball by close tactics, but the ground was in an unplayable state that made the sphere all wet and heavy. Exchanges were very even until just before the deluge came, when George Blowers let drive from midfield to defeat the Thistle custodian with a lightning shot into the rigging. Thereafter the game was stopped as the rain continued with no abatement which left the referee with no other decision to make.

Last season the same atmospheric conditions prevailed when the Quaker Oats and the Thistle were scheduled to play in the same trophy and was never won by any team because the teams failed to function.

TILDEN WINS TENNIS TITLE

Captures National Clay Court Championship for Sixth Successive Year.

DEFEATS HENNESEY

DETROIT, Mich., July 25.—(Canadian Press).—William T. Tilden II succeeded himself as National Clay court title holder yesterday, assuming the title for the seventh time. The victory was his sixth in succession.

Playing conservative tennis, the perennial titleholder defeated John Hennessey, Indianapolis, 6-4, 6-1, 6-2. Hennessey attained partial revenge by being one of the winning pair in the later doubles match, Tilden and his partner A. L. Weiner, being the victims. Hennessey and Lucien Williams, Chicago, won the doubles title, held almost perpetually in the middle or far west, 6-4, 6-3, 3-6, 8-6. White and Thalheimer, Texans, winners of the event last year, did not defend their title.

CHESS TOURNAMENT

Results of Unfinished Sixth Round of the International Chess Games.

LONDON, July 25 (Canadian Press).—The unfinished sixth round of the international chess tournament was concluded on Saturday. The results:

Denmark defeated Hungary; Austria defeated Spain; Holland defeated Czecho-Slovakia, and Germany defeated Sweden, all 3—1.

Switzerland defeated Belgium 3½ to ½; Jugo-Slavia 2½ to 1½; Italy defeated Austria 2½ to 1½; Hungary defeated Argentina 3½ to ½; Denmark defeated France 3 to 1.

Hungary now has 23 points, and looks like a certain winner, with Denmark 20, as a possible second.

WHAT A HOPE!

Bridge Players Have So Long Chances It Won't Fit in Heading.

LONDON, Eng., July 23.—(Canadian Press).—The odds that in a game of bridge each player will receive an entire suit on the deal are 2,000 billion billions to one against. But this miracle happened recently in a game at the Cavendish Hotel, Bedford. The exact division of the suits among the players took place in the course of the third rubber with the same pack, which was not new when the game began.

"If it had occurred in the first deal," said J. E. C. Robinson, a Bedford Chartered Surveyer who was one of the players, "I should have thought that someone had been playing Patience with the cards."

All four players have sent a certificate of the authenticity of the deal to the Editor of the "Auction Bridge Magazine."

MONEY LENDERS IN BRITAIN CURBED

New Bill Bars Compound Interest and Forces Production of Statements.

LONDON, July 23 (Canadian Press). — The Moneylenders' Bill which has passed the House of Commons and is now before the House of Lords, is practically certain of a safe passage to the Statute Book. The Bill is expected to come into force next New Year's Day. Its provisions are:

1—Every moneylender must take out an annual license costing £15, in respect of each of his offices; 2, moneylenders' circulars are declared illegal unless asked for; 3, moneylenders may advertise only in a specified form; 4, moneylenders may not employ canvassers (touts) or agents.

5—Memoranda of contracts must be signed by borrowers and copies supplied to borrowers within seven days; (6) Contracts must show the date of the loan and the interest per cent. per annum; (7) Compound interest, and increase in the rate of interest for default are prohibited: (8) Moneylenders must supply on the borrower's demand at any time a record of the state of any loan.

(9)—Interest is limited to 48 per cent. per annum, unless proof can be produced that higher interest is not "harsh and unconscionable." (10) Preliminary charges are forbidden, and there is a general limit of twelve months from the date of default to actions by moneylenders; (11) The measure applies (with certain modifications) to Scotland, but not to Northern Ireland.

During the discussion of amendments Campbell Stephen, Labor member for the Camlachie Division of Glasgow, caused much amusement by reading the following circular just sent by a moneylander to one of his constituents who had just become a mother.

"I was pleased to see through the Press of the safe arrival of your little son, and trust most sincerely you are both making satisfactory progress. How relieved you must be to feel that the little might (sic) is a boy, and that he is strong and well. Please accept my heartiest congratulations and good wishes. At a time when you are rejoicing over the arrival you may also be pleased to know that if you are ever in financial difficulties I am prepared to grant any sum from £3 upwards to you and your little son."

RUTH'S HOMER WINS GAME FOR N. Y. YANKEES

Babe Gets His Thirty-First Home Run of the Season.

CLEVELAND WINS

Athletics' Poor Fielding Allows Indians to Take Both Games.

NEW YORK, July 25.—(Canadian Press).—Babe Ruth's heavy hitting gave the Yankees a 3 to 2 victory at Chicago yesterday in a pitcher's battle between Al Thomas and Pipgras. Ruth scored the first run on his triple in the first inning, followed by Gehrig's single. Metzler made at great catch of Ruth's drive against the center field wall but fell after taking the ball. The White Sox protested that he had held the ball long enough to declare Ruth out, but Umpire Evans overruled them. In the third inning Ruth smashed out his 31st. home run, the first circuit drive he has made into the remodeled Chicago stands this season.

Chicago bunched hits in the fourth and sixth inning to tie the count but Thomas weakened in the seventh inning, a walk to Collins, a sacrifice and Koenig's single sent over the deciding run. Pipgras grew unsteady in the ninth and was relieved by Wilcy Moore who retired the side in order.

Cleveland Wins.

Cleveland won a double header from Philadelphia at Cleveland, 9 to 6 and 5 to 2. The Athletics' fielding was ragged. A wild throw by Boley permitted three Indians to cross the plate in the eighth inning of the first game with the winning run. Walberg's two bases on balls in the seventh inning of the second game helped put the locals in the lead.

The Red Sox checked the winning streak of the Tigers which had reached five games by taking the closing contest of the Detroit series. The score was 8 to 7.

Tigers Lose.

The Tigers lost after overcoming a four run lead that the Boston Club built up in the second inning. Detroit rallied in the ninth and had the tying run on third base when the game ended.

The Washington Senators staged a slugging fest at St. Louis and won the final game of the series from the Browns 14-6. Twelve of Senators' 17 hits came in the sixth and seventh innings. Crowder and Wingard were knocked out of the box and Vangilder also was pounded hard. The Browns got as many hits as the Senators but they were untimely.

MEUSEL RELEASED

Has Played in Four World Series With New York Giants.

NEW YORK, July 25.—(Canadian Press).—Emil (Irish) Meusel, veteran outfielder, was unconditionally released yesterday by the Brooklyn Robins. Meusel joined the Brooklyn club this season and previously he played with the New York Giants, participating in four world series with the latter club.

BLACK BOTTOM IS OLD.

QUEBEC, P. Q., July 22.—Jacques Garneau, 60-year-old folk dancer, has proved the Black Bottom no new dance. His recent interpretation of the dance at the Canadian folk song and handicraft festival, brought out the wiggling hip, quivering knee and spinal movements featured in the modern Black Bottom. Officials of the National Museum of Canada said the dance was brought to the New World by French colonists more than 300 years ago.

LESS AND LESS!

CHARLOTTE, N. C., July 22. — There seems to be no change in flapper attire this year, but those "in the know" are aware of a weighty difference. Last summer the weight of the average girl's attire was found to be sometimes as low as 14 ounces. This year, merchants have estimated, the weight is to reach an even dozen. Many flappers have abandoned corselets, the merchants say, and wear simply step-in, slip and dress.

Raybestos and Crescents cross bats at Exhibition Park this evening, and the fans should see another interesting battle. The East Peterborough League is furnishing a hot scrape for first and second positions, and all three city teams are going into the stretch for the play-off.

SOFTBALL NEWS.

The Lock Works and C.G.E. are billed for tomorrow night in a post season softball fixture at Confederation Square. These two teams have met once in the series, the Lock Works winning out by a narrow margin after a good game. Tomorrow night's game should be equally as interesting as the last meeting of the Lockmakers and Electricians.

The Lock Works need a win tomorrow night to stay in the running, while a loss for the C.G.E. will practically eleminate them. The game is scheduled for 6.15 sharp and should draw a good crowd.

On Wednesday the Belmonts and Examiner will meet.

BASEBALL NOTES.

The Kiwanis Bantams will practice at Sacred Heart church grounds on Tuesday and Thursday of this week, starting at 6 o'clock sharp. All players are requested to attend.

GOLF NEWS.

An eleven of the Peterboro C. C. motored to Armour Heights, North Toronto on Saturday, to play the Toronto C. C., but rain precluded all chance of a game. The Toronto C. C. has a very fine club house, and entertained the visitors very hospitably to lunch, and until their departure late in the afternoon.

It is expected a match will be arranged with the above club for Saturday, July 30th, at the Oval, and on August 1st an eleven will play the Bell Telephone C. C. at Upper Canada College.

All members are urged to be out for practice on Saturday at 3 o'clock sharp.

OLD PIPE FOUND IN MAYAN RUINS

Unbroken Bowl Discovered in Cavity Between Two Rocks.

MAGNIFICENT TYPE.

NEW YORK, July 25.—Last February the archaeologists of the Carnegie Institution in excavating the floor of the Northwest Colonnade, the long-columned hall which flanks the front of the Temple of the Warriors' pyramid, Chichen Itza, Yucatan, uncovered four fragments of a smoker's pipe which when fitted together formed a complete and magnificent specimen.

The stem, broken into three pieces, was lying on the lowest floor level many feet below what is now the surface of the earth. Two feet or so away, in a cavity between two rocks of the filling material, lay the unbroken bowl of the pipe.

Dropped by Servant.

Perhaps a careless temple servant, centuries ago, dropped it, and to avoid punishment attempted to hide the pieces. Perhaps some Mayan bad boy as a mischievous prank broke the pipe and secreted the fragments. Whatever the reason to account for finding the pieces in such an unexpected place, the archaeologists are delighted in having brought to light such a splendid example of Mayan artistry.

The pipe, made of red clay, is 21 inches long. The flaring bowl, still showing traces of smoke, is set back about three inches from one end. The projecting stem is shaped into the likeness of a duck's head. The head itself is hollow and contains a pellet of clay or of some other material, for the pipe rattles when it is shaken.

This is the most remarkable smal object so far found by the excavatorl at Chichen Itza. It has been turned over to representatives of the archaeological department of the Mexican Government, who have placed it with many other exhibits found by Carnegie Institution workers in the Archaeological and Historical Museum in Merida, Yucatan.

About the same time the excavators uncovered a remarkably well preserved Chac Mool figure, making the eleventh so far discovered at this site. These curious figures made of stone image one of the minor Toltec deities. They are always represented as a human form reclining on back and elbows, with knees drawn up, arms pressed tightly to sides and uplifted head turned to one side. The abdomen is flattened or hollowed out, presumably to form a receptacle for incense, Perfect Except for Nose.

The one just found is in perfect condition except for the nose, which seems to have been battered off instead of broken by a clean blow. It is about four feet long and stands upon a stone pedestal, a foot high, which is covered with stucco and painted red. The figure seems to have had several renewals of plaster and to have been painted at one time blue and against white with vertical red stripes. The hair as carved in the stone is long and hangs down the back, being gathered together by a head fillet knotted behind with two little pendent tabs.

This figure is unusual inasmuch as a small human head with streaming hair is carved on either thigh. In no other Chac Mool so far found does this feature occur.

E. H. Morris, in immediate charge of the excavators, in writing of the discovery of this figure, adds interesting detail:

"During the excavation of the chamber in question something happened which I hesitate to mention, for I feel creepy as if in some uncanny way I had for an instant touched hands with a shade from the years long past.

"Every here and there in the rubble fill column blocks and elements of the sculptured door jambs, of which we found parts last year, were coming to light. One morning I was standing amid these disarticulate elements reconstructing in mind the form and details of the temple. It was essentially like the Temple of the Warriors, and also like Thompson's Temple on the east side of the Court of Columns.

"Each of these had a Chac Mool on the terrace in front of the portal; hence the buried temple should have had one also. Then, as clearly as if some one had spoken, came the impression. 'They dragged the Chac Mool inside and put it there in the southwest corner.'

"I was so impressed that I mentioned the probability at lunch that day. I could not get the notion out of my head. By Saturday morning I had driven the breast of the cut across to within a metre of the corner. At this point we came upon a great number of fragments comprising the jaws of one of the great serpent heads we found last year.

"These the ancient masons had broken up and built into the fill. I loosened all that were in sight, digging below the level we were following to do so, then motioned to one of my men to shovel out the crumbled mortar that had filled the spaces between. As he scraped up the last shovel full, he said, 'Aqui esta el braza de un Christiano' (here is the arm of a human being) "Christiano" being, in local vernacular, a synonym for" human being."

Carved by Hand From Block.

"It was. The Chac Mool lay on its side, extending beneath a huge mass of over hanging masonry, so that several days passed before we had it completely uncovered, but the days of waiting were well repaid, for the figure is the finest of its kind which the eye of modern man has thus far seen. It was carved by the hand of a master from a single block. It lacks the grotesquene's of most Chac Mools, the lines being very close to those of a human body. The exquisiteness of the carving is surpassed by few things Maya. A human head inverted, with streaming hair, appears to be attached to the belt at each side. The head piece is a sort of helmet with a crouching animal surmounting it, the tiger-like head thereof being in full relief, the tail hanging over the left shoulder. . . ."

Dr. S. G. Morley, in charge of the Carnegie Institution staff, has just made an exploratory visit to an Old Empire site in the State of Campeche, which was discovered last January by the Inspector of Archaeological Monuments for the Mexican Government. Dr. Morley reports finding on this trip more than a dozen new carved stelae and photographing them. These stelae are monolithic slabs of stone elaborately sculptured with human figures and hieroglyphics. They were erected by the ancient Mayans, to record the passage of time, it is believed, and of important events in Mayan chronology. In reality, these monuments are great almanacs in stone.

The ancient Mayans had a remarkable system of recording time. It consisted of signs or hieroglyphics carved in stone to indicate the number of days which had elapsed since the beginning of Mayan history. A certain character, for example, represented a single day, another represented a Mayan month of twenty days, while still another stood for a year of 360 days. Then there were signs for twenty-year periods and for periods of four centuries. The system is said to be amazingly accurate within a period of 374,000 years and was an extraordinary achievement for any people.

The clue which enabled Dr. Morley and other archaeologists to read the hieroglyphic writing on these monuments was found in Madrid, Spain, in 1863. It consisted of a manuscript history of Yucatan, written in 1566 by Padre Landa, a Franciscan missionary, who spent many years among the natives. Landa described the manners and customs of the Maya in some detail.

But in his description of the native calendar he placed the modern archaeologist under deep obligation for, through information which he gave, the hieroglyphic puzzle, upon which many persons have been at work since the Landa manuscript was found, is slowly being unravelled.

Monument in Tropical Jungle.

Last year Dr. Morley and members of his staff discovered one such monument in the midst of a tropical jungle covering the site of the ancient Maya city of Cora. The shaft, four feet wide and ten feet heigh, was elaborately carved on all four sides, the front and back with figures of rulers and their slaves, the narrow sides with columns of hieroglyphics.

The most striking figure was that of a king, holding in both arms a double-headed staff, the Maya emblem of authority. A gorgeous head-dress of sweeping plumes, rising above his head, falls over his shoulders. Symbolic of his power, this long-forgotten ruler stands upon the back of a captive, while in the lower corners of the monument kneel two worshipful human figures.

It is upon these tables of stone that the archaeologists are chiefly relying in their attempt to answer the perplexing questions about the industry of the Mayan people. The finding of new monuments therefore is a matter of consequence to the student of Mayan archaeology for there is always the hope that through deciphering the carvings which cover them, a flood of light will be thrown upon this remarkable race of American aborigines.

Press the ground meat into a dry pan (cake tin) to a depth of about one inch, place in hot oven and turn fire down. Meat will cook through in about five minutes. A tasty addition may be made by grinding spinach or parsley with the meat.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question: Mrs. H. H. H. writes: "Have been reading your articles for some time, and have received much benefit. I also have your book. Would like to ask if the sweetening of buttermilk kills certain germs which I am told are beneficial to one's system."

Answer: The addition of sugar to buttermilk increases the growth of the lactic-acid bacteria, and is often prescribed by physicians who recommend the Bulgarian milk diet. I suggest that you use figs or dates along with your buttermilk, and use this combination as a meal and not in addition to your regular food.

Question: Mrs. K. L. B. writes: "I am in poor health. I love fruits of all kinds but cannot eat them. I always have a headache from eating strawberries, rheumatism from oranges, bowel and stomach trouble, nervousness, and headache from apples. Why is this?"

Answer: The cause of your trouble is hyperacidity of the stomach. If you will take a fruit fast for a few days you will get over all of the symptoms which now trouble you. Use only one fruit during any one day, and keep on with your fruit diet until you are feeling well and have no unpleasant symptoms of any kind.

Question: Wm. J. C. writes: "On account of a sluggish, half-sick feeling in the mornings I do not eat any breakfast, but during the day drink lots of milk and chocolate milkshakes. Why this lack of appetite on arising?"

Answer: Take fruit for breakfast and lunch, and eat a well balanced meal at night. Eliminate the milk and milkshakes entirely and you will soon find you are hungry for breakfast and your nausea will disappear.

DRIVER AVERTS CROSSING CRASH

Death Comes So Close That Motorist is Unable to Move For Some Minutes.

AT C.P.C. SIDING.

So close to a terrible death was A. Levasseur, driving a car over the C. P. R. siding on George street, leading to the Canadian Packing Company on Saturday afternoon, that he remained motionless in his seat for some moments after all danger had passed, until he regained control of himself, and was able to continue his journey.

With his younger brother and sister in the car, young Levasseur, driving southward at a fast pace approached the crossing just as a train was shunting into the packing plant. He failed to observe the trainman signalling frantically with outstretched arms to stop his progress.

Suddenly becoming aware of his danger, within a fraction of a second, the car driver diverted his wheel towards the fence and the car raced in the same direction as the freight while the train was across the street.

With his countenance showing signs of fright, he did not move out of his position until the much-needed nerve had come back as the train men reprimanded him from the receding freight truck.

A hometown friend reveals his mother's presence at the moment when the boy is being lauded at a dazzling dinner which is given in his honor. Broska proves himself worthy of such a mother by his instant and fond recognition of the old woman, who had given up all for him.

In the early part of Broska's college days a story had been started that he was of noble Polish birth. He had not stopped the tale and a snobbish co-ed had cultivated his acquaintance. The revelation of his parentage alienates her. Broska goes back with his mother to the mining town, where he finds that the girl he had left behind him, is engaged to his best friend.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

THE NICEST MOTHER.

A lot of mothers may be fine,
I know that none's as nice as mine,
Though some folks say,
"All children do,"
I know a way
To prove it's true,
A way to prove, of all the rest,
That my own mother is the best.

For often mother takes me out
Where other mothers are about.
They call my name,
They pat my head,
They say the same
Things mother said,
But not a one I ever meet
That ever makes it sound as sweet.

And when they kiss me once or twice
It doesn't seem the least bit nice.
I want to run,
That's really true,
It's just no fun
When some folks do,
But when my mother kisses me
It's just as nice as nice can be.

I've even had to eat their cake;
It's not as nice as she can make,
Just lots of ways,
And lots of things,
The way she plays,
The way she sings,
My mother's best. Besides, last night,
My daddy told me I was right.

Irish Hearts

By MOLLIE MALONE.

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

"IRISH HEARTS," with May McAvoy, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Emmett Murtough, a roistering young man of Killanmaul, a village on the west coast of Ireland, hears the call of America. He is in love with Sheila Kildare, daughter of Old Tom Kildare, who had let his farm go to ruin while he talked politics to the villagers. The fair at Knockbotherum, a few miles away, has begun and an old fortune teller is one of the chief attractions to the country folk.

"Th' ould witch do still be bringin' luck to th' childer," they would whisper as they made their way on, and the sentimental wife and mother would clutch the arm of her lord and master a bit more firmly as the vision of his fine youthful figure would loom for the moment out of memory's past.

"'Tis a wife ye need for good ballast, Emmett Murtough," the old fortune teller said, the while she shuffled the cards upon the table in front of her. She gazed frankly into the blue eyes, squinting now in a frown and he listened. "Ye've a gift for gab and a gift fer the makin' o' frinds of strangers, but 'tis a wife ye need lad, a good girl an' none o' these teasin' baggages with flighty heads."

"An' ye think I would do well away?" he asked.

"Ye might an' yet again ye mightn't. But there's a voyage in the cards for ye an' it'll be soon. But ye'll have to stand on yer own, me lad. 'Tis little the fairies did give ye. It may be ye were fine fields he beat, too, he would boast. Left to herself Sheila visited the booths alone; sometimes joining in with a group of gay girls from Killanmaul way and four abreast, arm in arm, they would skip along the main thoroughfare of the fair grounds returning smile for smile with the young blades who passed.

Milk and egg pennies had been saved and treasured in the blue pot on the shelf above the fireplace at the Kildare cottage for months before fair time. This treasure was now Sheila's to spend for what she willed; for bright ribbons and a piece of silk or a pair of stockings and, yes, even a pair of bright garters, which she tucked away in her bag that no one might ever see! Sheila had shopped alone and she was idling away before the booths waiting for Old Tom when she came to Mother O'Reilly's tent.

"Tell y'er fortune, pretty miss," the old woman pleaded. "Only a shilling, an' 'tis a fair fortune ye have, as I can see with my own eyes," she tempted. Sheila hesitated. A hand touched her shoulder.

"Go on, Sheila. She told mine an' she says it's a voyage I'm to take and soon. 'Tis on me way to America I'll be before many days," Emmett Murtough boasted.

"America? Oh, Emmett, not right away," she cried.

"The old hag says 'tis to be soon, didn't you, Mother," Emmett asked of the fortune teller. The old woman nodded.

"But I said 'tis a good wife ye'll be needin'," the old woman added, "an' ye'll never do better than her I'm thinkin', if ye can win her, lad."

Sheila blushed.

"'Tis my one an' only sweetheart she is," said Emmett.

"'Tis on me way to America I'll be before many days."

"Go on, ye gabbler you," Sheila laughed as she gave him a playful push. "I'll have me fortune told an' I'm sure there's a handsomer man than you awaitin' fer me," she cried as she sat down opposite Mother O'Reilly.

"'Tis a merry heart ye have," began the fortune teller as she laid out the cards, "an' a brave one. The fairies were good to ye an' they gave ye the gifts for happiness in yer life."

"Go way, Emmett Murtough," Sheila cried as he lingered near. "I'll have no one hearin' me fortune but meself. Go an' find Dad, for 'tis goin' home we must be with half the night to drive the way. Will ye ride home with us, Emmett?"

"No, 'tis stayin' in Knockbotherum I am tonight," he said as he "I suppose I'll find the down near the stock (which position?) Sheila. "I haven't he hours now." an' 'tis a fine life There'll be ups worries an' all, for everybody. been good to siness waitin' at be brave an' he trouble love," girl's but take king any ye'r eyes be that ready age, knows th ye! daring."

Suchow-Fu is an important railroad junction in the northern section of Kiangsu, which borders the province of Shantung, and if the occupation is confirmed, it would seem to indicate that Chang has succeeded in driving the Nationalist (Southern) forces of General Chiang-Kai-Shek out of Shantung.

ASSURANCE VERSUS DOUBT.

To say "there is no death" is to utter a colossal lie, which lie was first told to Mother Eve, by Satan, who is not only a liar, but also a murderer. Satan has for ages used preachers and religious publications to propagate this lie. On account of this propaganda, we have in our midst almost all classes of people who glibly and flippantly say "there is no death." This lie has been so inextricably interwoven into the creeds and hymns of to-day that it requires some brave personal thinking and acting to extricate ourselves from the entagling mixture. Death is an awful gruesome reality. It is the extinction of life, the cessation of being. Death is a cruel enemy. It robs us of our loved ones, making our hearts ache with sorrow. All normal human beings hate death and love life. There is comfort in the fact that our loved ones, who have died, shall be resurrected and live again. "All who are dead and in their graves shall hear the voice of the Son of God and come forth. Sickness, pain and death will finally be a thing of the past."
M. T. BUTCHER.

Wash RAYON this safe way

RAYON is more sensitive to laundering than any other fabric—never wring it, never twist it, never rub it with cake soap. Rayon is most fragile when wet.

As you might expect, Rayon should be washed only in mild, pure Lux suds—dipping it gently up and down as you do silks.

BANDSMEN LIKE HOLIDAYS HERE

Members of Monaca Concert Spending Vacation at Cameron Lake.

APPRECIATE COURTESIES.

Among the regular visitors from south of the boundary line who have made their summer headquarters in this district is the Monaca Cornet Band, the members of which have once more settled for the holidays in Fenelon Falls. As in former years, the band has not stinted itself in giving enjoyable concerts which have added greatly to the amenities of the charming neighbourhood of Cameron Lake.

The officers of the band, Frank Eusang, captain; Henry Miksch, assistant captain; Carl Miksch, treasurer, and M. A. Hackman, secretary, express themselves as being increasingly captivated by the charms of the scenery of the city, and by the courtesy of all classes of Canadians.

The readiness of the C.N.R. officials and the Customs officers to expedite the despatch of visitors' effects has earned the commendation of these musical tourists.

MILAN, July 25 (United Press). — A hurrican, accompanied by a thunderstorm, that swept northern Italy on Saturday night, killed six persons, whipped the canals of Venice into waves, and destroyed the flagpole and lamps before ancient St. Mark's Church.

CAR SMASHES LARGE WINDOW

M. Gishman Hits Front of Davis-Thompson Office When Parking.

CAR LITTLE HURT.

Driving a new car which had not yet covered 30 miles and still carried the dealer's license plate, Mr. Gishman crashed into the large window of the Davis-Thompson office on Georeg Street at 3.25 this afternoon.

Mr. Gishman, who was accustomed to handling an entirely different type of car, was travelling south on George Street in his new car. His little son, who accompanied him, asked for some candies, and Mr. Gishman turned towards the sidewalk to park. Bystanders, who witnessed the affair, expressed the opinion that, intending to brake the car, Mr. Gishman accidentally stepped on the accelerator, forcing the car over the walk with violent impact against the office front.

Mr. Gishman, however, declares that the accident was caused simply by his failure, through lack of sufficient knowledge of the car he was handling, to apply the brakes in time.

When the car was halted, the rear end swung to the left and came in contact with the side of another car, the rear fender striking the running board of the other. The front fender of Mr. Gishman's car was damaged.

The large plate glass window and much of the woodwork of the front of the Davis-Thompson office was completely destroyed.

Constable Puffer arrived soon after the accident and took down the statement of Mr. Gishman and witnesses.

TORONTO, July 25 (Canadian Press).—It was announced today by Hon. W. M. Finlayson, Minister of Lands and Forests, that the permission of the Ontario Government has not yet been granted Captains Maxwell and Tully for their London to London flight. Hon. Mr. Finlayson stated that consent to their participation in the project was being considered. "We must be assured that our own interests will not suffer—I haven't seen Capt. Maxwell yet. I expect to see him early this week," he concluded.

EXPLOSION IN HOLE NEARLY KILLS MEN

One Workman Hurled Straight Up As He Lights Torch.

TORONTO, July 25 (Canadian Press). — Three city employees, Thomas Griffin, George Irons, and George Geatoma, had a narrow escape from death as they were digging for a location for a viaduct pier. Griffin lit a torch of paper in the excavation, and a terrific explosion followed. He was blown straight into the air. Almost simultaneously, explosions occurred in two manholes on a nearby street. It is thought gasoline escaped into the ground from a leaky underground pipe line.

AROUND THE CITY

It was announced in the Catholic churches yesterday that the date of the annual pilgrimage to the Shrine of the Holy Canadian Martyrs, at Fort Ste. Marie, will be Sunday, August 21st.

More than 250 passengers were on board the steamer Stoney Lake when it sailed for Lindsay to-day.

SAVED FROM GALLOWS FIVE TIMES

Russell Scott, former Canadian, who, five times has been saved from the gallows, the last time by a Supreme Court reversal of the conviction, has been granted a re-trial continuance to September 12, by a Chicago judge. Scott's case has attracted the attention of the nation since the murder several years ago of a drug clerk, to which he at first pleaded guilty, and then switched the story, blaming his brother. Many prominent persons of the United States have contributed to the defense fund. Photo shows Russell Scott, LEFT, and his attorney, William Scott Stewart, in court at the recent hearing.

Toronto Exchange Active With Many Big Gains

TORONTO, July 25 (Canadian Press). — The market on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day showed a wide range of issues with a number of considerable gains being recorded, while losses were in the main of a fractional character. Brazilian Traction was the feature, with an advance of 2½ points to 168⅝. It was second in activity to Industrial Alcohol, which led the list in point of volume, and advanced ¼ to 33¼. Bell Telephone was in good demand at 150¼, a gain of ⅞. British Columbia fishing issues were dull, with Common declining ⅛ to 18¼. Cosmos dropped ¼ to 26¼, while C.P.R. was a weak spot with a drop of one point to 185. International Nickel was quiet and off ⅛ to 61. Massey-Harris displayed strength at 37⅝ up ⅛. Seagram was firm at 22⅞. Other distilleries issues were dull. British-American Oil dropped ½ to 24½.

Favorable Weather Causes Drop in Wheat

CHICAGO, July 25 (Canadian Press). — Influenced by favorable weather throughout the Spring crop belt and by large receipts of new Winter wheat, the wheat market turned downward early today. This side of the Canadian line in particular, black rust damage, if any, promised to be light.

Opening ¾ cent to 1⅛ cent off, wheat later underwent a decided further drop. Corn developed strength, starting unchanged to ¾ cent down, but subsequently scoring gains. Oats were easier. Provisions held steady.

Opening prices were: Wheat, July 1.41½, September 1.38¼. Corn, July 99, September 1.03⅝. Oats, July 43⅝, September 43.

Stock Prices Continue Upward At New York

NEW YORK, July 25. Canadian Press. — Stock prices continued to press forward to-day despite profit taking and stiffening of call money rates. Standard industrials led the upswing in which more than a score of issues, including General Motors, American Tobacco, Radio Corporation and Timken Roller Bearing attained new peak prices.

Motors responded to reports of large current business and expectations of favorable earning statements by some of the largest producers.

General Motors climbed above 220 for the first time, but Mack Trucks was heavy. Bear traders continued to ferret out the weak spots but met with little general success. United States cast iron pipe was hammered down 5 points and weakness cropped out in Paramount Famous Players, and a few other specialties, but it failed to halt the rising trend elsewhere.

Peterborough also claims the tinction of holding some relation to the noted and famed flier, Charles Lindbergh.

When Dr. Land, grandfather of Lindbergh, was practicing dentistry in Detroit, on Woodward avenue, he invented different things to improve the methods then commonly taught and practised in his profession. Another was a new method of making nitrous-oxide gas which, with an ingenious broken jawsetter, Dr. Allen purchased from him. The broken jaw setter may be seen in Dr. Allen's office at any time during business hours.

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

Rev. K. Corkery, speaking on the Third Commandment at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday morning, referred with special emphasis to the veneration of the Blessed Sacrament, as practised from the early ages of the Church. The Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, he said, was essentially an evening devotion, making a fitting conclusion to the celebration of the Lord's Day. It consisted of the Exposition of the Blessed Sacrament and prayers to God of praise and thanksgiving for the blessings and graces He had bestowed on us, also petition for a continuance of these favours.

The incense used in this devotion was a symbol of praise ascending from the heart free from the stain of mortal sin, while the prayers and hymns used were also in keeping with the aspect of praise and devotion. This ceremony was a source of strength and comfort to all attending. We should ask for the simplicity of the small child who raises his heart to God, for a renewal of zeal and for strength to fight the temptations of the world. We should resolve not to sin again and to avoid the occasions of sin, and to be able to gaze upon the Blessed Sacrament, free from wounds of the soul. On our knees, in humility and respect, we should acknowledge our gratitude to the Creator and should beg for the graces which will prepare us to meet Him in all His power and majesty. We should go forth filled with zeal and with resolution to purify ourselves for the time when we will meet God face to face in the hereafter.

WESTERN GRAIN CROP IS GOOD

Progressing Favorably in Most Places in Spite of Trouble.

NO SERIOUS MENACE.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 25 (Canadian Press). — The grain crop of Western Canada, despite the series of recent climatic disturbances, is progressing favourably, and all reports indicate that generally yields will be high if weather conditions are not abnormal between now and harvest. Heading out of wheat is very widely reported, and the most advanced crops are in the milk stage.

The menaces which in past years have cut crop yields have not manifested themselves in a serious form this season. Drought is nowhere a factor. Cut worms have appeared in some districts without causing heavy damage, and other insect pests have been checked by cool, wet weather. Rust is reported from a number of points, although nowhere very bad.

Several Hundred Men Being Imported By Subway Companies.

NEW YORK, July 25 (Canadian Press). — Evidence that the transit companies are preparing for a strike on the subway lines to-morrow was seen to-day in the reported arrival at the railway yards of a hundred men said to be strike-breakers. The men, some of whom said they were part of several hundred recruited in Chicago, Pittsburgh, Washington, and Philadelphia, arrived at the yards on a special train.

BRITISH PROTEST UNOFFICIAL ALTHOUGH FEELING VERY HIGH

No Formal Message To Be Sent About Misrepresentation of Britain's Stand.

DIFFER IN MEASUREMENTS.

Britain Wants Many Small Cruisers, While United States Wants Equality.

LONDON, July 26 (United Press). —The protests of the British Ambassador in Washington, Sir Esme Howard, against the misrepresentation and misquotation in the United States of Great Britain's naval aims, were made only in the course of conversations with American officials, the British United Press learns. No formal official protest is likely, because although there is considerable feeling here regarding anti-British propaganda in the United States, which sometimes takes the form of actual misquotations from British official statements, it is believed that such propaganda is gradually dying down.

Differences Set Out.

In this connection it is stressed that the difference between Britain and the United States is simply a difference on naval requirements.

Britain needs cruisers to protect her trade routes, while America reasons that domestic politics and her prestige make equality with the British Navy necessary, but because the United States does not need the small cruisers Britain wants, Congress would not vote the money for their construction, it is emphasized in official quarters here.

Therefore, if America is to achieve equality, she must prevent Britain from building small cruisers, which the latter considers most necessary for her needs.

Britain proposes that a limit should be placed on the number of 10,000-ton cruisers constructed, but that each country should be allowed to build as many small cruisers as are in accordance with their respective needs.

Report Denied

LONDON, July 26 (Canadian Press).—The report published in several morning newspapers that Sir Esme Howard, British Ambassador at Washington, had been instructed to protest to Washington against anti-British propaganda in the American press in connection with the naval conference at Geneva, was not confirmed by the Foreign Office when called to its attention today. Officials said they had not heard anything of this nature. Pressed for a definite statement as to whether such a protest had been transmitted, the official spokesmen said, "All that can be said is that nothing is known in official circles here."

CLAIM NEGRO KILLED WIFE

Jealousy Said To Be Motive For Slaying on High Seas.

ROUGH VOYAGE.

NEW YORK, July 26 (Canadian Press).—Earl Battice, negro cook of the schooner Kingsway, was indicted yesterday for murder on the high seas in connection with the death of his wife. The extreme penalty for this crime is hanging, though the jury may recommend life imprisonment.

The indictment, handed down by the Federal Grand Jury, charges Battice with killing his wife with a rusty razor in a jealous rage while the Kingsway was off the Gold Coast of Africa.

Waldemar Karl Badke, the white donkey-engine man of the Kingsway, whose attentions to the negress are said by Federal officials to have led to the killing, is held with Battice in the tombs as a material witness.

The indictment for adultry on the high seas will be sought against him.

The killing of the cook's wife was only one of many untoward incidents aboard the Kingsway during its recently completed year's voyage. The mate died on board, the captain was incapacitated by illness, Battice broke out of irons after the killing and mutiny was narrowly averted.

EXHIBITION BOARD ACCEPTS TENDER TO BUILD NEW BARN

Cattle To Be Housed In New Quarters at Peterborough Fair.

COST TO BE $1,650.

Ticket Holders Claim Right To Take Cars Into Grounds Free.

A meeting of the Exhibition Board was held in the Council Room of the Chamber of Commerce last night. In the absence of the chairman, Roland Denne, Mr. Knox was elected chairman for the evening.

Mr. Knox reported that three tenders had been received for the erection of a new cattle barn, and that the lowest had been accepted—that of Mr. Dummitt—at a cost of $1,650, which would include labour and all necessary material needed to complete the barn. This is to be erected on a concrete base. A letter from Mr. Dummitt was read by the secretary stating that the prospective building would be a duplicate of the present cattle barn. The barn is scheduled by the committee to be completed not later than the 20th of August.

It was then moved by Reg. Turner, and seconded by R. M. Glover, that the giving of the tender be left in the hands of the committee.

Mr. Duncan requested the chairman to make certain that all terms that they had agreed on concerning the material of the barn, etc., should be specified and signed by the contractor, and to also make certain that the roof is to be of the best corrugated iron material.

A discussion then arose as to the position of the barn in regards to possession rights, or rather if they would be forced by tearing down the fence, to move back into the grounds some distance. It was moved by R .M. Glover, and seconded by Mr. Cummer, that this matter be left to the Grounds and Barn-building Committee.

Mr. Merrill requested that the Board would grant the annual $100 to the dog show.

Discussion concerning the price of admission tickets to members caused much dissension, for many of these ticketholders claim that these tickets, that cost the sum of two dollars, should allow them to take their cars into the grounds.

Mr. McIndoo remarked that the farmers were having much harder times than their city brothers, and that they could not spare either the time or money to come more than twice to the Exhibition.

Reg. Turner immediately rose and claimed that the farmers at the pre-

BIG TRANSPORTATION STRIKE THREATENS NEW YORK WORKERS

Little Optimism Held For Settlement at Meetings This Evening.

THREE PARTIES READY.

War Is Opened On "Company Unions" By Railway Workers.

NEW YORK, N.Y., July 26 (Associated Press).—Virtually certain of a strike that will to some extent cripple subway and elevated lines transporting about 2,500,000 persons daily, the principals in New York's railways dispute—the public, the companies and the employees—prepared yesterday for eventualities.

The railway companies, the Interborough Rapid Transit Company and the Brooklyn - Manhattan Transit Company, began preparation for the seige by bringing in substitutes for the men who have threatened to strike. More than 500 substitutes were housed in suitable places. They were reported brought from Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Washington, Albany, Buffalo and Watertown, Conn.

The employees rallied around their leaders, in whom they have invested authority to call a strike. Meetings were arranged to lay the causes of the strike before the public and sympathizers and the leaders continued their war on "company unions," a strong factor in the present situation.

The public, through city officials, took steps to insure a peaceful strike and substitute transportation. All police vacations were stopped and arrangements were made for handling emergencies.

Meanwhile the leaders of the employees issued statements and enrolled more men in their union, the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees. This organization is affiliated with the American Feedration of Labor. It is not recognized by the transit companies, who have an organization described as a "company union," besides recognition of the Amalgamated Association, the employees demand arbitration of all disputes.

The transit company officials, who have refused to meet the representatives of the employees, have said the number of employees belonging to the Amalgamated Association is too small to cause a serious strike.

The situation turns on two meetings scheduled for to-day. Officers of the Amalgamated Association Saturday sent the transit heads an ultimatum, demanding a reply before five o'clock this evening. If the answer is not on hand when the employees assemble at Brooklyn Labor Lyceum at that time, the strike will be put to the vote. Prior to that, however, there will be a meeting arranged by Mayor Walker, acting as mediator. The transit heads are reported to have agreed to meet with the Mayor and there is no doubt that the Amalgamated Association representatives will be on hand. There was little optimism about the outcome of this meeting.

Can't Deny He Is Ill, Dying, Or Dead, Says Tiger; Too Busy Learning New Steps To Dance At Wedding

PARIS, July 26 (Canadian Press).—Former Premier Georges Clemenceau was hard at it in his study in Rue Franklin yesterday, preparing for the marriage of his grandson, and getting ready work to occupy him during his summer's stay on the seashore on Vendee.

"I am so busy," declared the "Tiger," "that I haven't time to deny all these stories about my being ill, dying or dead.

"I've got to learn a few new steps so that I can dance at the wedding of my grandson, and get ready enough work to keep me out of mischief during my annual sojourn at Vendee. So I can't deny such nonsense."

PRINCE OF WALES ASKED TO VISIT CITY THIS FALL

Will Be Invited To Lay Corner Stone of Collegiate Extension.

DEFICIT ON CELEBRATION.

City Makes Up Loss of $2,700 On Jubilee Observance—Special Council Meeting.

His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales will be requested to visit Peterborough on his return from the western trip to lay the corner stone of the extension to the Collegiate. This was decided at a special meeting of the City Council last night.

The Peterborough celebration of the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation resulted in a deficit of $2,700, and the Council last night instructed the City Treasurer to issue a cheque for this amount.

Other business transacted at last night's meeting was as follows:

Moved by Alderman Macdonald and seconded by Alderman Stocker, that city engineer be authorized to close the square in front of the C.G.E. on the evening of August 12th, for a community dance to be held by the C.G.E. Company Social and Athletic Club. Carried.

Moved by Alderman Stocker and seconded that a reply be sent to Peck, Kerr and McElderry regarding their letter reporting a complaint of a nuisance at the city sewage disposal plant, that at the request of the city authorities, Dr. Berry, Provincial sanitary engineer of the Ontario Health Department, come to Peterborough and spent three days here with the City Engineer at the plant, and that the City Engineer will carry out his directions and his advice to be given. Carried.

Moved by Alderman Hancock and seconded by Alderman Denne, that the City Engineer be directed to have the parking space in front of P. R. J. MacPherson's and J. W. Watson's painted out at once. Carried.

Moved by Alderman Phelan and seconded by Alderman Green, that the request of the St. Joseph's Hospital to have its driveway oiled at the expense of the city be granted. Carried.

Moved by Alderman Denne and seconded by Alderman Macdonald, that the Premier of Ontario be requested to have the street railway rails removed from the streets and have the streets properly paved and that a copy of the request be sent to W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P. Carried.

Moved by Alderman Denne and seconded by Alderman Greene, that the City Engineer be authorized to substitute a black base for concrete base for the paving on Charlotte Street and on Hunter Street, in accordance with his recommendation. Carried.

Moved by Ald. Stocker and seconded by Ald. Macdonald, that the Peter Hamilton Company be allowed to cut a coal bin under their sidewalk in front of the premises. Carried.

Sailor Quits Ship By Jump Overboard

PRESCOTT, Ont., July 26.—Arthur G. Henney, aged 47, of Philadelphia, Penn., caused considerable excitement here last evening, when he leaped off the steamer Lake Ypsilanti, one of Henry Ford's shipping board vessels into the St. Lawrence River near the ferry dock as it was being towed up the river to Detroit. Henney had been in the water for some time, when he was rescued by members of the crew of the ferry steamer Levis, en route from Prescott to Ogdensburg, which took him to that city where he is being detained pending an investigation.

The only reason he gave for his act was that he "wanted to quit." He had been on the Lake Ypsilanti 43 days.

GOLD IS SHIPPED TO UNITED STATES

New York Financial District Considers Shipments Unusual for This Year

NEW YORK, July 26. — Canadian Press. — With Canada's export season in full swing and a heavy outward movement of wheat about to begin, the arrival of $1,500,000 in gold from Canada yesterday to the Bank of Montreal, and another shipment of $1,000,000 arranged for the Canadian Bank of Commerce, resulting from the depression of Canadian exchange, was considered in the financial district as an unusual occurrence at this season of the year.

The gold movements to New York was attributed by traders to the fact that the demand for Canadian exchange from abroad to pay for Canadian wheat has not begun as early as was expected. Another factor suggested was that Canadian financing abroad has been slack in recent weeks, partly due to the over-crowded bond market in New York.

Canadian business is said to be experiencing the seasonal dullness, which this country is passing through but a firmer tone in Canadian exchange is looked for shortly as soon as wheat exports and payments therefore begin in volume.

COUNTIES MAY CLOSE BRIDGE

Rebuilding of Defective Piers at Wallace's Point To Be Considered.

OPEN IN MEANTIME.

The Wallace Point bridge over the Otonabee River will be opened for light traffic as an immediate result of the inspection of it yesterday by representatives of the Councils of Peterborough County and the united counties of Northumberland and Durham. In the meanwhile a special meeting of Peterborough County Council will be held, probably within the next two weeks, at which a committee from the Northumberland and Durham Council will be present.

At this meeting the question of abandoning the bridge will be discussed. The Council could, if it wished, appeal to the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board for an order to close the bridge permanently, and the Board's decision would be final. It is likely, however, that the Councillors themselves will assume the responsibility of determining the future of this link between the Townships of Otonabee and South Monaghan.

Yesterday's conference seemed to incline to the opinion that the defective pier should be rebuilt. This would perhaps be a step toward permanent repairs or the construction of a new bridge. It was decided to obtain an estimate of the cost of complete replacement, and this information should be available for the special meeting of the Council.

Those present yesterday included Warden Middleton, Reeve Smithson and Deputy-Reeve McIntyre of Otonabee, Reeve R. T. Lillico, of North Monaghan, and Reeve D. Brown, of Apsley and Warden Elliott of Bowmanville, Reeve Fallis of Cavan, and George Greer, of Cobourg, counties road superintendent, representing Northumberland and Durham, and A. E. Fellowes, district engineer of the Ontario Highways Department.

Aimee Reorganizes Angelus Temple People "Four-Square Lighthouse Faith" Copies Army

LOS ANGELES, Calif., July 26 (United Press). — Dubbing Angelus Temple "The Four-Square Gospel Lighthouse," Aimee Semple McPherson announced here the re-organization of her religious followers into nation-wide groups which she will head as the "Rear-Admiral." The movement will parallel to some extent Salvation Army, with followers of the Temple wearing naval insignia, and the organization to be known as the "Four-Square Gospel Lighthouse Faith."

Mrs. McPherson announced that 250,000 members are already enrolled in the organization, and "lighthouses" will be established in every city in the country.

CHEMONG RESIDENTS EXPECT ELECTRIC SERVICE SHORTLY

Villagers and Cottagers Hear Proposition of Hydro Explained.

MANY SIGN PETITION.

Charge at Bridgenorth Would Be 63 Cents a Month Plus Meter Rate.

In an effort to further the progress of the movement to obtain Hydro-Electric light and power for the Chemong Road and Park sections of Smith Township, a meeting of members of the Chemong Park Cottagers' Association, villagers of Bridgenorth, and farmers of the district was held last night in the Foresters' Hall, Bridgenorth.

Gordon S. Matthews occupied the chair and explained the details of the schedule issued by the Utilities Commission on behalf of the Hydro-Electric Commission of Ontario. For ordinary lighting purposes, Bridgenorth residents would be offered hamlet service which would involve an estimated monthly service charge of 63 cents, or $7.56 per year. Mr. Matthews explained that all figures quoted were subject to 10 per cent. discount on prompt payment. If an electric stove and household electrical appliances were desired, the service charge would be $1.15 per month. Higher than the hamlet service scale of charges is the second-class of rural house lighting, the estimated gross annual service charge being $9.45. Small farm service gives between 2 and 3 horse-power to holdings under 50 acres at service charge of $14.49. Light farm service gives 3 or 4 horse-power to larger farms at $19.11 gross service charge per year. In addition to these charges will be the meter rates, supplied from Peterborough, estimated as follows: 4 cents per kilowatt-hour for the first 14 hours use per month of customers' class demand rating, minimum at first rate 30 kilowatt hours; 2 cents per kilowatt hour for all remaining uses, with the usual 10 per cent. discount for prompt payment. These rates, it was stated, were as cheap as those in the environs of any city in the province, leaving little room for complaint, declared Mr. Matthews.

Seventy-Two Houses Enough.

To build the line, the Hydro had estimated the requirements as 90 units of users. One ordinary house lighting service represents one and a quarter units; a farm calling for Class III. light farm service was estimated at 5 units. In Class 3 service the requirements were 3 users per mile, so that eighteen farmers along the road calling for service would assure the building of the line. Thirty cottagers and villagers, along with ten farmers, would be regarded as sufficient inducement to build a line. The required number of cottagers ready to sign was assured. Seventy-two cottagers and villagers, apart from the farmers entirely would provide the signatures necessary to bring the electricity.

It had been hoped to have at the meeting one of the Hydro engineers from Toronto to explain the scheme, but this could not be arranged. Ross Dobbin, manager of the Peterborough Utilities Commission, however, was present, said Mr. Matthews, and would endeavor to clear up any difficulties that might exist in the minds of the audience.

Farm Bill $2.25 a Month.

Mr. Dobbin cited some of the rural bills for light and power which were actually collected last year, showing a typical example. Class II.B, small farm service, to be around $27 per year. The fact that the Government had agreed to pay half the cost of line installation accounted for the reasonableness of the figures quoted.

The system was run on absolute cost; the rates here were lower than in most districts; and in no case had the farmers gone back on electric

Vacationists Will Envy King Able To Slip Away

SOFIA, July 26 (Canadian Press).—King Boris slipped away yesterday on his long-announced tour. He was accompanied by Princess Eudoxia and two members of his military and one member of his civil suites. He goes first to Switzerland for a rest and then to other countries.

One of the definite destinations of King Boris is England, and he will probably also pay a visit to France. The King's decision to start on the tour was known to few, and only the Premier was at the station to see him off.

'BRITISH ARE COMING BACK'

That Is Only Certainty at Tripartite Conference at Geneva.

U. S. WIRES HUM.

GENEVA, July 26. — (Associated Press).—The long suspension of the tri-partite naval conference, due to the absence of the principal British delegates in London, was said yesterday to have begun to create in Geneva the uncomfortable feeling that the conference might be headed towards an indefinite adjournment.

There was no official reason for such a sentiment; it just grew by itself.

Meantime, it is understood there has been considerable cabling back and forth between the United States delegation here and the State Department in Washington.

This was in order to be fully prepared for discussion of any new aspects of the naval problems upon the return of W. C. Bridgeman and Viscount Cecil, the chief British delegates. The British are coming back; the British spokesman here said this was a certainty. He added that it was his personal conviction that the negotiations would eventually terminate in an agreement.

If the British delegates bring back new suggestions, it is said they will receive the earnest attention of the United States delegation.

NATION RELIES ON HIM.

Ion Bratiano, Prime Minister of Rumania, is looked upon as the "strong man" of the nation in the crisis which threatens, following the death of King Ferdinand.

THE WEATHER

The rainfall for July in Peterboro now amounts to 3.62 inches. This is more than usual. It however falls far below the amount for districts around Toronto, where the total is already over five inches, and even that is much less than farther west—around Kitchener and Guelph, where over 3½ inches fell on Saturday alone. Highest temperature yesterday, 80 degrees; lowest last night, 55 degrees. Prospects warmer. —W. P.

Quebec Bridge Goes to Exhibition Grounds Will Be Erected There Before Fair Week

Workmen of the Peterborough Utilities Commission yesterday took down the model of Quebec Bridge, which was erected by the Engineers' Club on George Street at the Y.M.C.A. Building towards the end of June in preparation for the Diamond Jubilee celebration. The bridge was carefully taken apart in sections, which can be easily assembled for re-erection. These sections were taken to the Exhibition Grounds, where they are being stored in one of the buildings.

It is the intention of the Exhibition Board to place the bridge at the entrance to one of the avenues of the park. Suggestions have been made that the model bridge be put up immediately, but on consideration the Board decided to defer the work until the near approach of Exhibition Week.

BRITISHERS AT CONFERENCE READY FOR ANY CONTINGENCY

Cabinet Ministers Refuse To Make Public Statement on Discussion.

SITUATION DELICATE.

Parliament May Seek Information Before Rising For Summer Recess.

LONDON, July 26 (Canadian Press). — The Cabinet ministers, with the assistance of Lord Balfour, were engaged for many hours yesterday considering the position at Geneva as it relates to the tripartite naval conference. They met for an informal conference, and then in a regular Cabinet Council, but apparently decided against making any statement to Parliament last night.

No communique was issued, and it is unknown whether Parliament will be given any more information on the subject before it rises next Friday for the summer recess.

Although there is a strong feeling among many of the members that the Government policy should have wider publicity, it may be that the ministers are of the opinion that the subject is in too delicate a state of negotiation for further publicity to be of advantage.

Yesterday's Council was held for the purpose of conveying to W. C. Bridgeman, First Lord of the Admiralty, and Viscount Cecil, precise instructions for their guidance at Geneva in the event of any additional suggestions for an agreement, either from the U.S. or Japanese delegates, and it was asserted after the Council that the delegates now were prepared for "any contingency that might arise."

The Council did not fully cover all the points under discussion yesterday, and it is probable that another Council will be held to-day, and that the chief British delegates will not start for Geneva until Wednesday morning. It may be regarded as certain that questions will be asked in the House of Commons in the course of the week with the object of giving the ministers an opportunity of explaining the British policy at Geneva before the House disperses.

OBITUARY

MARY ELLEN BRENNAN.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 26.—General regret is felt throughout the town, more particularly among the young people, in the passing of Mary Ellen Brennan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brennan, Frank Street.

The deceased, who was in her 16th year, was born at Wellman's Corners, and, with the family, moved into Campbellford five years ago. She attended St. Mary's Separate School for some years, passing her entrance examination with a very high standing. In the High School she was considered a most promising student, and as a member of the High School basketball team on which she played forward, she was looked upon as one of the school's best players.

Since October last the deceased had been pretty much confined to her home with that most dreaded disease, tuberculosis, but only within the past few weeks did her condition become such as to occasion alarm. Everything that loving hands and kind hearts could do for the afflicted one was done, but she passed peacefully away on Saturday at noon.

Besides her parents, five sisters and four brothers survive to mourn the loss of a kind and affectionate sister. The sisters are: Mrs. Harry Cassidy, Campellford, Mrs. D. H. O'Connell, Sarnia, Mrs. William Cain, Stirling, Mrs. Raymond Dunk, Campbellford, and Mrs. John Duff, Jr., Campbellford. The brothers are Dennis, Vincent, William, and Donald, all of Campbellford.

The large number of spiritual and floral tokens on and surrounding the casket gave mute testimony of the high esteem in which this young girl was held by her school girl friends and those in the neighbourhood in which she lived, who had come to know her by her genuinely cheerful and pleasant manner.

The funeral took place at 9.00 a.m. yesterday to St. Mary's church with the Rev. Father Phelan officiating. Five brothers-in-law and one brother acted as pallbearers. Among the large attendance at the church was noticed some of the Protestant clergy and members of the teaching staff of the High School.

The remains were taken to Stirling for interment where the Rev. Father Corrigan was the officiating priest.

COTTON QUITS PLANE SEARCH

Flies Homeward After Fruitless Endeavor To Find Missing Aviators.

FORCED DOWN.

HALIFAX, N.S., July 26 (Canadian Press).—After hopping off at 6.40 o'clock yesterday morning from Pictou, N.S., where he landed on his return from Newfoundland, following an unsuccessful search there for the missing French aviators Nungesser and Coli, Major S. Sidney Cotton and his flying companions aboard the seaplane Jeanne d'Arc were forced to descend at Pugwash, Cumberland Co., at 8.45 a.m., on account of the dense fog blocking their path to New York. News of Major Cotton's descent only two hours after leaving Pictou came over the long distance telephone last night. The Jeanne d'Arc made a safe landing at Pugwash, which is situated on the Northumberland Strait. The weather was clearing, and weather reports required by Major Cotton having forecast good flying conditions for to-day, he announced his seaplane would resume its interrupted flight to New York this morning.

MAN AND CANOE GO OVER FALLS

Canoeist Plunges To Death When Boat Upsets in Rapids.

NONE REPORTED MISSING.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 26. —A large throng of people gathered on the banks of the upper Niagara River, near Chippawa, last evening, and watched an unknown man in a canoe shooting through the rapids, until his frail craft capsized as it was nearing the Horseshoe Falls.

The canoe was so far out in the river that nothing could be done but watch the drowning man plunge to his death over the falls.

He was not seen until well past the mouth of the Welland river and it is not known whether he came from Chippawa or from farther up the river. According to E. Greenwood, Chippawa, the canoe was not rented there and he ventured the opinion the man was from Grand Island.

No report of a man being missing has been made to the police. There is no clue as to his identity, and the body has not yet been recovered.

GATHERING HAY HARD THIS YEAR

Farmers Have Difficulty Saving Crop at Warsaw—Skunks Steal Chickens.

NEWS FROM WARSAW.

WARSAW, July 26.—The farmers have had a very hard time trying to save their hay. Alfalfa and sweet clover could hardly have been better than they were this year, but very little of it was gotten in, without being at least somewhat blackened. And the work of harvesting it was much increased. The later hay is being cut now, and all over the country are to be seen fields of hay in various stages. Much of the Fall wheat and rye is almost ripe in most places ,and some may be cut next week. Most of the men are optimistic enough to think and say that if the hay is not so good as they would wish, the grain will fill better, and the roots and corn grow better. Others think these have had about enough rain for some time.

The cheesemaker states that for some reason the milk has fallen off greatly.

Skunks Active

Skunks have made great depredations in several poultry yards recently and where skunks have not come, chickens and turkeys have just died.

In connection with skunks and fowl; a little brown hen did an exceptionally wise thing a year or so ago. This little hen had mothered her own chickens well for five weeks, and during that time no other chicken dared come near her. A few nights after she left her own to shift for themselves, a skunk disposed of several chickens and ducks. The remaining chickens of three flocks

TRAWLER LOST

French Ship Goes Ashore on Cape Breton Island and Fills.

SYDNEY, N.B., July 26.— (Canadian Press.)— The French trawler Adriatique went ashore on Scaterie Island, Sunday evening while attempting to navigate a dense fog and will be a total loss, according to a message received from Vincent Mullins, local agent for the Marine and Fisheries Department.

According to reports from Scaterie Lighthouse, the ship is lying on the rocks on the south side of the island. She is rapidly filling with water and has taken a bad list to the stern. Under the pounding of the heavy surf she will probably soon break up. The crew of 38 were taken to the home of the lighthouse keeper.

The British steamer Talarite is standing by.

RAGING GALE STOPS FLIGHT

Courtney Has Plane Tuned Up Ready to Cross Atlantic.

COMING WESTWARD.

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., July 26. — (Associated Press).—A sudden change in the weather yesterday evening compelled Captain F. T. Courney to abandon the night trial of his flying boat "Whale," with which he is to make the flight to New York. Captain Courtney, however, says he really does not need any more trials, as he is quite satisfied with his tryout yesterday afternoon of his wireless equipment. He successfully tuned in messages from a distance of 600 miles. Moreover, his transmission was strong, his messages being readily picked up and acknowledged by stations and ships. The aviator is now only waiting on the weather.

"We have to be patient," he said. "There is no use taking foolish risks likely to upset the whole character of our flight. Unfortunately the Atlantic is not proving of sweet disposition. Incoming ships report a gale still raging and visibility atrocious a thousand miles off Ireland."

Peace Restored in Evangelist Family and Work Will Continue.

STORM NOT SERIOUS.

Angelus Temple Could Not Get Along Without Senior Semple.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 26 (Canadian Press). — Back at the helm of Angelus Temple here, Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, declared yesterday that all differences within her church organization had been patched up.

She announced that her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, who retired as business manager of the Temple after a fight on her by one of the factions of the church organization, would not be forced out of the picture.

Mrs. McPherson declared she never had offered to leave Angelus Temple and seek new evangelistic fields.

"My people would go wild if I did," she added.

"All differences, if any existed, have been settled, and the machinery of the organization is functioning smoothly," she said.

Mother Isn't Gone.

Moreover, she insisted that the departure of her mother in an automobile for the north early on Saturday morning was not an indication that all was over between them, but was only a matter of "routine" business.

"Mother will speak at Taft and come back to-morrow," was the explanation accorded by the evangelist Upon Mrs. Kennedy's return, it is said, mother and daughter will again live together in a newly rented home, upon the same terms of amity and understanding as in the past.

"No, mother has not resigned as vice-president of the Temple, and I don't think she will," added Mrs. McPherson.

Convicted Murderer Gives His Blood To Save Younger Sister Failing After An Operation

CLAREMONT, N.H., July 26 (Canadian Press).—A man convicted of murder in the first degree was back again in the death cell at Windsor, Vermont, yesterday while his young sister battled for life here with the strength a pint and a half of his blood had given her.

The man is John Winters, convicted in February of the murder of Miss Cecelia Sullivan, who was slain on the sleeping porch of her home in Windsor. His sister, Anna, 19, was operated upon last April for appendicitis. She failed to rally and with dwindling strength has been lying in the general hospital here ever since. Last week the physicians declared a blood transfusion was necessary to prolong her life. Winters volunteered and on Saturday passed the blood test.

Tuesday he was brought to the hospital, the operation was performed, and he returned to his cell. Since his conviction Winters has pinned his hopes on an appeal. He may be aided in this by Clarence Darrow, who recently took cognizance of a promise made by Darrow's son when his horse ran down and killed a child related to the family in Hanover, N.H., that if ever the Darrows might aid the Winters, they would.

Mantle Of King On Ferdinand's Coffin Is Blown Over Head of Prince Rumanians Think Must Reign

BUCHAREST, July 26 (Canadian Press).—King Ferdinand now rests under the soil at Curtes de Arges beside his ancestors. The body of the monarch was lowered into the grave yesterday.

Despite the fact that the body of the late sovereign was emaciated from his long illness, and shrunken away to a few pounds in weight, it was noticed that the four pall bearers found the burden too heavy. They staggered suddenly, and, whether by his own instinct or because of prompting by Queen Marie, Prince Nocilas rushed forward and placed his shoulder under his father's coffin.

Scarcely had the Prince done this when a gust of wind blew the cover from the King's mantel on to the young Prince's head. Many Rumanians, who have a fatalistic superstition, immediately interpreted the incident as an omen that some day Nocilas would wear his father's crown.

Although Ferdinand died a Catholic, his position as King made him ipso facto head of the National Church. Ecclesiastical customs, laws and precedence of the country required that the final burial service should be in the ritual of that church. The orthodox church is the National Church of Rumania, and the King was buried according to their rites.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)
FOR WEDNESDAY, JULY 27, 1927

Benefic aspects dominate today, according to astrology, which find adverse influences weak.

The morning should be a most auspicious time for women to push plans for business or social enterprises.

The rule appears to presage for women new respect for traditions of religions and home life.

While this sway prevails there may be good luck for women who invest in real estate or engage in agriculture.

Interest in gardens and gardening will engross many families while this configuration prevails.

The seers prophesy for America homes that are to be more beautiful than those of any other country.

Again banks and bankers are subject to the best possible direction of the stars making for expansion and development.

France is to suffer a disaster from an explosion that may have a far-reaching effect, it is forecast.

Egypt is still subject to a planetary government that indicates startling events.

Reforms tending to combat organized crime probably will gain impetus as the autumn opens, the seers prognosticate.

Movements of armed forces abroad will be of sensational interest in the United States," readers of the stars prophesy.

Supreme progress in the arts as well as in commercial interest is prophesied for this country.

Persons whose birthdate it is should have much joy in the coming year, which may awaken interest in children and domesticity.

Children born on this day probably will have literary talent. Subjects of this sign usually are fond of sea tales.

Pearls hail the turquoise and wears it, alone or with pearls. A bow-knot of turquoise blue ribbon fastens three strands of pearls, as shown above. In the center is a necklace consisting of two strands of pearls fastened at the sides with large pearls worn with matching turquoise and pearl earrings. Below is a turquoise pendant set in gold worn with a fine gold chain.

Hydrated phosphate of aluminium, associated with variable proportions of hydrated phosphate of copper now stands in competition with the calcareous concretion deposited in layers around a central nucleus in the shells of various molusks—scientifically speaking, of course.

Putting it bluntly—the turquoise is the new rival for the pearl. Captain Molyneux, the famous soldier-dressmaker of Paris, is sponsoring this revival—and turquoises are already to be seen hanging in pendants or coiled round the necks of many of the best-dressed women of fashion.

If you want to be in the vanguard of fashion in this country—wear turquoises. If you cannot quite wean yourself from your pearls, wear them fastened with turquoise ribbon, or wear pearls and turquoises set together.

Jeweled sports emblems are worn by some of the smartest of the well-dressed sportswomen. If you play tennis wear a jeweled tennis racket on your shoulder. The golf enthusiast sports a diamond studded niblic, while the equestrienne fastens her collar with a jeweled riding crop. These brooches serve as first aid to small talk. The bashful young man can tell at a glance when he meets a girl whether he ought to discuss the latest tennis tournament, discuss the merits of this stroke or that or start in discussing the relative merits of the single foot or the trotter.

Speaking of sports and jewelry, it is now considered comme il faut in France, perfectly good form in England and absolutely all right in America to wear earrings with your sports clothes.

It is the simplest trick in the world to make the new wing drapery and a new crush girdle. Add this trimming to an old evening frock and it will look like new. I'll send you the pattern which a clever dressmaker made for me if you will send a stamped, addressed envelope.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

Whether it was the brown pallor of Bob's face or the irritable boredom in his eyes that decided her Faith did not consciously know, but at Sunday breakfast she made an announcement, as unexpected to herself as to her father, sister and husband.

"Bob and I are going picnicking to-day—just the two of us. Tires in good condition, darling?" She turned bright, apparently untroubled eyes upon her husband.

She was rewarded with a brightening of Bob's dull blue eyes—eyes that had once been as brilliant as blue diamonds. "The car's in splendid shape. When can you be ready?"

"Oh, Faith, can't I go?" Cherry wailed, her face puckering to tears like an aggrieved child's. "Let's all go—"

"No," Faith laughed, but her voice was firm. "We couldn't take the baby. And Dad hates picnics. He'd rather stay at home and read his paper. But he shan't have a lonely dinner. This is going to be a picnic for two, honey. Don't sulk, Cherry."

Bob looked five years younger even before they had started. He had insisted on supervising the packing of the luncheon hamper, instructing his wife and Mrs. Lundy in the preparation of the sandwiches and salads that he liked best.

"You got enough grub here to feed a Sunday school picnic crowd," Mrs. Lundy growled, but she was excited and pleased. She said to Faith, "Honey him up a little to-day, Mis' Hathaway. You forget all about this house and the family and the baby and act like you was his sweetheart again."

And so Faith was thinking of herself as Bob's sweetheart when the dark blue sedan rolled out of the graveled driveway into Serenity Boulevard. She would not let herself feel even a little sorry for Cherry, wistfully waving goodbye from the front porch, the baby held awkwardly in the crook of her right arm.

Bob, minus hat and coat, drove with the wind rushing through the crisp chestnut waves of his thick hair. His brown arms, bare to the elbow, and the bronzed column of his throat, released by the turning in of the collar of his white madras shirt, made him look like a carefree college boy, off on a joy ride with his girl. And the smile which he flashed at her from time to time, when his attention could be diverted from his driving, was the smile of a happy youth. His eyes were bluer and brighter than the cloudless skies. Faith's heart sang with joy. She threw back her head, and let him see the soft shining of her brown eyes, the flush on her ivory-white cheeks, the little half-smile that twitched at the corners of her beautiful, broad mouth. She looked like a girl in love, shyly expecting her beloved's first kiss. She was almost afraid to talk, lest her words should remind him that they were married—five months married—and burdened with the responsibilities of a home and a family.

Bob seemed to read her thoughts, and to be intent upon matching her mood—her sweetheart mood. "Do you know that you're beautiful, darling?" he asked in a low, caressing voice, when he had brought the car to a stop before a traffic signal.

And Faith, blushing brightly, touched his hand upon the wheel with just the tips of her fingers, withdrawing them, with a shy murmur of laughter, before he could seize them. Oh, he was to be hers—her lover—for a day, before Cherry, working for him daily as his secretary, had a chance to win him away from her!

Uncle Wiggily

By Howard R. Garis

To-day's Bedtime Story

(C opyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY'S GOLF GAME

Baby Bunty, who had hopped into the hollow stump bungalow to ask Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy for a molasses cookie one morning, saw Uncle Wiggily take a long bag of heavy iron and wooden clubs out of the umbrella closet.

"Oh, Unkie Wig!" lisped the little rabbit girl who often pretended she only knew baby talk, "is 'oo goin' give bad, naughty nannimiles spankin'?" Baby Bunty could say "you" and "animals" as well as she could speak her own name, but she made believe she couldn't, just for fun.

"What makes you think I am going to beat any bad animals, Bunty?" asked Mr. Longears, slinging the bag around his shoulder.

"'Cause 'oo dot so many clubs," laughed Bunty.

"Oh, these are my golf clubs," explained the rabbit gentleman. "I am going to play a game of golf with Mr. Twistytail, the pig gentleman. He is getting too fat, he says, and he wants to run around and chase a golf ball so he will grow thin."

Uncle Wiggily made sure he had all his golf clubs in the bag. Then he looked to see if he had enough of the small, hard, white rubber balls that are knocked so far over the green golf links. And then Mr. Longears looked up to see what Baby Bunty was doing.

But the little orphan rabbit girl had hopped out of the bungalow and was running as fast as she could down the woodland path.

"That's queer," said Uncle Wiggily to himself. "I was sure she was going to ask if she couldn't come to watch Twisty and me play golf. But she didn't. I would have taken her, too, poor little tyke. I wonder why she didn't tease to come with me?"

Now Baby Bunty had a very good reason for not asking Uncle Wiggily to take her to his golf game, and I am going to tell you about it.

The little rabbit orphan hopped along the woodland path until she met Jennie Chipmunk who had a lovely striped fur coat. Even in summer Jennie wore her fur coat, though it was thinner than in winter.

"Oh, Jennie!" gasped Baby Bunty for she was a little out of breath. "I know how we can play a lovely trick on Unkie Wig!"

"How?" chattered Jennie who was almost as much of a mischievious little tyke as was Bunty. "What kind of a trick?"

"Where is that white rubber toy balloon you had yesterday playing with?" asked Bunty.

"It's in my hollow tree house," Bunty answered.

"Come on!" cried Bunty. "We'll get it and play the loveliest trick on Uncle Wiggily you ever heard of. Hurry!"

Bunty brought out the toy, rubber balloon, which was blown up to about the size of a big pumpkin. It was filled with air, and not gas, so it did not float over the heads of the little animal girls, but rested gently on the ground when not jerked about by its string.

"Oh, there's some trick here!"

"Uncle Wiggily has gone to play golf with Mr. Twistytail," explained Bunty as she and Jennie hurried along through the woods with the toy balloon. "He will knock his little white golf ball away far off in the grass. He always knocks it from the first tee down by the old oak tree. Now you and I will be hiding there, and we will be out of sight in the long grass. And when Unkie Wig's little golf ball rolls along, we'll pick it up, hide it and in place of it we'll put this big toy white balloon."

"Oh, what fun!" chattered Jennie. "Unkie Wig will think his golf ball has the mumps; won't he! Ho! Ho!"

"Yes," agreed Bunty. "It will look zackly like golf ball mumps!"

Not knowing about the trick, Uncle Wiggily drove off his little white golf ball. It rolled into the grass near where Bunty and Jennie were hiding. Quickly they put the big white balloon in its place. And when the rabbit gentleman strolled up and saw what he thought was his golf ball, he cried:

"Oh, there is some trick here! My golf ball has swelled up as big as a pumpkin. Once before the bad chaps tried to play a golf ball trick on me, but they shan't again. I'll fix them!" And before Bunty or Jennie could jump up and explain, Uncle Wiggily raised his club and brought it down with a "Bang!" on the toy balloon, bursting it with a loud noise.

"Oh!" cried Bunty.

"Oh, dear!" cried Jennie Chipmunk. And how Uncle Wiggily laughed when the two little animal girls hopped out of the high grass and he knew they had played a trick on him. He said he was sorry he had broken Jennie's balloon. But he bought her another and one for Bunty also. Then the little girls hopped away, and the bunny and pig played golf all day.

Doctor Would Hang Someone For Typhoid

CHICAGO, July 25 (United Press). — Some one should be hanged every time a death from typhoid fever occurs, in the opinion of Dr. Herman Bundesen, Chicago's Health Commissioner. Typhoid in America is now so completely under control that only carelessness is responsible for development of the disease, he said.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

BEDROOM WALLS.

With a little ingenuity and really little work, one can redecorate the bedroom walls at little expense with some new paints or other wall tints. The result is usually well worth the effort.

SHOE HOLDERS.

With shoes increasing in quantity with spring, the person having small closet space can economize by making a shoe holder for the closet door, with pockets for two pairs across it and room for even more extending up.

ANGLE PARKING AGAIN.

There is another angle to this angle parking that was not covered in references made to the system in this column yesterday.

This method of parking is imposing difficulties upon inexperienced drivers that might easily lead to serious accidents.

Only yesterday a car handled by such a driver got out of control, mounted the sidewalk, and crashed into a George street window.

Providentially the sidewalk at this point was clear of people at the moment; a similar accident at another time might have resulted in a pedestrian being crushed against the wall by the out-of-control automobile.

It is rather a common spectacle to see a car run up on the sidewalk as it is being parked under the new system, although fortunately not with so much speed as was shown in yesterday's accident.

Angle parking has few friends, and an intimation that the Council had seen fit to rescind the bylaw calling for the operation of this plan would be received with no visible signs of mourning by the public.

PETERBOROUGH'S BIG EXHIBITION.

Less than two months away is Peterborough's Industrial Exhibition, this year bigger in every department than ever before.

Those citizens of Peterborough and the district who have not yet become members of the Exhibition should attend to this matter without delay.

The more members enrolled the greater the volume of enthusiasm, and, of course, the more enthusiastic the more certain the chances of an Exhibition surpassing every other fair in the history of Peterborough.

The Directors want their fellow-citizens to actively identify themselves with the Exhibition by becoming members, and they are ready to welcome as many new associates as possible.

The Peterborough Industrial Exhibition is the fastest growing organization in this district.

It has marched straight ahead from one achievement to another until Canada's jubilee finds it with its plant in better shape and its programme more varied, more extensive and more ambitious than at any previous period.

Citizens generally should be glad to ally themselves with such a wideawake and progressive organization.

SOLVING THE PROBLEM.

A solution of Peterborough's transportation question has been materially assisted by the bylaws passed by the local Police Commission, at the request of the City Council, which pave the way for the granting of an exclusive franchise to the Border City Transit Company.

No other way out of the difficulty would have been consistent with good business.

Had the local company which has been competing with the Border City Company given any evidence of a willingness or of an ability of provide Peterborough with an adequate service, The Examiner is sure that there is no member of the Council but would have been delighted to have given an exclusive franchise to a Peterborough firm.

The situation, unfortunately, was that the local company was apparently not in a position to furnish the busses needed to provide a complete service, and that if it had been allowed to operate in opposition to the Border City Company the latter would have withdrawn from the field and left Peterborough with a transportation service consisting of three not very modern busses.

The Border City Company, on the other hand, is in a position to provide an ample supply of excellent busses and to give a service that will meet Peterborough's needs.

The City Council would have been guilty of very bad business indeed if the opportunity to secure such a service had been thrown away.

PLAYGROUNDS ARE POPULAR.

The fact that the attendance at Peterborough's three supervised playgrounds averages nearly seven hundred children daily indicates that there is a very real demand for such families in the city.

In fact, there is need of more playgrounds, and in this respect East City children are without a supervised recreation area, a condition that should not be lost sight of by the Board of Education.

Of the value of playgrounds of this kind there is no longer any doubt, even among those who some time ago were inclined to regard such things as unnecessary fads.

Under modern conditions of traffic it becomes necessary for communities to provide safe recreation areas.

The street, the playgrounds of earlier generations, has been turned into a speedway; no child can play there and be safe.

But supervised playgrounds offer more than safety; they develop character as well as muscle.

The children learn to play fairly, to fight cleanly, and accept defeat if it comes in a sportsmanlike manner.

The bully is tamed, the sulker soon sees that such tactics do not pay, the unfair player is taught that his conduct is not "cricket."

All this sport education has important results later on, and if for this reason alone offers ample justification for supervised playgrounds.

SERVANTS OF SOCIETY.

Great soldiers, statesmen and dictators have their day. Caesars and Napoleons ride like mighty nightmares above a world drenched in blood; planners, builders and protectors of great states have their exemplars in the Bismarcks, the Cavours, the Gladstones and the Pitts; from wreckage and impending doom Mussolini and his like arise to bring sanity and order out of chaos. But when the world's greatest benefactors are named soldier, statesman and dictator must yield to less glittering lights in the people's pantheon.

When before the war the French people were asked to pick their country's most eminent son they forgot Charlemagne, Napoleon and a hundred others whose martial deeds stir the blood like the magic of ancient battles and chose the humble Pasteur who gave his life to lessening human pain.

During the past few months McLean's Magazine has been conducting a contest to select the two greatest living Canadians. The result shows that the largest number of votes went to Dr. F. G. Banting and Dr. C. E. Saunders, the one the discoverer of insulin and the other the originator of "Marquis" wheat. Surely this is a fitting selection and one that reflects credit on those who took part in the contest.

Even these two eminent servants of society, neither of whom ever deliberately sought publicity, must be impressed with this open tribute of affection. To our own Dr. Saunders, living quietly in Ottawa on a small pension and devoting the evening of his life to study and research, it will be a belated recognition of those great services which added millions to the wealth of his country, and to Dr. Banting it will be a token that his fellow-countrymen bear him in remembrance as he continues to toil in his laboratory to find new means to combat suffering and disease.—Ottawa Journal.

ARE THERE NO GREAT MEN?

To Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler is attributed the saying that the genius of great men is as extinct as the dodo. It was not always thus, in his opinion. "For two thousand years there has never been a period when somewhere in the world there was not a really great poet or philosopher or genius of some sort, who dwarfed his fellows." The Christian Science Monitor, commenting on this statement, says that there are as many men doing great things in this world today as ever, and even greater things, but that the more intelligent public opinion nowadays looks less to politics and the battlefield than to physical science, education and industrial organization.

"Nowhere in the catalogue referred to above is there the name of one who has contributed as much to human comfort or to the moral advancement of mankind as Edison, Marconi, Wilbur Wright, or perhaps even Henry Ford. The fact of the matter is that nowadays mankind has come to look for greatness in fields of human endeavor which in the past were either non-existent or but little cultivated. Indeed the great men of the twentieth century are likely to come under the classification of that homely verse which used to appear in all the school readers:

"'Great not like Caesar, stained with blood,
But only great as I am good.'"

Greatness is hard to define. But one may agree with Dr. Butler so far as to recognize that in statesmanship, war and literature there are few, if any, outstanding figures, few men whose greatness is generally recognized. For instance, the war of 1914-18 was fully as bloody and devastating as those which terrified Europe more than a century ago. But no general or admiral has come out of the struggle with such a reputation as Napoleon, Nelson or Wellington. There may have been men of equal capacity, but the world does not ring with their names. This may be due in part to the fact that war has become a more mechanical business than before. The destructiveness of weapons has enormously increased, and the marshaling of the national resources, such as money and food, has played a more important part than in previous wars. Men who manage these things, however efficient, are not necessarily picturesque figures.

In British politics no one stands out like Gladstone, Disraeli, Pitt, Fox, Chatham. Even Lloyd George, the most picturesque figure in the scene, who won fame as a war Premier, does not occupy that outstanding position. Has statesmanship really declined in quality? Would Chatham have carried on the war more brilliantly? Would Gladstone or Disraeli have found solutions for the social and international problems of our day? Or is it simply that the habit of hero-worship has declined? So in the field of literature. There are brilliant novelists today, but none stands out so conspicuously as Scott or Dickens. No poet has the unquestioned pre-eminence of Tennyson or Browning. It may be that the advance of physical science has thrown other achievements into the shade. It may be that conditions are changing so rapidly that the public mind can not fix its gaze steadily on any one object of worship. No hero in the past was more universally admired than Lindbergh is today. But one never knows when some new wonder will take the place of his daring flight across the Atlantic. One sensation crowds out another. Achilles today could not keep his place on the front page very long.

Even if Dr. Butler were right the outlook would not necessarily be dark. Greatness, after all, is a relative term, indicating the superiority of one man to another. It is not essential to human happiness or progress that one man should tower like Mount Everest over his fellows. The work of the world may be done by men and women of mediocre ability. In fact, it may be said that a great man is useful only to the extent that others share his greatness. A Shakespeare not appreciated might as well have not appeared at all. The works of the immortals are valuable because of the souls they have inspired. Then the world contains a lot of greatness that never gets into the print, either in newspapers or books. Henry Drummond, in a famous little book, described kindness as the greatness thing in the world. We hear of the man who has a brilliant career in college and in his profession or business or in public life, but there was perhaps even more real greatness in the father and mother who scrimped and saved and denied themselves to give him an education. The unknown men and women who endured toil, hardship and loneliness in the pioneer stage of settlement had as great a part in the building up of Canada as the statesmen who we agree to honor. If no reputations of surpassing greatness have emerged from the late war, this age has for the first time recognized its debt to the rank and file by erecting memorials to the Unknown Soldier.

Gratitude is due to the unknown in every walk of life—the unknown mother, the unknown clerk, the unknown family doctor, the unknown preacher and teacher, the unknown artisan—everybody whose work is done faithfully, and the sum of whose work is the progress of the nation. Great men—in the sense of conspicuously brilliant men—cannot be produced to order. But a society animated throughout all its length and breadth and depth by the right spirit will probably have as many mountain peaks of greatness as it needs.—London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

"Are there no great men?" asks The London Advertiser. We'll have to ask Tommy Church to answer.

When all those hens at the World's Poultry Congress in Ottawa start cackling, the people of the capital will imagine that Parliament is in session.

Judging from the number of cars passing through, the parking problem must be becoming acute, even at some of the northern lakes. The trouble there is not angle parking, but rather anglers parking.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, July 26 (Canadian Press).—The export trade in Canadian grain on the Montreal market yesterday was fair and the total sales were estimated at between 150,000 and 200,000 bushels.

There was some demand from exporters for grain in the local market and sales of Manitoba No. 5 wheat were made at 30c to 30½c per bushel under the Winnipeg July option, c.i.f. Montreal, and several loads of No. 3 Canadian Western barley also changed hands on a c.i.f. basis. A moderate trade was done in car lots and prices were unchanged.

The only change of importance in the local flour trade was the stronger feeling that developed for white corn flour and prices were marked up 40c per barrel with a moderate trade passing in small lots at $8.50 to $8.60 per barrel. Prices for Spring and Winter wheat grades were unchanged, and the demand was quiet.

A moderate amount of business was done with English importers in baled hay and the tone of the market was firm.

Prices for all grades of eggs were well maintained under an inactive demand. The receipts were 703 cases.

The butter market was without any new feature to note, prices being steady, but the demand was limited. The receipts were 540 packages.

In sympathy with the sharp advance in prices established for cheese at the country boards combined with the stronger cable advices over the week-end spotprices were marked up 1 cent per pound. The receipts were 7,376 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, July 26 (Canadian Press).—Corn scored a rapid advance in price yesterday and at times attracted more attention than wheat. There was much talk that the corn crop, especially in Illinois, is not making up for its lateness. Corn closed strong 2½c to 3½c net lower, wheat showing ½c to 1½c decline; oats unchanged to ¼c up, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 15c.

Almost from the outset, commission houses were steady buyers of corn future deliveries. As a result, the market went soaring and the finish was practically the day's top level.

Wheat dragged owing to heavy receipts here, in particular, estimates finally at 391 cars, amount away in excess of the total a week ago.

Meanwhile Kansas City had 1,223 cars and Omaha 826. Primary arrivals as a whole though were still about one-third less than a year ago and clearances were larger, with the domestic visible supply increase yesterday smaller than was looked for. Weather conditions for spring wheat were favorable as arule but less so in Canada than on this side of the border. Oats derived firmness from the corn market. Provisions were affected by the action of both hog values and of corn.

CHICAGO CATTLE

CHICAGO, July 26 (Canadian Press).—Cattle 14,000; best heavy steers $14.25; medium weight $13.00; yearling heifers $12.25; most fed an increase of $33,410.51, or 1 per to $6.25; vealers largely $12.50 to big killers.

Hogs 4,000; top $11.00; bulk 140 to 200 pounds $10.65 to $10.90; 220 to 250 pounds $9.75 to $10.60; 260 to 326 pounds $9.25 to $9.50; packing sows $8.00 to $8.60; best pigs $9.50 to $10.00.

Sheep 17,000; bulk natives $13.50 to $13.75; bulk rangers $14.50 to $14.75; packer top $14.85; fat ewes $6.00 to $7.00.

EGG MARKET

OTTAWA, Ont., July 26 (Canadian Press).—A sale of Ontario extras is reported in Toronto at 36½ delivered, used cases free. A car is offered from Saskatchewan at extras 32½c, firsts 30½, seconds 26½c, in export cases f.o.b. freight about 4½c.

Toronto.—The egg market is firm with quotations to country shippers unchanged at extras 33 to 35c, firsts 30 to 31c, seconds 26 to 28.

Montreal—With the healthy demand existing in Montreal a further improvement is looked for. Sales are being made in a jobbing way at extras 35½c, firsts 32½c, seconds 23½c.

STERLING EXCHANGE.

MONTREAL, July 26 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as follows:

Demand $4.85⅝; cables $4.86 1-16.

C.N.R. EARNINGS

MONTREAL Que., July 26 (Canadian Press).—The gross earnings of the Canadian National Railways for the week ended July 21 1927, were $4,916,276.00 as compared with $4,882,865.49 for the same week of 1926, an increase of $33410.51, or 1 per cent.

CANADA 400 YEARS AGO.

(J. H. Burnham.)

British and foreign authors are pointing to the Canadian type as distinct from all other national and racial types upon the surface of the globe. The American or United States type has long been recognized and it was supposed that the American continent would breed everywhere an "American" type but this has not transpired. Ancestral or blood types, otherwise known as racial types, are, of course, perpetuated but they vary and vary more than in appearance under the influence of new climatic and other conditions. Canadians have been long enough a going concern, so to speak, to have developed a distinct "Canadian" type of man and woman—at least so our visitors and critics say—and thus we find ourselves taking our distinct place in the world almost unknown to ourselves.

This is what is known as destiny. Canadians, however, have been in grave danger of developing a species of Puritan. The Puritans, who came to America in 1620, knew it all and often debated in their Bible readings whether God was quite right in some of the things He had said and done. So far did these self-righteous and ridiculously conceited people carry their idea of their self-importance that they seized and made slaves of their Indian neighbors whenever possible, though those Puritans differed from the more modern Puritan in that they drank strong liquors to an enormous extent, preferring brandy to beer and gin to good cold water. Otherwise they were very religious—very, in fact they considered themselves "the true and only children of God," who gave them His children, the earth and all that it inhabit—which was the reasoning they adopted to justify slave-holding, witch-burning and land-stealing.

This invasion of human rights began in the same way and from the same cause amongst our "good" puritan people here, but it was nipped in the blooming before the type Canadians have builded up was spoiled and made utterly childish and ridiculous.

In 1497 A.D., Newfoundland was discovered by England and with several changes of ownership by war in the interim has remained British.

Four hundred years ago, less seven, Jacques Cartier discovered that country which the natives called "Canada." It was supposed to be on the way to China but British, French and Spanish explorations of North America showed that this country was part of a huge continent with great fur-trade possibilities and an ideal region for martyr-missionaries.

There was not then its like and there never has been its like discovered since. The English settled in Virginia and afterwards in New England, the Dutch in New Amsterdam, now called New York. The Spanish had retained some hold on Florida but devoted their attention chiefly to Central and South America. The French, penetrating America by the St. Lawrence river, spread out like a fan until the Indians' "Canada" or Kanata, originally the name of a small collection of huts and a tribe of Indians, became the name of a district, taking in what was afterwards Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, the State of Maine and all south of the Great Lakes to the Ohio river, westward as far as the French missionary and explorers had gone, and north to the pole.

Though the New Englanders had left England because they could not run it in their own way they remained loyal to the English crown in the New World, and although there were no English missionaries with Jesuit and Recollet fervor to brave the terrors of Indian life to save souls, the New Englanders did very well in that way themselves, since they were strong on making, by force if necessary, converts of the Indians, much more so than the French colonists farther north, who left all to the church.

The age-long fight for the conquest of North America between the English and the French began and continued from those two points—Quebec citadel and Boston.

The French-Canadian early became a type distinct from the French of Old France. He was self-willed and conceited, his French rulers said. At any rate, he is just as independent in spirit and habits to this day as his French ancestors and their descendants in Old France. This fact will explain much of what we in Ontario do not understand and cannot reconcile with racial prejudice, although we ourselves "rebelled" when we felt like it and founded our type on that very fact just as did the Quebeckers.

Gradually, the English drove out from Canada the French of Old France (which is an old and familiar story), and took possession of it, while New Englanders, in turn, rebelled against Britain and took that country away from her.

You will ask what was the chief cause of the success of the British. It was, in the long run, the fighting qualities of the New England "Rangers" as against those of the French-Canadian coureurs de bois.

The incessant wars between Old France and England in America simmered down in the end to a fight between Rogers' Rangers (Major Rogers was an ancestor of the family of that name in Ashburnham) and Montcalm's Coureurs de bois (the French name for "rangers"). The regulars were not adapted to American warfare.

It is not necessary, we hope, to refer to the awful massacres and cruelties extending over two hundred and fifty years. The Indians outdid even the Puritans in cruelty and the "converted" Indians were the worst of all.

It will be noticed that the capture of Quebec by Wolfe, 1759 A.D., and the Declaration of American Independence, 1776 A.D., were not far apart—especially as it was in 1763, or only 13 years previous to 1776, that the Treaty of Paris, ceding New France to Britain, was ultimately signed.

From that day to 1867 the French and the English in Canada had difficulty in getting settled down. But Confederation Day was the birthday of our nation which we are now celebrating in conjunction with the birthday of the British Empire.

The above is Robert Dollar's formula for Success with a few additions.

BROTHERS.

PORT HURON, Mich., July 26. — On the train bound from Port Huron to Marquette Prison recently were two brothers. One was Thomas Snay who pleaded guilty to involuntary homicide; the other was his brother, Deputy Sheriff Fred Snay, taking him to serve a three-to-five-year term. The case was the outgrowth of an automobile crash in which Miss Virginia Hickson, 16-year-old school girl, was killed.

"That lad should have gone to college, but his father died"

THAT LAD should have gone to college, but his father died....

"I remember well, what high hopes his father had for him. Intended to give him a good education and a real start in life but—well, he passed away at the wrong time."

"Wasn't there any insurance money?"

"There was none. His father intended to take out a policy but never got around to it. He was always so healthy."

"Yes, I remember too, he was hurt in a street accident and lingered for a while and then...."

Somebody's boy is being talked about every day in some such way as this.

Is your child's start in life insured? We will guarantee to pay any sum you decide upon—at any date you set, to you, to a guardian or to the young man himself—so that he will be properly equipped to face the world when the time comes.

Why not discuss this with us now — while you are insurable?

GATHERING HAY

were to be carried to safer quarters after dusk but the little brown hen decided to look after them, and about seven o'clock she collected the twenty-seven of them and spent two whole hours getting them all up a tree—some were only a month old. The next evening she did it again, but it did not take so long; the third evening the deed was done still more quickly. After that, she had no trouble getting them all up, but she stayed with them for several nights, though she scorned them during the day.

Boundary Road Bad

The Boundary is in very bad shape and very trying to motorists. It had a little grading done once in the Spring, and has not been touched since. There are enough complaints about it, as it is the near road to Lakefield. Many prefed to go the extra miles by Bethel, to taking the Boundary. Much of the rest of the road is quite poor. The mail couriers as well as others who must use the road, would be more than glad to see more work done on it.

Coaching Classes

In point of numbers and interest in the class itself, the coaching class held on Monday and Thursday afternoons was quite successful. Miss Hopkins made the classes very interesting. She hopes to see a number of the girls attend the contests at the Peterborough Fair, and also at the Toronto Exhibition. This year the girls were drilled in the main points of a good wardrobe, heavy coat, light coat, good dress-up, sports and house dresses, aprons, underwear, hose and shoes. Suitability and purse are to be considered. Nothing should be extreme. One color should predominate, so that there may be no clashing. The special parade held was for dresses, suitable to walk to church in the country on Sunday morning; no coat was worn, except as part of a suit.

Also there was drill on kitchen arrangement and on furnishing a living room.

The last lesson was an exhibit of lunches brought by different girls. The lunch consisting of egg sandwiches, a bit of plain cake with a light icing, and an orange was the best, though at this time of the year there should have been some raw vegetable. The other lunches were too elaborate, containing too great a variety of cake; one had pie, cake biscuit, some cookies, lettuce, custard, tomato, and orange. It was very dainty and looked very appetising, but had not the food value of the plainer one, which also looked very nice when laid out.

LEAGUE SERVICE WELL ATTENDED

Petherick's Beats Springbrook in Exhibition Softball Game.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, July 26.—The regular league service was held on Wednesday evening in charge of the Citizenship convenor, Lindsay Anderson, with Early Mumby as leader. The Scripture lesson, Matt. 5:23-48 was read by the leader, after which Fred Barnum gave a devotional talk on the lesson. Readings were given by Aylmer Petherick and Gerald Barnum, with a talk on current events by Grant Meiklejohn. The topic, "Is Alcohol an Enemy to Mankind?" was taken by Lindsay Anderson.

The next meeting was withdrawn on account of Stanwood and English Line garden parties so that the meeting on August 3 will be in charge of Miss Gladys Petherick, convenor of the junior department and an interesting programme is assured. The Khaki team will meet the Reds and Whites for the first time before this meeting and a real game of softball is looked for.

A large crowd from this community attended the Rylstone garden party on Mr. Egbert Spencer's lawn last Thursday evening. Although the was slightly smaller than on some previous years, over $160 was taken in at the gate. The Northumberland Regiment Band provided music. A fine, warm evening added to the enjoyment of the event and assured a rushing business to all the refreshment booths.

Before the lunch hour an interesting game of softball was played between Springbrook and Petherick's Corners. The former team was only able to muster five regulars, but with one junior and three members of the Rylstone team they presented an aggregation which made the local nine step out and it was only after a hard fought game that Petherick won 15 to 11.

Burkett and G. Petherick had a triple each. Some snappy fielding on the part of the Springbrook players kept the score down. Owens had the misfortune to sprain his knee when he collided with a runner from third.

The Petherick's team journey to English Line on Thursday evening to meet that team on the occasion of the annual lawn social. These two teams have always been evenly matched and a good game is sure to result when they meet again.

POLICE THINK ROBBER LIVED NEAR BEETON

Identification of Man as Well Known Character Denied By Brother.

PUZZLING FEATURES.

Hodge Suffers Pain Now As Reaction From Injuries Received in Struggle.

BEETON, Ont., July 26.—With almost three days having elapsed since Alex. Hodge beat to death in gladiatorial combat, the marauder who came upon his home at midnight, and with close to 2,000 people having viewed the body in the meantime, the Provincial police believe that they have arrived at the identification of the ill-fated desperado. The identification upon which the police fix is that of a character well-known in the district. The identification, however, is positively denied by the man's brother.

Sergeant Preasey of the Provincial police, who is working upon the case, is strongly of the opinion that this former resident was the man who on Friday night last attacked Alex Hodge with the result that a fist-fight to the death ensued. But the brother after viewing the battered remains of the dead man, declares positively that it is not his brother. He cannot, however, give any account of his brother's present where abouts.

The case presents its puzzling features to the Provincial police of this district. The apparent motive of robbery is complicated by the technique of the marauder when he attacked Hodge. He had a Colt automatic with one cartridge in it, and he immediately upon entering the house declaredly threatened Hodge's life. But he did not use his revolver. At the end of the struggle it was still in his pocket.

Reports upon the case have been made by Sergeant Preasey of the Provincial police to headquarters in Toronto. In view of the nature of them it is expected that headquarters will assign one of the provincial detectives of its own staff to investigate an affair which has not only been one of the most dramatic incidents of many years of criminal history, but also one which leaves many tangles of mystery in its train.

Hodge Suffers Reaction.

The after effects from the terrible ordeal which Alexander Hodge passed through Friday night are now beginning to show themselves on the farmer's weakened body, and at times he suffers intense pain. The lacerated condition of his left hand caused by the teeth of the robber, and which may lead to blood poisoning, is an ugly reminder of the fierceness of the fatal struggle which took place between the two men.

A perplexing situation has arisen with regard to the burial of the dead robber. Although Crown Attorney Evans of Barrie has notified the Board of Directors of Trinity Cemetery through Constable Watson here, that they are to accept the body for burial immediately, on pain of prosecution they are reluctant to do so. The constable was only able to locate one member of the Cemetery Board, W. F. Strangeways, the acting chairman, R. T. Cahoun, whom he wished to see being away. Mr. Strangeways raised several objections, all of which the constable overruled. It was finally decided to wait and get the plans from Mr. Cahoun. These should be available to-morrow.

"I saw Hodge to-day and the man is still in bad shape," said County Constable Watson late last night. "He can hardly put his clothes on and is suffering from bruises and aches all over his body."

Continuing, Constable Watson said: "I propose to follow the instructions of the Crown Attorney for Simcoe County and see that the body of the dead man is buried. If the cemetery authorities refuse to permit interment I will at once institute proceedings against them as I have been told to do."

Deputy Commissioner Alfred Cuddy of the Provincial Police, who was in touch with Beeton yesterday, was informed that copies of the finger prints of the unidentified robber had not yet been mailed. Copies are being sent to the Dominion Police at Ottawa and to the Toronto Police.

The countryside has apparently been greatly stirred by the happenings of Friday night, to judge from the number of people who have made their way to the scene of the fatal drama, to gaze upon it, to pick a souvenir and to view the remains in the village council chamber. While with the majority of people it is nothing more than a morbid interest that draws them to the dead body, all are allowed in, in the hope that somebody may be able to identify the dead man.

Alex. Hodge is still at the home of Mr. Weatherup, auctioneer of Allistan, where he will probably remain for a few days.

When the inquest opens here on Wednesday morning at 10.30, Dr. Rogers will testify as to the post mortem examination.

CEMENT COMPANY CONTINUES BUILDING

Second Set of Storage Tanks Are Being Constructed at Lakefield Plant.

LAKEFIELD, July 26.—The construction work at the Canada Cement Company's local plant is going on apace. During the past week extra men have been hired and work will go forward at a greatly increased rate of speed. Work has been started on the construction of another set of storage tanks similar to those erected last year and work goes forward night and day seven days a week. The work on the power dam and power house is going forward also rapidly.

This gigantic piece of construction work has been, is, and will be of enormous value to the village of Lakefield and is by far the largest construction work going forward at present in this section of the county.

SHOWERS HELP GRAIN

Cavan Farmers Find Haying Difficult—Bridge Work Progressing.

CAVAN, July 26.—The showery weather is helping the grain which is filling and the root crop, but is making it difficult to get the hay cured. There is a great deal out yet.

A few farmers have finished, but the majority have hay in the fields.

Grain crops are looking well and fall wheat is filling well, but there will not be much cut for another week.

The work is progressing on the bridge on the Ninth line. They are building concrete piers with a steel span. The east side abutment is almost complete. It is a county road. They have been able to get as many men as needed to carry on the work, but as three dollars a day is paid to the men it is causing a shortage of day men on the farms.

CAMPBELLFORD NEWS.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 26. — The many friends of Mrs. Mampize will be pleased to learn that she is progressing nicely at the Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough.

Manager Nicol, of the Bank of Montreal, has returned from his vacation.

Lloyd Lummiss, of Raymore, a bright little traveller, came in on yesterday morning's train en route to spend his vacation with his grandfather, Mr. Harry Sweet.

Sixty-five of all ranks left yesterday morning for camp at Cobourg. This includes the band of about 18 members, and a detachment of 20 from Havelock.

The dock at Cedarvale, the local summer resort property of F. J. Smith, 3½ miles east of town, was the scene of some excellent aquatic sports yesterday afternoon. Jack and Harry Dunk, two expert swimmers and divers from Lindsay, who are spending their vacation at the home of Thomas Kerr, staged a little party yesterday afternoon, to which the family of their host were the invited guests. Ross Kerr and his sisters, Ruth, Hazel, Edith, and the charming little Esther, needed no introduction to the water. The high diving by the Misses Ruth and Hazel showed that careful attention had been given to the instruction in this art imparted by the Lindsay expert divers.

A new cottage has been added to the Smith lay-out, and he is fully booked up to the end of the season. Clearings are being made among the cedars for additional cottages, which will be ready for the summer of 1928.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brennan and family, Frank Street, Campbellford, wish to thank their many friends for their kind sympathy and spiritual and floral triutes in their recent sad bereavement.

Gilmour Memorial

"A friend of publicans and sinners," was the subject of the sermon of the Rev. W. S. Edgar at the morning service at Gilmour Memorial Church yesterday. Taking his text from Luke 7, 34, "The Son of Man is come eating and drinking; and ye say, Behold a gluttonous man, and a winebibber, a friend of publicans and sinners."

Mr. Edgar said: "It is a very familiar saying, "A man is known by the company he keeps." This is generally true in life and means that a man seeks as his companions those who are like himself in inclinations and tastes; but there is one great exception to this proverb; our Lord Jesus Christ. None could be more unlike Him than the publicans and sinners who were the offscourings of Jewish society. The title of our text was bestowed on Him as a term of reproach and yet today we rejoice in it as being one of the most beautiful and gracious names by which He is known among men.

"Why was Jesus found so much in the company of publicans and sinners?

"Because he loved them. He hated their sins and their evil ways but he loved them in spite of all. They had been the objects of his creative power. He had brought them into being and endowed them with marvellous gifts and faculties. He knew what they were capable of if freed from sin's blighting influence and dominion.

Keeping company with them led Him to interest Himself in them. To the scribes and Pharisees these people were outcasts and wastrels but just as a physician is interested in sick people so Christ, the great physician of the south, was intensely interested in those sin-stained, sin-stricken men and women.

"It led him to identify Himself with them. Although His own life was so pure and holy as to be a benediction wherever He was seen, yet He became one with sinful men. He was numbered with transgressors."

DISTRICT CHURCHES.

MARMORA, July 26.—Continuing the series of sermons on the Parables of Christ, at the United church on Sunday evening before a good congregation, Rev. C. J. Beckley preached a powerful and illuminating sermon on "The Measure of Love", basing it on the parable of the two debtors. He showed that love is not mere emotion illustrating also that any emotion stirred up without being expressed in activity is a menace to the individual experiencing it. Rev. Mr. Beckley also referred to Christ's denuciation of the attitude of the self-righteous and said, "The soul of religion is love not righteousness for love stoops and uplifts. He further deal with two Scriptural truths which make clear the Christian attitude towards God. First, we are attracted to God because He is attracted to us. This is brought out in the words of St. John, "We love Him because He first loved us. Secondly our devotion to God or in other words, the reality of our religion depends on our apprehension, our consciousness of God's love for us. Mr. W. M. Lester sang, "Hold Thou My Hand."

Crescents and Cognawagas Tied for First Place

RAYBESTOS LOSE BY ONE RUN, STAGE SEVENTH INNING RALLY IN EAST PETERBOROUGH GAME

Crescents and Cognawagas Are Tied For First Place in League.

FAST BASEBALL GAME.

Error By Johnston in Fourth Costs Jim Coursey's Team the Fixture.

East Peterborough League fans were given a bunch of thrills at Exhibition Park last evening, when Crescents defeated Raybestos by a count of 9 to 8. The victory sent Crescents to the top of the league with Cognawagas as company, the teams having each won five games and lost three.

Some of the more enthusiastic fans arose to join in the felicitations handed Freddy Jones who came in fast to make a shoestring catch of Masterson's drive in the sixth. Jones did a somersault after making the catch and came up with the ball. Young Beavis, a recruit from Bill Prindible's smart athletes, also did a nice piece of work, in the first, when with the bases loaded, he took Corbett's fly well back, and, with a great throw to the plate, held the runner at third at the sack.

Jimmie Johnston was the "goat." After coming to life and playing a smart game at first, for three frames, he dropped a pop fly in the fourth which if caught would have retired the side without a run but when dropped, gave the Crescents a chance to get three runs. They accepted the opportunity.

At the time of Johnston's fatal flop, Raybestos were leading by two runs and were headed for their first victory over Crescents. The three runs gave Crescents an appetite for more and they tallied as many more counters in the sixth. With the stars coming out in the seventh, Raybestos caused a lot of excitement by sending three runs across. An accurate peg by Billingsley to Ranger, caught O. Nicholls away from the middle bag to retire the side.

Hillier scored for Raybestos in the first on his double. Moore's fly to left and Kenneally's miss of the third strike on Rogers, the catcher getting the runner to first.

With the bases filled, Barrie's hit, and Mein's single across second scored three for Crescents.

Raybestos got three in the third. LeBarr dropped Hillier's fly on which he made second and third on a passed ball. Moore walked and made second, the two runners scoring on Rogers' single. Rogers went to third on a wild heave and counted when Beavis lined out to first.

Johnston scored for Raybestos in the fourth, on his single to left, on which he made second when F. Jones let the ball go through, H. Nicholl's infield out, and Hillier's sacrifice fly to J. Jones.

In their fourth, Crescents went into the lead. With one gone, Mein walked and stole, going to third when F. Jones laid one down to the pitcher. Johnston dropped Billingsley's fly. LeBarr promptly singled to left to score Mein, and J. Jones cut one through second to score Billingsley and LeBarr.

Raybestos had a runner on second and third in the fifth, following Corrin's single and a beautiful two-bagger by Beavis, but Billingsley fanned O. Nicholls and Johnston.

Crescents also threatened in their half when after two were out, Barrie singled to left and Mein and F. Jones were passed. With two balls on the next batter, Maudsley was relieved by Masterson. Billingsley hit the first ball pitched to Hillier who threw the runner out.

The sixth saw F. Jones make his spectacular catch, and Raybestos go out in order.

Moore started the final frame with a pass. He stole and advanced on a wild throw. Rogers fanned. Singles by Corrin, Beavis and Nicholls accounted for three runs. One run down, Raybestos used some pinch hitters. Holland batting for Johnston popped to Ranger, and Baird was hitting for H. Nicholls when Billingsley sneaked a throw to Ranger who tagged O. Nicholls off the bag.

LEAFS SHUT OUT HERD IN FIRST GAME

Jimmy Walsh's Timely Single Scored Spencer With Lone Run.

TORONTO TWO HITS.

Pitcher Wiltsie Loses First Game of Season at Maple Leaf Stadium.

TORONTO, July 26. Toronto won the first game of the series here yesterday afternoon from the Buffalo League leaders 1 to 0. It was the first defeat of Pitcher Wiltsie this year and with only two hits and one walk off him yesterday afternoon he can probably point to a lot worse games pitched. In fact, he could scarcely have pitched a better. Only one Toronto man got on in the first six innings and he walked to go out promptly stealing.

Toronto's first hit came in the seventh, Spencer looping one over second. Webb bunted him along and Burke's fly to right sent him to third whence he scored on Jimmie Walsh's line single over second. It is noteworthy that three of the four players in the run are former Buffalo athletes, Spencer, Webb and Walsh.

Toronto left only one on base and had only three men at bat in the seven of their eight innings.

Jess Doyle for Toronto was in rare form. Buffalo had a hit in each of six innings and two were passed, but not a man could score. He left the bases full in the fourth and all told he kept eight Buffalo runners on bases.

The fielding was faultless on both sides and the thousand fans saw as tidy a battle as they have had the pleasure of witnessing this year, or are likely to again.

The Syracuse Stars hit the offerings of three Tribe pitchers to all corners of the lot and won the first game of the Rochester series by 13 to 3. Morrow and Shanks hit homers the former adding two singles, while Williamson, his team mate, hit a double, triple and two singles.

HENLEY COURSE RUN THIS WEEK

Many Champions Will Compete in Week End Races.

AT ST. CATHARINES.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., July 26.—(Canadian Press).—The Canadian Henley course became very animated this afternoon with increasing arrivals of the majority of the oarsmen who will compete in the 45th annual C.A.A.O. Regatta Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The Winnipeg contingent numbering twenty will arrive today. W. E. Garrett-Gilmore of Philadelphia, who defeated Milton Belyea for the senior title three years ago but who did not compete last year has been drawn against Joe Wright of Toronto in the first heat of the senior singles to be rowed on Friday. Frank Adams of Vancouver the Pacific champion will meet John Durnan of Toronto in the second heat. The final will be rowed at 3.40 Saturday afternoon with the winner of the association singles eligible to compete. The association singles will be decided in one heat on Friday by Maurice Brett of St. Catharines, who won the junior singles last year, Wehmeir of Detroit and McGreat of Bachelor Barge Club, Philadelphia, and the winner of the junior singles which will be decided hours earlier on the same day. J. Guest of Argonauts and Ronald Ingraham of St. John, N.B., are the two competitors in the junior event. The eastern lad made a rather likely showing in his workout today.

Toronto Varsity had the first eight on the course yesterday.

Walter Hoover, who walked away with the senior singles last year from Johnny Durnan but who was since defeated by Joe Wright at Philadelphia will not defend the trophy this year. Thursday the opening day will see four preliminary four oared races and the same number of eight oared races. The annual meeting of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen will take place Friday night.

Manager Dan Howley has announced that at least eight players now drawing salaries from the St. Louis Americans will not be with the club next season.

Buffalo International Get Giant Player—Newark Secures Boney.

NEW YORK, July 26.—(Canadian Press).—The New York Giants yesterday announced the outright release of outfielder Tyson to the Buffalo Internationals. Tyson was sent there about a month ago on an optional agreement. It is understood that Buffalo paid $6,000 for the player.

Pitcher Henry Boney, University of Florida right hander, who finished a few games recently, was sent to the Newark Internationals, under an optional agreement.

Here is Jack Wright of McGill, who defeated Dr. Vicente Banet of the Cuban tennis team in the first game of the round of the Davis Cup series, American zone. Wright is an experienced player of great renown, having gained much popularity in United States tournaments.

CHICAGO CUBS ASSUME LEAD OF NATIONAL

Pirates Lose First Place When Giants Defeat Them 1-0.

PITCHING DUEL.

Run Scored Is a Homer By Andy Rees, New York's Third Baseman.

NEW YORK, July 26.—(Canadian Press).—The New York Nationals closed their home stand here yesterday with a 1 to 0 victory over the Pittsburgh club, making it two out of three in the series and again knocking the Pirates out of first place in the league. The Chicago Cubs, although idle, assumed the lead once more. The game was a tight pitching duel between Larry Benton and Ray Kremer and was decided by a home run by Andy Rees, young Giant third baseman. Kremer had the Giants hitting into the air throughout the game and the home run which beat him also was a high fly.

The Reds playing the best baseball they have shown this season, took both ends of a doubleheader from the St. Louis Cardinals at Cincinnati and made it three straight in the series.

The Cardinals fell 3 to 2 in a ten inning battle in the first game and 4 to 3 in the second. Jakie May bested Jess Haines for pitcher's honors in the first game. Adolfo Luque held the Cardinals hitless for five innings in the second game and let them down with seven hits.

Only games scheduled.

CANADIANS ARE OUTCLASSED BY VISITING LADIES

English Tennis Team Wins in Doubles at Ottawa Courts.

MISS NUTHALL WINS.

Visiting Players Give a Real Exhibition of Playing Doubles.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 26 (Canadian Press). — Quite the largest attendance ever to witness a tennis exhibition in this city was out yesterday afternoon to see the exhibition of play by the visiting English ladies' Wightman Cup team. The exhibition was most enthusiastically received. Altogether there were five matches, although two of them were not brought to a conclusion.

The first match was a doubles encounter between Mrs. John Hill and Miss Betty Nuthall, of the English team, and Miss Phoebe Grierson and Miss Mauriel Bremner, of Ottawa. Miss Grierson is the singles champion of Ontario and Quebec, and with Miss Bremner, holds the doubles championship of Ontario. The local ladies put up quite a good game, but were completely outclassed by their opponents. The score was 6-0, 6-3.

A singles match between Miss Joan Fry and Miss Gwen M. Sterry was next played. Both ladies appeared to be evenly matched, although on the back-hand shots Miss Fry was completely overshadowed by the skill of her opponent. She ran around a great many of her own back-hand shots.

Miss Sterry took the first set at 6-4, but Miss Fry came back strong, and ran out the next at 6-1. This match was called at that point, as time was getting on.

Miss Betty Nuthall was too strong for Miss Phoebe Grierson, of Ottawa, in the singles, running out the two sets at 6-2, 6-2. Miss Nuthall's driving was exceedingly strong, as also was her back-hand game.

Double Exhibition.

Two doubles matches, in which all English players participated, were the concluding exhibitions, and these proved to be the real entertainment of the afternoon. In the first Miss E. H. Harvey, team captain, was paired with Miss Joan Fry against Mrs. John Hill and Miss G. R. Sterry. This match went to two advantage sets, the first 10-3 and the second 7-5. Miss Harvey and Miss Fry were the winners. The entire match was replete with breathless moments, in which each player would make recoveries of seemingly impossible shots. The court generalship of Mrs. Hill and no less of Miss Harvey was very much in evidence, and they received most wonderful support from their partners. Miss Sterry's back-hand, which was quite the finest stroke of its kind produced in Ottawa for many a day, was the means of scoring a great many points at critical moments.

In the second doubles Mrs. Hill and Miss Betty Nuthall met Miss Harvey and Miss Sterry, and this also was productive of many fine shots. Only one set was played, which was won by Miss Harvey and Miss Sterry at 6-4, after their opponents had a lead of 4-3.

In the gallery were His Excellency the Governor-General and Viscountess Willingdon, Sir Robert and Lady Borden, the American Ambassador, and a great many of the leaders of social life in the capital city. The matches were played on the courts of the Rideau Lawn Tennis Club.

ATHLETICS WIN FROM DETROIT IN THIRTEENTH

Tigers Lose First of Series When Jimmy Dykes Gets a Homer.

CLEVELAND LOSES.

Boston Hammers Uhle's Pitching Hard in First Five Innings.

NEW YORK, July 26.—(Canadian Press).—Boston hammered Uhle's pitching hard in the first five innings yesterday and took the first game of the Boston series from Cleveland 10 to 7. Summa drove a homer into the right field bleachers with one on in the third. Nick Cullop, ordinarily an outfielder for Cleveland, pitched the eighth inning against Boston. The Sox made 14 hits, all the players except the two pitchers participating in the batting bee.

Thirteen Innings.

Jimmy Dykes home run drive on Stoner's first pitch in the 13th inning gave the Philadelphia Athletics the first game of their series with Detroit by a 6-5 score.

Dykes hit came as the end of an uphill struggle in which the Mackmen fought from behind, finally tying the count in the ninth inning on a double by French and Lamar's pinch single. The Athletics scored all their runs one at a time, Mickey Cochrane hitting a home run in the sixth that cut the Tigers' lead to one run. Zach Wheat made two great running catches that robbed Fothergill of extra base drives in the tenth and thirteenth innings.

Only games scheduled.

EXHIBITION GAME

Selwyn Failed to Put a Team in the Field So Fixture Was Postponed.

LAKEFIELD, July 26.—The scheduled game in the North Peterboro Soft Ball League between the Cement Mixers and the Selwyn team, did not take place on Friday evening owing doubtless to the unsettled state of the weather. The cement aggregation mustered a full team, but Selwyn did not produce the required number.

While the game could have been claimed by the former team, the manager, J. R. Hill, proposed to postpone the regular game till Monday evening and play an exhibition game, offering the Selwyn team the choice of the spectators to fill up the team. This was done and in spite of the fact that a Scotch mist had fallen a game of sorts was played. To be sure there were irregularities owing to the state of the atmosphere and the wishes of the players. The Reeve exercised his prerogative as chief executive of the village, going to bat whenever the fancy seized him, and near the end of the game when the fate of the Cement team was at stake the umpire resigned his post to a wearied member of the team and went to bat himself. The utmost good humor prevailed and the lives of the umpires were safe through the entire six innings which constituted the game. A novel feature was the fact that when a player grew tired or when the game encroached on his social engagements he left the field and his place remained vacant.

Even if the shades of night had not made play impossible it would have been diminished teams which would have gone up in the seventh. The score was 10-5 for Selwyn.

The line up was as follows:

Lakefield Cement Company: E. Douglas, pitcher; Brant, catcher; J. Sabatino 1st base; C. S. Tanner, 2nd base, R. Bickell, 3rd base; N. Cole, short stop; — Colberry, right field; George Ruttle, left field; Leonard Wingett, centre field.

The standing of the teams in the Northern Section of the North Peterborough Soft Ball League is as follows:

	Played	Won	Lost
Business men	2	2	0
Cement Co.	3	0	3
Cubs	3	2	1
Muskies	3	2	1
Selwyn	3	1	2

The Business Men will meet the Muskies on Tuesday night and their first game with the Cubs will be played at an early date. The Cement-Selwyn game will be played on Monday evening.

PLAY TONIGHT.

The Lock Works and C.G.E. will meet tonight in a post season game at Confederation Square at 6.15 sharp. A good game should result and a big crowd will likely view the fixture.

Holds Grottos To Three Hits in League Game at Sunnyside.

TORONTO, July 26.— Supremes defeated Grottos 22 to 0 last night in the league battle at Sunnyside. The champions completely outclassed the Grottos, who only got three hits off "Babe" Vincent. In the field the winners also dominated, while Grottos made a string of inglorious errors, and Supremes ran wild. Miss Mortimer led the Supreme sluggers with four hits and four runs while Misses Smith, Crane and A. Donaldson had three ringing wallops each, and Misses Flanagan, H. Donaldson and Vincent two safeties.

The shining lights for Grottos were Miss Hymus, who pitched fairly good ball, but received ragged support, and Miss May, who made some sparkling catches. Only two Grotto girls reached second base.

Defeated Montreal C.P.R.'s in Soccer Game for Connaught Cup.

BRANTFORD, Ont., July 26.—(Canadian Press).—Brantford Cockshutt Blues will go to Fort William on Tuesday evening, to meet the champions of Northern Ontario in their further pursuit of the (Connaught Cup) and Dominion honors.

Last night, down a goal to Montreal C.P.R., who had defeated them at Montreal, 2 to 1, they came through with a whirlwind game and in spite of the stellar work in goal of Kenneway, the outstanding star of the game, they came out with a 3 to 0 victory, winning the round 4 to 2.

The Blues took to the attack immediately after the interchange of kicks and in the first ten minutes had several shots at the Montreal goal. The first goal came in 18 minutes on a pass from George Richardson to Fell, who scored with a beauty. Twenty minutes later on the same combination came the second Blues' goal. Brantford was far the superior team in the first half, only the sensational work of Keneway saving the situation from being a rout. In the second half the Montrealers came back stronger, but even when the Blues maintained their superiority in footwork and combination play after the third goal, which came in 2 minutes after play started Smith doing it on a solo rush. Montreal was seldom dangerous after that, while Kenneway kept up his sensational work. The team score:

C.P.R.—Kenneway; Bardell and Pyvis; Rusk, McDonald and Neesmith; McCall, Angel, McIntosh, Foreman, and Ford.

Cockshutts—Moore; Jackson, and Nicholls; Dickson, Baxter and George; G. Richardson, Smith, Fell, Aird and Richardson.

Referee—A. McCullough, Hamilton. Linesman—W. Gray and James Garnett, Hamilton.

GOLF TOURNAMENT

Moose Jaw Man in Lead in Western Canada Open Golf Championship.

MOOSE JAW Sask., July 26. — Canadian Press. — With the majority of the leading golfers finished with the first 18 holes of the Western Canada open golf championship, Fred Fletcher of Moose Jaw was shown in the lead with a brilliant card of 70.

Jack Cuthbert, amateur of Winnipeg, was tied for second place with D. Sutherland, Edmonton professional, with a score of 74. Ned McKenna, Ninaki, defending champion, encountered considerable trouble, finishing with a 77.

The players found the extreme heat a handicap to good scoring yesterday, and a number of entrants who rarely hit high figures were in the 80's. The fairways are hard, and the greens lightning fast.

power after having once taken it. They were asked to sign the same contract as was in use all over Ontario. It was worded to bind the individual for twenty years, but if the property were sold, the contract went with it to the purchaser. It was only natural that the Government should desire to protect itself by a 20-year contract after putting up half the cost. The line could be built and all arrangements completed in two months.

Those present were asked to sign the following petition which did not bind the signatories in any way:

"We, the undersigned, beg to make application to the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario for electric light and power under the terms and conditions now prevailing in Peterborough rural power district."

A number of the cottagers present, not content with affixing their names to the sheet, signed the regular contract for power and light.

The promoters of the meeting expressed confidence that the attempt to bring electric light and power to Smith is about to be crowned with success.

TWELVE ITALIAN GROCERS KILLED

FAMILIES KEEP SILENCE.

CHICAGO, July 26. — Twelve murders of Italian grocers within the last month have given the police a mystery-feud that is proving hard to solve, but all indications point to rivalry over the liquor trade. As usual in such crimes no information can be gleaned from the families of the victims and there never are any "witnesses," even when the entire neighbourhood sees the killing and personally knows the killers.

Joseph Corona died at a hospital yesterday, the twelfth victim of the feud. His lips were sealed either by fear of gang vengeance upon his family, or loyalty to a fraternal cow. He is the ninth grocer in the list, the other three being out-and-out dealers in illegal booze without the thin camouflage of a skimpy stock of "groceries."

Corona was shot on Sunday, and was picked up in a dying condition. Although he regained consciousness, he steadfastly refused to explain why or by whom he was shot. Members of his family were equally silent on the killing.

"WHITE FLANNELS."

An interesting feature at the Regent Theatre for the first two days of this week is "White Flannels," with Louise Dresser in the Stellar role. This veteran actress with the rather hard face and the knack of presenting emotion in unforgettable ways, is the mother of David Broska and lives with her husband and son in a little mining town. She visions for her boy an existence far removed from the sordid life of the mines that has chained his father for many years, desiring for David a mode of living that will have "white flannels" as an ordinary portion of clothing. Going out to work every day she saved enough through the years of his boyhood to send him to Strathmore College, and he goes away to try his luck.

He becomes a football hero and his college gives a wonderful dinner in his honor, the college flirt making great advances also for his favor. At the dinner, his mother, who has wished to be near her boy in the hour of his triumph, appears as a waitress, and is discovered by "Sunny," David's pal, from the mines, who has also arrived for the great day. Here is the psychological moment in the picture, when just a little twist of the action would have sent it to an entirely different conclusion. But the producers introduced an unexpected incident, and David is expelled from college, to go back to the little mining town, and its life, and to marry the dark-eyed Maria who had enslaved his heart long before. It is a picture that is perhaps much more true to life than the usual run of movie productions, and holds much powerful interest in the scenes in the mines during the cave in and the episodes later at the pit mouth, giving an insight into the lives of the men who labor below ground and the dangers which beset them.

There is a funny comedy accompanying the feature and the usual run of excellent short reels.

Nothing From Canada

OTTAWA, July 26 (Canadian Press).—It is stated here that Canada has made no representations to the British Government with respect to certain matters in dispute at the Geneva naval conference. A despatch from Geneva suggested that the British Dominions were urging Great Britain not to be apprehensive over the details of the United States naval building program, because there is no possibility of war between the United States and Great Britain. Canada, it is stated here officially, has made no representations in regard to the United States program.

USE PLENTY OF ICE

Only a few years ago ice was considered a great luxury, where now it is recognized as a necessity. The important part it has played in the general health improvement of those people living in civilized communities is immeasurable, and today there is to be found throughout the United States and Canada a plentiful supply, either in the natural or artificial form.

In the interior tropical count ies like Mexico, the infant mortality rate is very high because of the lack of ice and proper refrigerating systems. Milk is plentiful in these warm countries, but unless it is sufficiently cooled immediately after milking, various forms of disease germs and putrefactive bacteria develop and make the milk unwholesome. It is true that the infant death rate in Alaska is also very high but this is because with all their ice, cow's milk is a scarcity.

Practically every city in North America with one hundred inhabitants has a system of ice distribution which is effective, at least, during the summer months. Where the natural ice is inaccessible, the supply is controlled by the artificial product, huge plants for the manufacturing of which are in operation throughout the year.

The public is pretty well educated on the subject of antiseptics, and thoroughly schooled in the knowledge that harmful bacteria, when allowed to develop, must be destroyed. Yet, many do not realize that even the most wholesome food will undergo harmful changes if not kept at the proper temperature. There are many foods that cannot be sterilized so they will keep without refrigeration, and it has not proved possible to use strong antiseptics on foodstuffs without incurring great risk. Consequently, ice offers the ultimate solution to the problem of preserving good food until it is ready for the table.

Many people make the mistake of trying to keep the ice "budg t" low by using ice only during the summer months, but this is not wise economy. It is better by far to buy ice the year round, for the benefit derived from the use of foods kept at an even temperature is worth much more than the extra ice.

In summer it is a good plan to pack your picnic lunches in such a way that the food will be surrounded by cracked ice, which will assure against any derogative changes, for even fresh cooked chicken or other meat will actually undergo some harmful changes in two or three hours if allowed to remain in a high temperature. A few cents' worth of ice taken along with your picnic lunch may save needless sickness and unnecessary doctor bills.

Cut down on other expenses if you must, but don't try to economize on ice.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: R. S. writes: "I have been reading your interesting talks on health and diet. You recently mentioned the fruit juice cure for tumor growths. Would you please give instructions how to take the fruit juice cure, and what fruits to use?"

ANSWER: In the article to which you refer I only mentioned the results I frequently had in my office practise. It would not be wise for me to attempt to give you instructions about such a serious trouble through the columns of the newspaper.

QUESTION: H. M. C. writes: "My boy aged nine has a sort of quivering in his body when asleep, sometimes in his limbs, then his stomach. Sometimes he is very restless, and then again not so much. He is never cross or tired, always happy, looks healthy, and is four pounds overweight."

ANSWER: Your boy is probably troubled with occasional spells of indigestion which occur during his sleep. Keep him on the health menus I recommend in this column, and see if his trouble does not quickly disappear.

QUESTION: Mrs. Helen M. C. writes: "My daughter eighteen has a swelling in her hands when awakening. Her tonsils are large but not diseased. Sometimes she complains of her limbs feeling numb. What is causing the trouble?"

ANSWER: Your daughter may have some kind of functional heart trouble which would produce the swelling in her hands and the numbness of her limbs. Of course, I cannot diagnose her disorder through this column. I am only able to make a guess as to the cause.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

MY FATHER'S HOUSE.

Parlor, and bed, and fire withal,
My father's house once seemed too small,
Too small for one who had such dreams,
Such golden thoughts, so jeweled schemes:
And so I passed my father's door,
As youth will do for ever more,
And climbed the hill of climbing men,
And never saw that house again.

Now many a castle I have seen,
But long the long miles lie between
The house that men have built for show
And that small house of long ago.

And, oh, if I could but find rest
Again upon my father's breast,
That little house, I know, would be,
However small, enough for me.

And so it is men wander from
Their Father's house in kingdom come,
Go seeking wealth they want to win,
And make experiments in sin.
But, Father, fear not—men shall learn
Even as sons that homeward turn,
No longer sin, no more carouse,
But seek again their Father's house.

TORONTO FAILS IN GAS APPEAL

Privy Council Finds City Can't Force Company To Use Premiums.

CASE DISMISSED.

LONDON, July 26. — (Canadian Press Cable.)— The appeal of the City of Toronto against Consumers' Gas Company's methods of accounting in respect to premiums was dismissed with costs by the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council today.

The question at issue was as to whether the City of Toronto was entitled to compel the Consumers Gas Company of Toronto to carry premiums on its sale of stock to the special reserve fund which should be applied in reduction on the cost of gas. The Lower Court held that the city itself had no recognized position or right to intervene and in consequence the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council recently granted a petition to have Attorney General of Ontario, Hon. W. H. Price, joined with Toronto in the appeal.

Publisher Makes Record Passenger Flight; Only Excitement When Elephants Charge

LONDON, July 26 (United Press). — Van Lear Black, publisher of the Baltimore Sun, arrived at the Croydon Airdrome last night, completing a flight of 16,000 miles in less than two hundred flying hours. He set a new world record for passenger flying. The publisher, accompanied by a pilot, mechanic, and valets, flew to Batavia, Dutch East Indies, and back in a Fokker air yacht.

"I was a great experience," Black said on his arrival here. "My friends warned me that such a flight would be dangerous, but I proved to them that they were wrong. The only exciting moment of the whole flight was when a herd of wild elephants dashed toward us as we were taking off at the Burma Airdrome. The pilot managed to clear them by seven or eight feet."

"IRISH HEARTS," with May McAvoy, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Emmett Murtough, a roistering young man of Killanmaul, a village on the west coast of Ireland near Knockbotherum, hears the call of America. He is in love with Sheila Kildare, daughter of Old Tom Kildare, who let his farm go to ruin while he "talked politics." Both Emmett and Sheila visit the Knockbotherum Fair and have their fortunes told by Mother O'Reilly who has long been famous for her prophecies.

CHAPTER I—Continued

Mother O'Reilly turned to the shelf behind her where good luck trinkets were kept. From amongst the lot she selected a locket and held it out to Sheila. It was round, rimmed with a silver band and transparent. Between two thin circles of glass was a shamrock, the four petals flatly pressed.

"'Tis good luck, darling, an' Mother O'Reilly herself promises ye it will bring ye happiness. Wear it always, darling, an' never lose it, for if you do the imps, bad cess to them, will be climbing ye'r back to make trouble for ye."

Sheila held it close to her breast, her eyes shining. "I'll never, never lose it," she cried in perfect faith.

"An', acushla, now; just a shilling; not for the charm," the old fortune teller hastily added, "but because charms are no good to one unless there's a bit of silver passes the palms, as ye well know."

Sheila opened her purse and placed the shilling in the old woman's hand. She felt a sudden grip upon her shoulder and she was dragged to her feet.

"It's a great man I'll be over there, where every fellow has his chance."

"An' what are ye doing here? Flinging my good money away on charms an' fortune telling? Bad cess to ye, girl! Is it rich we are to be having dealings with such old frauds as this?"

"Father, don't, ye hurt me!"

"Hurt ye I will," Old Tom, hot with liquor, roared angrily. "What's that ye have? A locket! An' what will ye be doing with a locket? Give the old woman back her trinket an' get back ye'r money."

"Father, it's good luck; it's a shamrock an' I must keep it always."

"Give it back, I say!"

"No, no!" Sheila wrested herself from the old man's grasp and with a quick gesture dropped the precious charm into her bodice. Defeated for the moment, Old Tom Kildare ordered her home and Sheila took his arm to guide his stumbling footsteps while he grumbled and scolded her for her extravagance.

"An' did ye sell the pig, father?" she asked.

"I did, indeed," he boasted proudly. "An' at a fine price."

"An' where's the money," Sheila insisted.

"What should I be answering questions concerning my money to you, ye spendthrift," he retorted. Sheila sighed. The money was gone she well knew. Old Tom was ever loose handed in a tavern when there were plenty of shillings in his pocket. And, perhaps a bet or two on the races had taken a share. The money was to have purchased the seedlings for the potato patch. Now they must wait and perhaps miss the best season for planting.

Old Tom reeled along and Sheila hung her head in shame, for there were many there at the Knockbotherum Fair from Killanmaul way and the gossips would be busy about Tom Kildare and his daughter tomorrow. As tears filled her pretty eyes Sheila touched the precious locket hidden near her breast and murmured to herself:

"I have the singing heart and nothing can ever hurt me now!"

CHAPTER TWO.

Off For America!

The fair at Knockbotherum was a fortnight away and the Murtough was in his element. He had made his peace with Peter Harrigan, his maternal uncle and had won him over not only to the great adventure across the sea but had actually argued the old man, who was known throughout the Killanmaul country as a miserly one, into providing passage money to New York. The villagers were not particularly impressed with this, however. They did not attribute the gift so much to Emmett's powers of persuasion.

"A lucky man is Peter," they said in the Widow O'Farrell's Inn. "Sure an' the boy would amount to nothin' at all, at all, here in Killanmaul; save to get hisself mixed up with too many girls for his own good. An' who can tell but that it might cost the old Harrigan a penny or two."

But Emmett gave no heed to these wiseacres who knew too much. Indeed, he walked on feathers, as the saying is, and his chin pointed high as he boasted to his comrades of what he would do in America and the riches that would be his. Listeners were few, however, for the Murtough was none too popular with the fellows of his own age; he was too much of a ladies' man to be taken seriously by those young stalwarts who braved the sea or who bent their backs over flourishing farms. Sheila Kildare was his best audience. For Sheila dreamed, too, and while she loved Killanmaul, and her love for it never was to end until her last breath, still her fresh imagination plucked from the boastfulness of Emmett a hope near to her own heart.

"Sheila, darling, it's a great man I'll be over there, where every fellow has his chance an' there are none to scoff an' scorn the whole day through. Who could do anything at all here in Killanmaul; the dirty little village! An' with these people who look at ye as if ye were as familiar as the horse an' gig of Doctor Carmody, an' no more. Just because they have seen ye about since the time ye was a small scut they think ye'll amount to nothing at all, at all. Why, down in Knockbotherum didn't they tell me about Tim O'Malley who went from there a dozen years ago an' now he's on the police force in New York an' he wears a uniform an' gets a tremendous salary every month. It's a politician he is, too."

"Oh, Emmett, I do hope everything turns out well," Sheila cried wistfully. "But it's such a long ways over there; miles an' miles across the water, an' everybody'll be a stranger to ye!"

"Old Mother O'Reilly told me I'd do well among strangers," and then Emmett remembered the admonishment of the fortune teller. "An', Sheila, she said I should have a wife to hold me down an' to help make me successful."

"Emmett!"

"I'd be asking ye to go with me now, Sheila, darling, but I want to get started an' to have something to bring ye to when the time comes. An' will ye wait for me?"

"An' how will I be knowing ye want me," Sheila answered. There was no coquetry in her voice. This girl looked on life gravely in spite of her joyous spirit, and the soil of the Killanmaul country gripped her through the generations of forefathers who had passed their lives there.

"Ah, Sheila, ye know I've been wanting ye all these years," Emmett insisted.

"Aye, but ye played fast and loose with many a girl, I've heard."

"Well, I've done me bit of philandering," the Murtough admitted, and not without pride.

"I'm wondering if I had been as easy as the other girls if ye would have asked me to have the ring."

"Sure, now, Sheila, if a man stops by the roadside come night to chin with a broth of a girl is he the worst for it?"

RAIN HOLDS UP CAMP OUTINGS

Boys Forced To Stay at Rotary Camp Instead of Sleeping Out.

FIND SWIMMING GOOD.

The rainy week-end necessitated a few changes in the programme of the camp. It had been intended that on Friday an over night camp should be made on the shores of Upper Stoney Lake, when rain spoiled the arrangements. The boys looked forward hopefully to the regular Saturday trip to Eel's creek for supper. Once again, old Jup. Pluvius kept the camp at home. It is worthy of record that despite two spells of wet weather there has not been a case of homesickness in camp thus far.

All the worst features have been chronicled in the previous paragraph. For the rest, boys and leaders have been having a wonderful time. Real old time rivalry sprang to the fore during last week's ball schedule. On Wednesday a trip was made to Mount Julian where the boys passed the opinion that there is found the best swimming encountered on any trip away from camp. At the same time many vote in favour of that found at Eel's Creek.

With the return of the camp Johnson motor all the places of interest can be visited in turn. On Tuesday of this week a trip will be made to Lakefield for the afternoon. Wednesday will find the boats up near Jack's Creek for the postponed overnight camp.

Raspberries are ripe and pie is on the menu these days. Mention was made last week of the ice cream made on the grounds. Sunday evening supper had for dessert pineapple, nut sundaes of our own manufacture.

Visitors to camp during recent days were Mr. and Mrs. Haley, Mr. and Mrs. Barton, Mr. and Mrs. Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. Garvey, Mr. and Mrs. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. James Conway, Mrs. Ascott, Mrs. McIntyvre, Mr. McClelland, Max Comstock, Mr. and Mrs. Cross.

New boys in camp: Russell and Walter Barton, Eric Haley, Alvin Torrance, Elmer and Wilf Conners, Jack Comstock, Gordon McIntyre, Gavin Saxby.

ARMY SERVICES APPRECIATED

Requests For Return Visits Received From Neighboring Villages.

SCOUTS GOING TO CAMP.

Included in the activities of the local branch of the Salvation Army have been open air services conducted by Commandant Frank Ham and assisted by the Peterborough Temple Band, (Bandmaster Frank Robinson), the Peterborough Songster Brigade, (Songster Leader Ben Smith), the League of Mercy Sisters, (Sergt. Major Mrs. T. Lang) in the neighboring localities of Lakefield, Millbrook and Chemong Park.

Large crowds of people have listened intently to the programme of music, song, and testimony. An indication of appreciation is found in the fact that strong representations have been for further visits.

On Wednesday evening of this week, Commandant Ham, accompanied by the Young People's Band, under Band Leader Halcrow, is visiting the village of Warsaw. Indications are that a number of people from Dummer township will be present at this interesting service.

On August 3, the Peterborough Temple Band will again visit Millbrook.

A four day camp will be held by the Life Saving Scout Troop, under the direction of Scout Leader Harold Barton. The tents bought last summer will again be requistioned and over thirty boys will revel in the activities of real scout life under canvas. On Sunday morning Commandant Frank Ham will conduct divine service at the camp. The boys will leave for camp on Friday of this week. Their trek cart will be the means of transportation. A full programme of Scout craft has been planned by the Scout leaders.

GIRL KILLED BY MOTOR CAR

Katherine Garrett, 10, Fatally Injured Crossing Highway at New Toronto.

INQUEST ORDERED.

NEW TORONTO, July 26.—Ten-year-old Katherine Garrett of 246 Heath street, Toronto, was fatally injured when she was struck by a truck driven by C. S. Sigg, of Long Branch on the Lake Shore Highway here yesterday afternoon. The child, who was going to a summer home on Lakeside Drive, had alighted from a radial and crossed the highway directly in the path of the westbound truck.

Sigg swerved the truck to the opposite side of the road in an effort to avoid her, but she was struck by the right front wheel. The child was attended by Dr. H. R. Conn, who had her rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital, where it was found that she was suffering from internal injuries. A blood transfusion was given, but the girl died about 8 o'clock.

Constable Weatherup, of New Toronto investigated, but did not hold the driver of the truck.

Coroner Dr. J. M. Casserly, who investigated, ordered an inquest to be held.

OSHAWA SEEKING SEVENTH PLACE

Now Stands Eighth Among Customs Ports of Dominion.

OSHAWA, July 26. — Oshawa is making a strong bid for seventh place, at least, among Canadian customs ports for the current year. The past year saw this city recognized as Canada's eighth port, but, revenue for the months of April, May and June of the current fiscal year is over $900,000 in excess of the total received during the same months in 1926.

Figures supplied by Collector D. A. Valleau show that from April 1 to June 30 the local customs staff received $3,588,502 in duties. For the same period last year the total was $2,681,965.

DECOMPOSED BODY IS FOUND IN SWAMP

Discovery Made Beside Road at Birch Cliff, Near Toronto.

BIRCH CLIFF, July 26.—The body of an unknown man, aged about 60 years, was found in a badly decomposed condition in a swamp at the side of a road running off the Kingston Highway near West Hill yesterday. It is thought that the body had been lying there for about two months. A racing newspaper found in a pocket of the clothes bore the date of June 6.

There was no apparent indication of foul play, and it is generally thought that the man had been wandering in the district and, lying down at the edge of the road, had died of natural causes. One resident reported having seen an old man searching for work in the neighborhood some weeks ago.

E. J. Bartham and W. Wilson, passing the spot, discovered the body and reported to the Scarboro' police. Coroner Dr. C. D. Farquharson and Constable Draycott are investigating. An inquest will be held, but the date has not yet been set.

Following removal to Cobbledick's Undertaking Parlors on Danforth Avenue a search of the clothing revealed a portion of a bank book, in whic hnone of the writing was discernible, a racing paper, shaving articles, a pair of glasses and a pipe. The body was dressed in a dark grey suit, brown cap and brown leather shoes.

DECORATIONS BEING PUT UP

Parliament Hill's Holiday Dress Being Restored For Royal Visit.

HOLIDAY IN MONTREAL.

OTTAWA, July 26 (Canadian Press).—Parliament Hill is being redecorated for the coming of the Prince of Wales, Prince George, and Premier Baldwin. A few short weeks ago, a thousand flags fluttered in the breeze to celebrate Canada's Diamond Jubilee. Then, the birthday having been celebrated, workmen appeared on the scene and took down the pavilion, uprooted the posts supporting the banners, packed up the flags, and Parliament Hill assumed its ordinary aspect.

Today the Pavillion is being reconstructed. The flag poles have been brought forth again and the flags will be resurrected. For another brief period Parliament Hill, after its few weeks of quiet, will wear its holiday dress. There is some surprise expressed that it was ever removed for such a short interval.

Holiday Proclaimed

MONTREAL, July 26 (Canadian Press).—In honor of the Prince of Wales, Prince George and Premier Baldwin, a half holiday, Monday morning, was announced today in a proclamation issued by Mayor Mederic Martin. Another proclamation calls upon the citizens of Montreal to decorate their premises on the occasion of the Royal visit.

PROGRAM TO BE VERY INTERESTING

Members of A. M. O. S. Meet in Toronto Next Week.

An interesting programme has been prepared for the twenty-fifth annual convention of the Ancient Mystic Order of Samaritans (A.M.O.S.), to be held in Toronto from August 3rd to 6th inclusive. All business sessions will be held at the King Edward Hotel.

The first day sees a grand reception to J. Charles Hackland, Supreme Monarchos, and Supreme Officers and their ladies, in the Pompeiian Room of the King Edward, from 8.30 to 12 p.m., when an address of welcome will be given by a prominent member of Parliament. Novelty ballet dances, vocal numbers, a Moon Feast and dancing will be the order of the evening, with music furnished by the famous Luigi Romanelli and his King Edward Hotel Orchestra.

On Thursday the official opening of the sessions will be conducted by Supreme Monarchos Hackland, with an official reception and address of welcome by Mayor Foster, followed by an official tour of The T. Eaton Company's store for the visiting ladies, an official photograph at the hotel, and attendance at the Rochester vs. Toronto international baseball game in the great Maple Leaf Stadium overlooking Toronto Bay and Lake Ontario. At seven o'clock in the evening, the Perfection Degree will be put on, and at half-past nine o'clock, a Frolic has been arranged in the Transportation Building at the Exhibition Grounds.

On Friday, general sessions continue, with a ladies' tour and inspection of Ryrie Brothers' Diamond Hall, and a visit to the Metropolitan Church, to hear the second largest pipe organ in the world. In the afternoon a sight-seeing tour of the city has been arranged, with competitions on the Canadian National Exhibition Grounds in band contests, patrol drills, and drum corps contests. At seven o'clock a monster parade will take place, headed by the Toronto Police Silver Band. The parade will form on University Avenue and proceed to Sunnyside Beach via Queen Street. The concluding sessions take place on Saturday morning.

Prizes offered for the various contests include $200 for the band competition, in a band of 24 pieces composed of A.M.O.S. members in good standing; $100 for the largest and best dressed Arab Patrol of the parade; $150 for the largest Arab Patrol and band coming the longest distance; $75 to be competed for by Drum Corps members of the A.M.O.S., to consist of not less than 15 memoers; $50 for best appearing Patrol in the parade, and $100 for the best Zunanna Patrol in parade.

CRAWLS INTO FIRE TO PLUG GAS TANK

Truck Driver Averts Bad Explosion When Car Catches Fire.

TILSONBURG, July 26.—Leo Petz coolly crawled into a burning truck-cab here yesterday to plug with a rag the opening in the gas tank, and to extinguish a blaze which had converted Simcoe Street—in the immediate vicinity of the vehicle—into a sheet of flame, and which was threatening the lives of at least four bystanders.

Petz and a companion, the former driving, had stopped the truck to take on gasoline. The companion was smoking as the tank was being filled. Suddenly the whole machine was enveloped with flames. Clarence Booth, a groceryman, tore the hose off the gas station filler, and prevented the blaze communicating with the station's storage supply. Petz first tried water on the truck, but the flames simply spread all the more. Finally, at the risk of his life, he dived back into the cab, and with a handful of waste, as aforedescribed, averted a bad explosion.

Heavy Buying Of Motors Feature On Wall Street

NEW YORK, July 26 (Canadian Press).—Heavy buying of the motor shares featured the resumption of the upward movement in to-day's stock market. Squalls of selling swept through the market from time to time, but they failed to halt the general upswing. General Motors crossed 223 to a new peak price on reports that the first half year's earnings would exceed $14.00 a share and that a two for one split up of the stock was in contemplation.

Chrysler, Nash, Hudson, and Studebaker moved up one to two points. Pierce Arrow Preferred, on the other hand, broke more than three points to a new low on publication of a relatively poor semi-annual report.

The oils were not affected by reports of a world wide oil trade war as a result of the controversy now raging over the purchase of Russian oil by American companies.

New Favorites Lead Toronto Trading To-day

TORONTO, July 26 (Canadian Press).—Several stocks that have hitherto been dormant came to life in the trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today and outshone most of the old favorites. Industrial Alcohol and International Nickel were the most active issues. Both stocks were weaker, the former dropping ½ to 33 and later ½ to 60¼. Dominion Stores was an active and strong feature, advancing 1 point to 83.

McKinnon Voting Trusts also came in for considerable attention and scored the widest gain of the list, when it advanced 1½ points to 24. Page Hersey was in good demand, and moved forward ¾ to 72¾. The Preferred was also active and stronger at 145½, up ½. C.P.R. strengthened ⅞ to 188. Brazilian was quiet at 169½. The Distillery stocks were quiet with the exception of Walker, which weakened ½ to 48½ under selling pressure.

Amulet Continues To Lead Mine Stocks

TORONTO, July 26. Canadian Press. — Amulet continued to dominate interest in the trading on the market of the Standard mining exchange to-day. With sales well over the 100,000 mark it advanced seven cents a share to 3.77, after previously establishing a new high of 3.84. Area continued active and held firm at 51. Conigas was a strong spot, advancing five cents to 4.9. Potter coal was active and firmed 1½ to 13½.

The dividend paying gold stocsk were generaly weaker. McIntyre led the decline with a drop of 40c a share to 25.75. Replying to the argument that it was unfair to dismiss married women teachers who had modelled their lives in order that they might continue teaching, Councillor Mrs. McCormick said that if married women generally modelled their lives on the same lines as most of those teachers there would be no children in the schools to teach.

IN MEMORIAM

GALLAGHER.—In loving memory of William Gallagher, who died July 26th, 1926:
He is gone, but not forgotten,
And, as dawns another year,
In our lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of him are always near.
Days of sadness will come o'er us,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within the heart concealed.

TORONTO YOUTH PLUNGES TO DEATH IN TRENT RIVER

Drastic Safeguards Adopted In Ireland

DEATH IS PENALTY IMPOSED FOR POSSESSION OF WEAPONS FOLLOWING O'HIGGINS MURDER

Cosgrave Declares Nationalists Endeavored To Purchase Artillery From Germany and Rifles From France and Italy For Warfare Against Constitutional Authority.

REMNANTS OF CIVIL WAR IRREGULARS BLAMED FOR POLICY OF ASSASSINATION

President Declares One Revolutionary Section Has Made Threats to Shoot Public Men Taking Oath of Allegiance to the King.

DUBLIN, Ireland, July 27 (A.P..) — President William T. Cosgrave's positive declaration before the Dail Eireann yesterday fixing the responsibility for the murder of Kevin O'Higgins on the extreme wing of the Irregular army, secured the passage of his drastic Public Safety Act.

Some members, believing that the murder was due to private vengence, had hesitated to accord the government the exceptional powers the new measure provides for. Particular objection was taken to empowering the police to search for documents, imprisonment for the possession of seditious documents and deportation of suspicious persons.

The question was asked where deported persons would go, and it was assumed they would be unable to get passports. But Vice-President Blyth said that the persons aimed at were only dangerous in Ireland and that passports would be given them to go anywhere else.

The organization which the government believed to be responsible for the policy of assassination as a means of upsetting the State was described by Mr. Cosgrave as having cut loose altogether from association with Eamon de Valera, and was not under the Republican party's control; it was the remnant of the irregular army which in May, 1923, De Valera called off from the civil war. Arms were not surrendered at that time, said Mr. Cosgrave, and may still be hidden.

He declared also that documents which had been seized indicated that Irish revolutionists had been trying to purchase artillery from Germany and rifles from Italy and France. He asserted that one section of the revolutionists threatened to shoot any public representative taking the oath of allegiance to the British Crown.

The possession of arm will, under the new bill, involve the death penalty. Some members, while willing to give the government the power it asked for against crime, disapproved of President Cosgrave's supplemental proposals altering the constitution to block De Valera's political agitation against the oath of allegiance.

The latest statement of the flier's plans shows that their first objective will be Ottawa, whence they will fly to London, Ontario, and thence back to London, England, their desire being to win the five thousand pounds offered for that feat.

Gold Nuggets Serve Hens Instead Of Common Gravel

OLYMPIA, Wash., July 27. — Sitting in the kitchen as his wife was preparing two chickens for Sunday dinner, J. D. Walker discussed the Nevada gold discovery. Just then, removing the craw of one of the hens, Mrs. Walker found it had contained five gold nuggets. Another was found in the second chicken.

Search is being made for the ranch from which the chickens were originally bought. Boys "playing miner" recently discovered gold along the beach near Moclips, believed to have been washed up by the storms in January. It may have been in this region that the hens picked up the nuggets.

Mother-In-Law Starts Throwing Dishes But Bud and Lena Are Safely Married

Here are the Before and After pictures of "Little Lena Wilson," girl of the north woods, who yesterday became Mrs. James A. Stillman, Jr., and one of America's richest young matrons. At the left you see Lena of the bush, in the simple inexpensive little jersey frocks she wore there.

At the right you see Lena in her wedding gown. The dress is pearl-embroidered white net over ivory satin. It is sleeveless, knee length and very girlish. Added girlishness is given by the train of tulle rather than satin and the wedding veil of net edged in duchess lace. The train is picoted in silver, and slender streamers of silver ribbon fall from the shoulders of the frock and blend with the tulle train.

BRITAIN IS TRYING TO HELP WORLD TOWARD DISARMAMENT

There is No Reason For Suspicions of the United States.

SAYS CHAMBERLAIN.

No Right Claimed To Dictate Smaller Cruiser Policy to Nations.

LONDON, July 27 (Canadian Press). — Sir Austen Chamberlain, Foreign Secretary, in a statement in the House of Commons regarding the naval conference at Geneva, said that in the opinion of the Government, there need be no difficulty in arriving at a temporary arrangement regarding the immediate future of cruiser building. Sir Austen added, however, that the British Empire could not be asked to give to any such temporary arrangement the appearance of immhutable principle which might be treated as a precedent.

"Despite the efforts of our delegates at Geneva, serious misapprehensions of the aims of the British Government still prevail in some quarters," Sir Austen said. "His Majesty's Government even has been charged with the desire to destroy that equality of sea power as between the United States and the British Empire, which Washington contemplated — a suspicion for which there is no foundation.

"The invitation of the President of the United States to take part in the disarmament conference was understood by His Majesty's Government to be based on the desire to develop the policy of the Washington conference by diminishing yet further the labour and expenditure in maintaining national security.

"With this two-fold aim His Majesty's Government is in complete agreement and they desire to measure the merits of every proposal by the degree to which it furthers this two-fold purpose."

"It is with this principle that they propose to diminish the size and the armament of battleships, but leaving unaltered the numbers fixed at Washington.

"It is for this reason, also, that they suggest limitation in the number and armament of the large fighting cruisers on the principles similar to those adopted at Washington for battleships. This proposal, like the first, would greatly diminish national expenditure without endangering the national security.

"Questions connected with smaller cruisers are of a more complicated character. The strength of a fleet can be stated in particular and prepared with appreciation. Their primary function is to fight other fleets, and; speaking broadly, they can easily be compared with each other. There is no such similar way of looking at the subject in the case of small cruisers employed for police purposes in time of peace and necessary for the protection of the lines of communication in time of war."

Sir Austen asserted that Britain was far from claiming the least right to dictate any smaller cruiser policy to other Powers, but argued that anything resembling a permanent formula adopted at Washington was quite inapplicable for vessels designed for purposes which vary with the geographical and economic position of the Powers concerned.

"It becomes more inapplicable when the strength is estimated in terms of gross tonnage without reference to numbers or armament," he said.

DORNIER BUILDS BIG PLANE FOR ATLANTIC TRIP

Huge Flying Boat Under Construction Will Carry 100 People.

FOR REGULAR SERVICE.

Will Have Twelve Motors With Total of Five Thousand Horse Power.

NEW YORK, N.Y., July 27.— (United Press.)— A super airplane which will carry 100 passengers, is under construction at the Dornier Works at Fredericshaven, Germany, and will be given test flights during the next year, preparatory to establishing a trans-Atlantic service.

Fred Verville, American representative of the concern, which built the Dornier Wal flying boat, in which Captain Frank T. Courtney plans a non-stop trans-Atlantic flight, confirmed the building of the plane on Tuesday.

Rumors of its construction have stirred European flying circles for some time. It is described in European reports as a flying boat, similar except for its immense size to Courtney's Dornier Wal, and will be driven by 12 Gnome-Rhone air cooled motors, developing a combined horse power of between 6,000 and 7,000.

CANADIAN DAIRY FACTORIES SHOW INCREASE IN PRODUCTION THOUGH VALUE HAS DECREASED; MINING INDUSTRY IS BEING WELL DEVELOPED

Average Price of Butter at Creamery in 1926 Was 34.8 Cents.

MORE FACTORIES.

Output in 1926 Was Second Largest in History, Second Only to 1924.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 27 (Canadian Press). — An important series of reports were released yesterday by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics based on statistics showing production in a number of Canadian industries during 1926.

The reports reveal that dairy factories in Canada increased the volume of their production, though the total value fell slightly; that gypsum production during the year created a new record; that iron ore production was negligible, and that a considerable increase was registered in the production of arsenic from Canadian ores.

Canda's production of creamery butter in 1926 amounted to 179,156,375 pounds valued at $62,025,049, an increase in quantity, compared with the preceding year, of 8,661,408 pounds, but a decrease in value of $983,048 The average price per pound at the creamery in 1926 was 34.81 cents, compared with an average of 37.17 cents in 1925. The output of 1926 is the second largest in the history of the industry, and is less than the record production of 1924 by only 737,562 pounds. The total value of production is exceeded by only two years, 1920 and 1925.

All of the provinces show increased production, Manitoba having the largest proportionate increase. The relation which each province bears to the total quantity of production is as follows: Ontario, 35 per cent.; Quebec, 29 per cent.; Alberta, 11 per cent.; Saskatchewan, 9 per cent.; Manitoba, 9 per cent.; Nova Scotia, 3 per cent. ;British Columbia, 2 per cent.; and Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick, each 1 per cent. The biggest average price per pound for creamery butter in 1926 is shown by British Columbia with 40.54 cents, followed by Nova Scotia with 38.09 cents, while the lowest averages are shown by Alberta with 32.99 cents,

Gypsum Production Adances to New High Mark in Nearly All Provinces.

CAPITAL $6,696,000.

Research To Find Way of Recovering Titanium Oxide With Iron.

OTTAWA, July 27 (Canadian Press).—Gypsum production in Canada advanced to a new high peak in 1926, finally revised statistics show. Increases in tonnage shipped were recorded in all producing provinces except New Brunwick. The total production for the year was 883,728 tons worth $2,770,813, as compared against 740,323 tons at $2,369,891 produced in 1925. Gypsum quarried in 1926 totalled 931,193 tons, of which quantity only 161,841 tons of 17.4 per cents was calcined in Canada.

Capital employed in this important Canadian mining industry in 1926 was reported at $6,696,077. Employment was furnished to 68 salaried employees, 891 mine workers and 409 mill workers ;their combined earnings were $1,255,427.

Iron ore production in Canada during 1926 was reported as practically negligible.

Research work is being carried on by the Department of Mines at Ottawa on the ilmenite ores of Quebec, with a view to making an economic recovery of both the titanium and iron. Titanium oxide is becoming recognized as a valuable material in the manufacture of paints, and is said to be better than white lead for certain purposes because of its ability to withstand corrosive action.

Finally revised statistics on the production of arsenic from Canadian ores, show an output of 5,074,617 pounds valued at $146,211 in 1926 as compared with 3,434,137 pounds at $130,302 in 1925.

Channel Snatches Boy From Grip Of Rescuer In First Holiday Dive

Gordon Malcolm Drowns On Evening of Arrival To Visit At Trent River—Had Been Looking Forward to Pleasant Vacation.

BODY RECOVERED LAST NIGHT BY SEARCHERS AND CORONER INQUEST UNNECESSARY

Ralph Connacher Makes Gallant Attempt To Save His Chum and Nearly Loses His Life in Death Struggle—Victim Was Only 18.

TRENT RIVER, July 27 (Special to The Examiner).— Snatched from the hands of his companion when he got into difficulties on the first dive of his vacation, Gordon Malcolm, 18, of Toronto, was drowned in Trent River last night. Ralph Connacher, with whom Malcolm was holidaying, made a gallant attempt to save his friend. He was dragged under the surface and almost drowned in the frantic struggle for life.

The two boys arrived from Toronto yesterday to spend a few days at the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Connacher, and this was their first swim. There were four in the party that donned bathing suits and started out for the big pier east of the swinging bridge, where the swimming is usually good. They were in high spirits, anticipating two or three days of sport before returning to the city.

Malcolm was the first to dive from the pier. He was, it now appears,not an expert swimmer, and the deep water was too much for him. It was immediately apoarent that he was in difficulties, and Connacher leaped to his assistance. Malcolm, who struggled to the surface several times, grasped his would-be rescuer's swimming suit, and all but dragged it off him in the instinctive battle for breath. Connacher was dragged under several times in his brave attempt, but was unable alone to handle the drowning youth. The deep water in mid-channel finally claimed its victim.

No Inquest Held

The body was recovered with the assistance of grappling irons, and resuscitation methods used without avail. Dr. Holdcroft of Havelock, who was hurriedly summoned, pronounced life extinct on his arrival, and Coroner Dr. Loucks of Campbellford decided that an inquest is not necessary in view of the apparent accidental nature of the fatality.

The body was removed to Toronto this morning.

TWO AVIATORS ACCEPT ORDER TO STAY ON JOB

Will Resume Work on Ontario Forest Patrol at Once.

SCHULLER ON LEAVE.

Interest Now Centres on Harding and Vance For London Flight.

TORONTO, July 27 (Canadian Press).—Captains W. Roy Maxwell and T. B. Tully, of the Ontario Government Air Service, who were chosen from a large number of applicants for the London, Ontario, to London, England, trans-Atlantic non-stop flight, and who were refused leave of absence to undertake the project by the Ontario Government yesterday, announced to-day that they would accept the decision of the Government and continue their forest patrol work.

In regard to Lieut. "Duke" Schuller's participation in a non-stop flight from Windsor, Ontario, to Windsor, England, in company with Phil Wood of Detroit, the announcement was made to-day that Schuller has not been given permission to attempt the flight. At present he is on four days' leave of absence and will be expected to return to his duties at the end of that time.

Now that it is definitely established that Captains Maxwell and Tully will not undertake the London to London flight, interest in the venture centres around Capt. Dave Harding, of Camp Borden, whose home is in Sarnia, Ontario, and Capt. Vance, who were runners-up in the selection of pilots for the flight.

MEMORIAL ALTAR DEDICATION TO BE IMPRESSIVE SERVICE

Prince of Wales To Conduct Ceremony in Canada's Peace Tower.

RECORDS ALL DEAD.

Royal Party Has Pleasant Voyage—Baldwin Sets Precedent For Premiers.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 27 (Canadian Press). — Dedication of the altar in the Memorial Chamber of the Peace Tower in the Houses of Parliament by H.R.H. the Prince of Wales next Wednesday afternoon will be one of the notable functions at which the Prince will officiate in Canada. The official programme was issued last night.

At 2.45 p.m., the Prime Minister of Great Britain and Mrs. Baldwin will arrive and will be conducted by the Prime Minister of Canada to the Memorial Chamber.

At 2.50, Their Excellencies, His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, and His Royal Highness Prince George will arrive, accompanied by travelling escort.

The guard of honour will give the royal salute.

2.55 p.m., Their Excellencies, the Prince of Wales and Prince George will be met at the central entrance of the Houses of Parliament by the Prime Minister of Canada, and conducted to the Memorial Chamber.

The Prince of Wales will stand in front of the altar, and an able seaman, a private soldier, an airman, and a nursing sister will be stationed at the four corners.

3 p.m., On the stroke of three, the ceremony performed by the Prince of Wales will begin.

At the pronouncement of the final words, the buglers will sound the Last Post, the flag on the Peace Tower will be dipped, and the guard of honour will present arms.

The silence of remembrance will follow the last note of the bugle.

The silence of remembrance will be broken by the carillon playing "O Valiant Hearts." Afterwards the Minister of National Defence, Col. the Hon. J. C. Ralston, will speak, followed by Premier Baldwin. The Reveille will sound the dawn of a new day, and the carillon will then ring out, "O Canada."

His Royal Highness, standing on the steps of the Peace Tower, will take the royal salute, and the band will play "God Save the King." As the assembly disperses, the carillon will render, "Land of Hope and Glory."

Is Central Feature.

Th Memorial Chamber may be described as the central feature of the new Parliament Buildings. Located on the first floor of the Tower, it is a sanctuary of rare beauty and deep significance. The walls and the vaulted ceiling are of caen stone, a present from the people of France; on marble panels around the falls is graven the story of Canada's achievement, surmounted by typical emblems and figures harmoniously grouped in the mural decoration. The three separate windows unite in the general scheme, displaying the ideals and principles underlying the call to arms, remembrance and peace. The floor is of stone from the battlefields of France and Flanders, bordered by black marble, the gift of the people of Belgium, and bearing names of battles in which Canadians fought. In the centre of the Chamber is the altar, a massive stone, ornamented with the royal arms, the arms of Canada, and of the Provinces, the gift of Great Britain. On the altar will rest the Book of Remembrance, in which will be recorded the names of 60,000 Canadians who gave their lives in the Great War.

The inscription on the altar reads:

"My marks and scars I carry with me to be a witness for me that I have fought his battles who will now be my rewarder. So he passed over, and all the trumpets sounded for him on the other side"

Under the Window of Remembrance is inserted:

"Nor was their agony brief, or once only imposed on them. The wounded, the war spent, the sick received no exemption; being cured they returned and endured and achieved our redemption.

"Wherefore, seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses,.. let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us."

The inscription above the door reads:

"All's well, for over there, among his peers, a happy warrior sleeps."

ON BOARD SHIP.

ON BOARD THE S.S. EMPRESS OF AUSTRALIA, July 27 (By Wireless to the Canadian Press). — Rain squalls blowing swiftly and unexpectedly over the Atlantic, coupled with a strong northerly breeze and swelling seas, have failed to depress the enthusiasm of the royal passengers, the Prince of Wales and Prince George, and their distinguished fellow-travellers, Right Hon. Stanley Baldwin ,Prime Minister of Great Britain, and Mrs. Baldwin, who, with an imposing entourage, are journeying across the Atlantic aboard the Canadian Pacific liner, Empress of Australia, on a visit to Canada. The occasion is historic, inasmuch as it constituted the precedent of being the first time in history in which a Prime Minister of Great Britain has visited a British Dominion during his term in office.

Their Royal Highnesses have entered completely intothe life of the ship, their democratic bearing towards all on board making everyone feel very much at home. When they desire privacy, it is respected, and there is consequently no embarrassment on the part of anyone.

Many messages, expressive of loyalty and cordial greetings were sent to the Empress of Australia by passing steamers. The Metagama, four days out from Liverpool and Glasgow, sent a message from the National Union of Teachers and their friends who are bound for Montreal. The hope was expressed that the heir-apparent would have a pleasant voyage and would enjoy his trip to Canada. It was signed "Mander, President, and Goldstore, Secretary, of the National Union of Teachers/"

His Royal Highness caused a reply of thanks to be wirelessed.

Loyal greetings were sent from the Minnedosa, the Caronia, and the Adriatic.

Many social functions are being held on board the Empress of Australia.

Decrease in Cheese.

The total quantity of factory cheese made in 1926 was 170,633,781 pounds, valued at $28,673,160, a decrease in quantity from the preceding year of 6,505,332 pounds, and a decrease in value of $7,292,396. The average price per pound at the factory dropped from 20.65 cents in 1925 to 16.20 cents in 1926. Prince Edward Island , Ontario, Manitoba, and Saskatchewan record slight increases in production, while the other provinces show decreases. Exclusive of British Columbia, the average prices ranged from 15.81 cents per pound in Prince Edward Island to 19.97 cents in Alberta. The average price in British Columbia was 34.07, but this is accounted for, the report states, by the fact that the production of cheese in that province is not large, and consists chiefly of special varieties prepared for sale in small sized packages.

Little change is shown in the production of condensed and evaporated milk compared with the preceding year, the total value amounting to $9,601,138 in 1926 and $9,344,613 in 1925.

Among the miscellaneous products of dairy factories, including whey butter, ice-cream and milk and cream sold by the factories, ice-cream shows a decrease compared with the preceding year, while the other items show considerable increases. The total value of these miscellaneous products was $31,276,795, compared with $8,857,960 in 1925.

More Dairy Factories

The number of dairy factories in operation in 1926 was 3,074, an increase over the preceding year of 62 and an increase over the year 1924 of 141. The number of creameries increased over the year 1925 by 47, the number of cheese factories by 21, and the number of condenseries by 2. A decrease of 8 is shown in the number of combined butter and cheese factories. The total value of output of the factories was $131,576,142, a decrease of $6,706,030, the decrease being due to lower average prices prevailing in dairy products in 1926.

CANADIANS USE MANY IRISHISMS

Visitors From England Find Speech Somewhat Mixed.

LONDON, July 27. — (Canadian Press.)—Do Canadians speak English "pure and undefiled?" Not according to English visitors to the Dominion who frequently comment upon the prevalence of "Irishisms" and the firm grip which they seem to have secured upon the speech of the country. Even well educated Canadians, they say get into difficulties with those tricky little words "shall" and "will", misplacing them with fine abandon. This particular straying from the standards of academic English is characteristically Irish and is common among the Scotch.

An Englishman is often surprised when, on asking the hour, he is informed by a Canadian that it is "half-after-four", instead of half-past, that idiom being native to Erin. He also remarks in Canada the stressed, often rolled "r" and the prevalence of close vowel sounds. Of course Irish and Scotch immigrants have played as large a part in the development of Canada as have those from England and it is only natural that they should have their mark upon Canada's everyday speech.

Visitors from this country deprecate the addiction of Canadians to American slang, but Canadian philologists maintain that this is a merely superficial phenomena and that the invasion of colloquialisms from the south is not permanently affecting the speech of cultured Canadians. Philologists can do little to direct the development of a language. Transplanted to a new continent, English is inevitably acquiring new characteristics. During this period of change it may appear slipshod and ungainly, but there is no reason to doubt that with maturity will come clarity and precision.

MOTHER-IN-LAW STARTS THROWING DISHES.

Abbe Lamy, Cure of Grandes Piles.

The ceremony in this picturesque little bush settlement had attacted hundreds of people from all over the district including many invited guests from New York, whose formal dress offered a striking contrast to the rough homespun of the colonists. Newspaper men and screen-news operators were present in great force and an incident in which the movie men and Mrs. James A Stillman, mother of the bridegroom, figured, created considerable excitement. During the ceremony of cutting the wedding cake, Mrs. Stillman objected to the functioning of the cinema operators and expressed her objections by scattering around a number of plates, one of which struck Bert Mason, an operator, in the face.

Difficulties Ended

The ceremony marked the straightening-out of all the difficulties in the tangle of misunderstanding that existed between the Stillman and Wilson famililies and Lena, granddaughter of one of the old traders at the Hudson Bay posts of the north country, was given away by her brother, John, and attended by her elder sister Belle, as bridesmaid.

Belle Wilson, dark-haired and slightly taller than her fair-haired sister, Lena, professed that she did not know whether she would be the bridesmaid but finally thought she would be the one chosen as they had told her so last Fall when she was told at the same time that they did not want her to work any more at the Stillman home where she had been for four summers with her sister.

The change in venue from the Anglican Church at La Tuque to the lawn at Grand Anse was explained by the fact that although the Wilson parents were Scotch Presbyterians, when the children came along the only school they could go to at Grand Anse was a Roman Catholic school and to the little Catholic Church near their home. So they became Catholics and when the time came for Lena to be married it had to be according to the Catholic ritual. Father Lamy from Grand Piles went to Three Rivers and got the dispensation from Mgr. Clouthier and so that was all settled. Father Lamy performed the ceremony yesterday afternoon.

The wedding cake was cut on the lawn, the Royal Highlanders Band discoursing sweet music.

And so the clouds of doubt that have surrounded this romance of the woodlands cleared away like the rain clouds that have hovered around and wept for the past week or so, and the sun of happiness shone on Mr. and Mrs. Bud Stillman as they motor off to Quebec, there to take boat for a honeymoon in Europe.

PARLEYS TO RE-OPEN.

LONDON, July 27 (Canadian Press). — W. C. Bridgeman, First Lord of the British Admiralty, and Viscount Cecil left for Geneva to-day to participate in the resumption of the naval conference there. They had been in London a week, having come from Geneva to place before the Cabinet a report on the status of the naval parleys and to receive further instructions for their continuance.

Villagers of Grand Anse Start Early To Reach Church Before Stillman Wedding

GRANDMERE, Quebec, July 26 (Canadian Press). — The countryside for a hundred miles or so around Grande Anse, the wilderness lodge of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Stillman, does not know when "Bud" Stillman will wed Lena Wilson, native daughter of the Canadian woods, but whenever he does the neighbors will see it. The marriage was said to be set for this afternoon, but it was whispered this morning that it would take place soon after breakfast and villagers and country residents took no chances. They got out boats, buggies, and motor cars and started for Grande Anse before the night was over.

NAVAL PARLEY STILL IN AIR

Statement Will Be Made To Parliament Explaining British Position.

GENEVA WAITS.

LONDON, July 27. — Associated Press. — Another cabinet council was held yesterday, Sir Austen Chamberlain presiding, to discuss further the differences between Great Britain and the United States as to naval requirements, and how far they were reconcilable. The cabinet also desired to provide Viscount Cecil and W. C. Bridgeman, the Geneva delegates, with such well defined instructions as it was hoped might help set the Geneva conference going again.

The council was held in the premier's room in the House of Commons, those attending including the Earl of Balfour, Winston Churchill, Lord Cecil and Mr. Bridgeman. A draft was agreed upon for the guidance of Foreign Secretary Chamberlain in his promised statement to Parliament to-day or Thursday.

This statement will be devoted to explaining the British position and removing if possible, any misunderstandings which have arisen at the Geneva tripartite parleys. It is said that the statement will be as full as circumstances permit, and it is understood that the financial question entered into the discussions. Mr. Churchill, as Chancellor of the Exchequer, being anxious to make certain that he will not be called upon during the coming years to provide an additional expenditure of £40,000,000 for big cruisers.

Various matters were still left over for discussion to-day either by the full cabinet or a conference of the principal ministers.

No Statement Made.

Again no official statement was issued, and nothing definite is likely to become known until the Foreign Secretary makes his statement to Parliament. Vice Admiral Fields' condition was reported much improved last night, but as it would be impossible for him to resume his duties at Geneva for some time, the government has appointed Admiral D. Found to replace him and return with Mr. Bridgeman, and Lord Cecil to Geneva.

The Westminster Gazette thinks that Great Britain may now suggest the fixing of ratios within the 500,000 tonnage figure for categories other than light cruisers, which latter should be built according to the requirements of the three powers concerned.

The Gazette also hears that one reason for the return of Lord Cecil and Mr. Bridgeman to London to consult with the cabinet and the Imperial Defence Committee was that they were unable to get explicit replies to their cabled messages on technical points, and adds that Lord Balfour, at this end of the wire, was not sufficiently definite in explaining the attitude of the defence committe towards the new proposals as they were submitted.

United States Waits.

GENEVA, July 27.—Feeling somewhat anxious over the delay in the return to Geneva of the chief members of the British delegation, W. C. Bridgeman and Viscount Cecil, the United States delegation sought information on this point in the form of a letter to London.

Yesterday evening a reply was received stating that Mr. Bridgman and Lord Cecil would leave London for Geneva "Wednesday at the earliest."

The British delegates, who returned to London for the purpose of discussing the tripartite naval conference with the cabinet ministers and to receive precise instructions as to their future course, were respected to return here a day or two ago, but until inquiries were made by Hugh S. Gibson, no word has come from them.

LIGHTNING KILLS HORSE IN FIELD

John McMurray, of Douro, Valuable Driver During Heavy Storm.

DOURO, July 27.—A good driving horse, owned by John McMurray, was killed in last night's terrific thunderstorms. Though there were three separate storms, accompanied by vivid lightning and great crashes of thunder, this was the only damage done in this district. Two other horses in the same pasture were unhurt.

MUSIC ENJOYED.

Port Hope People Pleased With Playing of Chimes By R. J. Devey.

The Port Hope Daily Times, issue of Monday, July 25th, under the heading of "Special Chimer Gives Recitals," says in part:

"A particularly fitting feature of the centennial services at St. Paul's on Sunday, was the chimes concert rendered during the day. From early morning until the commencement of the evening service, a series of delightful chimes programmes were rendered in perfect style by R. J Devey of Peterborough. Mr. Devey is a talented musician, and despite the fact that he was unfamiliar with the keyboard of St. Paul's chimes, his rendition of old familiar selections was most pleasing."

TOO MUCH SALT.

Tropical Comic Is Reel To Make Eskimos Laugh

METLAKATLA, Alaska, July 27. —The first moving picture machine ever purchased by Alaskan natives is to arrive here soon on the schooner Boxer, and everyone in the settlement is eagerly awaiting it.

The great council house of Metlakatla will be turned into a theatre when the apparatus comes in. There will be music, too, from a phonograph donated by an Eskimo who sold an unusually large fur catch.

No great variety of programme has been provided thus far, since there are but two films being sent with the machine. One is an eleven-reel feature of Marion Davies, "Janice Meredith." The other is a two-reel comedy of sunny Africa, which may or may not make the natives laugh.

Also on the schooner are three complete schoolhouses, which will be freighted into the interior and there reassembled.

JUBILEE ESSAY

Miss Mary Brackenbridge of Westwood was the winner of the first prize for girls in Public and Separate schools in the jubilee essay contest conducted by Grafton's. Her essay follows:

Diamond Jubilee of Confederation.

Little Mary came home from school and rushing to her grandfather in great excitement she said, "Oh! grandfather do you know what the teacher was telling us today at school? It was about Confederation. The teacher said we could ask our grandfather about it, if we had one living, because he had lived through all the years of Confederation. Will you tell me grandpa?"

So taking his little granddaughter upon his knee he began, "Mary dear we are Canadians. We are proud of our Dominion which stretches from Evangeline's country in the East to the land of the great Rockies in the West. She has great resources with raw materials of untold value, which will make our nation great. Her forest area is very broad and this helps the pulp and paper industry. Many hundreds of acres of land are being re-forested every year. The rivers and lakes provide water power, which has no (other) equal in all the world. She has extensive fisheries and mines. Canada also has the world's greatest wheat fields, which provide the food supply for millions. The growth of manufacturing has proved very large in sixty years, and railways stretch from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Aeroplanes and automobiles shorten the distance in our land and radios bring pleasure to many hearts.

"More than four hundred years ago they found her living all alone, among the great white seas with only Indians to take care of her. Let it be said to the glory of our Canada that Indian Reserves have been provided for the generations of Indians. When explorers from far over the sea came, they caused a new day to dawn in the history of Canada. It was only a little over a century and a half ago, when Wolfe, the dauntless came and placed the British flag on our fair domain. Mary, this is the year of our Diamond Jubilee, for Canada has now passed through sixty years of glory and happiness, yet there have been the discouragements and the sorrows. Never will we forget the years of distress of the Great War. But God has been good to us and we can truly thank Him.

Long ago the Fathers of Confederation, who were men of vision, saw the glorious future ahead. We will never forget them or their efforts. They brought our glorious Confederation.

Now, Mary, my days are numbered and the years are passing and I look toward the future. It will be you dear, who will live to see our great unstained nation uphold God's laws and keep them pure. Canada, our beautiful country of forests and rivers and lakes, your country, and my country, our land of dreams."

Mary's grandfather closed his eyes for his heart was filled with the love of Canada and the thoughts of her glorious future.

That night Mary kneeling beside her little bed said, "May I love my country, fear God, and honor the king."

NEW PLAN FOR MEDICAL TEST OF IMMIGRANT

Investigation Inspired By Letter Protesting Large Number of Deportees.

CHANGE DOCTORS.

All Examinations To Be Made By Officials of Canada Health Department.

QUEBEC, Que., July 27 (Canadian Press).—As the result of an investigation which was inspired by a letter of protest against the number of deportees being sent back to Great Britain on grounds of physical unfitness for admission to Canada, it is learned that, commencing in October next, the issuance of pre-embarkation medical examination certificates will be placed under the absolute control of the Department of Public Health of Canada.

At present there exists a list of some 65 or 70 doctors in Great Britain who are nominated by the Dominion Civil Service Commission to issue health certificates to prospective immigrants prior to their embarkation for this country. In cases of evident gross negligence on the part of these doctors in issuing certificates, the London office of the Department of Public Health may recommend the discharge of the overseas doctor concerned, to the Civil Service Commission. The system to be inaugurated by the Dominion Government in October will, it is said, provide that the doctors making the examinations on the other side shall be officials of the Canadian Department of Public Health, which Department will be responsible to the extent of refunding all travelling expenses of the deported immigrant. The new certificates will be valid for presentation at the Canadian ports of entry of Quebec, Halifax and Saint John for a period of three months from the date of their issue.

SAINT and SINNER

Every woman who is a wife and who has tried to recapture sweetheart days will know, without being told, that Faith's heart was pricked with pain a hundred times before that Sunday was over. There is a broad highway, so crowded with eager couples that it needs a sort of divine traffic officer, leading from romance to marriage. But it is a "one-way street," and if there is a path leading from marriage back to romance, it is a dim, little-trod path, grass-grown and winding, along which—if they find it at all—husbands and wives lose their way.

In the short space of five months Faith and Bob Hathaway had become very much married. Their honeymoon had lasted only three days, for after that blessed period of being alone, the family—Faith's family—had descended upon them, clamorous with demands, freighted with problems which had required all of Faith's patience and most of the time which should have gone to the tending romance's sacred fires.

And now that she had taken a day off in which to be nothing and nobody but Bob Hathaway's sweetheart, she found, to her amazement and grief after the first hour of tremulous joy at being alone with him, that she did not know what to do with her day.

She had determined not to talk of the family, the house, financial troubles, the baby, or of anything else which would remind Bob that she was his helpmeet and wife, and not just his sweetheart. But when she tried to find sweetheart topics to talk on, she was aghast to discover that she had nothing to say. She could not forever exclaim over the scenery—glistening, hot roads flanked by parched fields and dusty-leaved trees.

"Happy, dear?" she asked tremulously, for the fifth time that day, and immediately hated herself for asking and for letting her voice betray her anxiety.

"Of course!" His response was a little less emphatic, was not elaborated with assurances that it was happiness enough to be alone with her.

They were stretched upon a quilt under a big tree, rather uncomfortably full of food, and drowsy with the heat. The ground, covered with heat-dried grass, was lumpy and very hard. She suddenly found herself wishing that he would not stretch his hand out languidly to press hers, as if he felt that the occasion called for demonstrations of love. If he didn't want to—so very much that he couldn't keep his hands off her—

But she jerked her thoughts up sharply, returned the half-hearted pressure of his fingers ardently, even as her face was turned away to hide her tears. They had scarcely talked at all, except trivialities about the heat, the need of rain upon the crops, the unsightliness of the shrieking subdivision signs. It was true that he had taken her into his arms just before lunch was spread, had murmured, "I love you, my darling Faith!" but the thrill had been lacking from his voice, from his eyes. He had turned rather too quickly, after a too perfunctory embrace, to the luncheon hamper.

When she looked at him again he was asleep. She sat up then, careful not to disturb him, and for two long hours nursed her disappointment, as she faithfully fanned him with a folded newspaper, to keep the midges and the flies from his beloved face. She was glad when he awoke and suggested that they go home—

Uncle Wiggily

By Howard R. Garis

To-day's Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE ORANGE.

(Copyright, 1927, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

One day Mrs. Longears and Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy went to the moving pictures together, leaving Uncle Wiggily in the bungalow with twelve of the little rabbit girls and boys. Of course there were more than twelve little rabbits in Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow, but there were only an even dozen at home when the two animal ladies hopped away.

If you wish to know where the other two or three dozens of little bunnies were I can tell you that they were out in the woods and fields playing different games.

The twelve who were in the bungalow also played games, such as tag the piano, slide down the banister rail and hide the roller skates until they made so much noise Uncle Wiggily could not hear his watch tick.

"Bunnies! Bunnies!" he cried. "You must be more quiet!"

Well the children tried, but they were only quiet for a little while. Then Scrimble and Scramble thought of a new game to play called bang the dishpan, and they banged it so hard that Uncle Wiggily had to hold his paws over his ears.

"Oh, will nothing make you quiet?" he shouted. "How can I think of going adventuring with all this noise!"

Then Jingle whispered:

"I taink if you bought us some oranges, Daddicums, it would keep us quiet."

"How so?" asked the bewildered rabbit gentleman.

"Oh, if we each had an orange to eat we wouldn't want to play bang the dishpan," said Jingle.

"Then in the name of peace and quiet here—go get the oranges!" sighed Uncle Wiggily, giving Jingle some money.

With shouts of joy, the twelve little rabbits hopped to the orange store, kept by a kind old dog gentleman. And when he heard what was wanted he smiled, showing all his teeth and barked

"I shall give you a baker's dozen."

"What's a baker's dozen of oranges?" asked Scramble.

"Thirteen," chuckled the dog. "When you get a baker's dozen it is always thirteen. Here you are!" And, surely enough, he counted thirteen oranges into the bag.

"Isn't that wonderful!" cried Scrimble. "Thirteen oranges! That's one apiece and one left over and—"

"We'll give that extra orange to Daddicums!" decided Jingle, and this was done when they got back to the bungalow.

"Ha! A baker's dozen; eh?" cried Mr. Longears when he opened the bag to divide the golden, yellow fruit.

"You eat the extra one!" begged Jingle, and when the rabbit children, now very quiet, went out in the woods to eat their oranges, Uncle Wiggily sat down in the kitchen with a sigh of relief and began to peel his orange.

It was while he was doing this that the Fox and Wolf slipped in the back door. The bad chaps had seen the little rabbits, Nurse Jane and Mrs. Longears leave the bungalow, and knew Uncle Wiggily was all alone.

"It will be a good time to catch him!" growled the Wolf.

"Fine!" barked the Fox. So into the kitchen they sneaked and just as Mr. Longears was going to eat his orange the Wolf snarled:

"Drop that and come with me!"

But just then Mr. Longears squeezed the orange and a stream of juice shot into the eyes of the bad chap.

"Oh, wow!" he cried. "I can't see!"

"I can see, though!" barked the Fox. "I'll catch him!"

"Catch this!" cried the brave bunny. With that he threw two hard orange seeds. One hit the left eye of the Fox and the other seed banged his right eye. So the Fox had to howl:

"I can't see, either!"

"Then out you go—both of you!" chuckled the bunny. So he pushed them out of the door, tumbling them head over paws down the back steps and telephoned for the Police Dog who came and drove the bad chaps away. Then Uncle Wiggily ate his orange in peace and quietness.

"It's a good thing there was a baker's dozen," said the bunny as he lay down on the sofa to take a little sleep.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

A pink crepe de chine frock is worn with a bright blue jacket, the color of which matches the stitching on the blouse of the frock and the narrow leather belt.

More elaborately trimmed frocks, more ornate hats, more of the little gewgaws of dress that complicated the lives and wardrobes of women in the good old days before the war! This prediction has been made and made again—made so often, in fact, that most of us have felt that the days of the simple way with dress were actually numbered.

More elaborately trimmed frocks have undoubtedly made their appearance, but there are certain women among the extremely well dressed who really refuse to put on ornament, and there are certain dressmakers who see no reason why they should fall in line with the general effort to inaugurate more ornate fashions.

So while you may find frocks ingeniously trimmed with frilled ribbon, ruffles of lace, ribbon loops and bow-knots, intricate embroidery, etc. still you may also find frocks as severely simple as anyone could desire. Premet is one of the dressmakers of Paris who still shows frocks of a simple but not too plain genre. Sometimes the only ornamentation on a frock will consist of rows of stitching devices in a shade darker than that of the fabric. On some of the more strictly tailored frocks this stitching is of the machine sort while it frequently consists of hand work like fine chain-stitch.

At a recent society wedding in Washington the bride completed her conventional gown of ivory white satin and lace with the head veil of a soft blue. There were blue forget-me-nots in the bride's bouquet to carry out the suggestion of blue. This is not, of course, the first time that the conventional white wedding gown has been given a touch of color. Two or three years ago there were one or two notable brides who combined a touch of green in their otherwise formal wedding gowns. Another white bridal gown talked about, a year or so ago, showed faint tone of pink in the underslip and in the pearl embroidery that ornamented the frock. Some of the pearls were of a decidedly pink cast.

SEES WORLD ACTION TO END COMMUNISM

Sir William Joynson-Hicks Says Many Nations Will Combine.

LONDON, July 27 (Canadian Press)—The Government had been asked to get rid of communism altogether, Sir William Joynson-Hicks, home secretary remarked in an address recently. That was not so easy, he went on, but he thought the time was approaching when many of the nations of the world would come to the conclusion that communism in its extreme form was an enemy of mankind.

"You will all have to take into consideration," the home secretary went on, "the fact that there is emanating from or engineered by Moscow in nearly every country of the world a section of the community who are perfectly hostile to the country of their birth—men who are trying to undermine the constitutions of the various civilized countries throughout the world.

"I am not sure but that all nations in the world in the near future will have to combine to stamp out the form of belief and propaganda which is anti-socialist, anti-civilization and anti-religious."

WEDNESDAY, JULY 27, 1927.

THERE WILL BE NO COMPLAINTS.

While the receipts during the recent Diamond Jubilee celebration did not cover the expenditure involved and it has been found necessary for the City Council to meet the deficit, there will be no complaints from the citizens of Peterborough.

The success of the celebration was so complete, the satisfaction of the people in discovering that the city really possessed a community spirit so great, and the general feeling of gratificationthat a worth-while thing had been done in a worth-while way so strong that the citizens are thoroughly satisfied to have the deficit met out of civic funds.

In the reactions it set up the local celebration was of much greater value than the expenditure entailed.

It made not only better Canadians, but better citizens of us all.

It awakened a keen desire to know more about the early history of our country and of our city.

It made us realize how much we owe to the pioneers who by their labour and sacrifice gave us our present comfort and prosperity.

It quickened our love for and appreciation of Canada.

Any one of these benefits was worth much more than the civic grant that had to be made by the Council.

JUST PART OF THE "BALLYHOO."

Most people know what is meant by "ballyhoo."

That, of course, is the name given to the free show and the loud talking in front of the side-show tent designed to lure the crowd inside.

The "ballyhoo" in behalf of the Tunney-Dempsey fight in September has already commenced.

Mr. Leo Flynn, manager of Mr. Dempsey, is on the platform doing the preliminary "spieling."

He is not an Oxford graduate, let it be said.

Nor it may be noticed does he talk like one.

"Who has Tunney ever killed?" asks Mr. Flynn. "Why should any one hold their breath about him? We're gonna knock Tunney right in our laps. Dempsey'll beat Tunney like he did Sharkey. We'll sink our teeth in that boy."

"What a blood-thirsty fellow!" the reader is likely to remark.

But there is no occasion to be alarmed.

Mr. Flynn is talking with an eye on the box-office.

He may hope that all these dire things will happen to Mr. Tunney, but as a matter of fact his war-like utterances are just part of the game that makes the public dig down for the million or more dollars that will be paid into the box-office.

What Mr. Flynn and Mr. Dempsey and the rest really expect to sink their teeth into is the gate money.

JAMES STEVENSON PARK.

The explanation, somewhat heatedly made by Ald. J. M. Greene, Chairman of the city's Parks Committee, in regard to The Examiner's contention that an opportunity was lost in not saving one of the residences on the James Stevenson Park property for club-house purposes, is that neither of the houses was in a habitable condition.

It would, explained the Chairman, have required from $2,000 to $3,000 in remodelling either of them, and even then they were in a wrong location, occupying too central a position.

The Examiner feels that the building nearest the river could have been put in shape to serve as dressing quarters for athletic teams for much less than the sum mentioned, while it is difficult to understand the objection to the location of this house.

It was situated in the northwest corner of the park, well away from the present baseball grounds—surely not a central position.

As for "ridiculing and belittling" the Council The Examiner must plead not guilty; our reference to what was regarded by us as a matter of public interest was surely mild in tone compared to Ald. Greene's statement.

We merely said that a building that we believe could have been of useful service to the city's athletic organizations was scrapped for a few dollars, and in spite of Ald. Greene's explanation, we see no reason as yet for changing our opinion, even though it be termed an "uncalled for mis-statement."

As a matter of fact, it might be pointed out that at no time since the old Riverside Park property was acquired by the city has there been any definite programme of improvements planned or carried out.

The policy of various Parks Committees has been merely to appoint a caretaker and expect the city's baseball clubs, particularly the senior club, to provide enough revenue to pay his salary.

As a ball grounds the park is not in as good a condition today as it was under private ownership, nor do the ball clubs get much more generous terms than were accorded them by private owners.

There is no dressing-room accommodation, no sanitary conveniences to speak of, not even a supply of water—yet ball teams pay fifteen per cent. of their gate receipts into the civic treasury for the use of a grounds owned by the people, whereas in other cities splendidly kept grounds with dressing-rooms, shower baths and other conveniences are maintained at the city's expense for the free use of sporting clubs.

James Stevenson Park should be the centre of the city's athletic activity; it should be developed by a yearly programme of improvements, but little or nothing has been done during the years it has been in civic hands, except to change its name.

This year's Park Committee, of course, is not to be blamed particularly; it has merely followed the example of other committees, and perhaps has done more than some of the others.

But the fact remains that a property that might be one of the finest recreation grounds in the Province has been allowed to lie fallow under civic ownership, and at the present time is not being used by one in ten of the city's sporting organizations.

When the purchase of the property was under consideration years ago there were glowing pictures of a beautiful park with facilities for baseball and tennis and lawn bowling, bathing houses, ornamental bridges to the nearby islands, and all that sort of thing.

Alas, the dream is as far away from realization as it ever was, and when a newspaper ventures to point out that a chance to do something has been lost, it is rebuked with an Alderman's retort that its article was written in "complete ignorance."

A REAL OPPORTUNITY.

Mr. A. J. E. Belleperche, President of the East Essex Conservative Association, has started the ball rolling for a reduction in the size and cost of government, a course long advocated by The Border Cities Star, not only in respect to the Federal authority, but applying as well to Provincial and municipal affairs.

Mr. Belleperche has prepared a formal resolution for submission to an early meeting of his association, going on record as above stated and asking that the resolution be sent on to the coming national convention of the party in Winnipeg next October. If it is passed here—as it deserves to be passed—Mr. Belleperche will probably carry it in person to the Winnipeg meeting.

The resolution itself, as published in The Star yesterday, is concisely worded and makes a strong point. "That this convention," it says, "believes that the form of government now carried on at Ottawa is too cumbersome and too expensive; that it is in the interests of economy and good government that the Parliamentary representation in the House of Commons should be very much reduced in number, and that larger units of population should be represented by one member in the House. In this manner we believe that we will get a more representative body of men as members of the House of Commons, in this way securing better representation, which will aid and facilitate economy in the administration of the affairs of the country. . . . . And that we pledge ourselves as a party to take such steps as will be necessary to secure the reduction in the number of representatives in the House of Commons, at the earliest possible moment."

This is common sense and as such will attract widespread and favorable attention. If East Essex Conservatives fail to accept it, The Star will be greatly surprised. There may be opposition to it at the Winnipeg convention, but if the delegates there assembled turn it down they will be displaying exceedingly poor political judgment. There is no doubt that the country is ripe for a change of this kind, and the party that initiates it is going to get a whole lot of credit from the people. Looking around for planks with which to attract the electors, the Conservative convention should seize this one with avidity. The new Conservative platform must contain a great deal of fresh and substantial timber. If it fails in this, the Conservative party is going to remain, as Mr. Belleperche suggests, just where it is now. This is a time for change and progress. To attract attention and to ensure any measure of genuine success, the Winnipeg convention must demonstrate that it can offer something more than a rehash of time-worn arguments.

There are several things that this country needs and prominent among them is a really material reduction in government costs. We have too much government. It is out of all proportion to our population and income. Every taxpayer in this country is paying out an annual amount for government costs that is simply ridiculous. Governments of all kinds are too large and, therefore, too expensive. We have a House of Commons with 245 members and a Senate composed of 96 representatives. In addition, there are nine Provincial administrations with all their attendant expenses. And then we have the vast number of municipal governments—city, town, village, township and county. The Essex County Council, for instance, has more than 40 members. Think of it!

Mr. Belleperche's resolution asks only for a reduction in the House of Commons membership. The Senate should be cut down proportionately. And so should the Provincial Legislature and the municipal governments. Ontario has 112 men in her Legislature. Fifty would be plenty and much money would be saved and the business of the Province facilitated. Essex County needs only one member in the Legislature. It has four. We need only one representative at Ottawa. We have three at present. The number of Provinces should likewise be reduced from nine to five. Think of the saving this would effect. Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island would make one ideal Province. The interests of the three are practically identical. There isn't any reason under heaven why they should remain apart and continue the expense of three administrations, three civil services, three everything, where one would do just as well. In the same way, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta might well join forces for their mutual good. They are united by common bonds of interest now, but politically they remain apart and it costs them vast sums of money, unnecessarily spent, to do so.

If the Conservative party will seriously adopt a plank calling for reduction in the size and cost of government it will have taken a long step forward on the path that leads back to power. The electorate, burdened down with taxes of all kinds, is looking for less politics and more ordinary business efficiency. And this is what a reduction in the size and cost of government means. If the Conservative party turns down this idea, if it refuses the opportunity for service thus offered, many independent voters will come to the conclusion, and not without cause, that it has no particular claim on their support.—Border Cities Star.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, July 27 (Canadian Press).—A moderate amount of business was done with foreign buyers on the Montreal grain market yesterday. Outside of sales of a few loads of No. 2 Northern Wheat made to local exporters at 4⅛c per bushel over the Winnipeg July option, f.o.b. Montreal, and some tough No. 3 Northern at a flat price, the trade in grain in the domestic market was quiet, but the undertone was firm.

The demand for Spring and Winter wheat grades of flour was again of a disappointing character, but values were unchanged.

The undertone to the market for millfeed was firm owing to the good demand and the small supplies available. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was quiet and prices were unchanged.

Prices for all grades of eggs were well maintained under a quiet demond from all sources. The receipts were 1,930 cases.

Dullness was again the chief characteristic of the butter market, but prices were steady. The receipts were 35 packages. Owing to the fact that there has been little or no response from English importers for cheese at the late advance established here, there was a slightly easier feeling in the market yesterday, and prices were fractionally reduced. The receipts were 17,356 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, July 27 (Canadian Press).—Reports of unusually rapid progress of black rust in South Dakota and of high temperatures in Canada brought about a rush of wheat buying yesterday. Sharp upturns of prices followed and the wheat market closed unsettled 1½ to 2⅜c net higher; with corn unchanged to ¼c advance; oats unchanged to ⅝c and ¾c gain, and provisions varying from 15c decline to a rise of 5 cents.

Corn was less active, but on the bulges there was free selling, notwithstanding complaints that rains are needed and despite predictions of hot weather minus moisture. Oats sympathized with wheat rather than with corn.

For the most part, provisions showed but little change.

A Thought For To-day

YOUR HEALTH.

Health is most worth while to conserve. I do not mean simply the abounding vigor of youth, with abundance of fresh air and exercise and with its reserves which seem to mock the warnings of elders. I mean, rather, the sustained and protected strength which is based on the conservation of physical resources and gives promise of a long life well lived.

In our onward journey the ranks are rapidly thinned by the passing out of those who have had their brief stay and were soon done. When their notes matured they were unable to meet them. Nothing is sadder than these physical bankruptcies, which deprive men with the capital of experience well invested they should have the most ample returns.

NEEDED BOTH HANDS.

"How did you come to have that accident with the used car we sold you?"

"I couldn't put my hand out as I was pushing it around the corner."—Smith's Weekly (Sydney).

VOICE OF PEOPLE

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

CLUBHOUSE CONSIDERED.

To The Examiner:

Sir,—As chairman of the Parks Committee of the City Council and in justice to our ratepayers and citizens, I cannot allow your editorial, under the heading of "A Lost Opportunity," to go unchallenged.

The writer in your office shows his complete ignorance of the whole matter, yet to the unknowing and general public the published article would appear justifiable. It is a pity that circumstances make it so easy for the said writer to have published items such as this, which are misleading, conveying altogether the wrong impression and not according to facts.

Consideration was given to the question of a club house for the said James Stevenson Park months ago, before even tenders were called for, for the old buildings, and only last week this very matter was again discussed; so that perhaps the Committee does not lack as much foresight as the said writer imagines. After the many weeks since the tenders were called for re the removal of the buildings in the said park, it does seem strange these questions are only now becoming apparent to such a keen mind, and yet we are charged with being "penny wise and pound foolish" and "with lack of foresight."

As far as the "slight expense" he mentions in using one of the torn-down houses, let me state that neither of the houses in question were in a habitable condition. Either of them would have required from $2,000 to $3,000 spent on them in remodelling and etc., to have made a suitable Club House and even then, both of them were in the wrong location as they were occupying a too central position.

I cannot understand when a paper has such an opportunity of spreading its influence and prestige, why its engaged writers do not take the time and a little trouble in ascertaining the facts, which are always procurable, before expressing themselves in the Press. Had this been done, the said editorial would not have been written and the Committe would not have been ridiculed and be-littled in the eyes of the public. It is just such uncalled for misstatements that go to curtail and rob men of inspiration and effort while serving the public, but if it is your desire to have men of lesser intelligence and activity, these are surely the methods to follow.

We always invite constructive suggestions and advice but strongly resent being unduly be-littled. Please be fair.

Plague of Crickets Bothers Hamilton

HAMILTON, July 26.—Hamilton's plague of crickets from the West End garbage dump on Melbourne Street is daily growing worse and residents state that the pests are devouring everything in their path.

Ald. C. E. Riselay protested to the Board of Control yesterday that some action would have to be taken immediately by the city as the plague was spreading over a large area of the south-west. The matter was no joke for those persons concerned, he said, as literally millions of crickets were pouring from the dump.

Insects Invade Homes.

The insects, he said, had destroyed bedding, carpets, curtains and upholstery in many homes; ruined food and utterly upset the home life of not a few residents in that district. One woman showed him 30 crickets on an electric light fixture in her home, while in other homes the crickets were seen in countless hordes. Every type of spray and insecticide had been resorted to, but without any noticeable effect, Ald. Riselay said. The faster the crickets were killed, the more rapidly their depleted ranks seemed to be filled.

It was suggested by Herbert Barr, secretary, that coal oil in liberal quantities be poured over the dump, and this set on fire, with the firemen in attendance to prevent the flames from spreading. This suggestion will be acted upon, and the work will be supervised by the Fire Department, the Board of Health and the Board of Control. If this method fails, other remedies will be tried.

Civil Suits Suggested.

Alderman Riselay said several of the property owners affected had threatened to take out an injunction against the city. But civic officials contended the city was no more to blame for the pests than it would be for prolonged rainy weather.

GAS IN SAFE WALLS.

BERLIN, July 25.—Experimenters now believe that in the future gas will be used as a protection for bank vaults. A German inventor has constructed a safe which will release the most deadly of poison gases when a drill penetrated its sides. The device is claimed to be perfectly safe to everyone but yeggmen.

The first iron bridge ever built spans the River Severn in England. It was built in 1778.

New Hollinger Ore Body Low in Gold and Copper

Information of a technical nature, secured from engineers who have visited the Hollinger's property in Kamiskotia, nine miles west of the town of Timmins, centre of Porcupine Gold camp, is to the effect that the proposition looks like a lareg tonnage gold operation. This opinion they base on the goology shown up in the sinking of the first 15-ft. of the shaft by handsteel. Hollinger company has been reticent in regard to values secured in diamond drilling. Unofficial reports were that the ore was low in copper and gold but combined made a nice ore. Many have wondered that Hollinger, which to date has been concerned with only gold mining, would go into a low grade copper proposition. It will be another six weeks beofre the shaft will be down and operations reach a point where an official statement as to values can be expected.

Meanwhile Hollinger stock is the only weak spot among the leading gold stocks, though McIntyre has not made much headway. A metallurgist who is close to the Porcupine mines, made the assertion that McIntyre can now be said to be putting new ore in sight at a rapid rate. He has been just a little doubtful of the possibilities of this operation at depth but has seemingly changed his opinion on the result of the latest development effort which has opened out ore bodies of good width over a tremendous lengths. So far, the McIntyre share market has not reflected this new development.

Lake Shore, Teck Hughes and Wright Hargreaves are the strong shares of the market. There are indications that the production of Lake Shore will likely be stepped up again and this time to 1,000 tons daily. Teck Hughes some time this month should be handling 300 tons in the high grade mill and 250 tons in the medium grade. Wright Hargreaves market has begun to reflect the good news which was given to readers two weeks ago, about the cutting of the extension eastward of the rich lake shore main vein. This work so far is a considerable distance from the Lake Shore boundary but is persistent and strong in high grade and will undoubtedly carry through. Lake Shore in this vein gets fabulous values.

Sylvanite, Kirkland Lake's most recent producer, the mill having started in last May; produced to June 30 sout $45,000. The mill has been handling an average of 160 tons daily and the gold content of the ore runs about $8.33. Surface dumps are being cleaned up and as this pile dwindles the management is increasing the amount of ore that is being drawn directly from underground. It is expected that by August 1st, the daily tonnage will have been stepped up to 200 tons daily. It is understood that the mill operations are showing a small profit, which should increase from now on.

Aldermac Mining Corporation the name of the new company which Noranda Mines has incorporated to handle the Alderson and MacKay mine, control of which Noranda purchased from N. A. Timmins, president of Hollinger Consolidated. The new company will be capitalized at 3,000,000 no par value shares and Noranda will hold 65 per cent. and Towagmac mines 35 per cent.

On Noranda, operations below the 300-ft level are driving ahead and while little news is forthcoming, it is understood that the company is adding to its reserves at a substantial rate. It is the opinion of engineers that the area between 300 and 600-ft. will more than double the reserves of Norand, which down to 300-ft. are estimated at $25,000,000.

Developments on Amulet continue to be reflected in the market for the shares, which are selling at new high levels. Heretofore Amulet ore bodies have been regarded as shallow deposits. It is understood that recent drilling indicates ore bodies in layers and that five of these have been found. This leads many to believe that a big mine has been proven. Talking is now of a capital increase to erect a concentrator. There is also talk that Noranda may purchase control.

Dome and McIntyre have just issued periodical earning reports. That of Dome is better than was expected by many as the operation has been slipping. Dome's six months figures are $891,111 compared with $872,078 for first six months of 1926. As the dividend was cut to $1 per share, requiring only $943,333 per year, there will be a substantial sum to be added to surplus.

McIntyre has evidently been handling a heavy tonnage of development ore in its mill as earnings for the quarter ending June 30 total $379,259 show a decrease of $70,294 compared with the same period last year.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, July 27 (Canadian Press).—Hot weather north-west and word of the rapid spread of black rust in parts of the domestic spring crop territory tended early to-day to make wheat prices average higher. Canadian conditions as a rule, however, were construed as favorable. Opening unchanged to 3-8 cent higher. Wheat underwent something of a sag but later scored gains. Corn developed independent strength, starting unchanged to 3-8 cent up, and subsequently showing a decided general advance. Oats were easy. Provisions held steady.

TORONTO STOCKS.

TORONTO, July 27.— (Canadian Press.)—International Nickel was the active feature of the market on the Toronto stock exchange to-day. With trading in more than 1,500 shares, it decined ⅝ to 59⅝. The price trend throughout the list was inclined to weakness, though a few fractional gains were recorded. Industrial Alcohol was active and firm at 33 7-8, a gain of 1-8. Walker was the most active of the distillery issues. It was in good demand at 49 1-8, a gain of 1-8. British American Oil strengthened ½ to 25, while Imperial Oil gained 3-8 to 44 ⅜. Massey Harris was dull at 37 5-8 a drop of 3-8. Seagram eased ½ to 22. Burt F. N. dropped 7-8 to 60, while Cosmos sold ½ to 26½.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

NEW YORK, July 27.—(Canadian Press.)—Responding to the excellent half yearly reports of the country's two leading industrial corporations —General Motors and United States' Steel—stock prices surged upward to new high ground to-day under heavy buying for both accounts.

General Motors, which earned $14.35 a share in the first six months of the year, was in the fore-front of the advance, attaining a new peak of 227 for the present stock. United States' Steel, of which Dupont interests are reported to have been buyers in the last few months, also moved up to the highest price since the distribution of the stock dividend. Dupont reached new high ground above $271 a share. Nash Motors climbed over four points to a new peak and Chrysler and Mack Trucks each climbed more than two points. Pierce Arrow preferred sank to new low below $50 a share. Weakness cropped out in a few issues. United States' Cast Iron Pipe broke more than four points and then rallied slightly, and Houston, Colorado Fuel and Liggett and Myers B sank one to 2½ points.

STANDARD MINING

TORONTO, Ont., July 27 (Canadian Press). — Weakness developed throughout the list on the market of the Standard Mining Exchange today, and losses outnumbered gains by a wide margin, though no drastic declines were recorded. Amulet, which has been exceptionally strong of late, was reactionary to-day, and with sales totalling some 62,000 shares it dropped 15 cents to 3.60. Potter Doal was the leader in point of volume, and it eased one cent to 17. The dividend paying gold stocks were mostly firm. Lake Shore advanced 15 cents to 20.25, McIntyre 10 cents to 25.85, and Wright Hargreaves one cent to 6.05. Dome Mines and Hollinger were firm at 7.25 and 18.50 respectively. Area was active and down 3¼ to 47¾. Coniagas declined 15 cents to 6.35, Central Manitoba Gold 7 to 1.46, and Noranda 30 cents to 21.50.

Slavery has been abolished in Nepal the independent state of the Curkas in Northern India, through the efforts of the maharajah. The slaves were purchased at a total cost of more than $1,000,000.

STEWARDS MANAGE ANNUAL SOCIAL

Garden Party at Stanwood United Church is Great Success.

STANWOOD, July 27.— The annual garden party of Stanwood United church was held last night on the church lawn and adjoining vacant lots. The grounds were lighted with the old fashioned torch, which added much to the attractiveness of the lay-out.

The stewards of the church sponsored the affair, ably assisted by the community club of the district. Harold Rutherford was chairman of the committee and Mrs. Kent Lawrence president of the community club.

The Marmora brass band, with C. A. Bleecker as leader, dispensed music that was a pleasure to listen to. Among the large number of selections given were, "The Winner," "Valiant Heart," "The Bugle Call" and "Prosperous March." This band, which was only recently organized, is fast gaining in popularity with those who attend garden parties. On Thursday night they play at St. Mark's, on the 12th Line, and on Friday night at Ivanhoe.

Prior to church union the Stanwood church (Methodist) was on the Seymour circuit. On the consummation of union, it became one of three preaching appointments of the Springbrook charge. The Rev. R. F. Gardiner has been the pastor of this charge for some eighteen months and finds the work steadily growing under his very able guidance.

There are 30 families in the Stanwood district and the United church is the only church in the community. The Sunday school, which meets every Sunday morning, is well attended and has for its superintendent Mr. Harold Rutherford. The Bible class which has a large membership, is taught by Miss Sparks, the popular Public school teacher of the district. Miss Sparks is also secretary of the community club, which joined forces with the stewards of the church in putting on the garden party.

Owing to the uncertainty of the weather, supper was served in the Church basement. The gentlemen in charge of the cash were Carman Redden and Robert Lisle, while Harold Rowe and Charles Lawrence saw to it that one had the necessary little piece of pasteboard before allowing them to enter the banqueting hall. John Rowe and Chester Irwin with great skill handled the ice-cream cones in the booth set apart for the sale of same. Will Rutherford collected the dimes at the Fish Pond; promising all and sundry a chance to pull out a Rolls Royce or a thresing machine.

Everybody in the district was out, and many gathered from the surrounding communities. Among those from outside were noticed the following from the Ion Church congregation at Petherick's Corners: Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Petherick, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Irwin, Mr. and Mrs. William Irwin, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Barnum, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Barnum, Miss Cora Irwin, Miss Freda Petherick, and James Simpson.

The Stewards of the church and the Community Club are to be congratulated on putting on one of the best garden parties held in the Campbellford district this season.

Waters Dragged For Body; Boy Sleeps Under Porch

TORONTO, July 27. Canadian Press. — While life savers dragged the waters of Lake Ontario all last night at the spot where he went bathing, Edwin Boyd, aged 13, slept peacefully beneath the sun room of his father's house.

The lad has been given permission to go bathing yesterday. When he failed to return home an alarm was raised and his clothes and bicycle found on the lake shore led to the belief that he had perished in the water.

When questioned to-day, he admitted that he had left his clothes there just for a prank.

Autos Disregard Appeal; Jackson Park Closed To-day

Because motorists refuse to exercise the care requested of them when passing through Jackson Park, it has been necessary to close the park to vehicular traffic, John Crane told The Examiner to-day.

Warning was given a few weeks ago that the lives of the children at the Health Association—Kiwanis Club summer camp must be safeguarded, and an appeal to drivers of automobiles asked that cars be driven slowly through the park. The winding roads make this park particularly dangerous.

NEW YORK, July 27, Canadian Press. — Freed of the immediate menace of a transit strike, New York's travelling millions breathed more freely as they rode to work to-day.

The threatened strike, which was to have tied up all the New York subway and elevated systems, was formally called off at a midnight meeting of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway employees, following an earlier discussion of the situation with Mayor Walker

NEW ROAD SIGNS.

Motor League Looks After Directing of Tourists to Peterborough.

"All roads lead to Peterborough!" is the slogan that the local branch of the Ontario Motor League have chosen when they send a man out to sign district roads surrounding the city for a radius of thirty miles.

A great many signs now lie in one of the samples rooms of the Empress Hotel, and this week the secretary of the Ontario Motor League will assign a man to erect these signs at various points along the main and district roads. On every road at different points will be placed the sign "Peterborough" with an arrow pointing in the direction of the city.

The local branch believes that this will not only benefit the increasing tourist traffic, but will also aid the citizens of Peterborough when they are looking for smaller places that do not appear on a road map.

When only 18 years old, Eben E. Rexford wrote the lines to "Silver Threads Among the Gold." He sold the m for $3 and they later made thousands of dollars for publishers.

CANADA IS HIGH IN WOMEN'S COUNCIL

Delegate Returns From Meeting of International Council at Geneva.

TORONTO, Ont., July 27.—(Canadian Press).—Canada's place in the International Council of Women is high, Mrs. Willoughby Cummings, of this city, who recently returned from Geneva, where she attended the biennial conference of the International Council, stated in an interview. Mrs. Cummings is one of the vice-presidents of the National Council of Women of Canada.

"We stand well in education," Mrs. Cummings said, "but I think that Great Britain is still higher, and we are not as well up in financial contributions as the United States, but on the whole our work compares very favorably. One official speaking to me, declared that he felt strongly that the International Council should be linked up as the women's side of the League of Nations, for we had similar constitution granting representation alike to the smallest and largest nations, and our work was similar. He pointed out that we represented forty nations, nearly as many as the League."

Besides Mrs. Cummings, Mrs. Horace Parsons, Mrs. J. S. Dignum of Toronto, Miss C. E. Carmichael of New Glasgow, Nova Scotia; Mrs. W. E. Sanford, Hamilton; Mrs. J. A. Wilson, Ottawa, and Mrs. Atherton Smith of New Brunswick were present among the Canadian women at the International conference at Geneva.

CRACKING BANK DIFFICULT JOB

New Bank of England Vaults Would Take Three Days to Force.

WALLS OUTSIDE THEM.

LONDON, July 27. — (Canadian Press).—Although workmen engaged on the new underground vaults of the Bank of England, where all of Great Britain's gold reserve will rest, are guarded from prying eyes by armed policemen, some details have leaked out regarding what is said to be the world's hardest job of safe cracking.

Underneath the present bank are concrete walls fifty feet deep and seven feet eight inches thick. If somebody with felonious intentions were to tunnel through these he would come into a passage patrolled by guards and protected by every known alarm system around all four sides of the treasure.

Once in this passage way the cracksman would have to cut through double grills of steel. The next step approaching the swag of several hundreds of millions of dollars in gold would be to cut through doors of solid steel weighing 24 tons each. This would take oxy-acetylene drills, in the hands of experts, at least three days. These doors can be swung with light pressure of one hand, if the are open. When they are locked it is different.

ST. THOMAS' S.S. PICNIC SUCCESS

Annual Outing to Wallace's Point Much Enjoyed—Millbrook News.

MILLBROOK, July 26.—The Sunday School of Saint Thomas' Church held its annual picnic at Wallace's Point this week, about one hundred and twenty-five being in attendance and a thoroughly good time being enjoyed.

The difficulty in reaching the Point because Hales' Bridge is not yet repaired, was overcome by driving some miles further and using the Bensfort Bridge to arrive at the picnic grounds.

The social side of the gathering was particularly enjoyed by the older folk, and a good sports' program was run off under the direction of Rev. P. C. Howard, Messrs. R. Stone, D. Fowler and others, the list of prize winners being:

Children's race, 6 years and under: 1, John Howson; 2, Laureen Handley.

Girls' Race, 8 years and under: 1, Jean Todd; 2, Suzanne Grassett.

Boys' race, 9 years and under: 1, Geoffrey Whyte; 2, Arthur Holmes.

Girls' Race, 9 years and under: 1, Mary Vance; 2, Mildred Toms.

Boys' race, 12 years and under: 1, Dalton Brown; 2, Geoffrey Whyte.

Girls' race, 12 years and under: 1, Eveleana Todd; 2, Mary Nattress.

Boys' race, 14 years and under: 1, George Harkness; 2, Arthur Holmes.

Girls' race, 14 and under: 1, Mary Vance.

Boys' Race, open to all: 1, Henry Raper; 2, George Harkness.

Girls' race, open to all: Martha Lang.

Sack race: 1, Arthur Holmes; 2, George Harkness.

Girls' Peanut Race: 1, Mary Vance; 2, Eva Howson.

Girls' Shoe Race: 1, Mary Vance; 2, Marjorie Vance.

Lady Teachers' race: 1, Miss Ada Attwool; 2, Miss Muriel Curtiss.

Time race: Miss Kathleen Fowler and Mr. E. H. Barnes.

Girls' race by scholars of Miss Attwool's class: Evelyn Todd (special prize donated by Mr. A. A. Needler).

Tug of war: Teachers and Officers of the school again the scholars; won by the scholars.—Prize, a box of chocolates.

Boys' bun contest: 1, Carmen Ingram; 2, George Gray.

The bountiful supper was spread on the long tables under the trees, the teachers and officers attending to the wants of the hungry picnicers until all were fully satisfied.

As usual, Mrs. Cardwell did all in her power to promote the pleasure of the guests of the afternoon during their stay on the picnic grounds.

Dr. Birks, who has spent fifteen years as a medical missionary in West China, addressed the United Church Sunday School at the regular session on Sunday morning, giving a most interesting talk on the way in which the foreign children have to go to school; often the school is many miles distant from their homes, and the smaller pupils particularly, were much interested in the description of the packing of baggage, food, bedding, and cooking utensils for use by the way, as well as the manner in which the boys and girls are carried in chairs by coolies.

For the adults, Dr. Birks' review of the gradually rising tide of opposition again the foreign workers and others, the precautions taken to preserve their lives, the efficient manner in which the native doctors, nurses and teachers are carrying on the work, was full of inspiration and interest.

The Sunday School of the United Church is holding its annual picnic on Thursday, July 28, at the Nicholls Oval, Peterborough, instead of Wallace's Point, as was at first intended, owing to the difficulty in reaching the Point because of the delay in repairing Hales' Bridge. People from this part of the district find a decided inconvenience in crossing the river on account of the manner in which the re-flooring and other repairs to Hales' Bridge are being carried out.

There is a general hope that the current rumor to the effect that the bridge may possibly be permanetly closed, will not prove true in actual fact.

LINDSAY GIRL WITH GAME SHE SHOT IN INDO-CHINA

Above are shown some of the fine specimens of the wild game secured by Mr. and Mrs. James Freeman Clarke of Boston (the latter being Miss Aileen Hughes, formerly of Lindsay, and daughter of the late Sir Sam. Hughes) while they were hunting in Indo-China whence they just returned to Canada. In the CENTRE is shown Mrs. Clarke with her big French rifle seated on the large tiger which she shot after waiting 30 days for a chance. On the LEFT is a 7-foot lizard which a pleased little native is displaying. The agile reptile also fell to Mrs. Clarke's rifle. On the RIGHT is Mr. Clarke with a fine banting (a sort of wild ox) which he shot. BELOW are the honeymooning couple as they looked when they arrived in Canada.

VANCOUVER, B.C., July 27.—(Canadian Press).—The Vancouver Children's Aid Society will receive a valuable worker at the beginning of August, when Miss Laura Holland of Toronto arrives to aid in the work of the society. During the four years of directorship of the Social Welfare Division of Public Health in Toronto, Miss Holland has won for herself a unique reputation, her position having brought her in touch with every branch of social work in the city. Her task was the direction of the work carried out in the city welfare department—case work, the city's expenditure for dependent children, and grants in aid of certain institutions, as well as many other branches.

DROWNED GIRLS GOOD SCHOLARS

OTHER GOOD SINGER.

HAMILTON, Ont., July 27.—(Canadian Press).—Winnifred Turner, aged 14, and Edna Stuart, 13 years of age, who with two others were drowned through the capsizing of a sailing skiff in a sudden storm on the bay here on the evening of July 12, had passed the recent entrance examination with marked success, but the result of the examination was not made public until a day or two after the fatalities. Miss Turner had passed the examination with honors. Miss Stuart was singer of promise and had won honors in county singing competitions. The other two victims of the bay tragedy were Frank Ryan, a young married man, and Baby Ryan, three months' old. Mrs. Ryan and two others who were in the ill fated craft were rescued.

QUEBEC, July 26. — (Canadian Press).—The freight steamer Rose Castle, outward bound, and the oil tanker Albertolite, bound for Montreal, came into collision yesterday off Matane, below here. The cause of the collision and details as to the damage, if any, sustained by the two vessels have not been received here so far. Both steamers are proceeding to Quebec under their own power.

Girl Evangelist Wouldn't Gamble In Stocks God Is Only Sure Bet, She Tells Wall Street

NEW YORK, July 26 (United Press).—"I would not gamble like business men do; God is the only sure bet," Uldine Utelym, girl evangelist, said when she visited the New York Stock Exchange yesterday. Uldine's visit to the exchange followed her third talk in the financial district, which she made to a group gathered at a street corner. She watched the milling on the floor and was impressed with the "great faith business men have in each other in making such large deals.

"But I fear their faith is only material," she said, "and half the members are in need of God's counsel."

HEADS HADASSAH FOR FIFTH TIME

Mrs. A. J. Frieman, of Ottawa, Re-elected By Canadian Convention.

WINNIPEG, July 23.—(Canadian Press).—A. J. Frieman, of Ottawa, whose wife was re-elected president of the Canadian Hadassah, woman's branch of the Zionist movement, for the fifth time at the convention of the Zionist Federation of Canada, presided jointly with Mrs. Frieman over the sessions of the convention here. Mr. and Mrs. Frieman are presidents of their respective societies in Ottawa.

Mrs. Louise Fitch and Mrs. S. Kahn, of Montreal, were elected vice-presidents of the eastern division, and Mrs. Dunkleman and Mrs. A. Selick, of Toronto, vice-presidents of the central division.

More than $300,000, the quota set for the Canadian Zionist convention to raise in connection with the $1,000,000 campaign for the Jewish National fun, was subscribed here following the announcement of a plan for buying and redeeming the land in Palestine by M. Ussishkin, chairman of the world national fund for restoring Palestine to the Jews.

It was hoped that the 21st convention of Zionist would be able to raise approximately $300,000 for the fund, but so generous were the contributions in pledges and money that the objective was reached within a few hours.

Mr. Ussishkin, commenting on the success of the campaign warmly praised the Zionists of Canada, particularly those of Winnipeg, for their enthusiastic and whole-hearted support of the great plan to create a homeland for jewry.

The money will be devoted to the purchase of land in Palestine for farming purposes.

NEWSPAPERS FOR MASS SALES

Oakland Motor Car Advertising Manager Praises Dailies

"No product of mass consumption can today succeed without the liberal use of newspaper space," in the opinion of Waldo E. Fellows, director of advertising of the Oakland Motor Car Company of Pontiac, Mich. He recently expressed this opinion in Seattle while meeting newspaper men and dealers, and studying business conditions and trade trends at first hand, so that he may meet these conditions with properly directed advertising.

While Mr. Fellows found that every type of advertising had its value, the products that were consumed in large quantities by the masses, such even as automobiles, must rely upon newspaper space for their successful marketing.

"In the last analysis," he said, "the newspaper is the switch that makes the final contact with the public, the final medium that induces the sale, short of the actual salesman."

YANKEES TAKE DOUBLE HEADER FROM ST. LOUIS

Babe Ruth Hits Two Home Runs in First Game at New York.

GEHRIG ONE.

Senators Administer Double Defeat to White Sox.

NEW YORK, July 27 (Canadian Press).—The New York Yankees continued their string of successes over St. Louis here yesterday, winning both ends of a double-header by 15 to 1 and 12 to 3. The Yanks have taken thirteen straight from the Browns this season, and have yet to be defeated by the St. Louis club.

Babe Ruth did considerable celebrating before 25,000 fans who greeted New York's home-coming, driving out two home runs in the first game, along with two singles and three more base raps in the night-cap. Ruth's home runs brought him up to 33 for the current championship. Gehrig produced a long distance blow in the second game, giving him 32.

Ruether and Hoyt pitched strong games for New York, while the St. Louis twirling was poor and further handicapped by mediocre support. Jones held up pretty well in the closing battle but went out for a pinch hitter and Wingard was handed a terrific drubbing in the seventh, when nine runs were scored.

Senators Win Two.

Playing errorless ball, the Senators returned to the Capital and administered a double defeat to the Chicago White Sox.

The Harris men, trailing in the second contest from the outset, tied the score in the ninth and then won, 6 to 5, in the eleventh frame. The score of the first game was 5 to 1.

Singles by Judge, Goslin and Ruel scored the winning run in the second game. Judge also pounded out three two-baggers during the afternoon and in the second game got five hits out of six trips to the plate.

Divide Double-Header.

The Philadelphia Athletics and the Detroit Tigers divided a double-header at Philadelphia, the visiters winning the first game by a score of 10 to 4, and the Athletics the second contest by a 3 to 2 score. Rip Collins outhurled Lefty Grove and Baker to win the opener. Bob Fothergill and Manush helped with home runs. Jack Quinn had the best of a twirling duel with Owen Carroll in the final game. The veteran had the Tigers shut out until they made three hits in the ninth that followed an error by Boley and sent two runs over.

Homer By Flagstead.

Cleveland fell on Ruffino's pitching and made seven runs in the third inning at Boston, eventually winning, 7 to 2. In the fourth Myer singled and came home when Flagstead's drive hit the top of the right field fence and bounded over for a home run. Cleveland used Fonseca at second and Cullop at centre. They made seven of the Indians' 12 hits.

"King of Swat" Hits Two Home Runs

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, July 27.—(U.P.)—Babe Ruth hit his 32nd and 33rd home runs of the season yesterday in the first game of a double-header between the New York Yankees and St. Louis Browns. The second homer of the day came in the sixth inning with Gaston pitching. It was a long drive into the rightfield bleachers. No one was on base. Ruth's feat made an even 100 home runs hit by the Yankees this season.

SCORE 6 TO 1.

Maley Pitched Good Ball For Eight Innings—Pulled For Pinch Hitter.

TORONTO, July 27.—Toronto lost the second game of the Buffalo series, evening the count to date. The score was 6-1, but 5 runs made in Buffalo's ninth were pure gifts on two errors by Lamotte on the first two up. They scored on Pond's triple. Fisher's hit accounted for a third and a fly muffed by Walsh let two more across. The game had stood 1 to 0 up to that, a hit by Bissonette and Malone's triple giving the visitors one in the fourth.

Maley pitched superb ball in his eight innings, allowing only five hits and two walks. He was taken out to let Styles hit for him in the eighth.

The left-handed Leverenz was too good for the Leafs, giving only seven safeties. The only run for Toronto came in the ninth on Webb's double and Walsh's out at first.

Outfielder Bratchi and Pitcher Gordonier will be released at once.

Stars Win.

The Syracuse Stars won their second straight game from the Tribe at Rochester by continuing their hard hitting against another trio of tribal hurlers. The Stars collected 17 hits for ten runs, while Rochester was scoring three runs, all in the third inning, with the aid of two errors. Sylvester Johnson featured the game by his pitching performance.

Reading Loses.

The Orioles won the opening game of the Baltimore series with Reading 6 to 5. The visitors tallied five runs in the eighth inning to tie the count at five all, but were trailing again when Fewster scored in the locals' half.

The Newark Bears won a free-hitting game at Jersey City in the opening of the series. The score was 3 to 1. Billy Kelly drove in two runs for the Bears singling to score Conlan, who had doubled in the first, and hitting again to count Conlan again in the third.

PITTSBURG TIES WITH CUBS FOR FIRST POSITION

Robins Lose Opening Game Against Pittsburgh By One Run.

CARDINALS LOSE.

Cincinnati Blanked St. Louis in Four Game Series.

NEW YORK, July 27.—(Canadian Press).—Pittsburgh repulsed Brooklyn by 6 to 5 in the opening game of the Robins' Western invasion at Pittsburgh and went into a tie with Chicago for the National League lead. After Brooklyn went in front on a two-run rally in the eighth, the Pirates came back in their half to forge ahead with the tying and winning runs. Traynor tripled and came home on Cuyler's single. Harris sacrificed and Wright banged a single to bring in Cuyler.

The Cincinnati Reds stretched their winning streak to six straight when they blanked the St. Louis Cardinals on the four game Cincinnati series by winning the final game 11 to 10.

Red Lucas pitched great ball for eight innings, but was chased to the showers in favor of Donohue when the Cardinals began to clout his offerings.

The Cardinals came from behind and with a five run rally in the eighth and another in the ninth slashed the Red lead to the narrow margin of one run.

SOFTBALL NEWS.

Tonight at Confederation Square The Examiner and Belmonts will meet in a post season softball fixture. This game should be an interesting battle and should provide the fans with some good ball. Both teams will be at full strength the Belmonts having Harrison in town for the game.

The game is called for 6.15 sharp and should draw a big crowd.

By a score of 10-8 The Examiner defeated Warsaw in a softball game played at Warsaw last night. It was a very interesting struggle and was well enjoyed by the large crowd that was on hand. Tedbord did the twirling for Warsaw and with a little better support might have turned in a victory. Errors at critical moments caused his downfall for he was not hit hard. "Polly" Powell twirled for the Newspaper boys and pitched nice ball, although he was a trifle wild.

Lustic at second and Lucas at short were the fielding stars for The Examiner, while for Warsaw, Allen at first and O'Mac at short were the best. Ramsden and Grey were the hitting stars for the Newsboys while R. Payne and Wasson were Warsaw's best.

The teams lined up as follows:

Examiner—Grey, 3b; Ramsden, c; Lustic, 2b; Powell, p; Scates, 1b; Weir, rf; Mowry, lf; Cullen, cf; Lucas, ss.

You'd Be SURPRISED!

BY BILLY EVANS

John McGraw, celebrating his 25th anniversary as manager of the New York Giants, is not having as pleasant a year as he had hoped. In the spring he had thoughts of a pennant, but things have persisted in going wrong all year.

However, it's a long way until October and John McGraw isn't the kind of a manager who curls up and quits in July. I have an idea he is still eyeing that National League pennant for 1927 as his.

Delving into the records the other day I came across some figures for McGraw as a player that no doubt will give him some comfort if he sees them. He might use them as an object lesson for some of his players who have only a slight acquaintance with first base.

Going back to 1899, I find that over a period of 95 consecutive games, in only one did McGraw fail to reach first base, one or more times. Not only was McGraw a good batsman but he waited out the pitcher and had the uncanny habit of often being hit with a pitched ball without suffering any physical injury.

Playing third base for the Baltimore Orioles that season he had a batting average of .390. In the 95 games, in which he was on the bases one or more times, one game excepted, he also received 100 bases on balls and was hit by the pitcher eight times.

BASEBALL CLUB WILL BE WRECKED

St. Louis Browns Will Have An Entirely New Outfit Next Season.

ST. LOUIS, July 27.—(Canadian Press).—Despairing of making any headway with his present array of fading veterans and reconditioned ball players, president Philip de Ball of the St. Louis Browns announced late yesterday he planned to wreck his present club and to build an entirely new outfit before next season.

Ball estimated the club had lost $100,000 so far this season and $76,000 last season. He bemoaned the downfall of the old line pitchers.

"Our club is loaded up with players who have enjoyed long trials and have failed to come through," he said. "We also have several malcontents who do the club no good. All the dead and dying timber will be culled.

"We have some fair prospects on the Tulsa Club; but stars there are a long, long way from major league class. 'We'll get the talent some place however."

Ball said the management unanimously considered only four of the twenty-five players on the roster as "necessary" to the club, and George Sisler, first baseman and former manager, was not among them.

"Sisler has been something of a disappointment to me, although he has not done badly this year," he said.

HANLAN TROPHY.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., July 27 (Canadian Press). — When the Philadelphia Bachelor Barge, Detroit, Wyandotte, Ottawa, Lachine, and McGill University crews arrive this morning, all the entrants of the 45th annual C.A.A.O. Regatta, which opens here on Thursday afternoon, will be on hand. Toronto Argonauts and Dons arrived yesterday afternoon, and lost no time in getting on the course over which Toronto University eights have been working each day since their arrival on Sunday.

Three eights and two fours from Winnipeg, fresh from their victories at the Middle States Regatta, arrived yesterday morning full of determination to bring back to Canada the Hanlan Memorial Trophy, emblematic of the Canadian Senior Eight oared championship which went to Wyandotte, Mich., by a few feet last year. Con Riley's pets were out on the water early yesterday morning and afternoon, and looked well; the same could be said of Varsity. Argos were out later, but were apparently not attempting a speed trial President T. A. Louden, of the C.A.A.O., has a problem on his hands in arranging storage space for shells and equipment of the visiting clubs. The Federal Government buildings at the gate yard in Port Dalhousie are being requisitioned for further space to take care of the exceedingly large number of shells, of which thirty are of the eight-oared variety.

JUDGE REFUSES DEMPSEY'S MOTION

Declares Whole Legal Controversy Should Be Brought to an End.

NEW YORK, July 27.—(Canadian Press).—Federal Judge John C. Knox yesterday declared that there had been "too much ballyhoo" in the differences between Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, and Jack Kearns, his former manager, and that the whole legal controversy should be brought to an end.

Judge Knox denied a motion by Dempsey to obtain an injunction forcing Kearns to confine his law suits against him to one court. The judge also denied a motoin by Kearns asking dismissal of a pending action of Dempsey's designed to force Kearns to confine his legal fight to this State.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

THE LOAN

I do not own a single acre,
A solitary brick or stone;
Because I do not think my Maker
Gave anything to me alone.
There's not a dollar that I own
To tightly clutch or idly spend it;
Whatever blessing I have known,
I know for this God did not send it.

God gives no man an earthly treasure,
God lends it for a little while;
And he who squanders it for pleasure,
For selfish joy, or purpose vile,
Or builds himself a little pile
Of sticks and stones he bars to others,
Or poorly tills some fertile mile,
Has robbed his God and robbed his brothers.

No, I must take each shining penny
And do the best with it I can,
Remember I am one of many
In life's eternal caravan,
Whatever fortune I may plan,
Whatever treasure I may find me,
Must try to be a better man,
And leave a better world behind me.

TORONTO BOYS ARE DROWNED

One Loses Life While Swimming Near City—Gets Beyond Depth.

VISITOR DROWNS.

TORONTO, July 27.—Charles Anthony Brierly, aged 13 years, was drowned in the Rouge River, at the Rouge Bridge, Kingston Road, yesterday afternoon.

The boy with several companions went to the Rouge in a motor truck and had only been in the water a few minutes when he slipped in a deep hole at the old pier and went down. He was unable to swim and his companions seeing him struggling in the water raised an alarm.

Roy Yeomans, of 127 St. Clement's Avenue, who was among those who heard the cry for help, dived in and pulled the boy out. He had then been under water for about fifteen minutes. A number of people worked on the body until the arrival of County Coroner Dr. Cartwright, of Pickering, who pronounced life extinct. The body was ordered to be removed to the Matthews' Burial Company's parlors, Danforth Avenue.

The little boy was one of five children. He attended Corpus Christi School and the family are members of Corpus Christi Church.

Young Brierley was struck by a motor car about two months ago.

There will be no inquest, it is stated.

Drowned on Vacation.

Peter West, ten-year-old son of Captain and Mrs. F. J. West, 170 Sorauren Avenue, was the victim of a drowning accident Monday afternoon near Tollendale, where he was visiting with Mrs. Davis of Toronto. It is thought that the boy while swimming, swallowed some water, causing him to vomit and some undigested food lodging in his windpipe stopped his breathing. A number of other children nearby failed to notice his distress in time to help him, and he went to the bottom. In two or three minutes he was brought to the surface by G. O. Murrell-Wright, of Toronto. Four doctors were on the scene in a short time and worked for an hour in an effort to resuscitate the lad. The boy could swim, and the water at the place of accident was not deep.

THE NEED OF VACATIONS

Most of my readers began planning this summer's vacation almost as soon as last year's vacation was completed. All during the year people struggle through their day's work, thinking about how tired they will be when summer comes and how much they will need a vacation. The general idea about the need of vacations is people believe they become so exhausted and enervated during the year that they really need a long rest in the summer to make up for their overwork.

I believe it is possible for one to live so that the hours of work and the hours of recreation are so balanced that one is never harmed by too much work, and never actually in need of long periods of rest. Anyone who thinks he needs rest from work will find, upon a little self-investigation, that he has probably been over eating, under-exercising, and not playing enough.

Through each day, week, and month of the year, it seems to me, the only real need of a vacation is that of getting away from customary surroundings and, through new environment and the education of travel, be in position to get new viewpoints, meet new friends, and enlarge the mental horizon. The mental change is the important thing, and this of course has its undeniable effect upon the physical.

One who is daily confined to the routine of office work should take his vacation in the woods or mountains or, perhaps, take a camping trip. Even though the office worker has balanced his habits so that he has spent a good deal of time in the open air on Sundays and holidays, he will still get a great deal of pleasure and profit from two or three weeks spent entirely in the open, and close to nature. During such a vacation, the only routine to be practiced is regularity of meals and the proper selection of foods. Long hikes into the woods should be taken, and the mental worker should try to get away from companions and be by himself as much as possible.

One who works at manual labor will likewise find he can get much good from the same kind of vacation. Either the man who works with his brain or the one who works with his hands will find that the essential thing to do is to rest the mind from any burdensome thoughts and exercise the physical body to the utmost. The secret is in getting back to nature and being re-created for a time by the wholesome satisfaction of feeling like a primitive man.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: W. R. D. writes: "What foods are the cause of diabetes?"

ANSWER: There are no particular foods which in themselves cause diabetes, which is a disorder of metabolism. In curing diabetes it is advisable to eliminate starches and sugars for some time, but this is also true in the treatment in most disorders. The sugar appearing in the urine is glycogen from the tissues, and does not come directly from the sugar you eat.

QUESTION: Mrs. Smith writes: "I have been reading your health and diet advice and am very much interested. Will you please tell me why the upper lip is swollen in the morning?"

ANSWER: Have your teeth examined. Perhaps you are suffering from pyorrhea or have some abscessed teeth which are poisoning your lip during the night.

QUESTION: Mrs. Hal K. writes: "Will you suggest the proper diet for a child of two and a half years? He does not seem to be ill, but has rough red spots on his cheeks at times, and is unusually cross and irritable after waking from his afternoon nap."

ANSWER: Try giving him four feedings of milk a day, using eight or ten ounces of milk at each feeding. At the second, third, and fourth feedings give him a good size dish of minced spinach, carrots, string beans, summer squash, or celery. It is a good plan to use also one of the vegetables raw along with the cooked one.

JOHNNY HINES IN FAST LAUGH PACE

Joy Cruise of Hilarious Dimensions in New Comedy "All Aboard."

We can't quite figure how many knots there are in the ocean from the Atlantic Coast to Algeria, and it's almost as difficult to figure how many laughs there are in "All Aboard," Johnny Hines' new First National picture, which is now on view at the Regent theatre.

Here is a laughter cruise of the most hilarious dimensions for which we should all be duly grateful to Johnny, and to C. C. Burr, the producer, for now we can postpone that long planned trip to Europe. We can feel that we have already been there through a maze of the most uproarious complications ever conceived. And not only that, we have been given a peep into the amorous ways of the desert sheik and have acquired thereby a number of lessons on the art of love without the aid of a sping of mistletoe.

Johnny has surpassed himself in this motion picture comedy. He has a characterization that is funny in itself. He is a young man who can't remember how not to forget. He is so absent-minded that he loses his job in a shoe store, but luck comes his way through the medium of pretty blonde Edna Murphy. There is no doubt that Johnny is one of our funniest comedians of the celluloid. He is here, there, everywhere in this picture and is followed by a wake of laughter that never seems to die down for a minute.

JUSTICE LENNOX DIES IN TORONTO

Judge of the Supreme Court of Ontario Ill Since July 1st.

STROKE YESTERDAY.

TORONTO, July 27. — As the result of a stroke which occurred earlier in the day, Mr. Justice Lennox, Judge of the High Court Division of the Supreme Court of Ontario, died at 11 o'clock last night at his residence, 213 Poplar Plains Road.

Mr. Justice Lennox, who sustained a stroke on July 1st, had been ordered to bed by his doctor at that time. Mr. Justice Lennox was noted for his knowledge of criminal law, was very successful as a lawyer and member of Parliament, and had a fine record on the bench.

Haughton Ignatius Samuel was Mr. Justice Lennox's full name, but for the sake of convenience he always ignored the last part. He was born in Simcoe County in 1850, and won his way to legal and political fame in his native county.

On being called to the bar in 1878, he began practice in Barrie, Ont. He acted either as prosecuting or defence counsel in many noted criminal casse. Owing to his wide knowledge of human nature as well as of law he was regarded as an excellent man with a jury. He was widely known as an authority on municipal law.

He was a Conservative and had an enviable reputation as a stump speaker. He was elected to the House of Commons for South Simcoe in 1900, and sat continuously until 1912 when he was appointed to the bench. At the time of his election the National Transcontinental Railway was being constructed under the Laurier administration.

Mr. Lennox set to work and made an exhaustive study of every phase of railway building in Canada and became the recognized spokesman of his party on those matters. He strongly criticized the National Transcontinental, predicting that it would always be a financial loss. His criticism, though often very embarrassing to the government, was always fairminded and constructive. On the return of the Conservatives to power in 1911 he became chairman of the railway committe.

While in the House he introduced legislature for the protection of railway employees. Up to that time it had been possible for the railway companies to form contracts with their employes exempting the companies from the liabilities imposed on them by law. Mr. Justice Lennox secured the passing of ar act to prevent this. The railways appealed to the courts to have the legislation set aside as ultra vires. The future judge however fought through right to the Privy Council and won out.

Of an intensely practical turn of mind Mr. Justice Lennox had little sympathy for abstruse legal arguments. He was sometimes called a matter-of-fact judge. Many of his judgments show this practical bent of his mind.

He married Margaret Anne Whitaker, daughter of the late Provost Whitaker, D. D., of Trinity College, Toronto, and leaves two sons and one daughter.

The sons, both residing in Toronto, are Keith Lennox and O. E. Lennox, the latter being an officer in the 3rd (Toronto Battalion, Canadian Expeditionary Force, in which he enlisted as a private and lost a leg while on active service overseas; the daughter is Mrs. Otter Morris, also of Toronto.

The funeral will take place from Christ Church, at 2.30 o'clock on Friday afternoon.

THOSE DEMPSEY BLOWS AS THE MOVIE CAMERA SAW THEM.

As Dempsey pulls back his left, Sharkey's knees give way and he starts falling for the count.

"IRISH HEARTS," with May McAvoy, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Emmett Murtough, a gay, young beaux of Killanmaul, a village on the west coast of Ireland, near Knockbotherum, plans to go to America. He is in love with Sheila Kildare. Both have their fortunes told and a good luck charm is given to Sheila. Sheila doubts Emmett's love because he has played fast and loose in his flirtations with the girls along the road from Killanmaul to Knockbotherum and she fears to make the voyage.

CHAPTER II—Continued

"But the village has talked."

"Yes, the gossips, bad cess to them! But they make up their tales out of whole cloth an' ye know there's never been cause. Nothing's ever come out that would reflect on me."

"I know that, Emmett, dear, but I'm a bit beset by it all. It's true I love you; ye'r the only boy in Killanmaul that I've ever walked out with. But the whispers in the cottages have hurt me sometimes. Oh, Emmett, I do want you to be a big man an' a successful man an' a good man an' if God wills it so I'll come to you when ye are ready for me." Sheila gave herself to his arms with this pledge and the Murtough, somewhat confused by the deep sincerity of her promise pressed an awed kiss upon her cheek.

"I'll do well, Sheila, darling, just for your sake," he promised.

Old Tom Kildare was delighted. Emmett Murtough was a man after his own heart, a rollicking boy who could take his drink or leave it; who could sing the brave ballads of Ireland's long fight for liberty, or croon the love melodies that brought tears of submission to a colleen's eyes. Old Tom never doubted the Murtough's march to prosperity over there in the fabled land of America. Such a broth of a boy could never fail, the old man thought. And when Sheila told him of her pledge to go when Emmett should send for her, he was overjoyed. Selfishness entered into his elation, for he knew that Sheila never would leave him and that he, too, would have his chance to see with his own eyes that fair land which spreads across a continent behind the welcoming arms of Miss Liberty.

"Get ye a job, boy," he told Emmett. "Sure an' there's plenty of chances for a lad like you, you with yer fine manners an' your gift o' gab. They'll take to ye, lad, an' remember there's a future always in politics."

The Murtough had planned a triumphant farewell. He set the date and with the connivance of Old Tom Kildare there was to be a farewell supper at the Widow O'Farrell's Inn. Old Tom issued the invitations by word of mouth and there were more than a score of acceptances but many a one said yes with his tongue in his cheek. He would go, but it would be to enjoy the antics of the braggart Murtough. Soon all the countryside as far as Knockbotherum knew of the coming farewell supper. Indeed, Emmett borrowed Old Tom's pony and dog cart and drove to Knockbotherum to make his reservations for the coach which was to relay him to the railroad which was to carry him to Queenstown.

The pony was jogging along in the moonlight and Emmett sang happily as he drove homeward. Crowning the hill beyond him was a light in the window of the cottage of Denis Finnegan. As the light fixed itself in Emmett's eyes the song ceased. He had no wish to arouse the quiet of the Finnegan household for Annie would have much to say. The pony was at a walk and the traveler approached the cottage almost silently. As the cart reached the gate in the hedge a figure stepped out to the roadside.

"Is it you, Emmett Murtough," a girl's voice asked. "I saw ye passing down this morning."

"An' who else should it be, Annie darling," replied the Murtough in a flippant tone, although his heart beat fearfully as he halted the pony and swung down from the cart.

"Oh, Emmett, why haven't ye been to see me?"

"'Tis busy I am the whole day long."

"I hear that y'er going away?"

"To America, Annie, darling, to make me fortune."

"Oh, Emmett, an' I'm never to see ye again?"

"Of course. Why, Annie, when I become rich I'm going to send for ye an' ye'll be living in a fine house with silks and satins on yer back."

"But Emmett, how soon, how soon?"

"Oh, it won't take me long. There's big chances for the right kind of a man over there. There's where a man has a chance to be something, to get somewhere. There's no way for a fellow to get on here around Killanmaul. Ye know that, Annie."

"I know, Emmett, but I'm afraid. Ye promised me the ring, Emmett, ye know ye did!"

"An' ye shall have it, Annie, just as soon as ever I can send for ye."

"I'm afraid, Emmett. There's the father now, an' he's suspicious. He's accused me already, Emmett, and asked me to name the man I'm pledged to."

"An' did ye tell him?"

"Ye told me not to, Emmett."

The Murtough sighed with relief. Well he knew Denis Finnegan, a tough, hard old customer was he with all his age. The countryside still told tales of his fighting prowess when younger and always they wound up the tale with, "an' old Denis can do as well today, too, if he have cause." The Murtough had been uneasy ever since Annie had first listened to his love plea; now if he could safely embark on his way to America without old Denis calling him to account all would be well.

"When do ye go, Emmett?"

"Ten days from today, an' all of Killanmaul is turning out to wish me well. There's to be a fine supper at the Widow O'Farrell's given by all the men of the countryside. Oh, 'tis a great day for me an' ye can depend on it I'll be a great man over there in America. Ye'll have the best in the land, Annie, darling," he added to forestall what he feared would be tears and reproaches.

"Oh, Emmett, I love ye so. Ye won't forget me? Ye will send for me? It must be grand over there in America! I'd love to go to you Emmett, but Emmett, dear, ye must send for me soon, else father will know."

"I will, Annie, dear, I will," he answered fervently. "But I must be off now. There's a deal to do in getting ready for such a voyage. I must have all my business affairs in shape before I leave," he went on magnificently.

"I know, I know. But ye will see me before ye go, Emmett," the girl asked anxiously. "Ye'll come to see me an' ye'll walk once more down by the sea just as we used to do?"

"Indeed an' indeed I will," the Murtough promised while she lay upon his breast for a moment before he mounted the cart and drove on to Killanmaul. But Emmett Murtough sang no more ballads on the way to the village.

The Widow O'Farrell had done herself proud. Few were the banquets ever held at the Inn; occasionally when there was a countryside hunt the hunters would dine in a body at the end of the day, but those affairs were rare. The guests gathered early to do honor to Emmett Murtough, but more honor to the food and liquor which would grace the tables. And each man was entitled to his fullest share, for had not each one contributed the price of his own supper?

Old Tom Kildare was on hand to welcome the guests, and Peter Harrigan, the uncle of the young adventurer, joined him. Peter had the reputation of being a man over whose eyes no one could pull the wool.

"Good riddance, says I," he said to Kildare. "I'm glad I'm able to give him the price of his passage. He was bound for no good here in Killanmaul, what with his carryings on an' his laziness."

"Ye'r too hard on the boy," defended Old Tom. "Sure an' he's just sowing his oats he is. He'll be a big man over there in America, what with his fine looks an' the tongue on him."

"Bah, I've known the rascal since he was knee high an' his mother an' father died an' left him to me to take care of. If he was a real man he'd settle down here in Killanmaul. 'Tis good enough for us, it should be good enough for the likes of him!"

Business Men of Dempsey's Home Town Suggest Match There.

WITH CHAMPION.

LOS ANGELES, July 27 (Canadian Press). — Jack Dempsey's home town to-day followed its unusual demonstration to the conqueror of Jack Sharkey yesterday with the demand that the former heavyweight champion stage his comeback battle with Gene Tunney here.

Dempsey had hardly fought his way through a milling throng of fifty thousand persons, which three hundred policemen were unable to control, before a group of business men, headed by Richard Ferris, proposed that he fight Tunney in Los Angeles. Dempsey promised Ferris he would see him and his committee to-day.

"DUMMY" TAYLOR HAS PASSED ON

Picturesque Pitcher For Giants Was One of McGraw's Old Guard.

GALESBURG, Ill., July 27 (Canadian Press). — Another picturesque diamond luminary of other days has passed, in the death of Lyman B. "Dummy" Taylor, former twirler for the New York Giants.

The former baseball star, who was nicknamed "Dummy" because he could neither hear nor speak, was buried here yesterday as his home town friends recalled the days when he was one of McGraw's old guard.

The deaf and dumb pitcher was one of the most picturesque moundsmen that the Giants ever had. Swinging his arms around his head, Taylor tied himself into a knot, and did not deliver the ball until he had untied himself. Taylor's battery mate was Roger Bresnahan, now coach of the Giants. Taylor taught Bresnahan the sign language, and the fans got many a laugh as Roger rushed down to the pitcher's box and held an animated conversation on his fingers with the pitcher.

WOODSTOCK, July 27, Canadian Press. — Struck by a flash of lightning, Norman Crazier, 18, residing near Lakeside, was instantly killed to-day.

GIVES ADVICE TO MARRIED MEN THOSE WITH FAMILIES, TOO!

If you must take your wife with you, says the sage, take her to some place where she can have a good time without tagging behind you all the day. Bon Echo is a good suggestion because if you do get tired of one another, there is always the lake and a canoe to jump into. On one side of the Camp there is a "babies'" beach ,where the kiddies can walk out a hundred yards without wetting their tummies. On the other side, the real water babies play. There is riding and tennis and hiking, every facility for aquatic sport, good meals, and bungalow or "house" accommodation. An outdoor theatre helps cater to the aesthetic.

The station is Kaladar, just a few hours from Toronto. Ask any Canadian Pacific Agent for particulars. 27-10-20

RUNS CAR INTO HOLE.

New Automobile Badly Smashed at Corner of London and Stewart.

Apparently not seeing the steep bank as he turned the corner at the intersection of London and Stewart Streets, the driver of a new car from Toronto turned the corner and dropped into the deep hole, turning the car completely over.

The top of the automobile was smashed in by the impact, and the glass in the windshield all broken, but fortunately no persons were injured. Eye-witnesses say that this is a very dangerous place, and that a fence should be erected at the corner, showing the extreme danger of the hole and preventing future accidents.

PREMIER FERGUSON SPEAKS OF BENEFITS OF THE ROYAL TO THE FARMERS OF ONTARIO

Five Hundred Young Men Will be Guests of Government at Big Fair.

JUDGING COMPETITIONS

Province Will Reap Full Reward of Its Expenditure and Investment.

KEMPTVILLE, Ont., July 28 (Canadian Press).—At a banquet of the county representatives of the Ontario Department of Agriculture held last night in connection with their convention here, Premier Howard Ferguson, of Ontario, said:

"The Government has invested a large sum of money in a plant to properly display livestock exhibits at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair and to enable the vast number who attend to inspect and study the exhibits with ease and in comfort. Ever since the inauguration of the Royal in 1922, I have each year in November unpacked my long rubber boots, put on my Sou'wester, and in company with the Minister of Agriculture and the officials of the Royal have, as every farmer should, conscientiously waded through the water and mire to view the displays of livestock. But this year at the Royal there will be available the best accommodation on the continent for the display of exhibition livestock. The livestock will be shown to advantage and exhibitors will receive the full benefit of their efforts in fitting their animals to the high state of perfection in which they are exhibited. I wish to emphasize here that the highest commendation should be extended to the exhibitors of livestock, not only from Ontario, but from all the provinces of Canada, who have brought their livestock to the Royal each year under the housing accommodation previously available at the Royal, which not only caused discomfort but was, as well, dangerous to the health of the valuable stock exhibited. I wish to express the greatest admiration of their goodwill and sportsmanship.

Capitalize Investment

"It is now our desire to capitalize to the fullest extent the investment which the Government has made in this accommodation. It should be the business of the representatives of the Department of Agriculture in each province to see that the Government receives full value for this investment. The Minister of Agriculture is giving you a starting point—something concerete on which to build, commencing through the young people. We purpose having at the Royal this year as guests of the Department of Agriculture some of the best young livestock men and young farmers from each county in Ontario. These are to be selected on a competitive basis in connection with the livestock judging competitions which are conducted in each county under your direction. The Government is offering as reward in these contests, its hospitality to the winners while they are in attendance for several days at the Royal. This will not only take in the Royal but will as well, provide a useful experience through visits which will be arranged to well-known farms and allied commercial industries in and adjacent to Toronto. This visit will be at Government expense and under the supervision of the Department of Agriculture. You will be able to use it as an added interest and incentive to the young men who participate in work in your county, and it will give to the winners the stimulant of the Royal Winter Fair with all its associations, its atmosphere and surroundings, to create in the young people a great pride in the profession of agriculture.

Each County Represented

"It is intended that there shall be some six to ten representatives from each county, the number varying according to circumstances, an aggregate in all of about five hundred boys and young men. The benefits which they should receive from their visit, the enthusiasm which will be created in them, should enable you to make us of them as missionaries throughout each county in developing a great interest among the agricultural and other classes in the Royal Winter Fair, which will enable the Province to reap the full reward of its expenditure and investment in this great agricultural institution."

NO AGREEMENT AT CONFERENCE THIS AFTERNOON

Japanese Delegate Thinks Tripartite Meetings Will End On Monday.

FAILURE DENIED.

British Leader Says Conference Will Continue But Won't Predict Result.

GENEVA, July 28. Canadian Press—No agreement was reached by the tri-partite naval conference at the meeting this afternoon and the Japanese spokesman expressed the opinion to the Associated Press that the plenary session convoked for Monday will probably be the last. The Japanese spokesman said that indications are that the conefrence will fail.

W. C. Bridgeman chief British delegate, denied to the Associated Press, that the conference had collapsed. Mr. Bridgeman said that conversations would continue but he declined to predict as to the future prospects.

GENEVA, July 28. — (Canadian Press.) — The Right Hon. W. C. Bridgeman, First Lord of the Admiralty and chief British delegate to the Tripartite Naval Conference, called upon Hugh S. Gibson, chief of the United States' delegation, today, shortly after arriving from London, where he had consulted with the British cabinet. Mr. Bridgeman was accompanied by Admiral Pounds.

Mr. Bridgeman declined to make any comment on the visit, but did announce that a meeting of the chief delegates had been convoked for today. It is understood that he revealed to the plenipotentiary a rough outline of the British suggestions as to how the naval conference might be brought to a successful issue.

Prior to the meeting of Mr. Gibson and Mr. Bridgeman, the American spokesman told the newspaper men that the United States delegation was disposed to consider the insertion of a clause in the proposed treaty, whereby if any signatory power had any apprehensions over the future concerning the building programs of the other signatories, a meeting of the representatives of the governments concerned could be convoked immediately to discuss the situation.

BRITISH PEOPLE NOT ACTUATED BY ANY IMPERIALISTIC NOTIONS

Marquis Reading Calls Upon English-Speaking Nations to Strive for Peace.

EDITORS VISIT ENGLAND

War Between Great Britain and United States Unthinkable, Says American Speaker.

LONDON, July 28. — (Canadian Press.)—The Marquis of Reading was the chief speaker at a dinner given in Dartmouth House last night by the English speaking union in honor of the visiting United States editors.

"I am confident that his Majesty's government is seeking every possible means to arrive at an agreement on the question which is now the subject of so much discussion," said Lord Reading alluding to the disarmament dispute at Geneva. "His Majesty's government does not speak for one party. Certainly the party to which I belong (Liberal) is associated with the government in the desire to reach an agreement.

"There may be people, particularly in America, who believe that we are actuated by imperialistic notions, but they are quite mistaken. Whatever government is in power now in England, and for a long time to come, seeks the peace of the world and will always try to avert war.

"During the great war America and this country worked in the closest co-operation with the utmost good will, striving for one common purpose. Are we still engaged in this common purpose? Are we still seeking international peace and striving to avoid any recurrence of war?

Common Purpose.

"We assuredly have a common purpose, and can we not work with the same co-operation and good will, with the same trust we had during the war, striving again for the common purpose, and perhaps, may I add, for a nobler purpose?

"The war, right as it was on our part, was still a terrible affair, but the peace of the world, is after all, the attainment every man of religion and spiritual faith desires to see accomplished. We believe that you in America, and we in this country, are charged with a great mission a very heavy responsibility. We can do much. It is difficult to exaggerate what we may achieve.

A World Disaster.

"If—God ...id—anything should happen to make our paths diverge, then, in my mind, the world will suffer a terrible disaster. I believe in my innermost heart, after an experience of many years in this country and in yours, there is an almost sacred desire that we should achieve peace and maintain it. We should do all in our power to preserve it in the future, and continue to labor together to the best of our ability to that end."

Believes Delegates Will Arrive at a Temporary Arrangement in Cruiser Building.

MUCH MISUNDERSTANDING

Britain Claims No Right to Dictate Any Disarmament Policy, Says Minister.

LONDON, July 28 (A.P.).—Hope that the tangle of the Geneva naval conference will soon be unravelled is growing in official circles in the British Capital. This is due largely to the statement made in the House of Commons yesterday by Sir Austen Chamberlain, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, outlining anew the whole British attitude towards the parleys and containing the declaration: "There need be no difficulty in arriving at a temporary arrangement about the immediate future of cruiser building."

It was this question upon which the negotiations stalled last week.

Sir Austen appeared in Parliament soon after W. C. Bridgeman, First Lord of the Admiralty, and Viscount Cecil, the chief British delegates to the naval conference, started back for Geneva to re-open the discussions with the United States and Japanese delegates. The purpose of the Foreign Secretarys' statement was to put the full weight of the British Government behind the proposals the British delegates will make.

Remove Misunderstandings

A second reason for the statement was to remove the misunderstanding which the British Government believes exists in the minds of many Americans regarding the British aims at Geneva. Although the statement was made at Westminster, and the United States was not mentioned, it was nevertheless admittedly intended for the great unseen audience of the people of the United States.

The Foreign Minister informed the Commons that the British Government had even been charged with a desire to destroy the principle of sea power equality as between Great Britain and the United States, established at the Washington conference, and he added emphatically: "There is no foundation for such a suspicion." He repledged the British Government to complete agreement with the two-fold purpose of the Geneva meeting as outlined in President Coolidge's invitation-reductions of naval expenditures, while maintaining national security.

Explains Position

The rest of Sir Austen's statement was largely devoted to an exposition of the British position as regards extensive building of small cruisers for trade protection purposes. He pictured graphically the exigencies of the far-flung Empire, compared with

BRITAIN ADDS TO FACILITIES FOR TRAINING

Will Endeavor To Prepare 2,000 Men Yearly for Farming.

TO INCREASE MIGRATION.

Government Wishes To Remedy Present Unemployment Situation.

LONDON, July 29 (United Press).—In an attempt to accelerate migration towards Canada with a view ultimately to reducing the enormous unemployment still prevalent, the British Government has decided to enlarge the farm training centres in Britain so that 2,000 men may be trained annually for farm labor in Canada instead of 1,000 as at present. Otherwise the Government is not hopeful regarding a reduction in the present unemployment figures, which exceed 1,000,000, exclusive of 1,500,000 who receive relief under the poor law from local authorities.

A sidelight on the proposition as it affects British youth is at present visible in London, where several thousands of young able men walked hundreds of miles from the country in the hope of obtaining work repaving city streets, an extensive scheme for such repairs now proceeding in the most fashionable quarters of the city.

Meanwhile, in order to deal with juvenile unemployment, it is proposed to establish a national advisory councile which will see what can be done to compel boys and girls to attend training schools instead of roaming idly about the streets as they do at present. The only cheerful feature of the situation generally is that actually there are 1,125,000 more persons actually working to-day than in 1922, while the cost of living is lower than at any time since 1916.

Legget was trying the car out from the garage at the time of the accident, and was proceeding north on Water Street. When he arrived in front of the Post Office the front wheels of the car locked, causing him to lose control of the car and smash into the buggy. He cut his wrist so badly that medical attention was at once given by Dr. Yelland. The occupants of the buggy escaped uninjured.

COMMISSIONER RETAINS HOPE IN CONFERENCE

South Africa Desires Present Meeting To Be a Success, Says Delegate.

MADE OBSERVATIONS.

British Will Do Everything Possible To Meet Japanese and American Viewpoint.

GENEVA, Switzerland, July 28 (Canadian Press).—J. S. Smit, High Commissioner for the Union of South Africa at London, said last night, he was convinced the British delegates would return to Geneva from London with a genuine desire to smooth out all difficulties.

He feels confident there is a reasonable chance of reaching an agreement at the tri-partite naval conference ,to which he is a delegate representing South Africa.

This statement came at a time when the atmosphere here was extremely pessimistic because of reports that Lord Cecil and W. C. Bridgeman would return to Geneva with an even stiffer attitude than when they left.

Mr. Smit voiced his opinion, he said, on his observations during a recent visit to London and on actual talks with officials. At a time like this, he went on, it is in the interests of the Dominions generally to exercise a conciliatory influence to maintain a good understanding between the Powers represented at the conference, and, as the representative of South Africa, he had every desire to have retained intact the existing friendly relations between the United States and Great Britain.

Hence, he had contributed his bit to promoting a policy of appreciation of each others' viewpoints. He thought the question of eight-inch gun cruisers, which the United States wents the right to build, would not prove an insurmountable problem.

"I believe that the British will do everything possible to meet the American and Japanese viewpoints," he said, "and bring the conference to a successful issue.

"The Union of South Africa is a member of the League of Nations and very much interested in the work of the preparatory commission on disarmament and would like to see that work a success.

For that reason South Africa desires this present conference to be a success, feeling that it would strengthen them, the League of Nations, not only in its disarmament efforts, but also in its aim of promoting international co-operation in all fields."

PARTY LEAVES TO-DAY.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 28 (Canadian Press).—Frederick Palmer, British engineering expert, who has been retained by the Dominion Government to report upon the Hudson Bay Harbor development at Port Nelson and Fort Churchill, arrived in the capital yesterday from England. He was accompanied by E. J. Buckton, prominent engineer of London, England.

For more than 17 years he served as assistant engineer with the East Indian Railway, and for eight years was chief engineer for the port of Calcutta.

"It is impossible for me at present to pass any judgment on the relative merits of the Hudson Bay ports," Mr. Palmer said yesterday. "I have studied the data supplied me by the Government officials, and I look forward to a very interesting trip. Once I have visualized Hudson Bay I shall give my unbiased and impartial opinion."

It is asserted that a measure of agreement has been reached with Yen, whereby he will check any attempts by Feg Yu-Hsiang to advance on Peking. The Fengtien leaders are said to be responsible for the breakdown in the peace parleys.

DUBLIN, Ireland, July 28.—Canadian Press.) — Eamon de Valera, following the assassination of vice-president Kevin O'Higgins, received numerous threatening letters and the Irish Free State authorities have placed him under police protection, it was learned yesterday.

A plain clothes man accompanies the republican leader everywhere. Other republican leaders also received threatening letters.

When an unknown bandit held up Alex. Hodge, Beeton, Ont., farmer, in his own kitchen and sought to rob him of $600 he had just brought home, a forty-five minute midnight battle for life ensued in the darkness and grim silence. Hodge beat the bandit to death and left the body battered beyond recognition. Hodge is shown after the fight with bruised and with chewed fingers bandaged. The fight as he described it, is shown in the drawing.

OLD MASTERS

The world's great age begins anew,
The golden years return,
The earth doth like a snake renew
Her winter weeds outworn;
Heaven smiles, and faiths and empires gleam
Like wrecks of a dissolving dream.

A brighter Hellas rears its mountains
From waves serener far;
A new Peneus rolls his fountains
Against the morning star;
Where fairer Temples bloom, there sleep
Young Cyclads on a sunnier deep

A loftier Argo cleaves the main,
Fraught with a later prize;
Another orpheus sings again
And loves, and weeps, and dies;
A new Ulysses leaves once more
Calypso for his native shore.

Another Athens shall arise,
And to remoter time
Bequeath, like sunset to the skies,
The splendor of its prime:
And leave, if naught so bright may live,
All earth can take or Heaven can give.

Percy Byshe Shelley: From the concluding chorus of "Hellas."

SIR AUSTIN CHAMBERLAIN

a compact unified country such as the United States.

"It is to be noted," said the Secretary, "that the sea routes on which great Britain depends for existence lie largely in narrow waters bordered by other states. This is not the case with the United States, whose important lines of communication lie either on land within her own frontiers, by sea along her own coasts, or in great oceans."

Will Not Dictate

Great Britain claimed no right to dictate any smaller cruiser policy to other Powers, but, he contended, anything resembling the permanent formula adopted at Washington for battleships was inapplicable for vessels designed for purposes which varied with the geographical and economic position of the Powers concerned."

A jarring note was injected by the Socialist, Ernest Thurtle, representing Shoreditch, who asked the minister whether it was not the case that "Each Power at Geneva was going to insist on special conditions of national security, thus making an agreement utterly impossible."

There were loud ministerial cries of "rot," and Thurtle continued: In "view of this situation, the protracted farce at Geneva ought to be brought to an end at the earliest possible moment."

Sir Austen was on his feet immediately, declaring that he regretted the tone and wording of Mr. Thurtle's statement. Cheers greeted his announcement that the British Government must dissociate itself expressly and at once from the reference which the member had made to the conference.

For National Security

"The basis of the Geneva conference, as we understand it," said the Foreign Minister, "and in the President's intention, is to reconcile the limitation of armaments with national security, and that is the only basis on which any conference for the limitation of armaments can ever be brought to a successful issue."

In the House of Lords the Marquis of Salisbury, Lord Privy Seal and Government leader, read a statement similar to that of the Foreign Secretary.

Viscount Haldane declared that the statement laid down a principle, and he saw no reason why an agreement should not be reached solving the very difficult problem of disarmament.

BRITISH PEOPLE NOT ACTUATED

Lord Reading's address was received with prolonged applause. Maurice S. Sherman, of the Hartford Courant, declared that war between Great Britain and the United States was unthinkable.

Hearts Beat True.

C. C. Hamlin of the Colorado Springs Gazette, read a telegram from the English speaking union of the United States conveying best wishes for the success of the editor's visit, and, on behalf of the newspapers in the smaller cities of the United States, warned British friends not to be misled by opinions in the newspapers of the great American cities alone, as, he said, the hearts of the majority of the American public beat true with the hearts of Englishman.

Arthur H. Shaw, of the Cleveland Plaindealer, said the idea of war between Great Britain and the United States "is outlawed in the hearts of every American."

Lord Pirkenhead presided at the dinner and Major John Jacob Astor welcomed the visitors to England.

DISTRICT DEPUTY VISITS LADY LODGE

Sister Mark of Lindsay Delivers Inspiring Address to Millbrook Rebekahs.

MILLBROOK, July 28. — The official visit of the District Deputy President, Sister Millie Mark, of Lindsay, to Golden Sheaf Rebekah Lodge, No. 176, took place on Tuesday evening, the regular business session being followed by an enjoyable social hour.

The Noble Grand of Golden Sheaf Lodge, Sister May Garside, presided, the formal charge investing Sister Mark with her office being read by Sister May Thomas, vice-president of the Rebekah Assembly of Ontario. The vice-president also gave an interesting paper on "Opportunities," which was replete with helpful suggestions for the Rebekah sisterhood.

The ceremony of draping the charter in memory of departed members, which had its initial presentation this year at Grand Lodge, was demonstrated under Sister Thomas' direction, and proved an inspiring and impressive ritual.

Brief addresses were made by the guests of honour, and also by Sister Brown, of Kawartha Lodge, Lindsay, and Brother R. Thomas, who were visitors from the sister organization. Brother Thomas explained that, by action of the District Council, the district picnic, which was successfully carried out at Chemong Park last year, will not be a feature of this season's activities, but every Lodge is asked to make preparations for a bumper gathering as an important item in next year's programme.

Brother P. I. Bentley, P.G., announced that the local I.O.O.F. Lodge, No. 308, intends holding its out-of-doors rally in the form of a picnic at Nicholls Oval, Peterborough, on Thursday, August 11, and extended an invitation to the Rebekahs to join with them for the occasion.

Refreshments were served by the Social Committee during the social hour.

The delegates from the local Lodge to Grand Lodge at its recent sessions in Toronto were the chaplain, Sister Irene Fallis, and the Junior Past Noble Grand ,Sister Caroline Harkness.

The Lodges of this district, which have all been officially visited by the District Deputy President, are: Winsome, No. 238, Little Britain; Kawartha, No. 75, Lindsay; Dorcas, No. 98, Havelock; Golden Link, No. 81, Peterborough; and Golden Sheaf, No. 176, Millbrook.

By action of the Grand Lodge, at its June session, Lady Simcoe Lodge, No. 140, Beaverton, was changed from this district into another one recently formed in a northerly direction and including Orillia and Gravenhurst.

The holiday season and the shortness of the notice indicating the visit of the Grand Lodge officers, together with the busy time on the farm for members living out of the village, lessened the attendance on Tuesday evening, but those fortunate enough to be present expressed warm thanks to Sisters Mark and Thomas for the inspiration in Lodge work which their visit had afforded.

To Fly All the Way Around the Globe

NEW YORK, July 28.—John Henry Mears, thirteen years the record holder for circumnavigation of the world, is out to recapture the laurels he lost last summer to Edward S. Evans and Linton Wells, who circled the globe in 28 days 14 hours 36 minutes and 5 seconds, bettering Mears' old mark by 7 days 6 hours 58 minutes 55 4-5 seconds. If he succeeds he will set several other records at the same time, for he plans to do something else that no other globe girdler has done, by flying all the way out with the same plane and probably the same motor.

PLANE DAMAGED; AVIATOR UNHURT

Dave Harding Lands in Corn Field When Wing Gives Way.

LONDON, Ont., July 28.— Flight Lieut. David A. Harding, provincially known as a rugby star and now an instructor at Camp Borden Airdrome, had a thrilling escape from death over Beachville, west of Woodstock, late yesterday afternoon when en route to London to prepare for the London to London flight.

Harding was on the hop from the camp to London in a private plane, driven by a nine-cylinder rotary motor. Near Woodstock he sighted another airplane and decided to turn back to see if he knew the pilot. As he banked for the turn at about 800 feet altitude a fitting on a wing spar snapped, allowing the lower plane to sag so badly that the machine was thrown out of control. He was unable to hold his height or pull the machine out of a bad left spiral, and was heading into a nose dive when he managed to flatten the machine out in the left curve. He avoided a fall into the village of Beachville, but made a forced landing in a nearby cornfield, the plane somersaulting as it struck the ground.

Harding ducked low in the fuselage and shut off ignition and gasoline supply to safeguard against fire. As the machine came to rest he jumped clear uninjured. The pilot of the second machine, who witnessed the forced landing, rushed to his aid, and later brought him to London to keep his appointment with Charles Burns.

The scout plane, which is owned by Major R. J. Dodds, of Hamilton, was damaged to the extent of boken upper and lower wings on the left side and a broken upper wing on the right side. The plane has been at Camp Borden for the past month receiving an overhauling, and was being used by Flying Officer Harding to make the trip to London. The accompanying plane was owned by the J. V. Elliott Company of Hamilton.

OBITUARY.

J. R. McNEILLIE.

LINDSAY, July 28. — In the sudden death on Tuesday evening of James Richardson McNeillie, for more than fifty years employed in the service of Victoria County and since 1900 clerk and treasurer, the community has lost one of its most outstanding citizens.

The late Mr. McNeillie, who was in his eighty-second year, came to Canada from Scotland, where he was born. At one time he worked for the Montreal Telegraph Company in Toronto. For many years he had served as clerk and treasurer for the Ross Memorial Hospital, and for eight years had been chairman of the Board of Education. He was ex-president of the Canadian Conference of Charities. An outstanding accountant in the Dominion, it is claimed that the Provincial Department of Highways had adopted Mr McNeillie's methods in accounting.

Mr. McNeillie was recognized as a statesman, and it was frequently said of him, in connection with his work in the County Council: "He makes the Wardens." Honoured by a host of folk ,both old and young, he was termed "Lindsay's Grand Old Man." Neighbours claim that he knew no enemy, and that "he was one of the finest men who had ever lived."

He was an ardent church worker, and for many years an elder in the Presbyterian Church, uniting with the First United Church following union. He was also a "faion. The deceased is survived by his widow and three sons, James Kerr McNeillie, who for some years was Superintendent of Canadian Government Railways, and since 1919 Superintendent of the Susquehana Division of the Delaware and Hudson Railway ;Ralph G. McNeillie, Assistant General Passenger Agent of the Western line of the C.P.R. at Winnipeg, and George, residing in Toronto ;and one daughter, Alice, at home. Arrangements have not yet been completed for the funeral.

KEEP HIM OFF THE STAGE.

An attempt has been made to make a theatrical attraction out of Alex. Hodge, the Beeton farmer who killed a bandit in his house after a desperate struggle.

The hero of that thrilling encounter would be well advised to decline any such offers that may be made to him, but if the size of the financial reward promised him for a stage appearance should prove too tempting to resist, the Provincial authorities should see to it that no theatrical fare of this type is offered to the public.

There is no desire in this country surely to adopt the methods of United States vaudeville promoters, who will book as a stage attraction anybody who comes prominently before the public, no matter how unclean the channel through which publicity is gined may be.

This Beeton farmer killed an invader in self-defence, to save his own life, and not with a view of making a spectacle of himself to satisfy the curiosity of the morbid at so much per head.

He should meet all theatrical offers with a firm refusal.

RICHLY EARNED.

Even those Canadians who succeed in getting hot under the collar every time the question of titles is under discussion will have little fault to find with the fact that the wonderful services rendered by Dr. Wilfred Grenfell in Labrador have been recognized by the conferring upon him by the King of the insignia of a Knight Commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George.

A major objection voiced against titles has been that many of them have been purely political in their orgin, that they have been awarded on the recommendation of Prime Ministers to reward party followers for political services.

In Sir Wilfred Grenfell's case there are no such objections.

The honour conferred upon him has been richly earned by a lifetime service on behalf of the fisher folk of Labrador, a service the value of which even those familiar with what Sir Wilfred has accomplished are more likely to under-estimate than to exaggerate.

MUST REMAIN ON DUTY.

The Ontario Government has refused to give permission to Captains Maxwell and Tully of the Provincial Air Service to attempt the London to London flight, as pilots for which they had been selected by the committee in charge.

The decision is not surprising.

These two officers are at the head of Ontario's air patrol service, which is, of course, the most efficient and effective protection available against forest fires.

Their absence just at the season of the year when Ontario's forests are usually in the greatest danger from destruction by fire could not be entertained by the Government without serious misgivings, and the decision has finally been arrived at that Captains Maxwell and Tully will remain on duty in Ontario.

Their training and ability as flyers undoubtedly made them a wise choice for the trans-Atlantic flight, but the Minister of Forests believes that the protection of Ontario's timber wealth is of more real importance than a spectacular attempt to "hop" to England, and it is difficult to quarrel with him in that view of the matter.

IT DEPENDS UPON PATRONAGE.

The Toronto Star, commenting upon the advent of a new bus service in Peterborough, points out that the people of this city, if they expect a bus service to pay where the street railway system was a loser, must give the new service better patronage than they accorded the other transportation system, or else be prepared to accept a less frequent service.

The warning is timely.

It is difficult to see how a bus service can be operated any more cheaply than the street railway, and the successful operation of the system will depend upon patronage.

If it is not forthcoming in sufficient volume to justify a frequent service, the company will undoubtedly have to reduce its operating expenses by a less ambitious service.

Apparently the Border City Transit Company is willing to give the people of Peterborough a chance.

The company is preparing for more adequate busses and a re-routing of its lines, intended to serve the whole city as thoroughly as possible.

After these improvements have been put into effect it will be up to the citizens to show that adequate transportation facilities are appreciated by affording sufficient patronage to justify a full service being maintained.

TOO MANY PEOPLE.

It is estimated that at the time of Christ there were about 50 million human beings on the whole earth—less than the present population of Germany. In 1800 there were about 600 millions. Today there are about 1,600 millions. The population of the world has multiplied threefold since the beginning of the nineteenth century.

These startling figures are cited in an arresting book written by Dr. Key, editor of the great Stockholm paper, the Dagbladet. His central theory is that some parts of the world (and especially of Europe) are over-populated, and that the population of the whole world is multiplying at a dangerous rate. In Europe there is a large surplus of unemployment, and the need for emigration is more urgent than ever. Yet the United States, where labor is relatively scarce and highly paid, has stopped most of the natural inflow from Europe. Scarcely less objectionable, in Dr. Key's opinion, is her refusal to take the products of European labor.

Dr. Key is a Malthusian in his belief that population tends more and more to press upon the means of subsistence. He denounces wars and war debts, tariff barriers, restrictions upon migration, and all the artificial obstacles imposed by Governments on the natural movements of trade, labor and enterprise. But most countries are not yet ready to apply economic common sense to international relations and the management of their own affairs. Dr. Key thinks Europe can only be saved from bankruptcy through over-population by a vast scheme of emigration to South America. There is plenty of space also in the British Dominions, and great tropical areas can be made more habitable for whites by medical discoveries. Canada will have no difficulty in attracting immigrants. Her problem will be one of selection and discrimination. Already the world's largest wheat exporter, she will play an increasingly important part in world economy because of her productive capacity. Within the confines of the British Empire are resources which will long postpone the time when there will be a world shortage of food and materials, though Europeans may suffer for want of ability to buy them. Obviously Europe's first duty will be to abolish the strangling restrictions on trade within her own borders. Until she does that and becomes an economic unit she will not have taken the first step to help herself.—London Advertiser.

RECORDS BEING MADE IN TRAFFIC.

That the American tourist traffic into Canada is making a record this year is generally assumed, and is fairly evident to everybody who is of an observant turn of mind. In this district, the traffic is far heavier this year, and the bridge capacity is scarcely equal to the volume pouring over it, in spite of the new Peace Bridge at Fort Erie. There is a demand for more bridges, and as pointed out editorially in The Standard last evening, it won't be long before there is a demand for greater highway space.

The following news dispatch from far away Vancouver, Wash., carries information that will also be interesting to the people of this section:

"All records for cash receipts on the interstate bridge here were shattered Monday when tourists began their trek homeward after virtually a three-day outing, despite threatening weather. Following two big days—Saturday when receipts amounted to $2,633.65, and Sunday when they were $2,562.70, bridge attendants were greatly pressed at times to handle the crowds.

"Monday's new mark was set at $3,704.05, and represented passage across the structure for 37,538 persons in 41 motorcycles and 3,042 two-passenger and 9,725 larger machines."

Windsor and Sarnia are also projecting international bridges, while it is believed that one over the St. Lawrence has only been postponed. The plans were rejected in Parliament last session. The traffic is of tremendous import to Canada. A nation like Switzerland has been made prosperous by the influx of tourists. With the resources and production of Canada supplemented by a great spending capacity on the part of hundreds of thousands every year, the balance of trade should be with Canada for all time to come. What the Dominion needs is a few more million population in the great open spaces and our problems are solved right there.—St. Catharines Standard.

STRESS QUALITY!

Mr. J. S. MacKinnon, former President of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, and now interested in the growing of tobacco in Kent County, believes that the future of tobacco culture of this area of Ontario is assured. At the same time he reiterates a warning that has come from more than one source: Quality must ever be the aim of the growers. Too much stress cannot be placed on this, he tells The Border Cities Star in one of a series of interviews on the tobacco situation now being published by this newspaper. The British manufacturer thinks in terms of quality. Therefore, Mr. MacKinnon argues, our quality must be always of the best.

This is common sense, because it is to Britain that we must look for our greatest market, now and in the future. In years gone by most of the British tobacco came from the Southern States of America. A great deal of it is still coming from there, but within the last few years Canadian leaf has started to become an important factor on the British market. And its importance is bound to increase if we play the game properly. Canadian tobacco enjoys a substantial tariff preference in Great Britain, but even this will not capture the market for us if we should make the mistake of not keeping our quality up to the mark. The British manufacturer is more interested in quality than in price. He prefers to buy within the British family of nations, of course, and at the best possible figure, but will not permit any consideration to interfere with getting the quality article.

That is why the advice of Mr. MacKinnon and of other men in a position to know, is of such great importance and should be so carefully considered by every Canadian grower. It has been demonstrated that here in this section of Ontario tobacco that is quite the equal of the finest Virginia varieties can be grown. This has been proved over and over again. It is another thing, however, to maintain this quality and to be sure that it is uniform. One careless grower might easily undo the good work of a dozen careful ones. Everyone must see, then, how important it is for each tobacco raiser to utilize only the best methods and to take all pains to see that the crop he produces and sends to the markets is the very best that can be turned out.

This section of Ontario is going to have a $10,000,000 tobacco crop this year, the experts say. Ten millions is a lot of money. It means prosperity and progress for one of Ontario's finest districts. A crop that will produce revenue of this kind is of the highest importance. It is an asset that must be safeguarded to the very best of our ability. We can protect the markets we have already established and strengthen and extend them only by continuing to produce and producing nothing else but tobacco of A-1 quality.

What applies to tobacco applies, of course, to all other products of Canada. This country is stretching out for new business. We are seeking fresh places to which may be sent the products of farm and field. But our best efforts will fall far short of the mark unless we continue to pay attention to the cardinal need—quality all the time. The thing is so big, so important, that every man in any way connected with the agricultural industry should never lose an opportunity to drive home the lesson. Canada has wonderful trade opportunities abroad. They can be gained and they can be restrained if we fully learn the truth of an old saying that "the recollection of quality remains long after the price is forgotten."—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Monday is Civic Holiday, readers are reminded, Peterborough being in line this year with the majority of Ontario centres.

The preserving of the Engineering Institute's model of the Quebec Bridge by its removal to the Exhibition Grounds will be generally approved.

If all knighthoods were as richly earned as that conferred upon Dr. Grenfell, hero of Labrador, there would be no objection to titles, even in Canada.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, July 28 (Canadian Press). — The demand from the United Kingdom and the Continent for Canadian grain was quiet here yesterday and only sales of a few odd loads of low grade wheat were made.

The trade in cash grain in the domestic market was also slow, the only business being a sale of an odd load of Manitoba No. 5 wheat at 13c per bushel under the Winnipeg October option. The trade in car lots of oats was fair and values were firm.

The undertone to the market for Spring wheat grades of flour was strong, but there was no change in prices. The trade was dull. The movement of Winter wheat flour was also of a limited character.

A feature of the millfeed trade was the continued good enquiry from United States buyers for shorts and prices for straight car lots equivalent to $37.50 per ton here were bid freely, but on account of the somewhat limited supply available the volume of business was checked. There was no change in local prices and the trade was fair.

The demand for standard grades of rolled oats showed no improvement, and prices were unchanged.

The egg market was inactive but prices were well maintained for all grades. The receipts were 1,082 cases.

The trade in butter was again of a quiet nature, but the undertone was steady. The receipts were 179 packages.

The local and foreign demand for cheese was dull and the undertone was inclined to be easier. The receipts were 5,045 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, July 28 (Canadian Press).—Prospective breaking up of the heat wave northwest brought about lessened anxiety yesterday concerning black rust and did much to send the wheat market downgrade. Large deliveries of wheat on July contracts here yesterday, 645,000 bushels, also was a bear influence. Closing quotations on wheat were ⅞c to 1⅛c lower, with corn ⅝c off to 1⅛c up; oats at ¼ to ⅝c advance and provisions 2c to 25c down.

Corn and oats were relatively strong. The weekly crop report was construed as bullish because of mention that a third of the State's corn crop needed favorabel conditions even to make fodder. Some buying of oats was on account of adverse threshing reports.

Provisions tended lower, sympathizing with hog values.

CHICAGO CATTLE

CHICAGO, July 28 (Canadian Press).—Cattle 12,000; best heavy steers $14.50; long yearlings $13.65; most fed steers $12.00 to $13.50; meagre supply grassers at $10.50 down to $8.50; stockers largely $7.25 to $7.60; vealers $12.50 to $13.50, mostly.

Hogs, 20,000; top $10.90; bulk 160 to 200 lbs. $10.70 to $10.90; 220 to 250 pounds $9.75 to $10.50; 260 to 390 lbs. $9.25 to $9.70; packing sows largely $7.75; best pigs $9.75 to $10.00.

Sheep 14,000; bulk rangers $14.00 to $14.50; bulk natives $13.50 to $13.85; best natives $14.00; fat ewes $6.00 to $7.00.

SUGAR REDUCED

MONTREAL, July 28 (Canadian Press).—Prices for all grades of refined sugar were reduced 10 cents per 100 pounds here yesterday. This was attributed to the easier markets for raw sugar and the lower prices ruling for refined in the United States of late. This makes a reduction of 20 cents per 100 pounds in local prices during the past week. Refiners are now selling extra granulated at $6.45 per 100 pounds in bags, No. 1 yellow at $6.05; extra ground at $6.65; powdered at $6.35 per 100 pounds in barrels, and Paris cut loaf at $7.05 per 100 pounds in barrels.

EGG MARKET

OTTAWA, July 27 (Canadian Press).—The general condition of the Canadian egg market was unchanged yesterday.

Toronto. — Dealers are quoting country shippers, extras 33 to 35, firsts 30 to 31, seconds 26 to 30.

Montreal—This market is working higher. Sales are being made in a jobbing way at extras 36, firsts 33, seconds 30. There is a good demand in evidence and a further advance is not improbable.

STERLING EXCHANGE.

MONTREAL, July 28 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as follows:

Demand $4.85 9-16.
Cables $4.85 1-16.

MILLBROOK RATE IS AGAIN 44 MILLS

Council Sets Levy at Same Rate as Last Year—Paving Considered.

MILLBROOK, July 27.—Millbrook council met in regular session on Monday evening, Reeve W. T. Wood in the chair. Present: Councillors J. R. Eakins, P. Stinson, G. W. Sayles. Councillor T. J. Lang absent in Toronto on business.

Eakins—Stinson: That the following accounts be ordered paid:

H. Pickner, $8.25, E. E. Eakins $21.55, H. Murney $22.75, W. E. Ball $3.50, D. Hampton $5.25, S. Donnelly $82.50, Hydro-Electric $69.83 and $2.14, H. Nattrass, $20.25.

The rate was struck for the current year at 44 mills, the same as last year, itemized as follows: County rate 7 mills, school rate 19 mills, street lighting 3 mills, sidewalk debentures 2 mills, local improvements 13 mills. Total 44 mills.

C. W. Richards was re-appointed tax collector at a salary of $75.00 per annum.

Regarding the paving programme discussion was carried on in connection with the official meeting which council had last Thursday with Mr. Fellowes, of the Department of Highways Toronto when the latter had outlined proposed road improvement on King street, which it is hoped to carry out in 1928.

Stinson—Sayles: That the Reeve and Clerk of this municipality be authorized to enter into a contract with the Counties' Council for paving on the connecting links of the county road system in the village of Millbrook.

The repairing of the main drain on King street will necessarily be the first problem requiring attention.

Stinson—Sayles: That the Clerk communicate with S. B. Code, civil engineer of Smith's Falls, accepting his offer of plans and estimates, and report for drainage and paving.

The account of $117.00 rendered by the Cavan Council as Millbrook's share of insurance due on Town Hall was considered, the committee appointed to deal with this, Reeve Wood and Councillor Stinson, reporting that they had met committee from the Township Council, Reeve S. Fallis and Deputy-Reeve G. Hootan, and informed them that Millbrook would not pay the account. As a counter proposal Millbrook offered to pay $50.00 in full settlement, providing that Cavan would take out insurance at the same rate as has been arranged by the local municipal body.

This rate is $33.33 per year for $5,000. Cavan is now paying $137.50 per year for a similar amount; for the past seven months Cavan has paid $132.50 for $5,000 insurance, namely: $27.50 for the first month; $55.00 for the next three months, and $50.00 for the following three months.

The committee from the Cavan Council had agreed to make report to the local council after its next meeting following the conference of the two committees, said meeting being held on July 20, but up to the present no report has been received.

By the original agreement each Council paid half the insurance on the Town Hall, which was insured as a municipal building. This manner of insuring the building not being found satisfactory because of extra trouble involved each time it was used for other purposes, it was thought best to make a change in the manner in which the policy was taken out.

A Thought For To-day

MEN

The world today is looking for men who are not for sale; men who are honest, sound from centre to circumference, true to the heart's core; men with conscience as steady as the needle to the pole; men who will stand for the right if the heavens totter and the earth reels; men who can tell the truth and look the world right in the eye; men who neither brag nor run; men who neither flag nor flinch; men who will not lie, shirk, or dodge; men in whom the courage of everlasting life runs still, deep and strong; men who know their message and tell it; men who know their place and fill it; men who know their business and attend to it; men who are not too lazy to work nor too stupid to be poor.

Buying from the successful fellow always pays. You know you are getting what you are paying for.
